¶ Moreover, he gaue him half of his hooft, and Elephanes, commytted vnto him euery thyng of his mynde, concerninge those whiche dwelt in Iuda and Ierusalem: that he shoulde sende out an armye agaynst them, to destroye and to rote out the power of Israel and the remmaue of Ierusalem: to put out their memoypall from that place, to set straungers for to inhabyt all the quarters, and to part the lande amonge the.

¶ Thus the kyng toke the other parte of the hooft, and departed from Antioch a cyte of hyr realm: ouer the water of Euphrates, in the thirtieth and xliij. yere, and went thowow the hye countreys.

¶ And Lysias chose vnto hym Idolompe the sonne of Doziminus, Alicanoz and Gorgias myghty men, and the kynges frendes. These he sent with xl. thousande souldiers & vii. thousande horsemen, for to go into the lande of Iuda & to destroye it, as the kyng commaunded. So they wete forth with all their power, and came to Emmaus into the plaine felde. Whiche the marchauntes hearde the rumoure of them, they & their seruantes toke very much syleuer & gold, for to bye the chyldre of Israel to be their bondemen. There came vnto them also pet moo me of warre on euery syde, out of Siria and from the Palestynes.

¶ Now when Judas & his bretheren sawe trouble increased, & that the hooft drew nye vnto their borders, consideringe the kynges wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namely, that they shoulde utterly walke and destroye them: they layde one to another. Let vs rebelle the deace of oure people, let vs fyght for oure folke and for oure Sanctuary. Then the congregacion were soone ready gathered to fyght, to praye & to make supplicacion vnto God for mercie & grace.

¶ As for Ierusalem, it laye voyde, & was as it had bene a wyldernesse. There wente no man in nor out at it, and the Sanctuary was troden downe. The aleuities kepte the castell, there was the habitation of the heathen. The myght of Jacob was take awaye, the pyper and the harpe was gone from amonge them.

¶ The Israelites gathered them together, and came to Bethsaba before Ierusalem: for in Bethsaba was y^e place* where they payed afore tyme in Israel. So they fasted y^e daye & put sackcloth vpon them, cast askes vpon their heades, & tye their clothes, & layde forth the bootes of the lawe (whereout the heathen sought the lykennesse of the ymagines) and brought y^e bestes ornamente, the psalms, & the cithers. They sett there also y^e abscynities (whiche had fulfilled theye dayes) before God, and cryed with a loude voyce towarde heauē, sayinge: What shall we do with these? and whither shall we cary them awaye? For the Sanctuary is troden downe and despyled, thy priestes are come to deuyne and dyshonoure, and behold, the heathen are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they imagine agaynst vs. How may we stand before the, except thou (O God) be our helpe?

¶ They blew out the trompete also with a loude voyce. The Iudas ordered y^e captaines ouer the people: oure thousandes, oure hundredes, oure fifties, and oure tens. But as for such as buylded the houses, married wyues, planted them vineyardes, and those y^e were fearful: he commaunded them euery mā to go home agayne, accordyng* to the lawe, so the hooft remoued, and pitched vpon the south syde of Emmaus.

¶ And Judas sayde: Arise poure selues, be stronge. O my chyldren, make you ready agaynst to morowe in the morninge, that ye maye fyght with these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and oure Sanctuary. Better is it for vs to bye in battail, than to se oure people and oure Sanctuary in such a myserable case: * Neuertheles, as they wyll is in heauen, so be it.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ Judas goth agaynst Gorgias which lieth nyste, he putteth Gorgias and his booke to flight. Lysias inuadeth Ierusalem, but Judas dyuerteth him oute, Judas purrith the temple and dedycateth the altare.

¶ Then toke Gorgias foure thousand men of fote, and a thousande of the best horsemen: & remoued by nyght, to come nye where the Iewes had laye, & so to slaye them suddenly. Now y^e men that kepte the castell, were the conuerpers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the chiefe & principall of the kynges host at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyght to Iudas to Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there, he sought them in the mountaynes, & thought they had bene fled awnye, because of hym. But when it was dawe, Judas thewed hym selfe in the felde wpth thye thousande men onely, whych had nether harnesse nor sweardes to their mynides.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the heathen were myghtie and well harnessed, and their hostme aboute them, and all these well experte in fettes of warre. Then sayde Judas to the me that were with him: feare not ye the multitude of them, be not afrayed of their violence runnyng: remembre, how oure fathers were deliuered * in the red see, when Pharaos folowed vpon them wpth a greate host.

¶ Then to lett vs also crye now towarde heauen: and the Lord shall haue mercy vpon vs, and remembre the couenaut of oure fathers, yee & destroye this host befoze oure face this dawe: And all y heathen shall knowe, that it ys God hym selfe, whych deliuereth and sauerh Israel.

¶ Then the heathen lpf vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were commynge agaynst them, they went out of their tentes into the battayll: and they that were wpth Judas, blew vpon the trompettes. * So they buckled together, and the heathen were discomfited and fled ouer the playne felde: but the mynnost of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Asatemoth, and in to the felde of Ioumae towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thye thousande men. So Judas turned agayne wpth his hoste, and sayde vnto the people: Be not greey of the spoyles, we haue pnt a battayll to fyghe: for Gorgias & hys host are here by vs in the mountaynes, but stande ye fast agaynst oure enemyes, & ouercome them: then maye ye safelye take y spoyles.

¶ As Judas was speaking these wordes, beholde there appeared one parte of the vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of hys partye were fled, and the tentes bent vp (for by the smoke they myght vnderstande what was done) they pereraupnge this, were verye soze afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and hys host were in the felde ready to strike battayll, they fled euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

¶ So Judas turned agayne to spyle the tentes, where they gatt moch golde and spluer, precious stones, purple & great riches. ¶ Thus they went home, and songe a psalme of thankelouinge, and prayled God in heauen: * for he ys gracious, & hys mercy endureth for euer: And lo Israel had a greate victory in that dawe.

¶ Now all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euery thinge as it happened. Wherefore Lysias was sore afrayed, & grieved in his minde, because Israel had not gotten such mysfortune as he wolde they shulde: nether as y kyng commaunded. The nexte yeaer folowing, gathered Lysias thye scoze thousande choien men of fote, and fye thousande hosmen, to fyghe agaynst them.

¶ So they came into Jebus, and pitched their tentes at Bethozab, where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousande me. And whē he sawe so great a myghtie an host, he made his prayer and sayde: Blessed be thou (O Saupoure of Israel) * whych dydest destroye y violent powere of the grawnte, in the hande of thy seruante Dauid, * and gauest the host of the heathen into the hande of Jonathan (the sonne of Saul) and of hys wapen bearer.

¶ But thys hoste now into the hāde of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in their multitude and hosmen. Make them afrayed, & dycomforte the boldnes of their strenght, that they maye be moued thorow their destruccio. Call them downe thorow the swerde of thy lowers, then shall all they that knowe thy name, prayse the wpth thankelouinge.

¶ So they broke the battell, and there were slayne of Lysias hoste, fye thousande men. ¶ Then Lysias ferynge the dyscomfitinge of hys men, and the manlye of the Jewes, how they were ready, either to lye or to dye lyke men: he wete vnto Jerticho, and chose out men of warre: that when they were gathered together, they might come agayne into Jebus. ¶ Then sayd Judas and his brethren: behold, our enemyes are discomfited: Let vs now go vp, to cleue, and to recapye the Sanctuary.

¶ Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghe agaynst those which were in y castill: till they had cleued the Sanctuary. So he chose yielkes y were vndeuyed, soch as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they cleued the Sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stences into an vnclene place. And for so moch as the aulter of burnt offerings was vnhalowed, he toke adpsement, what he myght do w all: so be thought it was best to destroye it (lest it shulde happē to be the eny shame).

ylc. * Then Iudas fought agaynst the chyldren of Eſau in Iudaea, and agaynst thoſe which were at Aſabathane (for they doct ſombe aboute the Iſraelites) where he ſlew and dooped a greate multitude of them. He thought alſo vpon the malice and unfaityful-nes of ſyldren of Zſean, how they were aſnare and ſtoppe vnto the people, and how they layd wyre for them in the hys wyre: wherfoze he ſent them vp in to towres, and came vnto them, beſtopped them vntelyc, and bent vp theyz towres, with all that were in them.

Afterward he went to be against the chyldren of Ammon, wherof he founde a myghty powder & a greates multitude of people with Timothy his captaine. So he strake man batte to vs with them, wher by he was slooyed befoore him. And when he had slayn them, he hadde in the chylde, wroth the townes belonging theto, and so turned a gayne into Jewry. The heathen also in Sa-land gathered the together, against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slayne the: but they fled to the castell of Antenna, and some letters wnto Iudas how beethen slayne: The heathen are gathered to agayn-st our encampyd, to destroy vs, & now the vs on euerp syde, to come, and laye siege to the castell, wherunto we are fled, and Timothy is the captaine of their host: come therefore and deliver vs out of their bandes: for there is a greates multitude of vs slayne already.
Pec and our beethen that were at Tabim, are slayne & destroyed, well nye a hundred men) and thez wyues, thez chyliden and thez goodes haue the encampyd led awaye captive.

¶ Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, beholde, there came other messengers from Galilee, with rite clothes: which tolde euen the same thynges, and sayde, that they of Hierosolym, of Tyrus and of Sydon were gathered agaynst the, and that all Galilee was filled with enemies to destroye Israel. ¶ Whise Judas & the people herde thys, they came together (a greate cōgregation) to be- uolt, what they might do for theyr dyeth. ¶ That were in trouble & beseged of theyr ene- mies, And Judas sayd vnto Simeon his brother: chuse thou certayne men, and go deli- uer thy brethren in Galilee: I for me & my brother Ioythas, we will go into Gala- rithim. So he left Iosephus the sonne of za- chary, and Arias to be Captaynes of the people, and to keepe the remaunce of the hostes in Jewy, and commaunded them, sayinge: Take the ouerghyt of thys people, and let ye mane no warre agaynst the heathen, vntyll the time that we come agayne. And vnto Simeon he gaue thyr thousand men, for to go into Galilee, but Judas hym selfe had eight thousande in Galaadithim.

Then wente Symon into Galilee, & strooke diuerse battelles with þe heathen: whom he discomfited, and followed vpon the vnto þe porte of Idolomayns. And there were hatne of the heathen all most. Iii. thousande men. So he toke the spoyle of them, and caried awaye the Itenelites, that were in Galilee and Arabitis, with theyr wyues, theyr chyldren and all that they had, & brought them in to Jewry with greute gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathan wente ouer Iordane, ad traunpled in dayes tournep in the wyldernesse: Where the scabithers met them, and retraued them lounyng, and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadithim, and how that many of them were beleged in Bartaia, Bosofo, Minus, Caphoz, Hageeth and Carnaim, all these are stronge walled and Hyghie greate cities, and that they were kepte in other cytyes of Galaad also: & to morow they are appointed to bryge their host vnto these cytyes, to take them, & to wyne them in one daye.

So Judas and his host turned in all the harte in the wyldernesse towarde Bosofo, and wane the cytye, slewe all the males with the swerde, toke all their goodes, and sett fyre vpon the cytye. And in the nyght they toke their fourney from thence, and came to the castell. And by tymes in the moynyng wyl they looked vp, beholde, there was an innuenerable people bearyng labors and othere instruments of warre, to take þe castell and to overcome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayll be gaune, and that the nople therof wente vprange in to the heauen, and that there was to greate a crye in þe cytye: he sayd vnto his host: fyght this daye for your brethren. And so came behynde their enemyes in thre companies, and blew vpon the trompettes, and cryed in their praper to God.

But as soone as Timotheus host perceaued þe Machabeus was there, they fled from him, and the other slewe them downe ryght so: so þe there were kyllid of them the same daye, almost eight thousande me. Then departed Judas vnto Bethphai, layed sege vnto it, and wanne it, slewe all the males in it, spoyled it, and sett fyre vpon it. From thence wete he and toke Calson, Hageeth, Bosofo, and the other cytyes in Galaad.

After this gathered Timotheus another hoste, which pitched their tentes before Ramoth beyonde the water. Judas also sent to the hoste, & they brought him wordes agayne, sayinge: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto him, and the hoste is very great. See they haue byrd the Arabians to helpe them, & haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water, and are ready to come & fyght agaynst the. So Judas wente on to meete them.

And Timotheus sayd vnto the captaynes of his host: When Judas & his host come nyr the ryuer: yf he go ouer first, he shal not be able to withstāde him: for why he wil be to stronge for vs. But yf he dare not come ouer, so that he pitch his tente beynde þe water: the will we go ouer, for we shal be stryde ynough agaynst him. Now as soone as Judas came to þe ryuer, he appoynted certayne scythes of the people, & commaunded them, sayenge: If that ye leane none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer, but let euery mā come to the battayll. So he wente fyrst ouer vnto them and his people after him.

And all the heathen were discomfited before him, and let their weapons fall. A rāne into þe temple that was at Carnaim. Whych cytye Judas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued, and myght not withstāde Judas. Then Judas gathered all þe Israelites that were in Galaadithim, from the lest vnto þe most, with theyr wyues and theyr chyldren (a very greate host) for to come into þe lande of Israel.

So they came vnto Ephraim, which was a myghtie, greate and stronge cytye, and laye in their weye. For they coulde not go by it, neither of the ryght hande ner of the left, but must goo thowow it.ouer the lesse they that were i þe cytye, wolde not let the go thowow, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them wth peaceable wordes sayinge: Let vs passe thowow poure land, yf we maye goo into oure owne countie: there shall no body do you harme, we wil not oulyp go thowow on force. But they wolde not let them in.

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamation to be made thowow ouer the hollie, that euery man shulde kepe his odyce, and so they dyd their best lyke valaunt men.

And Judas beleged þe cytye all that daye and all that nyght, and so wanne it: where they slewe as many as were males, and bestrope the cytye, and spoyled it, and wente thowow all the cytye ouer the f were slayne. Then wete they ouer Iordane in to þe playne felde before Bethsai. And Judas helpe þe people forwarde þe ca behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacyon all þe waye thowow, tyll they were come into þe lande of Iuda. Then they wente vnto the mount Symon, wher they offred wth myrrour & thāckelgyuynge: because there were none of them slayne, but came home agayne peaceably.

Now what tyme as Judas & Jonathan were in the lande of Galaad, and Symon þe brother in Galilee before Idolomayns:

Then

The fyft Booke

Then Iosephus þy some of zachary and I-sacras the capytaynes, bearinge of the actis that were done and of the battels that were broken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also,
and go fyghe agaynst the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

I So they gaue they hoost a commandement, and wente towarde Taimna. Then came Sozargas a his men out of the cite, to fyght agaynst them: Iosephus also a Fla-ryas were chafed vnto þ borders of Iewry, a there were slayne that daye of the people of Israel. ¶ men: so þ there was a great milery amonge þ people, * a al because they were not obedient vnto Judas and his brethen, but thought they shulde quyte the fellows manfully. ¶ Scuertheles they came not of the febe of their men, bp whom Israel was helped. But the me that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the fyght of all Israel and all Iewry, where so euer they name was herde vnto, a the people came vnto to them, byddynge them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth wpyth hys brethien, and foughte agaynst the childre of Esau, in the lande þyeth towarde the south where he wanne the cite of Hebron and the townes that lye betwix it: a as for þ wallow and to waxes rounde aboute it, he bynt them vp. Then remoued he to go into the lade of the Philistines, and wente thowow Samaria.
At the same tyme were there many pye-res slayne in the battayll, whych wylfullp and without aduysment wente out for to fyght to get the honoure. And when Judas cam to Atoz in þ idyllines lande, * he byrde downe the pyr altars, bent the ymages of their gods, spoyled þ pyties, a came agayne into the lande of Iuda.

¶ Chapter.

¶ Antiochus wyllynge to take the cite of Ierusalem for a prize in his own awaye of the ierusalem. He sallyth into Ierusalem a dreyth. His sonne Antiochus is made kyng. He becom of Ierusalem a geyt. Antiochus commeth into Ierusalem with a great army. The boldnesse of Antiochus.

I So when kynge Antiochus trauayled thowow the hys countrees, he herde þ Ptolemas in Persia was a noble a plentiful cite in syluer a gold, a that there was in it a verye riche tēple: where as were clothes, cote armoures a sheldes of golde, whych Alexander the sonne of idyllus kyng of Macedonia (that raygned fyzt in Greke lande) had left behynde hym. ¶ Therefore he wente about to take the cite a to spoyl it, but he was not able: for the cite lynes were warded of it, a fought w him. And so he fled a departed wpyth greate heymelle, and came agayne into Babylon.
Afore he came one whych brought him spydynge in Perside, * that his hoodes whych were in the lande of Iuda, where dyp-uen a waye, and how that Lysias wet forth fyzt wpyth a grente power, a was dyuen a waye of the Iewes: how þ they had wonne the victory, a gotten grente goodes out of the hoodes þ perished: how they had broken downe the abhominacions, * whych he set vp vnto the altare at Jerusalem, and fenced the Sacruary with hys walles, lyke as it was afore: yee and Bethsura þys cite also.

So it chaunced, that when the kynge had herde these wordes, he was afrayed and gre-ued verye soze. ¶ Therefore he layed him downe vpon his bed, and fell sicke for verye soze: he dyd all because it had not happened as he had deuised. And there contynued he longe, for hys grete was euer, moze a moze, so that he saw he must nedes dye. ¶ Therefore he sent for his frendes, a sayde vnto the: the dyce is gone fro myne eyes, for the verye sozow and weyacion of herte that I haue. For when I cōsidre in my mynde the grete aduertyse þ I am come vnto, a the shoules of heuynelle whych I am come in, where as afore tyme I was to mery, a so greatly set by þ reason of my power: Agayne, conspyreringe þ euill þ I haue done at Jerusalem, fro whence I toke all þ pyches of golde a syluer þ were in it, and sent to fetch a waye the inshapours of Iewry wpythout any reason wpy: I knowe þ these troubles are come vpon me for same cause. ¶ And beholde, I mult dye wpyth grente sozow in a strange lande. ¶ The called he for one Philippe a frende of his, whom he made ruler of all his realme, a gaue him the crovne, his robe a his rpyng: þ he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto him, a bynynge hym vp, tyll he myght raygne þ self. ¶ So the kyng Antiochus dyed there, in the crite peare. ¶ When Lysias knewe that the kynge was ded, he ordeined Antiochus hys sonne.
(* whō he had brought vp) to raygne in his fathers steade, a called hym Eupator. ¶ Now they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Iewes roundabout the Sanctuary, a fought euer styll to do them harme for the strengthenynge of the Iewes.

Therefore Judas thought to beset the, and called all the people together, that they might laye sege vnto the. So they came together in the crite peare, a besetted them, lay-ynge forth theyr ordynance and instrumētcs of watre. ¶ Then certayne of them that were besetted, wente forth (vnto whom some vigilyly me of Israel ioynd them selues also) and wet vnto the kyng, sayynge: how longe wyl it be, o2 thou punyssh and auryge oure brethren: ¶ We haue euer bene mynded to do thy fathers scrupce, to walke in hys statutes, and to obeie his commaundementes: ¶ Therefore oure people fell from vs, and wherfoeuer they founde any of vs, they slewe them:

haue not only mebled wyth vs, but wth all our countreys: and beholde, thys daye are they besieginge the castell at Ierusalem. * and haue made vp the stronge holde in Bethsura. And if thou dost not preuente them right soone, they will do more then these, & thou shalt not be able to overcome them.

* When þe kyng herde thys, he was very angrie, and called all his frendes, the captaynes of his fote men, and of all his horsemen together. He byrd men of warre also out of other realmes & out of the Isles of the see, which came vnto hym. And the nōbre of his host was an hundred thousande fote men, & twentie thousande horse. & cxxii. Elephantes wel exercised to battail. * The same thorois Iudaea vnto Bethsura, & besieged it a longe season, and made dyuerse instruments of warre agaynst it. But þe Jewes came out ad burnt the, and fought lyke men. Then departed Judas fro the castell at Ierusalem, & remoued þe host to ward Bethsura an ouer agaynst the kynges armie.

So the kyng arose before the daye, and brought the power of his host into þe waye to Bethsura, where þe hostes made the to þe battail, blowyng the trumpettes. And to psonoke the Elephantes for to fight, they shewed them the synne of red grapes & molberies. And deuised the Elephantes amonge the hoste: so þe vnder every Elephante there stode a .iiij. men well harnessed, & helmettes of stele vpon theyr brades: For vnto every one of the Elephantes also, were adened. v. C. horsmen of the best, which wayed of the Elephante, goyng where so euer he wote, and departed not from hym. Every Elephante was couered with a stronge towre of wod, where vpon were cxxii. valauntes met with beapens to fight, and wth in was a man of Jude to rule the best.

As for the remanant of the horsmen, he sett them vnder both the sydes in two partes wth trumpettes, to psonoke the hoste, ad to keere vp loch as were slowe in the armie. And when the sunne shone vnder their shieldes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agaynst at them, and were as bright as the cresettes of fyre. The kyngs host also was deuised, one parte vpon the hie mountaynes, the other lowe breich: so they went on, takinge good hede, and keepyng theyr ordre. And all they that dwelt in the lade, were askeped at the noyse of their host, when the multitude went forth, & when the weapons smote together, for the host was both great & myghty. Judas also & his host entered into the battail, & drew. vi. C. me of the kynges armie. Now when Eleasar þe sonne of Saura dyd be one of Elephantes decked wth the kynges badge, & was a more goodly beast then the other: he thought þe kyng should be vnder him, & leoparde hi self to deluier bys people, and to gett hym a perpetuall name. Wherefore he ranne with a courage vnto the Elephante in þe middell of the host, synnyng the bo. one of both þe sydes, & slawe many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephantes feet, & gat him vnder him, & slawe hym: then fell the Elephante downe vnder him, & there he dyed. Judas also & his men seing þe power of the kyng & the myghty volcke of his host, departed fro them. And þe kynges armie wote vp agaynst the towarde Ierusalem, & pitched their tentes in Jewry beside mount Sion. Moreover, the kyng toke truse with them that were in Bethsura.

But when they came out of the cye, because they had no vitales within, & the lade laye vntilled: the kyng toke Bethsura, & let me to kepe it, & turned his host to the place of the Sanctuery, & layed siege to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordnance: handbowes, fyre dartes, rackets to cast stones, scorpiōs to shot arrows, & lynes. The Jewes also made ordnance agaynst thes, and fought a longe season.

But in the cye there were no vptayles, for it was the seventh yeare of the warres, & those heathen remanped in Jewry, had eaten vp all their foare. And in the Sanctuery were few me lisse, for þe hunger came so vnder the, that they were scattered abroade every man to his owne place.

So when Lysias heare that Philippe (* who Antiochus the kyng wyle be was pet luyng. had ordered to byrge vp Antiochus his soun, that he myght be kyng) was come agayne out of Persia & Grecia wth the kyngs host, & thought to optaine the kyngdome. He gat him to the king in all the hast, & to the captaynes of the host. & sayde: We decrease dayly, & our vptayles are but small: Agayne, the place that we laye siege vnto, is very strong, & it were our payre to se for the realme. Let vs agre wth these men, and take truce with them, and with all theyr people, ad grant them to lye after theyr lawe, as they vnderstode. For they be greued & do all these things agaynst vs, because we haue despyed theyr lawe. So the kyng and the priences were content, & sent vnto them to make peace, & they receaued it. Now when the kyng & the priences had made an othe vnto the, they came out of þe castell, and the kyng wente vp to mount Syon. But when he sawe that the place was well fenced, he brake the othe that he had made, & commaunded to destroye the wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioche, where he founde Philippe hauing dominion of the cite. So he fought agaynst hym, and toke the cite agayne into his handes.

The .vii. Chapter.

Demetrius was greatly after he had killed Antiochus & Lysias, he troubled the collours of Antiochus council of certain wyrdeth persons. The wyrdeth persons of Bethra against Alcinus. Judas killed Alcinus, after he had made hys prayer.

In the .xli. yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the cytye of Rome wyth a small copany of men, vnto a cite of the see coast, & there he bare rule. And it chanced, y^e while he came to Antioche the cite of his progenitors, his host toke Antiochus & Lysias, to byngne them vnto him. But while it was tolde hym, he sayd: let me not se thes faces: So the host put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of hys kyngdome, there came vnto hym wyched & vngodly me of Israel: whose captayne was Alcinus, that wolde haue bene made hys prest: These men accused y^e people of Israel vnto the kyng, sayinge: Judas & hys brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dyspuen vs out of oure awne lode. Wherefore, sende now some man: to whom thou geuest credence) that he maye go, and se all the destruction, which he hath done vnto vs & to the kynges lande, and lett him be punished wth all hys frendes and fauourers.

When the kyng chose Balthides a frende of his, which was a man of greute power in the realme (besyde the greute water, and saythfull vnto the kyng: and sent him to se the destruction that Judas had done. And asfor that wyched Alcinus, he made hym hys prest, and commaunded hym to be auenged of the children of Israel. So they stode vp, and came wyth a greute host into the lande of Iuda, sendyng messaungers to Judas & hys brethren, & speakyng vnto them wyth peacable wordes: but vnder disceate.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcinus & Balthides, trustyng the best vnto them. And first the Aldeans requyred peace of the, sayinge: Alcinus the prest is come of the lode of Aars, how can he disceate vs? So they gaue the lounge wordes, & swore vnto them, & sayde: We wyll do you no harme: neither your frendes: & they beleued them. But the very same daye toke they. I. men of them & slew them accordyng to the wordes that are wyrtten: ¶ They haue cast the flesch of thy sapientes, & shed their bloude rounde about Ierusalem, & there was no mā y^e wolde burye them. So there came a greute feare and dyede amonge the people, sayinge: there is neither treuth nor ryghte outnesse in the, for they haue broken the appoyntement and othe y^e they made. And Balthides removed his host from Ierusalem, and prested his tente at Betzecha: where he sent forth, & toke many of them that had forsaken hym: he slewe many of the people also, and callt them into a greute pyre. ¶ Then commytted he the lande vnto Alcinus, and left men of warre wyth hym to helpe hym, & Balthides him self wete vnto the kyng. And thus Alcinus defended his hys presthode: & all such as were of Israel resorted vnto hym: In so moche that they occupied the lande of Iuda, and dyd much euill vnto the Israelites.

Now when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcinus and his copany had done (ye more then the heathen the selues) vnto the Israelites: he wente forth tofide about all the borders of Ictry, and punished those vnfaythfull rennagates, so that they came nomore out into the countre. ¶ So when Alcinus sawe, that Judas and his people had gotten the upperhede, and that he was not able to abyde them: he wente agayne to the kyng, and sayde all the worst of them that he coude. ¶ Then the kyng sent Alcinus, one of hys cheste pynces (wyche bare euill wyll vnto Israel) and commaunded him, that he shulde vterly destroye the people.

* So Alcinus came to Ierusalem wth a greute goost, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren wyth frendly wordes (but vnder disceate) sayge: there shall be no warre betwixt me & you: I wyll come wyth a fewe men, to se how ye do, wyth fewe shyppe. ¶ Upon this he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but y^e enemies were appoynted to take Judas by violence. ¶ After this it was tolde Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder disceate: wherefore he gat hym awaye from him, and wolde se hys face nomore. ¶ Wher Alcinus perceaued that hys counsell was betrayed, he went out to fight agaynst Judas, helpe Captharsama: where there were slayne of Alcinus host. b. 47. men: and the respyd fled vnto the castell of Dauid.

After this came Alcinus vp vnto mount Syon: and the prestes wth the elders of the people wete forth to salute hym peaceably, & to helpe hym the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. ¶ But he laughed the and y^e people to come, mocked them, defiled their offeringes, & spake dysdaynfully, yee and swore in hys wrath, sayinge: ¶ If Judas and hys host be not deliuered now into myn handes, as soone as euer I come agayne (& fare well) I wyll burne y^e thys houle. ¶ With that, wente he out in agreate anger. ¶ Then the prestes came in, and stode before the altare of the temple, wepyng & sayge.

* For so much as thou (O Lord) hast chosen this houle, that thy name myght be called vpon therein, & that it shulde be: an houle of prayer and petition for thy people: Be avenge of this man & his booke, & let them be slayne with the sword: remembre the blaspemyes of them, and suffer them not to continue any longer.

When Alcanoz was gone from Jerusalem, he pitched his tente at Bethozon, and there an host met hym out of Spayne. And Judas came to Bartaia with thye thousand men, & made his prayer vnto God, sayeng: O Lord, * because y meffaugers of kyng Senacherib blasphemed y, the angell went forth, and slewe an hundred foure thousande and foure thousande of them. Then to destroye thou thys host before vs to daue, y other people maye knowe howe that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuare: & punish hym accordinge to hys maliciousselle.

And to the hostes stroke the selde, the thirtieth daye of the moneth * Adar: and Alcanozs host was dysconforted, & he him self was fayne slayne in the battaylle. When Alcanozs men of warre sawe that he was kyled, they cast awaye theyr weapons and fled, but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney, from Adazer vnto Gazara, blowyng with y troppes, and makinge tokens after them. So y Jewes came forth of all y towncs there aboute, and blewe out theyr doynes vpon them, and turned agaynst them. Thus were they all slayne, and not one of them left.

Then they toke theyr substance for a pray, and smote of Alcanozs heade and his right hande: * which he helde vp to proude: and brought it with them, & haged it vpon a tree Ierusalem. Wherefore, the people were exceedingly reioyced, and passed ouer that day in greate gladnesse. And Judas ordeyned, that y same daye (namely y thirtieth daye of the moneth Adar) shulde be kepte in myrth euery yere. Thus the laide of Judas was in rest a lytle while.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

¶ Judas consideringe the power and noble pollicie of the Romaynes made peace with them. The residue of the Romaynes sent vnto the Jewes.

Iudas heard also the same of the Romaynes, that they were myghty & valiaunt men, & agreeable to all thynges y are requyred of them, & make peace w al men, which come vnto them, and howe they were doughty men of strength. Belydes y it was tolde him of theyr battaylles, and noble actes which they dyd in Galacia, howe they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thynges they had done in Spayne, howe that y theyr wyldome & sober behauiour they had wonne y wynges of siluer & gold yare there, & obtayned all y lade, with other places farre from them: how they had disconforted & slayne downe y hynges y came vpon them, from the uttermost parte of y earth, and howe other people gaue the tribute euery yere. Howe they had slayne & overcome Philip and Perles kynges of Cethim, & other mo (in battaylle) which had brought theyr ordynance agaynst the: howe they disconforted great Antiochus kyng of Asia (that wolde nedes fight w them) haupnge an hundred & twenty Elephantes, with horsemen, charities, and a very great host: howe they toke hym selfe alyue, & ordeyned hym (with such as Quibrayne after him) to paye the a greate tribute: * yce, and to fynde them good suertyes & pledge: belydes all thys, howe they had taken from hym India, Arabia, and Libya (his best lades) and geuen them to kyng Eumenes. Agayne, howe they preceayng y the Grekes were comynge to vexe the, sent agaynst the a captayne of an host, which gaue the battaylle, slewe many of them, led awaye theyr wynges and chyldeycaptiue, spoiled the, toke possession of theyr lande, destroyed theyr stronge holdes, and subdued them to be theyr bonde men, vnto thys daie. Wherefore, howe that as for other kyngdomes and Alex, which souynge with the, they destroyed them, and brought them vnder theyr dominion. But helpe euerye theyr atwix frendes and those that where confederat with them, and conquered kyngdomes both farre and nyge: & that whosoeuer berde of theyr renouwe, was afrayed of them: for whom they wold helpe to thei kyngdomes, those raygned: & whom it lyked not them to raygne, they put hym downe. And howe they were come to greate preeminence: haupnge no kyng amonge them, netheer any man clothed in purple, to be magnified there thorow, but had ordeyned them selues a perlamet, where in there sat the hundred & twenty Senatours daylye vpon the council, to dyspatch euery bullyncle of the people, & to kepe good ordre. And howe that euery yere they chose a kyng, to haue y gouernance of all theyr land: to whom euery man was obedient, & there was netheer euell wyll nee dyscencion amonge them.

Then Judas chose Eupolemus y some of Ihon the sonne of Jacob, and Jalon the sonne of Eleazar, & sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshyppe and a bade of loue with them: that they myght take fro them the baddage of y Grekes, for y Jewes sake, that the Grekes wolde subdue y kyngdome of Israel. So they went vnto Rome, a very greate iourney: & came into y prynces, and sayd: Judas Machabrys with his brethren and y people of y Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bade of frendshyppe and peace w you, & ye to note vs as your loners and frendes. And þ matter pleased the Romaynes right well, wherfore it was writtyn by of the wyppyn þ Romaynes made a wyppynge in tables of brass, and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a memoriall of the same peace & bonde of friendship after this manner. God saue þ Romaynes and the people of the Jewes both by see and by land, and kepe the sword and enemy fro the for euermore. If there come first enmy warre vpon the Romaynes or any of theys frendes thowout all theys domynion, the people of the Jewes shall help them (as the tyme requyrieth) & that w all theys vertes. Also they shall neither geue nor sende vnto theys enemyes wyttaples, weapens, money nor shyppes: but fullfill this charge at þ Romaynes pleasure, & take nothing fro them therfore. Agayne if the people of þ Jewes happen fyrst to haue warre, the Romaynes shall stonde by them w a good wyll, accordynge as þ tyme wyll lustre. Neither shall they geue vnto þ Jewes enemyes, wyttaples, weapens, money nor shyppes. Thus are the Romaynes cōsent to do, and shall fullfill their charge without eny dyscete.

D According to these articles, the Romaynes made the bonde with the Jewes. Now after these articles, sayde they yf any of the parties wyll put to the, or take any thyng from them: they shall do it w the consent of both: & what sooner they adde vnto them or take from them, it shall stonde fast. And as touchyng þ euell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue written vnto hym, sayenge: wherfore layest þ thy heuie yoke vpon þ Jewes our frendes & louers? If they make eny cōplainte of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fygge with the by see and by lande.

After the death of Apollonius, Demetrius semeth his enmye agaynst Judea. Judeas is sayne. Jonathan is iude in the heade of his dyotie. The dyotie belongeth Jonathan and Bachides. Argeus is taken with the palsey and death. Bachides rekeneth agayne into the byng. He cometh vpon Jonathan by the counsell of cerapyns weched personnes, and to overcome. The trewe of Jonathan with þs apollonius.

In the meane season whē Demetrius herde that * Argeus and hys host were sayne in the felde, he proceeded further to seide Bachides and Alpinus agayne into Jewry, & those that were in the ryght wyng of his host, with them. So they went forth by the waie þ lecheth vnto Galgala, and pitched theys tentes befoze Metastoth which is in ardelles, and wanne the cytie & newe moche people. In the fyrst moneth of the Cliv. yere, they brought theys host to Jerusalem, and rose vp & came to Betea, with xx. M. footmen. & ii. M. horsemen.

Now Judas had pyched his tteat Layla, with the thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so greete, they were sore afraied, and many couped them selues out of the host. In so moche that there abode no mo of them but epght hundred men. When Judas sawe þ his host fapled hym, and that he must nedes fight: it brake his herte, that he had no tyme to gather them together: wherfore the man was in extremetrouble. After the lisse, he sayde vnto them, that remayned with hym. Wy, lett vs go agaynst oure enemyes, peradventure we shalbe able, to fygge with them. But they wolde haue stopped hym, sayenge: we shall not be able, therfore lett vs now saue oure lyues: & euen agayne to our berthen and then will we fygge agaynst the, for we are here but fewe. And Judas sayde: God forþyde, þ we shalbe lisse from them. Wherfore, if oure tyme be come, lett vs be manfulfor oure berthen, and lett vs not shapne oure honoure. Then the host remoued out of þ tentes, and stode agaynst them. The horsemen are deuyded in two partes: the flying casters & archers wente befoze þ host, and all the myghty men were fozmost in þ felde. Bachides him selfe was in þ ryght wyng of þ battayll, & the host dyed wyse in two partes, & blew the trompettes. They of Judas syde blew the trompettes also, & the earth shoke at the noyse of þ hostes, & they broke a felde from the moztow tyll nyght. And when Judas sawe þ Bachides host was throught of þ ryght syde, he toke with hym all the hardy men, & brake þ ryght wyng of theys odyr, & folowed vpon them vnto þ mount Azot.

Now when they which were of the left wyng, sawe that þ ryght syde was dyscōfyt, they persecuted Judas & them þ were w hym. Then was there a foz battaylle, for many were sayne & wound of both þ parties. Judas also him self was kyllid, & the remnant fled. So Jonathan and Symon toke Judas theys brother, and buryed hym in his fathers sepulchre in þ cytie of Bethin. And all þ people of Israel made greates lamentacion for hym, & mourned longe, sayenge: Alas, that this worthy shulde be sayne, which deliuered þ people of Israel. As for other thynges percepyng to þ battaylles of Judas, þ noble actes that he dyd & of hys worthynesse: they are not wyrtten, for they were very many.

* And after þ death of Judas, wyched men came vp in all þ coastes of Israel, and there arose all such as wozech vngodlynesse. In those dayes was there a greete dearthe in þ lande, and all the countre gaue ouer them selues and theys vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wyched men, and made them lordes lordes in þat land. These sought out & made search for Judas frendes, and broughe them vnto Bachpides: whiche accused hi self vnto them with great despayre. And there came to grent trouble in Israhell, as was not sens þe tyme that no prophete was sene there.

Then came all Judas frendes together, and layde vnto Jonathas: for so much as they brother Judas is dead, there is none lyke him to go forth agaynst our enemyes, agaynst Bachpides, & such as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherefore thys daye we chosse thefor þi, to be oure prync & captayne to orde our battaill. And Jonathas toke þe gouernance vpon hym at the same tyme, and ruled i steade of hys brother Judas. Whē Bachpides gat knowledge therof, he sought for to sleie hym. But Jonathas and Symon his brother, perceauinge that, fled into the wilderness of Chema with al their company, and ppyched theyr tentes by the water pole of Asphar.

Whiche when Bachpides vnderstode, he came oner Jordan with all his host vpon þe Sabbath day. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Zion (a captayne of the people) to praye hys frendes the Sabutyers, þe they wolde leide them their ordinaunce, for they had much. So the chyldre of Jambyr came out of Abadaba, and toke Zion and al that he had, and wete theyr waye withal. Then came word vnto Jonathas & Symon hys brother, that the chyldren of Jambyr made a grente marriage, and broughe the vyrgin Abadaba with grente pompe: for she was daughter to one of þe noblest prynces of Canaan. Wherefore they remembered the bloude of Zion their brother, and wete vp and hid the selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp theyr eyes, and looked, & beholde, there was much a do, and great reuoyce: for the vydecome came forth, & hys frendes and hys brethren met them with companyes, instruments of musicke, and many weapons. Then Jonathas and they þe were with him, rose out of their loueking places agaynst them, and slewe many of them. As for the remanue, they fled into þe mountaynes, and they toke all theyr substance. Thus the marriage was turned to mourninge, and the noyse of theyr melody into lamentacion. And so when they had auenged þe bloude of theyr brother, they turned agayne vnto Jordan.

Bachpides bearinge thys, came vnto the very border of Jordan with a grent power vpon þe Sabbath daye. And Jonathas sayd to hys companye, let vs get vp, and fyght agayne our enemyes: for it standeth not with vs to dnye, as in tyme past. Beholde, oure enemyes are in our waye, the water of Jordane vpon the one syde of vs, with banks, fennes and woddes of the other syde, so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto.

* Wherefore crie now vnto heauen, that ye maye be deliuered fro þe power of your enemyes. So they stroke þe battaill. And Jonathas stretcht out hys handes to smyte Bachpides, but he fled backwarde. Then Jonathas & they þe were with him, leape into Jordan, and swymmed ouer Jordan vnto hym, and there were slayne of Bachpides side that daye, a thousande men.

Wherefore Bachpides with his host turned agayne to Ierusalem, and buyde by þe castles and strong holdes that were in Jewrye, Jericho, Emmaus, Bethoron, Bethell, Chamnata, Phara and Gopoz, with bye wallis, with portes and with lockes: & let men to kepe the, that they myghte vse theyr malice vnto Israhel. He walked by Bethlurath, Gazarah and the castell at Ierusalem also, and prouided the wyth men and vitayles. He toke also the cheefest men of sounes in the countre for pledges, and put them in the castell at Ierusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the hundred fifty & thre yeare in þe secnde moneth, Alimus commaunded, that þe wallis of the ynnmost Sanctuarie shuld be destroyed, and the buldinges of þe prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them, þe thynges þe he wete aboute, were hyndred, for he was smytte w a palsy, and his mouth shut, so that he coulde no more speake her comaunde eny of his house concerninge his busynesse. Thus dyed Alimus in grente mysery at þe same tyme. And whē Bachpides sawe that Alimus was dead, he turned agayne to the kyng, and so þe lorde was in reast two yeres. Then all the vngodly men held a counsell, sayng: Behold, Jonathas and his companye are at ease, and dwell without care. Wherefore let vs byge Bachpides hyther, and he shall take them al in one nyght.

So they wente and gaue Bachpides this counsell, which arose to come with a grente host, and sent letters pruely to his aduersaries, to they were in Jewrye, to take Jonathas & those þe were w hym: but they myght not for þe other had gotte knowledge of theyr deuyce. And Jonathas toke fyfty me of þe countre (whiche were þe singlers of the) and slewe the. Then Jonathas and Symon with theyr companye departed vnto the cyte Bethellessen whych lyeth in the wilderness, & repayred þe decaye therof, & made it strong. When Bachpides knewe thys, he gatheredd all hys host, and sent word to them that were of Jewry. Then came he and layed sege to Bethellessen & fought agaynst it a lōg season, & made instruments of warre. Now Jonathas left his brother Symon in þe cyte.

and wente forth hym selfe into the colitre, & came with a certayne hodge, & a fletche of wyndes, and his byrthen and the children of Iheroson in the; ventres: so that he begonne to be stronge, and to increace in powber.

As for Symon and hys compaign, they wente out of the ctyte, and byent vpon the streumfles of warre, & foughte agaynst Sathides, and discomfited hym. And Sathides was soze weched, because his counsell and trauayl was i bayne. Wherfore he was mozt at the wyched men, that gaue hym counsell to come into the; lade, and slewe many of them. Then purposed he with hys compaign to go a waye into his auncie countre: wherof whif Jonathas had knowledg, he sent embassadours vnto hym, for to make peace wth hym, and that he shuld desuer hym his prisoners agayne. To the whiche Sathides consented gladly, and byd accordyng to hys desyre: pece and mynde an orle, that he shuld neuer do hym harme al the dayes of his lyf. So he restored vnto hym al the prisoners that he had taken out of the lade of Iuda, & then turned and wente his waye into hys auncie lade, neither proceeded he any further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Irael had nomore warre. And Jonathas dwelt at Bethachemes, and begonne there to gouerne the people, and desceoped þ vngodly men out of Irael.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ From this bereth to haue peace with Jonathas Allader mouth warre against Demetrius. Demetrius is slayn. The friendshippe of Ptolomay & Alexander.

ca. x. ff. 111.

In the hūdyed and thre score peare came Alexander þ sonne of noble Antiochus and toke Ptolomays, whose ctyteyns receaued him, and there he raygned. When Demetrius herde therof, he gathered an exceeding grent host, and went forth agaynst hym to fyghe. Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathas with louyng wordes, and prayed him greatly. For he sayde: we will first make peace with hym, before he bynde hym selfe wth Alexander agaynst vs: els he shall remembre þ euell that we haue done agaynst hym, his brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leue to gather an host, to make weapens, and to be confederat wth hym, & commaūded the pledges that were i the castell, to be deliuered vnto hym.

¶ Then came Jonathas to Ierusalem, and red the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were i the castell. And therfore were they soze afraied, because they herde, that þ kyng had geuen hym licence to gather an host. Thus were the pledges despuered vnto Jonathas, whiche restored the to the; elders. Jonathas also dwelt at Ierusalem, and begonne to buylde vpon to repayre the ctyte: consummating the workmen, to wall it, and the mount Sion round aboute with fere stone, to be a stronge holde, and so they byd. As for þ heathen that were i þ castels which Sathides had made vpon theyr fies: so that euery man left þ place, and wnt into his auncie countre. Only at Bethsura remainyd certayne of þ Jewes, whiche had forsaken þ lawe and commaūdmentes of God, for Bethsura was the; refuge.

¶ Now when kyng Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas, and when it was tolde hym of þ battels and noble actes, whiche he and hys byrthen had done, and of the grete traualles that they had take, he sayde: where shall we fynde soch a man? well, we will make him our frende, and be confederat wth hym. And this he wrote a letter vnto hym, with the; wordes: kyng Alexander salueth þ; brother Jonathas. We haue herde of the; þ thou art a valeaunt man, and mete to be our frende: wherfore this daye we ordeyne the to be the hie prest of thy people, and to be called the kynges frede. (Upon this, he sent hym a purple cloyngge, and a crowne of golde) that thou mayest conspyre what is for our profyt, and kepe frendshippe towarde vs.

¶ So in the seuenth moneth of the hūdyed and thre score peare vpon the solemne feast daye of the tabernacles, Jonathas put þ holy rayment vpon him. Then gathered he an host, and made many weapens. Whiche whif Demetrius herde, he was maruelous fory, & sayde: Alas, what haue we done, that Alexander hath vsulted vs in getting þ frendshippe of the Jewes, for hys auncie defence? Yet will I wypte louyngly vnto them also, pece and promise them dignities and rewardes, þ they maye be of myn syde. Wherupon he wrote vnto the; these wordes. Kyng Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto þ people of þ Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte your couenaunt to warde vs, & cōpyned in our frendship, not enclinyng to our enemyes, we were glad, when we herde therof. Wherfore remaine still, & be faithfull to vs: & we shall well recompense you for þ thynges, þ ye haue done on our parte: we shall release you of many charges, & geue you rewardes. And now I byd charge you & all þ Jewes frō tributes, I forgeue you þ customes of salt, and release you of þ crowne taxes, of the thyrde parte of seide, & half of þ frute of trees, which is myne auncie dewtye. These I leaue for you, frō this daye forth: so þ they shal not be taken of the lande of Iuda ne of the thre ctytes whiche are added ther vnto out of Samaria and Galilee, from this daye forth for euer.

For euermore. Ierusalem also with al thinges be longing therto. What be holy and free, pee p^rtybes and tributes shall pertayne vnto it. As for the power of p^r castell which is at Ierusalem, I remp^r a geue it vnto p^r type p^ruelle, that be maye see it is such me, as he shal chole to heape it. I feele despair at the Iewes that are p^reylouners thowow out all my realme: to p^reuery one of the shal be free from paying any tribute, pee euen of their castell.

All the solemne feastes, Sabbathes, new moones, the dayes appoynted, the thre dayes before & after the feast, shal be free for all the Iewes in my realme: so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thyng, or to moue any busynesse agaynst any of the in any manner of cause. There shall thyrty thousande also of the Iewes be wytten vp in the kynges booke, and haue thez wages payed, as all other men of warre of the kynges shuld haue: and of them shal be ordeyned certayne, to kepe p^r kynges strong holdes: pee and some of the shal be set ouer the kynges busynesse, that they maye faithfuly deale wth the same. The Iewes also shall haue p^rinces of thez a wth, and wthke in thez a wth lawes, as the kynges hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cyties that are fallen vnto Iewry from p^r countrey of Samaria & Galilee: shal be taken as Jewry, and be vnder one: neyther be subiecte to any straunge lord, but to the type p^reste. As for Ptolomaies and the lande p^rerteyning therto, I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Ierusalem, for the necessarye expences of the holy thynges. Moreover, I will geue euery yere syffens thousande shyles of s^rluer out of p^r kynges checker (which pertayneth vnto me) to the wthke of the temple: pee and loke what remayneth (which they p^r had oure matters in had in tymes past, haue not payed) p^r same shall they geue vnto them also. And besides all this, the f^rue thousande shyles which they toke yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary, shall belonge vnto the p^restres that do see p^ree.

Item, whosoever they be that fle vnto p^r temple at Ierusalem or within the libertie thereof, where as they are fallen into p^r kynges daunger for any manner of busynesse, they shall be pardoned and all the goodes that they haue in my realme, shal be free. For the buyldyng also and reparyng of the wthke of the Sanctuary, expences shal be geuen out of the kynges checker: Pee and for the makinge of the walles rounde aboute Ierusalem, for p^r breakyng downe of the olde and for the settinge vp of p^r stronge holdes in Iewry, shall the costes and charges be geuen out of the kynges checker.

hearde these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them, neyther receaued them: for they remembred the greates doctorednesse that he had done vnto Israell, and howe soe he had vndered them. Wherefore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a p^rince that had deale friendly wth them, and so they rode by hym all waye. * Then gathered kyng Alexander a greates host, and brought his armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges stroke battayle together, but Demetrius host fled, and Alexander folowed after and fell vpon them. A myghty foze felde was it, contynuyng till the Sonne wente downe, and Demetrius was slaync the same daye.

And Alexander sente ambassitours vnto Ptolomy the kyng of Egypte with these wordes, sayenge: For so much as I am come agayne to my realme, and am set in the throne of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynion, ouercomed Demetrius, conquered the lande, and streke a felde wth hym, so that we haue discomfited both hym and his host, and s^r in the throne of his kyngdome. Let vs now make frendshyppe together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy souerain lawe, and both geue the rewarde, and her greates bygnite. Ptolomy the kyng gaue answeare, sayenge: happy be the daye wherein thou arte come agayne to the lande of thy progenytours, and set in the throne of thez kyngdome. As now will I fulfill thy wthspinge: but mete me at Ptolomaies, that we maye se one another, & that I maye mary my daughter vnto the according to thy desire. So Ptolomy wente out of Egypte wth his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomaies in the Citie preare: where kyng Alexander met him, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, & married her at Ptolomaies with greates wthspinge, lyke as the manner of kynges is to be. The wthate kyng Alexander vnto Ionathas, that he shuld come and mete hym. So he wente honorably vnto Ptolomaies, and there he mete the two kynges, and gaue them greates p^rferences of golde and s^rluer, and founde fauour to thez lygdt. And there came together agaynst Ionathas certayne wycked men & vngenerous personnes of Israell, makinge complayntes of hym, but p^r kyng regarded the not. As for Ionathas, the kyng commaunded to take of his garmentes, and to clothe hym in purple: and to thez dyd. Then p^r kyng appoynted hym to s^r by hym, and sapde vnto his p^rinces: Go wth hym into p^r myddest of the cytie, and make a proclamation, that no man complayne agaynst him of any matter, and that no man trouble hym for any manner of cause.

So it happened, that when hys accusers sawe the woꝝdyppe which was proclaimed of hym, and that he was clothed in purple: they fied euerphome. And the kyng made moche of hym, wore hym amonge hys chefe friends, made hym a duke, and partaker of hys domynion. * This Jonathas went agayne to Ierusalem with peace & gladnes. In the xlvj. yere came Dmetri⁹ the sonne of Dmetrius frō Creta to hys fathers lande: wherof whē Alexander herde tell, he was ryght soꝝe, and returned unto Antioche. And Dmetrius chose * Apollonius, (whych had the gouernance of Celosyppa) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate hoost and came unto Iamnia, and sente word unto Jonathas the hys piete. sayng: Darrest y with stand vs thy self alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scorne and named, because thou pꝛoudest thy strength agaynst vs in y moontaynes. Now therfore, yf thou trustest in thynne awne strength, come downe to vs into the playne felde, and there let vs pꝛoue our strength together: thou shalt sꝛynde, that I haue valeaunt me of warre wth me and shalt knowe whō I am, and the other that stande by me.

Which saye, that your force is not able to stāde before oure face, for thy fathers haue bene to wise chaced fro thez aboue lāde. And now, how wylt y be able to abyde so greate an hoost of hostmen and foemen in the felde, where as is neyther rocke, nor coner place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas herd the woꝝdes of Apolloni⁹, he was moued i hys mynde: wherefore he chose sente thousand men, and wente out of Ierusalem, and Symon hys brother met hym for to help hym: And they plichted they: setes at Joppa, but y cytic keppe hym forth, for Joppa was an holde of Apollonius. When Jonathas layed sege to it, and they that were in the cytic, for verpsewe let hym in: and so Jonathas wanne Joppa. Apollonius hearinge of this toke thez thousande hostmen, with a greate hoost of foꝝe, and wente as though he wold go to Azotus, and came immediately to the playne felde: because he had so many hostmen, and put hys trust in thez. So Jonathas tolowed vpon hym to Azotus, and there they stroke the battaylle. Now had Apollonius sette a thousand hostme bepynde them pryncipally the setes. And when Jonathas knewe that such wayte was layed bepynde them, they went rounde aboute the eneymes hoost and shot darters at the people frō the moynge to the euenynge. As for Jonathas people, they kepte they: oꝝde as he had commaunded them, and the eneymes hoꝝes were euer labourynge.

Then bzought Tymon forth hys hoꝝt, & set them agaynst the foꝝe men. For the hoꝝt men were wery all ready. So he discomfited them, and they fled. And they that were scattered in the felde, gat the to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon thez. Doll, y they myght there saue they: lyues. But Jonathas let tye vpon Azotus and all the cyties rounde aboute it, and toke they: goodes and * burnt vp the temple of Dagon, wth all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and bent well nye. viij. th. men. So Jonathas remoued the hoost from thence, and bzought them to Ascalon: where the men of the cytic came forth, & met hym with greate woꝝdyp. After this wete Jonathas and hys hoost agayne to Ierusalem, with greate substaunce of good. And when kyng Alexander herde thez thynges, he thought to do Jonathas more woꝝdyppe and sent hym a colar of golde, as the wile is to be geuen vnto such as are of the kynges next bloude. He gaue hym also the cytic of Accaron (with the landes belongynge thereto) in possession.

The xi. Chapter.

The difference betweene Helonius and Alexander hys sonne in lawe. The breth of Alexander, Dmetrius raygneth after the breth of Helonius, & was so beloued of Jonathas. Dmetrius feigneth that no man resisted hym, leaueh by arminge apayle. Whych mooueth Helonius agaynst Dmetrius. Dmetrius is deuyled by the secresy of Jonathas. After hys deliquiance he bzakeh hys cownaunt that he had made.

And the kyng of Egypte gathered an hoost (lyke the lande that lyeth vnto y se) and many wyues: * & vnto aboute thownde of helocate to oꝝtayne y kyngdome of Alexander, & to loppe it vnto hys awne realme. Vnto this he toke hys iourney into Siria, & was lett into the cytic, and me came forth to mete hym: for kyng Alexander had commaunded them to do so, because he was hys father in lawe. Now whē Helonius entered into eny cytic, he lettenen of warre to kepe it, and this he dyd thownde out all the cities. And when he came to Azotus, * they shewed hym the temple of Dagon and Azotus that was bent vp, with the other thynges whych were destroyed, the deꝝ bodies cast abrode, & y graues that they had made by y waye syde, for such as were slayne in y felde. And tolde y kyng that Jonathas had done all these thynges, to ynter they might get hys euell wyl. But the kynge (saye not a woꝝde thereto. And Jonathas met the kyng with greate honoure at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke they: rest. So whē Jonathas had gone to y kyng vnto the woꝝce that was called Eleutherias, he turned agayne to Ierusalem.

Now

Howe Ptolomey had gotten the domynion of the cyties vnto Seleucia vpon y see const, pynninge wched counceils agaynst Alexander, and sent ambassitours vnto Demetrius, sayinge Come, let vs make a bond be-twixte vs, to quail I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt ragnye in thy fathers kynghome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my daughter, for the goeth about to slepe me. And thus he sleaundred Alexander, because he wolde haue had hys realme.

Thus he toke hys daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsooke Alexander, so that his malice was openly kno-wne. And Ptolomey cam to Antioche, where he set two crownes vpon hys awne head: the croune of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kynge Alexander in Cilicia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled agaynst him. But when Alexander herde of this, he came to warre agaynst hym. So kynge Ptolomey broughe forth hys hostes met hym with a myghty power, and chased him awaye. Then fled Alexander into Ar-aby, there to be defended, and kynge Pto-lomeys honour increased. And zabbidyl y Arabian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolomey. But the thyrde daye after, died kynge Ptolomey hym selfe: and whom he had left in the charge holdes, were slayne of those that were wythin the cyties. And Demetrius ragned in the hundred and seuen and thyrty peare.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathan the that were in Jewry, to laye sege vnto the castell whych was at Ierusalem, and so they made many instruments of warre agaynst it. Then wente there certayne vngodly personnes (whych hated their awne people) vnto kynge Demetrius, and tolde hym that Jonathas beseged the castell. So wofe he heard it, he was angrye, and immediatly came vnto Ptolomeys, and wroote vnto Jonathan, that he shoulde not laye sege to the castell, but come and spake with him in all the haste.
Nevertheless, when Jonathan herde this, he commaunded to besegge it. He chose also certaine of the elders and yestes of Israel, and put him selfe in the parril, and toke with him golde, syluer, clothyng, and diuerse presentes: & wente to Ptolomeys vnto the kynge, and founde hym graspyng.

And though certayne vngodly men of hys awne people made captaiues vpon him, yet y kynge increased hym, & lyke as hys predecessours had done before, and promoted hym in the syght of all his frenedes, cōfyrmed hym in the hys selfe with all y worthys he had afore, and made him hys chiefe frende. Jonathas also beseged the kynge, that he wolde make Jewry fre, & th the thre head cyties of Samaria and the landes pertaynyng ther-to: vpon this vnto Jonathan promysed hym this. Talentes. Where vnto y kynge cōfēted, & gaue Jonathan wytyng of the same, conteyning thele wordes: kynge Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto his brother Jonathan & to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a copy of the lettre whiche we dyd wyte vnto oure eldres Lathenus, concernynge you about ye shulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto Lathenus hys eldres. For the saythfulnes yout frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the louyng kynndes whiche they beare towarde vs: we are determyned to do the good. Wherefore we ordeyne all the coastes of Jewry with the cyties, Lyda & Isanatha (whych are added vnto Jewrye from Samaria) and all the landes pertaynyng there vnto, to be frely separated for soche as do sacrifice in Ierusalem: both concernyng the paymentes whiche the kynge toke yearly afore tyme, and the fentes also of the earth and treces. As for other tythes and tributes that belonged vnto vs, we discharge them ther of from this tyme forth. In like manner we graunte vnto them all the customes of salt and crowne taxes, whych were brought vnto vs. And this freedom shall they haue tyme and stedfast in this tyme forth for euermore. Therfore he that pe make a copy of these our lettres, and deliuer it vnto Jonathan: that it maye be kepte vnto the holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this, when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his lande was in rest, and that no respytall was made him: he sent awaye all his host, euery man to hys awne place, excepte an army of straungers, whiche he brought from the Isles of the Heathen, wherfore all hys fathers host had euell wylle at hym. *
Howe was there one Tryphon (that had beene of Alexanders parte afore) whych when he sawe that all y host murmured agaynst Demetrius: he wente to Eumelus the Arabian (that brought vnto Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye sege vpon hym, to de-liuer hym this yoge Antiochus: y he myght ragnye in hys fathers kede. He tolde hym also, what great euell Demetrius had done, and howe his men of warre loued him not: & so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathan sent vnto kynge Demetrius, to diuise them out whych were in the castell at Ierusalem, and in the other refuges, for they dyd Israel greates harme. So Demetrius sent wordes vnto Jonathan, sayinge: I wylle not only do thele thynges for y and thy people, but at tyme conuenient I wylle do both the and thy people great good. I But nowe thou shalt do me a pleasure, yf wylle sende me men to helpe me: for all myne as yet to goe from me. So Jonathan let him the thousand strong men vnto Antioche, & they came vnto hys kynge, wherefore the kynge was very glad at their comming. But they that were of the cytie (euen an hundred and twenty thousand men) gathered the together, and would haue slayne the kynge, which led into his court, and the cytelins kepte the streets of the cytie, and beganne to fyght.

Then the kynge called for the Jewes bel- pe, which came vnto hym all together, and wente abode thowoe the cytie, and slewe the same daye an hundred thousande men: set fyre vnto the cytie, gat many spoiles in that daye, and deliuered the kynge. So whē the cytelins sawe that the Jewes had gotten their will of the cyrie, & they them selues dis- appointed of their purpose, they made theyr supplication vnto the kynge, sayeng: Grant vs peace, and let the Jewes cease: for trou- bling vs and the cyrie, and vpon this they call awaye theyr weapons. Thus they made pence, and the Jewes gat great worshipp in the sight of the kynge, and in the sight of all that were in hys realme, and were spoken of thowoe out the kynngdome: and so they came agayne to Ierusalem with great goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius sat in the throne of hys kynngdome, and had peace in his lade. Neuerthelesse, he dyssembled in all that euer he spake, and wrothde woe hym selfe. So Jonathan, neither rewarded hym according to the benefites which he had done for him, but troubled hym very sore. After this came Tryphon agayne with yonge Antiochus, which ragged and was crowned kynge. Then they gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whō Demetrius had put awaye: these fought against Demetrius, which fled and turned his backe. So Tryphon toke the Elephantes, & wāne Antioche. And yōg An- tiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, sayng: I con- fyne the in thy pfectode, and make the ruler of thy countres, & thou mayest be a frede of the kynnges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue hym leue to dypple in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to weare a calar of golde, he made hys brother Symon alio captyne, frā the coastes of Egypt vnto the borders of Egypt. Then Jonathan to be his iourney, and wote thowoe the cyries beyonde the water of Jordane, & all the mē of warre of Syria gathered them vnto him for to helpe him. So he came vnto Afsalon, and they of the cyrie receaued hym hono- rably, and from thence wente he vnto Gaza, but they wolde not lett hym in: wherefore he laped sege vnto it, brennyng up and spoy- lyng the places that were aboute the cyrie.

And the cytelins of Gaza submitted the to Symon vnto Jonathan, which made peace w the, but toke of theyr soldiers to helpe; sent them to Jerusalem, and wente thowoe the countre vnto Babilonia. Howe whē Jonathan heerde that Demetrius pntes were co- me into Cades, which is in Galilee, with a greate host, purposing to put Demetrius out from medlyng in the realme, he came a- gainst them, and sette Symon hys brother in the lande, which came to Bersithes, and layed sege to it a longe season, and wisom- lyd the. So they despyed to haue peace with hym, wher he graunted them, and after- ward put them out from thence, toke the cy- tie, and lett men to kepe it. And Jonathan & his host came to the water of Gennesar, and by Symon in the mornynge gat them to the playne felde of Hozor.

And beholde, the hostes of the heathen met them in the felde, and layed watch for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathan came against them, the other, which were layed to watch, rose out of theyr places, and fought, and they that were of Jonathan fyde, fled euery man: and there was not one of them left, except Gharphias the son- ne of Abshalomus, & Judas the sonne of Cathi the captyne of the host. Then Jonathan rente his clothes, laped arched vpon hys head, made hys prayer, and turned agayne to the in the felde: where they fought to- gether, & he put them to flight. Howe whē he sawe me, that were fled, sawe they: they re- ued agayne vnto hym and helped him to fol- lowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their ten- tes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same daye the thousande men, and Jonathan turned agayne to Jerusalem.

Jonathan (which had a flower to the king and to the people of Sparta) remembereth the counsel of his brother Jonathan, and the people of Sparta, to fight the prince of Demetrius. Tryphon (which had Jonathan as a deute).

Jonathan sayng that Symon was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sent the vnto Rome for to sta- blysh & to reuue: & the second daye with the he sent letters also vnto Sparta, and to other places in the ma- ner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counnill, & sayde: Jonathan the hyr pfecte and the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you, for to reuue the olde feith hym and bonde of loue: wherby the Romanes gaue them five palpostes, that men shoulde lēde them home into the lade of Iuda peaceably. And this is the copy of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathan the hyr pfecte and the clergie, p- ters, & the other people of the Jewes, sende greetinge vnto the Spartians their brether. There were letters sente longe ago vnto Symon the hyr pfecte, to Arius, which than ragged that he sent you: that he ate once brethem: as the wytyngs made ther upon. Sue-deth: And thus entreated the embassisours that was sent. Honorably, and recei-ued the letters: where in there was mencyon made of the bonde of lone and frendshyppe.

25 But as for vs, we wude no suche wytynges: for why, we haue the booke booke of scripture in our handes to our comforte. Neuertheles, we had rather sende vnto you, for the remynge of the brotherhode and frendshyppe: for it shoulde be strynge vnto you: for it is longe, I wene the tyme yf ye sent word vnto vs. Wherefore in the scrip- tures that we offe and other testimonys vnto the hie solempne dayes and other, we alwaye remembre you without ceasinge (like as reason is, and as it becometh vs to thynke vpon our brethren) yee and are eght glad of youre pfofperous donoure.

And though we haue had great troubles and warres, so that the hynges abonde vs haue foughten against vs: yet wolde we not be greeuous vnto you, nes to other of our lo-uers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from brauen, so that we are belicued, and oure enemies subdued. Wherefore we chose Sumelius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to reue-the albe bonde of frendshyppe and loue with them. We comanded them also to come vnto you to salute you, and to beluey you oure letters, concerninge the renouacion of oure brotherhode. And now ye shall do right well, to geue vs an answer thereto vnto.

And thus is the copy of the wytyngs, which Arius the kynge of Sparta sent vnto Darius. Arius kynge of the Spartians sen-deeth greetynge vnto Darius the hie prest. It is founde in wytyngs, that the Spartians and Jewes are brethren, and come out of the generacy of Abraham. And nowe for so moch as this is come to oure knowledge, ye shall do well, to wyte vnto vs of youre prosperi-tye. As for vs, we haue wytted oure in-myte vnto you: Oure castell and goodes are poures, & poures oure. These thynges haue we commanded to be wrytten vnto you.

When Jonathan heard, that Demetrius prynces were come forth to fight agaynst him, with a greater booke therofore, he went from Jerusalem, and met them in the lande of Bethan, for he gaue thei noo space to come into his owne coltre. And he sent spyes vnto thei tentes, which came agayne and tolde him, that they were appoynted to come vnto him in the nyght season. Wherefore when the lunne was gone downe, Jonathan somma-unded his men to wache all the nyght, and so he ready to weapens for to fight: and for watchmen sounds aboute the host. But when the aduersaries heide that Jonathan was ready with his med to fight, they feared, and wete a frayden thei bettes, and spredde spyes in thei tentes, brake vp, and gat the awape. Neuertheles Jonathan and his copany knewe not till the morninge; for they sawe thei spyes burynge.

Then Jonathan followed vnto them, but he myght not ouertake them, for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jona-thas departed vnto Arabias (which was called Nabul) there the, and toke their good-bes. He proceedd further also, and came vnto Damascus, and wente thowoe all yf contre. But Sumus his brother hee tooke iourney and came to Alcalon and to the nexte strage holdes: departynge vnto Joppa, and wanne it. For he herde that they wolde adde of demetrius partye: wherefore he set me of warre in the cpte, to kepe it. After this came Jona-thas home agayne, and called the eldres of yf people together: and deuysed with them for to buyde by the strage holdes in Jewry, & the wallis of Ierusalem, to set vp an hie wall betwixt the castell and the cpte, for to separate it from the cpte, that it myght be alone, and that men shoulde neither bye nor sell in it.

Also this they came together for to buyde by the cpte, and for so moch as the wall vpon the hyke of the west syde (called Gaphetab) was fallen downe, they repaired it.
And Simon son of Abiadai in Sephelab, & made it strage settinge portes & lockes vnto it. Nowe when * Tryphon purposed to rap-me in Syria, to be crowned, and to shape the kynge Antiochus: he was afayred that Jona-thas wolde not suffre hym, but fought agaynst him. Wherefore he wente about to take Jonathan, and to kill hym.

So he departed, and came vnto Beth-san. Then wente Jonathan forth agaynst hym to the battayll with foure thousande chofen men, and came vnto Bethsan also.
But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came wth so greate an hoste to destroye him, he was afayred: and therfore he recei-ued him honorably, comitted him vnto all his frendes, and gaue hym rewardes, and commindeed his men of warre to be as obedians vnto him as to him selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathan: why hast thou caused this people to take such trouble, sepinge there is no warre betwixt vs? Therfore sende thei home agayne, and chole certayn men to wayte vpon the, and come thou me to Psofomans: for I will geue it yf, with the other strage holdes, men of warre and thei officers: As for me, I must depart, this is onely the aule of my admyng. Jonathan belueid him, and vnto as he sayde, puttynge an awape his host, which wente in to the lande of Iuda. He keppe but .iiij. by him, where king Erichon an holl of force men and boy-men into Galilee and into the grent playne felce, to destroye all Ionathas captayn. But when they knewe that Ionathas was take,

and all theye slypeth that was put upon him:
they rose counsell together, and came forth easly to the battayll. So when theye whych followed upon the, sawe that it was a ma-nace of lyfe, they turned backe agayne. And for the other, they wente into the lande of Iuda peacably, & bewailed Ionathas, and them that were with him by the force. And Ithael made grent lamentation. Then all the Heathen that were rounde aboute the, sought to destroye them. For they sayde: howe have they no captayn, nor any man to helpe the.
Therefore lett vs overcome them, and rote out their name from amonge men.

Ⓒ The Dig Chapter:

¶ After Jonas was taken. Simon se choſen captaine, of whom Triphon ſaith hee was chiefe and moſt for the redemption of Jonathas, helped hym and hys chylidren. The greas of Jona-thas. Triphon helpeſt Archdeacon, and poſſeſſeth the realme. Demetrius taketh truce with Simon.
Simon winneth Gaza. He poſſeſſeth the cōtry of ſepp. He maketh his ſonne John Cantane.

¶ When Simon heerde þe Triphon gathered a great houlde, to commiturthe lande of Jude, & to destroy it: And sawe that the people was in great fearfulnes and care: He came up to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortaciō, sayinge: Pe knowe what grente battayls I and my brethren, and my fathers house haue fought for the lawe and the Sanctuary, and what maner of troubles we haue bene: howe ocalgion wherof a all my brethren are layne for Israels sake, and I am left alone. And nowe lett not me spare myne owne lyfe in any maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethren: but will accept my people and the Sanctuary, oure chyliden and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together, to despoyle vs of very malice.

At their wordes the herdes of the people were handled together, so that they cryed a loud voice, sayinge. Thou shalt be our captaine in thende of Iudas and Iordanas thy brethren, orde thou our battell, & whatsoever thou commaundeſt vs, we will do it: So he gathered all the men of warre, manlynged harts to followe all the walls of Jeruſalem.

28 Then sent he Ionathas the sonne of Absa-Ionas with a fresh hoste vnto Toppa, which druue them out that were in the cabell, and remained there him selfe. Crispion also remoued from Belomaïs w a greate arme, to come in to the lande of Iuda, and Jona-thas w him in worde. And Simon pitched his tentes at Iddus before the playne felde.

But when Tiphon knewe that Salomon stood by in stee of his brother Jonathan, & that he wolde worse agaynste him: he sent messengers vnto hym, sayinge: Where as we haue kepte Jonathan thy brother, it is for money that he is owynge in the kynge's accompte, concerninge the buytyns he hath in hande. Wherefore sende now an c. talents of silver and six thousand for thytyns, that when he is litten forth he shall not forsake vs: and we shall sende hym agayne. Wherefore Salomon knewe, that he was begyled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money and chylidren to be deliuered vnto him: lest he shulde be g greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel: and saye, because he sent him not p money and the chylidren, therefore is Jonathan dead.

So Symon sent him the chyldren and all e hybher talents, but he blemished, & wolde not let Jonathan go. A ffre warden came Tri phton into the lande, to destroye it, and went rounde about by the wape, that ledeth vnto Aboz. But where soeuer they were, ehyther wete Symon and his hostes alle. A howe they that were in the castill, sent messengers vnto Triphton, that he shuld make haste to come by the wylderneesse, and to sende them vnto Aboz. And Triphton made ready all his hostes, to come that same nyght. Auerthe lesse it was a verye greate frowe, so that he came not in Cananidithim. And wote he be ware vnto Salschama, he serue Jonathan and his sonnes there, and then turned for to goo home into his wyne lande.

Then sente Symon for to let his brothers need coarfe, and burped it in Rodin by fathers cyste. So all Israel beweped hym w-threate lamentacion, and mouened for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the fe-lutchpe of his father and his brethre, a belypynghe ioye to loke vnto, of fre floure beynde and before, & set by leuf pylles, one agaynst another, for his father, his mother and sounge brethre, and let great pylles conde aboute, with armed vpon them for a perpetual memory, and earned Oppressen help the armes, that they myghte be sene of men caplinge in the see. Thys sepulchre which he made at Rodin, standeth yet vnto this daye.

¶ Howe as Typhon wet forth to walke w the ponge kynge Antiochus, he slewe hym trayterously, & raygned in his steade, crowned hym selfe kynge of Asia, and dyd much euill in the lande. Symon also builde by the castles

castles in Iewry, makinge the strong: toke hys towres, great wallis, portes and towres and layed vp dytaries in the strong holdes.
And Symon choise certaine men, & sent them to kynge Demetrius: to besyge him, that he wolde discharge the lande from all biddenge, for Ctesiphon had popleed it very soze. And vpon Demetrius the kynge answered him, and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth greetinge vnto Symon the hye priest hys frende, with the elders and people of y^e Jewes. The golden crowne and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receaved and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, yee and to wyte vnto oure officers, for to releafe you, concerninge the thynges wherun we made you fre: and the appoyntement that we made with you, shal be firme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylded, shal be your owne. As for eny ouersyght or fawte committed vnto this daie, we forgiue it, & the crowne tax that ye ought vs also. And where as was eny other tribute iⁿ Jerusalem, it shal now be no tribute: and loke who are mete among you to be in oure counte, let them be wyten vp, that there maye be peace betwixte vs.

E Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken from Israel, in the hundredth and thirtieth yeare. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in theyr letters & actes on this maner. * In the fiftieth yeare of Symon the hye priest, and prince of the Jewes.

¶ Mach. lxxv.

In those dayes went Symon vnto Gaza, and beseged it rounde aboute, where he set vp oppugnance of warre. And waite a to woe, which he toke. So they that gat in to the towre leaped into y^e cypre, which was in a greake seare: In so much that the people of the cite rente their clothes, and clyn-med vp vpon the walles with theyr wyues and chyldren besyng Symon to be at one with them sayinge.

O woe to vs not after oure wickednes, but be gracious vnto vs, and we shall do y^e seruice. Then Symon for very ppyte, wolde forgiue nomore agaynst them, but put them out of the cypre, and caused the howles (where in the Images were) to be clyed, and so cried the cypre with blasfemes of payle, ge-nyng thanches vnto the Lord. So when he had cast all abhominacions out of the cite, he set forth me in it as he kepte the lawe of God, and made the cypre stronge, and buylded a dwelling place for hym selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte to straitly, that they coulde nor come forth into the countrey, and myght neither bye nor sell: they were verghangrye, and many of them famished to death: In so much that they besought Symon to be at one with them, which he granted them. So he put them out from thence, and clyed the castell from falschynesse. And vpon the xxiii. daie of the seconde moneth in the C. lxxi.

yeare they entred into it with thanches ge-nyng and byaunches of palme trees, with barbes, crowdes, cymbals, and lutes, syngynge psalmes, and songes of payse vnto God, for that the greake chump of Ierusallem ouercome.

And Symon ordeynt, that y^e same daie shuld be kepte euery yeare in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyll of y^e temple that was beside the castell, where he dwelt hym selfe with his company. Symon also perceauing that Jhon his sonne was a myghtie man of armes, made him captayne of all the hostes and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

¶ The. lxxii. Chapter.

¶ Demetrius is overcome of Arfaces. Symon being captured there is greake quyetnes in Ierusalem. For the cause of frendship with the Idonians and with the people of Spacia is renewed.

In the C. lxxii. yeare gathered kynge Demetrius his host, and departed vnto to Media, to gett hym helpe for to fght agaynst Ctesiphon. Now when Arfa-ces the kynge of Persia and Media hearde, y^e Demetrius was entred with in hys borders:
he sent one of his princes to take hym alnye:
and to byngne hym vnto hym. So he wone and slewe Demetrius hoste, toke hym selfe, brought hym to Arfaces, which kepte hym in ward. And all the lande of Iuda was in rest, so longe as Symon lyued, for he sought the wealth of his people, therefore were they glad to haue hym for theyr ruler, and to do hym wofull wyse all waye.

Symon wane the cite of Joppa also for an haue towne, and made it an entrance in to the fles of y^e sec. He enlarged the borders of his people, and coquered them more land: he gathered vp many of theyr people that were prisoners: he had the dominion of Gaza, Bethsura and the castell, wher he clyed from falschynesse, and there was no man that resisted him: So that euery man tyld hys grounde in peace, the lande of Iuda and y^e the trees gaue their fruite and increase. The elders sat all in iudgement, and toke theyr deuice for the wealth of the lande: the yonge men put on wofull wyse and barmesse vpon the.
he prouided bysalles for the cypres, and made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of hys wofull wyse was spoken of vnto the ynde of the world. * For he made peace thowout the land, and Israel was full of myght and lope.

* Mach. lxxvi.
¶ Mach. lxxvii.

¶ Every man sat vnder his vyne and figg trees, and there was no man to crape them come. he helpe those that were in aduersity among his people, he was biligent to se þe lawe keepe: as for those that were vngodly ad wycked, he toke them awaye. he set vp the Sanctuare, and encreased the holy vessels of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Sparciaus had gotten woide, that Ionathas was dead they were right soye. But when they hearde that Symon his brother was made hye priest in hys kinde, & how he had wonne the lande agayne with the cities in it: they wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to reuue the freddyng and bonde of loue, which they had made afore wyth * Judas and * Ionathas hys brethren. Which writings were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the cōpy of the lēttres, that the Sparciaus sent: The Senatours and citizinges of Sparta sende greting vnto Symon the great priest, with the elders, prestes, & the other people of the Jewes their brethren: When your ambassytours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your worshippe, honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of theyr cōmynge, and haue wyrtten the carande which they spake before the councell of the people: namely, that Summing the sonne of Antiochus, And Antipater þe sonne of Jason þe Jewes ambassytours are come vnto vs, for to reuue the olde freddyng with vs. Upon this the people consented, that the men shuld be honoably interceded, and that the cōpy of theyr carande shulde be writte in the speciall booke of the people, for a perpetuall memoery vnto þe Sparciaus: yee and that we shulde sende a cōpy of the same vnto Symon þe great priest. After this dyd Symon sende summinges vnto Rome, wth a golden shylde of a thousande pounde weight, to confirme the freddyng wth the which when þe Romaynes understode, they sayde: What thacker shall we receyue agayne vnto Symon & his chylde? For he hath stablished his brethren, & ouercome þe enemies of Israel. Wherefore, they granted him to be free. And all this wrote þe Jewes in tables of brasse, & naped it vnto pillars vpon þe mounte Syon. The cōpy of the wyrtynge is this.

The xviij. daye of þe moneth * Chul in the xliij. yere in þe third yere of Symon þe hye priest, in þe great cōgregacion the prestes, rulers of þe people, & elders of þe cōntre at Astarame, were these wordes openly declared.

For to moche as there was moche warre in our land, therefore Symon the sonne of Mathathias (come of the chyldren of Iared) and his brethren put them selues in perrell, and resisted the enemies of theyr people: þe theyr Sanctuare & lande myght be mapnteyned, and dyd theyr people great worship: Ionathas in lyke maner, after that he had gouerned hys people & bene their hye priest: dyd, and lēth buried besyde hys elders.

After that wold theyr enemies haue trodden their holy thynges vnder fote, destroyed their lande, and utterly waisted their Sanctuare. Then Symon withstode them, and fought for his people, spelt moche of hys owne money, weapened the valeiant men of hys people, gaue them wagges, made stronge the cyties of Iuda, wyth Bethlura that lēth vpon the borders of Ierusalym (where the ordinaunce of theyr cōmynge laye contynue) and set Iewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Ioppa also, which lēth vnto þe see, & Gaza that doydeth vpon Ierusalym (where þe enemies dwelt afore) & there he set Iewes to kepe it: and whatsoeuer was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaries, þe layed he therein. Now wth the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, & what worshippe, he purposed to do for the, his goodly behauiour, & faithfulness which he kepte vnto the, and how he fought by all wayes þe wealth of his people, because he dyd all this, therefore they chose him to be theyr prync & hye priest. And in his tyme they prospered well by him, so þe heathen were takē out of theyr lande: theyr also which were in captiue of Dauid at Jerusalem in the castell (where they were out and despyled all thynges that were about the Sanctuare, & dyd greate harme vnto cēclynes) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cytie, and set by the walles of Jerusalem.

And kynge Demetrius confirmed hym in this hye priesthode, made him his frēde, & dyd him great worshippe. For he herde that the Romaynes called the Jewes theyr frendes, louers & brethren: how honoably they receaued Symons ambassytours: how the Jewes & prestes consented that he shulde be theyr prync & hye priest perpetuall (till God rased vnto the true prophet) & that he shulde be theyr captayne, to care for the Sanctuare, & to set officers vpon the watches thereof, ouer þe land, ouer the weapens, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouision for the holy thynges, & to be obeyed of every mā, & all þe wyrtynge of the land to be made in hye name: þe he shulde be clothed in purple & golde, & that it shulde be laful for none of the people nor prestes to bryake any of these thynges, to wth stande his wordes, nor to call any cōgregacion in the land without him: that he shulde be clothed in purple, & weare a collar of gold: And yf they were any wyth disobeyed, or bryake this ordinaunce, þe he shulde be punyshed.

So all the people consented to allowe Symon, and to do accordyng to these wordes: Symon also him self toke it vpon him, and was contente to be þe hye priest, the captayne and prync of the Jewes and prestes, and to gouerne gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wytyng in tables of brasse, and fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuare in an open place: and to laye vpon a copp of the same in the treasury, that Symon & his posterite myght haue it.

¶ The .xv. Chapter.

¶ Antiochus maketh a covenante of frendshipp with Symon, & scripbe is perswaded. The Monarches wryte letters vnto kynge and natione in the beate of the Jewes. Antiochus resynge the helpe that Symon lent hym, bycause he couenaunt.

Mour, kynge Antiochus & sonne of Demetrius sent letters fro & to the see, vnto Symon & his people concerninge the wordes: Antiochus & kynge sendeth gretteing vnto Symon the hye priest and to the people of the Jewes. For so much as certayne wicked men haue garten & kynge dome of oure progenitors. I am purposed to chalenge & recalle agayne, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherefore I haue gathered a great host, & made shippes of warre: I maye goo thorough the countre, & be auenged of the which haue destroyed oure land, and wasted manye cities in my realme. And therefore now I make the free also fro all the tributes, wherof al thinges my progenitors haue discharged & and fro other customes wherfro they haue released: & whatsoeuer they be: I geue I leaue to synthe money of thynne wone win thy lande. As for Ierusalem, I wyl that it be holy and free: all the weapes and boulers of defence which thou hast buylded & kept in thine habes, shall be thynne. Whereas eny thing is or shall be omyng vnto the kynge, I forgue it & fro this tyme forth for curemore. And whē we haue oportunityn our kingdom, we shall do & thy people and the temple great worshippe: so & your honoure shall be knowen thorow out the whole world.

25 In the .Cxxviii. yere wente Antiochus into his fathers lande, & all the me of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe were left wth Tryphon. So & kynge Antiochus followed vpon hym, but he fled vnto Doza, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe & there was muche comming vnto him, & that his host had forsake him. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza with an hundredth and thertie thousande me of armes vpon foote, & cyght thousande horseme. So he compassed the cite rounde about, so & shippes came by the see. Thus they besied the cite by land & by water, in so much & they suffered no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came * Numentius (a they that had bene with him) from the cite of Rome, hauinge letters wrytten vnto the kynge and prynces, wherein were cōteyned these wordes: Lucius & Appye of Rome sendeth gretteing vnto Iherolom & kynge. The embassitours of the Jewes our frendes beynge sent from Symon the hye priest and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to renewe the olde frendshipp, and bonde of loue, brought a shylde of golde weryng a thousande pounde, which we were contented to receaue of them. Wherefore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynge and prynces, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynst them, they cytes ner countrees, neither to maintene their enemies agaynst the. If there be eny wycked persones therfore, fled from the countre vnto you, deliuer the vnto Symon the hye priest, that he maye punish them according to the lawe laide.

The same wordes wrote the Monarches also vnto Demetrius & kynge, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces & to all regions: as Samanians, to the of Sparta, Delo, Mido, Silo, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Lycia, Icartanallum, & to the Rhodes, to Scalcia, Coo, Sidia, Araba, Gozina, Synodii, to Cyprus and to Cyren. And of euery letter they sent a copy to Symon & his people and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge brought his host vnto Doza & seconde tyme to take it: where he made diuerse ordynance of warre, & kepte Tryphon, that he shuld not come forth. The sent Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to help him with gold, syluer and other pleyntous geere: Peruerthelisse, he wolde not receaue them, but brake all & couenaunt which he made wth Symon afore, & withdiwe him self fro him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Symon, for to reason with him, saying: Ye withholde frome Ioppa & Gaza, with the castell that is at Ierusalem, which are cities of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed, & done greatesell in the lande, by laying the dominacion in many other places of my kynge dome. Wherefore deliuer now & cities which ye haue taken, with & the places of the places that ye haue rule vpon withoute & borders of Iewy: Or els geue my kynge li bryth talentes of syluer, yere and for & haue that ye haue done in & cities & for the tributes of & same, other tyme hundredth talentes. If no, we shall come and fight agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynge frende came to Ierusalem, & whē he sawe the great worshippe and honoure of Symon in gold, syluer & so great plenty of ornaments: he marvelled, and tolde Symon as & his kynge commaunded hym. Then answered Symon and sayd vnto hym: * As for vs, we haue neither sakes order mens lades, ner withholde rik, but onely oure fathers heritage, which oure cūmes had vnto us by right in possession a certayne tyme. This heritage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou couldest concerning Iop-pi and Gaza, thep dyd great harme to oure people and in oure lande, yett wyl we geue

Euertheles Athenobius answered hym not one word, but turned agayne wrothfully vnto the kyng, & tolde him all these wor-des, and the great bignesse of Symon, with all that he had sene, and the kyng was de-ceyued. In the meane tyme hee & Tryphon by thyspe vnto Ptolemyda. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captayne of the see coast, & gaue him an host of fote men and horsemen, commaundynge him to remoue the host to-warde Jewry, and to buyde vp the ctyte of Cedron, to make vp the portes, and to war-re agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng hym selfe, he followed vpon Tryphon.
So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, and be-ganne to erre the people, to treade downe Jewry, to take p people prisoners, to slaye them, and * to buyde vp Cedron: where he sette horsemen and other men of warre, that they inight come forth and go thowow the streets of Jewry, lyke as the kyng had commaunded hym.

C The. xvi. Chapter.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoste is put to flight at the tyme of Symon Betolomus & sonne of
John baptyste them that he in wastre for hys life.

When came Ihou by from * Gaza, and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebeus had done amonge theyr people. Vpon this called Symon two of hys eldest sonnes, Judas and Iohn, and sayd vnto them: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer fied our yowth vp vnto this daye, foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel, and God gaue vs good fortune to deli-uer Isracell off tyme. And now for so much as I am olde, be ye in steade of me & my brother, to go forth and fyght for oure people, & the helpe of God be with you. So he chose xx. fighting men of p countrie, with host-men also, which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Jadin.

In the moorning they arose, and went to the playne felde: and beholde, a myghty great host came agaynst them, both of fote men and horsemen. Now was there a water brooke betwyxe them, and Iohn remoued p host towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was afraied to goo ouer the water brooke, he wente ouer fyrst hym selfe: and the men folowe this, followed hym.

25 Then Iohn set his horsemen and fote men in orde, the one by the other, for theyr enemies horsemen were very many. But when they blew vnto the pfectes from pettes, Cendebeus fled to his holte, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunt gat them to thep stronge holde. Judas also Ithons brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Iohn followed still vpon the enemyes, till he cam to Cedron: which he buyded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towres that were in the felde of Ithous, and those dyd Iohn burne vp. Thus there were slayne. ii. M. men of them, and Iohn turned agayne peaceably into Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolemy the sonne of Ithobus made captayne: which because he had aboundance of syluer and golde: for he had married p daughter of Symon p hys prest: was proude in hys myn-de, and thought to conquere the lande, pmagnering falsed agaynst Symon and his son-nes, to destrope them. Now as Symon was goynge aboute thowow the ctytes, that were in the countrey of Jewry, and earyng for the:
he came downe to Jericho with Hattabath and Judas his sonnes, in the. Cxxviij. yere in the. xi. moneth called * Sabat. The Ptolemy the sonne of Ithobus receaued the: (but with disceate) into a stronge house of hys called Woch, wherch he had buyded, where he made them a bancket.

So when Symon and hys sonnes were mery and had dycked well, Ptolemy rode vp with hys men (whom he had hys brother) and toke thei weapyns, entred into p ban-cket house, and slewe Symon with his two sonnes, and certayne of his seruantes. Such great vnfaythfulnesse dyd Ptolemy in Israel, and recompensed euell for good. Then wrote this Ptolemy p same vnto Iyng An-tiochus, requyringe him, that he shuld sende hym an host to helpe him: and so shuld belyuer hym the lande, with the ctytes and tributes of the same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Ithobus: and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him, and he shuld geue them syluer, golde and rewarde. And to Ierusalem he sent orber, to take it, & the Sanctuary.

Then ranne there one before, and tolde Ithob in Gaza, that his father & his brethren were slayne, & how that Ptolemy had sent to slaye hym also. When Ithob herde this, he was soze abashed, and layed handes of them that were come to destrope hym, and slewe them: for he knewe, that they went aboute to kyll hym.

As for other thynges concerning Ithob: of hys warres, of hys noble actes (wherth he behaued hym selfe manfully) of the buydinge of walles which he made, and other of his dedes: They are wrytten in the cronicles of hys presthode, from the tyme forth that he was made hys prest after hys father.

The first Chapter.

An epistle of the brethren that dwelt at Jerusalem sent vnto them which dwelt in Egypt, where in they exhorted them to giue thanks for the death of Antiochus. And the style that was hyde in it ppe. The prayer of Bertheina.

The brethren of the Iewes which be at Jerusalem, and in the lande of Iewry, vnto those brethren of the Iewes that are thorow out Egypt: good fortune, health and peace.

God be gracious vnto you, and thynke vpon his covenent that he made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob his faithfull seruantes: * and giue you all such aid here, that ye maye loue and leue him, pee and yf our time hys will withan whole herte and of a wyllynge mynde: he open poure hertes in hys lawe and in hys commendementes, sende you peace: heare poure prayers, be at one with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here our prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius reigned, in þe clxxx. yere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after that Jason departed oute of the holy lande and kynngdome, they hent vp the portes, shed innocent bloude. Then made we our prayer vnto the Lorde, and were hearde: we offered: and lygheted the candels, setting forth cohes and bier. * And now come ye vnto the feaste of tabernacles in the moneth of Calen.

In the clxxxviii. yere, the people that was at Jerusalem and in Iewry, the counsell and Judas hym selfe, sent this wholsome salutation vnto Aristobolus kynge þo lxxxviii. yere, which came of the generaciõ of the anoynted prestes: and to the Iewes that were in Egypt: In so moche as God hath deliuered vs from grente perils, we thanke hym hyslye. In that we respyed to myghtie a kynge. And wher he brought me out of Persia by heapes, to fyght agaynst vs and the holy cite. For as he was in Persia, namely, the Captayne wth the grente host he persued in the temple of Meneas, beyng disceined thorow the deuice of Menes prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there, Antiochus and hys frendes came thither, to recraue moche money for a dowry. So wher Meneas prestes had laped forth the money, he entred with a small company into the compasse of the temple, ad so they cut the temple.

stoned the captayne to death, bewed the in pence that were wth hym, smote of theyr heades, and threwe them out. In al thinges God be prayed, wher he hath deliuered the wycked into our handes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe the purification of the temple wth the xlv. daye of the moneth Calen, we thought necessary to certifie you therof: that ye also myghte * Repe the tabernacles feast daye, ad the daye of the style. Wher was geuen vs when Nehemias offered, after that he had cut vp the temple and the aulter. For what tyme as our fathers were led awaye vnto Persia, the prestes (wher they sought the honour of God) toke the style pynciply fro the aulter, and hyd it in a balley, where as was a depe dypt: and therein they kept it, so that the place was unknowne to euery man. Now after many yeres when it pleased God that Nehemias shoulde be sent from the kynge of Persia, * he sent the chyldren chyldren of those prestes (which had hyd the style) to seke it. And as they tolde vs they founde no style, but thicke water. The commaunded he them to drabe it vp, a to bring it hym, and the offerings withal. Now wher the sacrifices were laped on and ordred, the prest Nehemias commaunded to spynckle them and the wod wth water. After this was done, ad the tyme came that the shewme shone, which afore was hyd in the cloude: there was a grent style pyndled. In so moche that euery man marueled. Now all the prestes prayed, wher the sacrificer was a makinge. Jonathan prayed first, and the other gaue answere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lorde God maker of all thynges thou fearfull and stronge, thou ryghteous and mercifull, thou that art one: a gracious kynge, onely lyberall, onely iust, Almyghty and euellastynge, thou that deliuerest Israel from al trouble, thou that hast chosen the fathers and halowed them: recraue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel, preserve thyn a wne porcion, and haue it, gather those together, that are scattered abrode from vs: deliuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpo the wher they are despyled and abhorred, that the heathen maye knowe and se how that thou art our God: brynke them that appresse, and prouidy put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place: * the as wher they had spoken.

And the prestes songe psalmes of thanksgyng, so long as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was bent, Nehemias commaunded the grete bones to be spynckled wth the residue of the water. * Which wher it was done, there was a shewme ad led a flame of them also: but it was consumed thozodoe p' p'p'te, that spined from the altar. So when this matter was knowne, it was tolde p' hynde of Beria, p' in the place where p' p'p'te, which were led awaye, had hyph'p'te, there appeared water in steade of fyre, and that Rehennias & his company had purposed the sacrificees withall. Then the hynde conspyringe & ponderinge the matter diligently, made hym a temple to proue the thyng that was done. And when he founde it so in deir, he gaue the priestes many gyftes & diuerse rewardes, yee, he toke them with his winc had and gaue them. And Rehennias called p' same place Scythar, which is as much to saye as a clem'spyng: but many men call it Scythi.

¶ The .ii. Chapter.

In this is founde also in the wytynges of Jeremye the prophet, that he commaunded them which were caried awaye, to take fyre. * as it is sayde afore. * he commaunded them also, that they shuld not forget the lawe and commaundmentes of the Lorde, and that they shulde not erre in theyr myndes, when theye spake of silver and golde with theyr ornaments. These and such other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, that they shulde not lett the lawe of God go out of theyr mouthe.

It is wyrtten also, how the prophet (at the commaundment of God) charged them to take the tabernacle, & the arcke w' them: and he wente forth vnto the mountayne, where Moyses clymbed up, & sawe the heretage of God. And when Jeremye came there he founde an open caue, wherein he layed the tabernacle, the arcke, & the altare of incense, and so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowynge hym, to marke the place, but they coulde not fynde it. Which when Jeremye perceaued, he repproved them, sayng: As for p' place, it shal be unknowne, vntill the tyme p' God gather his people together agayne, & receaue them vnto mercy. Then said God vnto them thele thynges, & the maistie of the Lorde shal appere, & p' cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moyses: and lyke as when Salomon despyed, that the place myght be sanctified, and it was thewed hym.

For he being a wyle man, handled honorably & wysely, offeringe vnto God in the vntowynge of the tēple, when it was finished. * And lyke as whē Moyses prayed vnto the Lorde, the fyre came downe from heauen, & consumed p' burnt offeringe: Euen so prayed Salomon also, * and the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt-offeringe. And Moyses sayd: because the offeringe was not eaten, therefore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the be-tyncapoz (or halowynge) p'p'te dapes.

In the Annotations and wytynges of Jeremye, were these thynges put also: and how he made a lybary, and how he gathered out of all countreies the booke of the prophetes, of Dauid, the Psalms of the hymnes, and of the psalmes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he learned by experience of water, and soche thynges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them all together, and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desyre to haue the same, sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Wher as we then are aboute to celebrate the purgification, we haue wyrtten vnto you. Therefore p' that do wel, p'p'te kepe the same dapes. We hope also, that the God (whych deliuered hys people, and gaue them al the heretage, kyngdome, priesthode and sanctuary * that he promysed them in the lawe) shal shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together frō vnder the heauē into his holy place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath clemished the place.

As concerninge Judas Mithabeus and hys brethren, the purgification of the great temple, the dedication of the altare, yee, and of the vares that concerne noble Antiochus and Eupator his soune, of p' hyph'nges that came downe from heauē vpon those, which manfully defended the Iewes. For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole land: drove awaye the enemyes host, recovered agayne the tēple, that was spoken of thozodoe out all the woode deliuered the cytye, doryng theyr best, that the lawe of the Lorde which was put downe, myght wyth all tranquylite be restored agayne vnto the Lorde, that was so mercifull vnto the. As touchynge Iason also of Cyren, we haue undertaken compendiously to bring into one booke, the thynges that were comprehended of hym in fyue. For we conspyringe the multitude of the booke, and howe harde it shulde be for them that wolde medle with stozies & actes (ad that because of so diuerse matters) haue undertaken to to comprehend the laces: that soch as are disposed to reade myght haue pleasure & paynme therein: and that they wyche are diligēte in soche thynges, myght the better thincke vpon them: yee and that whosoeuer reade them, myght haue profit therby.

Neuerthelesse, we our selues that haue medled with this matter for the woerteninge of it haue taken no smal labour, but great diligence, watchynge and traupale. Lyke ofter men pleasure: & so we also (for many mens salues) are verp well cōfēt to take the labour, where as we maye shortly comprehende, the thynges that oter men haue truly wyrtren.

For he þy supderth an house anewe, must dyng: but he that paynteth it afterwarde, ly seke out of euery parte: But he that afterwarde will shopen it, useth few wordes, & toucheth not the matter at the largest. Let thys be sufficient for a Prologe, now wyll we begiue to thewe the matter: for it is but a folpy thyng to make a longe Prologe, & to be shewen in the story it selfe.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

¶ Of the honour don: vnto the temple by the knyghtes of the scyptures. Simon betwex what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sent to take them awaye. He is deueyn of God, & beate at the prayer of Onias.

but tyme as the holy cyte was inhabited i all peace & wealthe, and whē the lawes were yet very well kepte. For so was it or-deyned by Moyses þy pte & oter godly me þy were euerys to wyked-nesse. It came therto, that eue the kynges a prynces the felous opd the place great worthyppes, & garnysed the temple with greate gyftes. In so much that Seleucus kyng of Asia of his awne rentes, bare all the costes belongyng to the seruice of the offerynges.
Then * Simon of þy tribe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of þy temple, laboured to worche some mylchefe i þy cite: but þy pte resistid hi.
¶ Neuertheles when he myght not ouer-come Onias, he gat hym to * Apollonius þy sone of Cheris (whych the was chefe Lord i Celosyria and Phenicia) and tolde hym, þy the treasury in Jerusalem was full of inumerable money, & how that the comd goo-des, whych belonged not vnto the offerynges, were exceeding greate also: yee & how it were possible, that all thes myght come vnder the kynges powe.

Now when Apollonius had shewed the þynges of the moneye, as it was tolde hym: þyng called for Heliodorus his seruarde, & sent hym with a commandement, to bring hym the same money. Immediately Heliodorus toke hys iourney, but vnder a colour, as though he wolde go thowen Celosyria and Phenicia to vied þy cytes, but hys purpose was to fulfill the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, ad was soupygly receaued of the hie pte into the cyte: he tolde what was determyned concernyng the moneye, and shewed the cause of hys coming: he asked also, yf it were lo i dede. & he the hie pte tolde him, that there was such money layed vp for the vpholdinge of wynddowes and fetherlesse chyldren, & how that a certayne of it belonged vnto hyz can? To bius a noble man: and that of al the monie (whych þy wyched Simon had bewayed) there were. iiii. hundred talentes of spynar, & ii. hundred of golde: yee and that it were impossible for those mens meanyng to be disceaued, that had layed vp thes money in þy place and temple (whych is had in worthy thowen the whole world) for the mapute-naunce and honour of the same. After vnto Heliodorus and wored, that the kyng had commaunded hym in any wyse, to bypne hym in the money.

So at the daye appoynted, Heliodorus entred into the temple to orde thes matter.
But there was no small feare thowen out þy whole cyte. The bysters fell downe before the altier in thes vestimētes, and called vnto heauen vpon hi. * whych had made a lawe concernyng suffer geun to herp, that they shulde be safelye persured for soch as comitte the vnto keepyng. Then who so had loked the hie pte in the face, it wold haue griued hys herte: for hys countenaunce and the chaungyng of his colour, declared the inward sorowe of hys myde. The mā was all in heuynesse, and his body in feare: wber-by they that loked vpon hym, myght preceaue þy grete of his herte. For oter people also came out of thes houses by heapes vnto þy comon prayer because þy place was lyke to come into confusyon. The wynt came together thowen þy bysters, with hearey clothes about thes bysters.

The byrgens also that were hepte i rāne to Onias, some in the walls, oter some loked out of the wyndowes: yee they all heide vp thes handes towarde heauen, & prayed.
A miserable thyng was it, to loke vpon the comen people, & the hie pte byng in soch trouble. But they beought almyghty God that the goodes whych were comyted vnto them, myght be kepte whole, for those þy had deluyred the vnto thes keepyng. Ne-uertheles the thyng that Heliodorus was determined to do, that performed he i the same place, he hym selfe personally beynge about the treasury with hymen of warre.
But þy spere of almyghty God shewed him selfe opely, so that all they which presumed to obeye Heliodorus, fell thowen the power of God into a greate fearfulness and drede.

* For there appeared vnto them an hoyle, & a terrible man spryng vpon hym, deckt in goodly arape, and the hoile smote at Heliodorus wyth hys foze fete. Now he that sat

So Heliodorus offered unto God, made great vows unto him, which had granted him his life, thanked Diana, toke his hoost & wife againe to the kinge. Then testified he unto every man of the great workes of God, that he had bene his eyesee. And whyle the kinge & his Heliodorus who were come to be: sent pre againe to Jerusalem, he sayde: yf thou hast any enemy, or aduersary unto thy realme, sende him thither, & thou shalt haue hym punished, yf he escape with his life: for in that place (no doute) there is a speciall power & workings of God. For he y dwelleth in heauen, visitteth & defendeth y place: all that come to do him harme, he punisheth all they that do him. This is now the matter concerning Heliodorus, & the keping of the treasurie at Jerusalem.

¶ This Symon now* (of whō we spake

iii. c. charchar of splure for an offeringe to hercules. These had they y carped them debyzed vnder such a falshe, as though they shulde not haue bene offered but bestowed to other vices. Neuertheles, he that sent them, sent them to the inette that they shulde be of freed vnto hercules. But because of chole þ were present, they were geuen as to the ma-kinge of Cypres. And Apollonius the sonne of Mellesus was sent into Cypre, because of the noble men of hyngre Idolompy þhy lomecoz. Now when Antiochus perceaued, that he was put out from medlyng in þ realme, he sought his a tyme pofpse, departed from thence, came to Ioppa, & then to Ieru-salem: where he was honorably receaued of Jason, & of þ egypte, & was brought in wth to the lpygt and wth greete papse: and so he turned his hood vnto þ enices.

¶ After. iii. yere Jason sent Menelaus, the fozefayre of his brother, * to beare þ money vnto þ hyng, & to byngre hym answere of other necessary matters. But he (whē he was prayed of the kyng for magnifying of his powber) turned þ pcelthod vnto him self, layinge vp. iii. c. talentes of splure for Jason. So whē he had gotten commaundement from the kyng (he came haupnge nothinge þ becometh a pesse) but beauringe þ stomack of a cruel tyaut, & þ wpat of a wilde byute beest. * The Jason (whych had disceaued his a tyme by other) seeinge that he him selfe was begged also, was sayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites, & Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for þ money þ he had promised vnto þ hyng, he byd nothinge therein, when Sostratus the ruler of the castell requyred it of him. For Sostratus was þ msk that gathered the customes: wherefore they were both called before þ hyng. Thus was Menelaus put out of the presthode, & Lpymachus his brother came in his steade. Sostratus also was made Lord of þ Cypriass.

¶ It happened in the meane season, that þ ¶ Charitas & Mallacius made insurrection, because they were geuen for a present vnto hyngre Antiochus cocubyne. Then came the kyng in all the haste, to spyll them agayne, & to pacifie þ matter, leauyng Andronicus there to be his deuyte as one mere therfore.
Now Menelaus suppoling that he had gotten a ryght conuenient tyme, toke certayne vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue them to Andronic^s for a present: & some he solde at Cyprus and in the cyries therby.

¶ Which when Onias knewe of a suretye, he repproued him: but he kepte him in a Sanctuary beside Daphnis, that lieth by Antio-che. Wherefore Menelaus gat hi to Andronicius, & prayed hi þ he wold slaye Onias.

So whē he came to Onias, he coiled him in craftely to come out of the Sanctuary ge-uynge hym his hande with an othe (how be it he suspecte hym) & then he sleth Onias, wthout any regarde of rpyghuousnesse.

¶ For the whych cause not only the Jewes, but other nacjons also toke indignacion, & were displeased for the vngpyghuous death of so godly a man.

¶ And when the kyng was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayne of þ Gekes wente vnto hym, cōplaininge for the vngpyghuous death of Onias. Pre An-tiochus him selfe was sozr in þys mynde for Onias, so that it ptyed him, & he wepte, remembryngre his sobrenesse & manerly beha-uoure. Wherefore he was so kyndled in þys mynde, that he comaunded Andronicus to be strypped out of his purple clothyng, & so to be led thowt out the cite: yee, & the vngtracō^s man to be slayne in the same place wher he had committed his wickednes vnto Onias. Thus the Lord rewarded him his unpynkne, as he had deserued. Now when Lpymachus had done many wicked dedes in the temple thowt to the counsell of Menelaus, and the woyce came abrode: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lpymachus: for he had carped out now mochy golde.

¶ So when the people arose, and there full of dyspleasure, Lpymachus armed. iii. w vnto thys to defende hym: a certayne tyau-ant begyn thez capayne, which was gro-wen both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lpymachus, some gat stones, some good strōge clubbes, & some cast althes vnto Lpymachus ¶ Thus there were many of the wounded, some beynng slayne, & al þ other chaced awaye.
But as for the wycked churchrobber hym selfe, they applyd hi besyde the treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a courte agaynst Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Cyprus, they made a compla-ynce vnto him of Menelaus, concerning this bynnesse, and the ambaspours were thic.
But Menelaus wēt & promised Idolompy, to geue hym much money, yf he wolde persuade þ hyng. So Idolompy wēt to the big into a courte: where as he was sett to coole hym) & brought hym out of þ mynde. In so moch that he discharged Menelaus fro the ged innocent, them he condemned to death.

honorably. And so thozow þe courtousnesse of them that were in power. Menelaus remayned still in authority, increasynge in malice, to the hurte of the cittyngs.

¶ The v. Chapter.

¶ The hygne and tokeus were in Jerusalem. ¶ the me and abenes of Jason. ¶ the pursute of Antiochus agayn the Jewes. ¶ the spoyle of the temple.

At the same tyme Antioch^{us} made hym ready to go agayne into Egypte. The were there sene at Jerusalem. xi. dayes longe, hoysme, runnyng to and fro in the apye, whych had raptme of golde, & speered. There were sene also whole hoodes of men weakened, and hoyses runnyng in an ordie, how they came together, how they helde forth theyr wyldes, how the harnessed men dyed out theyr swarbes, and shotte their darters.

The hygne of the golden weapens were sene, and of all manner of armure. Wherfore every man prayed, that thole tokes myght turne to good. Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a ¶ men, and came suddenly upon the ctye. The cittyngs ran into the walls, at the last was the citie taken. ¶ Menelaus fled into the castell.

As for Jason, he spared not his awne cittyngs in the slaughter, neither considered he what greute euell it were, to destroye þe posterite of his awne kynsmen: but yd as one that had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of hys frenedes. for all this gatt he not the superuizite, but at þe last receaued cōfysion for hys malice. * and fled agayne lyke a vagabunde into the lāde of the Ammonites.

Finally, for a rebwarde of his wyckednesse he was accused before Acetyn the kyng of the Arabas. In somuch that he was kapt to fle from ctye to ctye, beyng depyled of every man as a forsaker of the lawes, & an abominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of hys awne natural countrie and of the ctytyns) he was depyened into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put many out of theyr awne natyue land, percyed fro home hym selfe. He went to Accedem, thynchyng there to haue gottē succoure by reason of kynred. And he that afore had casten many one out of buryer, was thowen out hym selfe, no man mounyng for hym, nor puttynge him in his graue: so that he nether enioyed þe buriall of a stranger, neither was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

And whē this was done, the kyng suspected, that the Jewes wolde haue fallen from hym: wherfore he came in a greute bypleasure out of Egypte, * & toke þe ctye by violence. He commaunded hys men of warre also, that they shuld kyl & not spare, but slaye downe such as wold save them, or clymed by upon the houses.

Thus was there a greute slaughter of ponge men, olde men, women, children and virgines. In .iii. dayes were there slayne. lxxx. ¶ fourty thousand put in yelson, ad no lesse solde. Yet was he not contented thys but durst go into the moote hōp temple: Menelaus that traypoure to the lawes & to bid awne natural countrie, beyng his gyde, and with his wicked hādes toke the holy vessel, which other kynges & ctyes had geue thet for the garnyng & honour of þe place: them toke he in his hādes vnto the hely, & depyled them.

So mad was Antiochus, that he considered not, how that God was a lytle wroth for the synnes of them that dwelt in þe ctye, for the whych such confusyon came vpon that place. * And whē yf it had not happened the to haue bene lapped i many synnes, this Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had to denly bene punished, and shutt out for hys p̄sūptiōn. * lyke as Heliodorus was, wōd Soleneus the kyng sente to robbe the treasury. Acuertheles, God hath not cholen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is the place to be come partaker of þe peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it enioye the weale of the. And lyke as it is now to lyne in the wyath of almyghty God, to when the greute God is reconcepled, it shall be sett vp in hys wo: agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a ¶, and viii. c. talentes out of the temple, he gat hito Antioche in all the haste, thynchyng i his pryde, that he myght make me lapye vpon þe dyne land, and to go vpon þe see, for an hye mynde had he. He lefte debtyes there, to bere the people: At Jerusalem left he Philyppe a whigyn in maners more cruell the hym selfe set him there: At Ascalon he left Andronic^{us} & Menelaus, which were more greuous to the ctytyns the other. * Now as he was thus set in malice agayn the Jewes, he sent Apollonius an hared pyner, with xxi. ¶, commaunding him to slaye thole þe were of perfect age, and to sell the women, maydens & childre. Whē he cam now to Jerusalem, he sayned peace, & kepte hym still vntyl the Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded his me to take them to theyr weapens: for the Jewes kepte hōp dayes to be flecto all them that were gone to go to ope lapye, runnyng here & there thozow the ctye with hys men weakened, and marthured a greute nobbe. * But Iudas Machabe^{us} which was the tenth, fled into the wyldernes, led hys lyfe there with hys company amonge wylder beastes and vpon the mountaynes, dwellyng dwelling there and eatte graffe, lest they shuld be partakers of the firstfruits.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ The Jewes are compelled to leave the tabernacle of God.
The temple is despoiled. The readers are mounfithed that they shal not aduise the aduersarye wherewith 3 King a strictly thus. The greuous payne of Hierusalem.

After longe after this, sent the king a messenger of Antioche, for to copel the Jewes, to alre the ordinaunces of the fathers and s lawe of God, to despoile the temple that was at Jerusalem, & to call it temple of Jupiter Olympi-us: & that they shulde be in Gazartim, as those which dwell at the place of Jupiter herberous. This wicked sedicion of s vngodly was begun upon all the people: for the temple was full of holyness, by byp-nes & holynesse of the heathen, of cybaudes & harlots together. The women went into the holy place, and bare in that was not lau-full. The aulter also was full of vnlawfull thynges, which s lawe forbiddeth to lape upon it. The shabbothes were not kepte, s other solempne feastes of the labe were not regarded. To be playne, there durst no man be a knowe that he was a Jewe. In s day of the hynges bys they were compelled to offer: and when the feast of Zachus was kepte, they were constrained to weere garlandes of ryse, and so to go aboute the hououre of Zachus.

Byzour thozow s counsell of Ptolomi, there went out a commaundment to the negre cyties of the heathen, that they shulde intreate s Jewes in lpe maner: namely, to compell them for to do sacrifyce after s lawes of the Gentiles: s who so wolde not, to put the to death. A pyroun thyng was it to se. There were. ii. women accused to haue circumcised the s sonnes, whom when they had led rounde aboute s cite (the babes ha-gynge at their breasts) they caste the downe headlinges ouer the walles. Some that we re crypted in dens & had kepte the shabboth were accused unto whylpye, s bent in the fyr: because that for the feare of God they kept the commaundment to scrify, & wold not defende them selues. Now s beleche all those which reade this booke, that they refuse it not for these fallies of aduersite: a iudge s thinges that are happened for no destructyon, but for a chastening of oure people. And whyl the God suffreth not synners longe to folow thes a vne mynde, but thozly punysyth the. * it is a token of hys greute louynge kyndnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, s he suffreth not vs long to synne unpunished like as s the nacyon. When s daye of iudgement cometh, he maye punyssh them in the fulnes of the s synnes. If we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer wythdroweth hys mercie frō vs: s though he punyssh wyth aduersitye, yet doth he neuer forsake hys people. But let thes that we haue spoken now wyth seuor, be for a warning and exhortacion of the heathen.

¶ Now wyl we come to the declaryng of s matter. Clearar one of s principall scrpbes, an aged man & of well fauored couenaunce, was constrained to gape wyth open mouth, & to cate wyynes fleshe. But he despys rather to dye gloriously then to lyue wyth shame, offered hym selfe willingly to s martyrdom. Now when he saw s he must nede go to it, he toke it pacifely: for he was at a poynte wyth hym selfe, s he wolde consente to no vnlawfull thyng for any pleasure of lpe. They s stode by heyn moved wpyte (but not arygh) for the olde frendhypp of s man, toke hym as lpe pytelly, s prayed hym, that he wold let such dech be brought hym as were laulful to eate, s then to make a countenaunce, as though he had eaten of the fleshe of the sacrifice lpe as the hyng comaunded, for so he myght be deliuered frō death: s so for the olde frendhypp of the mā, they shewed hym thys kyndnes.

But he beganne to consydre hys discrete & honozable age, his noble and wythpyfull stock, & who s frō hys youth byp had bene of an honest & good countersacion: yee s how constantly he had kepte the ordinaunces and lawes commaunded by God, wherfore he gaue them this answer: s sayd: Yet had I rather syzt be laped in my graue. * For it becometh not myne age (sayd he) in any wyse to dissemble, wherby many yōg persons might & r. were now gone to a straunge lpe: s so thozow myne pyocety (for a lpe tyme of a trasty lpe) they myght be deteraund: by thys means also shuld s desple myne age, & make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered frō the tozmenters of men, yet shuld I not escape the had of almyghthy God, nether anyue nre dech. wherfore, I wil dye manfully & doas it becometh myne age wherby I maye paradure leaue an ex-ple of stedfastnes for such as be yōng. yf I wyth a ready mynde & manfully dye an honest death, for s most wyth s holy lawes.

¶ When he had sayd these wordes, imme-diatly he was drawen to s tozment. Now they that led hym & were myde a lpe afte-re, beganne to take dyspleasure because of s wordes s he sayd: for they thought he had spoke s them of an dye mynde. But when he was i hys martyrdom, he mourned s sayd Thou Lord which hast s holy knowlege, knowest openly: that where as I myght be deliuered from death, I suffer these sore paynes of my body: but in my mynde I am wel content to suffer the because I feare the Book iii. Thus

The second boke

Thus this man dyed, leaunge the memorial of hys death for an example, not only vnto psonen men, but vnto all the people, to be fedfast and manly.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

¶ In. xi. a

It happened also, that there were vii. brethren, (whych thes mother) taken, & compelled by the kynge & agaynst y^e lawe, to cate swynes flesh: namely wth scourges and lethyn whyppes. And one of them whych was y^e chiefe, sayd: what sekest thou, and what requyest thou of vs? As for vs, we are ready rather to suffre death, then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kynge angrie, and bad hate coulours and brennyn porters. Whych when they were made hore, immediately he commaunded the tongue of hym that spake fyrst, to be cut out, to pul the thynne our hys heade, to pare of the edges of hys handes and fetes: yee and that in the syght of his mother & the other of hys brethren. Now when he was cleane mardred, he commaunded a fyre to be made, & so whyle there was any breathyn hym, to be fed in the cauldre: In the which whyle he had bene longe payned the other brethren with thes mother exhorted him to dye manfully, sayng: The Lord God shall regarde the treuth, and consoyte vs, lyke as y^e olde testyfyeth & declarith in hys longe sayng: and he wyl haue compasyon on hys seruantes.

So when the fyrst was deed after thys manner, they brought the seconde to haue hi in derkys, pulled the thynne wth the heare over hys heade, & asked hym, yf he wolde cate swynes flesh, or he were payned in the other members also to shew out hys body. Wnt he answered boldy, and sayde: I wyl not do it. And so was he tormeted lyke as y^e fyrst, and when he was euery at the gremynge vth the goost he sayde: Thou most ungracous person putteth vs now to death, but y^e kynge of the worldes shal rayse vs vp (whych dye for his lawes) in the resurrectiō of euerlastyng lyfe.

After hym, was sekyde had in derkys: and when he was requyred, he put out hys tongue, and that ryght soone, holbyng forth hys habes manfully, and spake wth a stedfast sayth: These haue I of heauē, but now for the lawe of God I despyse them: for my trust is, that I shall receaue them of hym agayne. In so much that the kynge and they whych were wth hym, maruelled at y^e poyngmans boldnes, that he nothyng regarded the paynes.

Now when he was deed also, they brened the fourth wth comynge in lyke manner. So whyle he was now at hys death, he sayd

It is better that we beynge put to death of men, haue oure hope and trust in God for he shal rayse vs vp agayne. ¶ As for the, thou shalt haue no resurrectiō to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyrth, they tormeted hym. The lorde he vnto y^e kynge, & sayd: thou hast power amonge men for thou art a mortall mā also thy selfe, to do what y^e wylt, but thynke not, that God hath forsaken oure generaciō. At y^ede the, sayd: I wyl a whyle, and thou shalt se y^e great power of God, how he wyl punysh the and thy seide. After hym they brought the fyrth, whych beynge at the poynte of death, sayd, We not discaued (O kynge) for this we suffer for oure wnc laker, because we haue offēded our God, & therfore marvelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou, whych taked in daunde to lye agaynst God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother, wrotyth to be well reported of, and had in remembrance (saue her seven sonnes dyed in one daye, and suffred it pacely, because of the hope that she had in God: yee, she exhorted euery one of the in desperail, and that boldy & stedfast wth pacyfte wth thome, wakenyng by her wth wrotyth thought wth a manly domache, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell how ye came in my wold, for I nether gaue you bryth nor coule, nor no lyfe. It is not I y^e ioynd the members of youre bodies together, but the maker of the world, whych shal pūnysh y^e syn of man, and beganne all thynges. Euen he also of hys wnc mercy shall geue you breath and lyfe agayne. lyke as ye now regard not your owne selues for his lawes sake.

Now thought Antiochus that he had despyed hym, therfore he let her go wth her reproues, & beganne to exhorte the poyng sonne (whych yet was left) not only wth wordes but swoze vnto hym wth an oath, that he shuld make hym a fych and welyng man: yf he wolde forsake the lawes of hys fathers) yee, and that he shuld geue hym, whatformer were necessary for hym. But when the poyng man wolde not be moued, for all these thynges, he called hys mother, & counceled her to laue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her wth many wordes, she promysed hym y^e she shulde lyeake vnto her sone. So she turned her vnto hym (laughyng the cruell fygante to scoone) & spake wth a bolde voyce: O my sonne, haue pytie vpon me, that bare the. In monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, nourished the & brought the vp vnto thys age.

I desche y^e (my sonne) loke vpon heauen & earth and all that is therein, and cōsyder, that God made them and mans generaciō of naught: so shalt thou not feare thys hangman, but suffre death stedfastly, lyke as

as thy brethren haue done: that I may receive the agayne the same mercy with thy brethren.

Whyle the was yet speakinge these wordes, the yonge man sayd: whom loke ye for? wherfore do ye tarpe? I will not obeye the hynged commaundment, * but the law that God gaue vs by Moyses. As for thou that pynaggest all mynche agayn the Jewes, thou shalt not escape the hande of God, for we suffer these thynges, because of oure synnes.

And though God be angrie wth vs a lytle whyle (for oure chastenynge and refoz macyon) yet that he be at one agayne wth his seruantes. But thou. (O shamefull & most abhominable personne.) Wynde not thy selfe thow sayne hope, in beyng so malpicious vnto the seruantes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whych is almyghty, and seyth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffered a lytle payne, are now vnder the couenaunt of euellastynge lyfe: but thow the iudgment of God, thou shalt be punished vnghterously for thy wynde.

As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I offer my soule & my body for the lawes of our fathers, callinge vpon God, that he wyl loone be mercifull vnto our people: yet and wth payne and punishment * to make the graunte, that he only is God. In me now & in my brethren the wrath of almyghty God is at an ende, whych vnghterously is fallen vpon all oure people.

Then the kynge beynge aynbled in anger, was more cruell vpon him then vpon all the other, and toke indygnacyon, that he was so lyghtly regarded. So the yonge man dyed vndeuyd, & put hys trust still in the Lord. Last of all after the sones, was the mother put to death also. Let this now be ynough spoken, concerninge the offerynge, and extreme cruellnesse.

¶ Judas gathereth together the house of Sicanos to fight agaynst Judas. Judas reprotyeth howe he should have to contemne Sicanos is overcome. The Jewes give thanks in after they haue put to death the enemye to frende, beyng the goodlye vnto the fatherles and vnto the widowes, Sicanos theyr vnto Antiochus.

¶ When Judas Machabees, and they that were wth him, wente pryncipally to the towne, called theyr synfolkes & frendes together, toke vnto them all such as cōtynned yet the fayth and lawe of the Jewes and brought forth. vi. M. men.

So they called vpon the Lord, that he wold haue an eye vnto hys people, whych was trodden downe of euery man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was despoiled of the vngodly: to haue cōpassyon vpon the destruction of the cite, whych was woefully lyke to belapd waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto him: to remember the most vngyghteous deathe of yonge innocent chyldre, the blasphemys also done vnto hys name, and to punysh them.

* Now when Machabees had gathered theyr multitude together, he was to myghty for the heathen for the wrath of the Lord, he was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the towne, and cōtreynt vnto bare, bent them, toke the most commodious places, and slew many of the enemyes. But specially he made loch choyses by nyght, in so much that hys manlynesse was spoken of euery where.

So when whylippe sawe that the man increased by lytle and lytle, & that the matter prospered wth hym for the most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomey (which was a captayne in Celosiria & Sydenes) to helpe him in the kynge's busynes. Then sent he Sicanos Patrocle (a special frende of hys) in all the haste, and gaue him of the comen sort of the heathen no lesse then. xx. M. barnessed men, to rote out the whole generacyon of the Jewes, haupng to helpe hym one Sozias a man of warre, whych in matters concerninge battayls, had great experiece. Sicanos ordered also the crybute (which the Romanys shuld haue had) to be geuen vnto the kynge out of the captiuite of the Jewes, namely. ii. M. talents. And immediately he sent to the cities of the see coast, requyryng theyr to bye Jewes to be theyr seruantes and bond men, promysynge to sell them lxx. and ten for one talent: but he consyded not the wrath of almyghty God, that was to come vpon hym.

¶ When Judas knewe of this, he tolde the Jewes that were wth hym of Sicanos cōmyng. Now were there some of them fearful, not trustynge vnto the vnghterousnes of God, and fled theyr waye.

But the other that remayned, came together, and besought the Lord, to deliuer thes that theyr despoiled Sicanos, which had solde them or euer he came nye them: and though he wolde not do it for theyr sinnes, yet for the couenaunt he made wth theyr fathers, and because they called vpon hys holy & glorious name. * And so Machabees called hys men together, namely aboute. vi. M. exhortynge the not to agree vnto their enemyes, neither to be afrayed for the multitude of their aduersaries commynge agaynst them vnghterously: but to fight manly, consyderynge the reppose that theyr had done to the holy place wthout cause, how theyr had despoiled and oppressed the crytue, yee, and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. * For they they took theyr weapens & spoiles and ke-when they had dylygently gathered theyr weapens together, they layed the all in conuenient places, & the remnaunt of the spoy-les brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe also whylaplaches f wycked personne, which was wth Tymotheus, and had viced many Jewes. And when they helde the thankegroupinge at Jerusalem for the victorye, they bett those that had set eye on f portes of f temple: namely Calisthenes, wherby was fied to an house: & so they gat a wo-thy reward for theyr wyckednesse. As for that most vnglacious Arianos, wherby had brought a thousand marchantes, to bye the Jewes, he was thow the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom he regarded not: in to much that he put of hys gloriouse raimēt, fied by see, and came alone to Antioche, wth greete shame and dishonour, wherby he gat thow the destruction of hys hoost. Thus he that promised the Romaynes to paye the theyr tribute, when he took Jerusalem: beganne now to lape playnely, that God was the defender of the Jewes, & therefore not possible to wo-unde them, becaute they folowed the lawe wherby God had made.

C The ix. Chapter.

Antiochus willing to shewe respect to the city, as he persecuted the Jewes, he to the city of the Jews, he persecuted the Jewes, he persecuted the Jewes.

At f same tyme came * Antiochus agayne wth by Honour out of Persye. For when he came to Persopolys, ad vndertoke to robbe the temple and to sol-due the temple, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so much that he and hys were layne to fiele wth shame.

And so after that theyr it happened that Antiochus came agayne wth dishonou-re. But when he came to Ecbatana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Arianos and Tymotheus. Now as he was anasinge him selfe in his wrath, he thought he was able to avenge the injury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes: and therefore commaunded to make ready hys charer, halsynge on hys iourney without ceasynge, the iudgement of God wpon hys synne because he had spoken so proudly, f he wol-de come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israell, that seeth all thynges, smote hym wth an inspyrable plague, wherby no man could heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wodes, there came vnto hym an horrible payne of hys bowels, and a fore grete of f armes.

And that was but pyght: for he had intyred other mens bowels wth bycure and straunge tormentes, howbeit he wolde in no wyse ceasse from his malice. Per, he was yet the prouder & more malicious agaynst the Jewes: But whyle he was commaundyng to make haste in the matter, it happened that he fel downe violently from the charer to that it holod hys body, and vnto grete payne.

And to he that thought he myght coma-maide the floudes of the see (so proude was he beyonde the condycion of man) & to wyte the hys mountaynes in a paye of balouance, was now brought downe to the grounde, & cast vpon an hoyletter, knowlegging the manifeste power of God vpon hym: so that his wycked body of hys was full of woymes, wherby in hys payne fell quicke out of hys flesh: In so much that hys boost was greued with the smell and stynck of hym. Thus he that a lytle afore thought he myght reache to the starre of heauen, hym myght no man now abyde ner beare, for the vehemence of styncke.

C Therefore, he beyng brought from hys great pyne, began for to come to & knowledge of hym self: for the punisshment of God warned hym, and his payne increased ener-more and more. And wile he hym self might not abyde hys awne styncke, he sayde these woydes: It is reas to be obediēt vnto God, and that a man desyre not to be plac vnto hym. Thus wycked personne prayed also vnto the Lorde, of whom he shulde haue op-tayne no mercy. And as for & cyrce that he came vnto so basely, to byngne it downe to the groude, and to make it a graue for ded men: now he desiereth to deliuer it fre.

And as touchyng & Iewes, whom he had indged not worshyp to be buryed, but wolde haue cast them out for to be deuoured of the foulles & wyde beastes, sayng, that he wolde haue destroyed both olde & yonge: Now he promysed, to make the lyke the cyrcles of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promysse to garnish it with greate giftes, to increase the holy ornaments, and of his awne reyes to beare the colles, and charges belonging to the offerings: yee, and that he wolde also become a Iewe him self, to go thowt euery place of the woylde, and to prach the power of God.

But when his paynes wolde not cense, (for & vngodly iudgement of God was come vpo him) out of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Iewes a letter of intercession, contynnyng these woyses: The kynge and prince Antiochus wither vnto & vertuous cyrcles of the Iewes, much health ad good prosperite.

If ye and poure chyldren face well, and of all thynges go after poure mynde: we ge-ue greate thanks. In my spechelle also do I recomende you louyngly: for as I came out of Ierusalem, and was taken with fore byseale. I thought it necessary to care for the comē weale. Rather despayre I in my self, but haue a good hope to escape this sickness.

What consyderinge that my father led an honest somerpe in the hyer places, and the

wed who shulde raygne after hym, that & yf ther happened any cotrouerisy, or any hard thyng were declared: they in & lands myght knowe the & these Lorde, that there shulde be no insurreccion: Agayne: when I ponde by my self, how that all the myghty men and neygbbours toide about, are lastyng wyte, and loke but for opo: sumpte to do harme: I haue ordered that my sonne Antiochus shal raygne after me, whom I oft commended to many of you, when I was in the hyer kyn-domes, and haue wyrtten vnto him as fo-loweth hereafter. Therefore I praye you & re-quyre you, to remember the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally, and in speciall: and that euery mā to be faythfull to me & my line. & for I hope that he shal be of sober and louinge behauiour, & yf he folowe my deuyce, he shal be indifferent vnto you.

* Thus, that murderer & blasphemor of *don, bii God was fore smitten: & lyke as he had in-treated other men, so he byed a miferable death in a straunge cuntrye vpon a moun-taine. And hys body byd philippe (who went with hym) carpe adwaye: wherby fearng the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypte to ptolomy philometor.

C The .x. Chapter.

*Antiochus the chabrey taketh the citye of the temple. He autler of byrke stone, and after two yeres they offered sacrifices. Set forth the incense, the lyghtes and the beed. Alken that was done, they fell downe flat vpon the grounde, and besought the Lorde, that they myght come nomore into such trouble: but yf they spynned enynagone agaynst hym, he hym selfe to challen them with mercy, and not to come in the handes of thole alcaites and blaf-phemous men.

Now vpon the same daye that & Istrangers poluted & temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was cleded agayne:
namely, * the .xvi. daye of the month called Gallen. They kepte .viij. dayes in gladde lyke as in the frast of the tabernacles: remembyngne that not longe afore, they bele the frast of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in denes lyke beastes. And to the same token they bare grene bowes, byaun-ches and palmes, before him that had greuen them good fortune to cense his place. They agreed also together, and made a statute, & euery pearc those dayes shoulde be solemnly kepte of all the people of the Iewes.

Now Antiochus then (that was called the noble) whych it is sufficiently tolde. Now will we speake of Eupator the sonne of that wycked Antiochus, how it happened wth him: & so wylle we wryte to comprehend the aduersarye that chaunced in the warres. Whiche he had taken in þe kingdome, he made one Lysias (whiche had bene captayne of the host in Phenicia and Syria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomey that was called Ptolemee, beinge a ruler for the Iewes (and specially, to geue iudgement for such wyse as was done vnto them) undertooke to deale peaceably wth them. For the whiche cause he was accused of the Iewes before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traitour (because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had comytted vnto him: and because he departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned hym selfe, and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernoure of the same places, he toke straungers and undertooke offynnes to warre with the Iewes. Forcourer, the Iudeans þe helde the ströge holdes, receaued those that were dyscuen fro Jerusalem, and toke in hande to warre also. * But they that were wth Hachabeus he fought and prayed vnto the Lorde, that he wolde be their helper: and so they fell into þe ströge holdes of the Iudeans, and wained many places by strength: Soch as came agaynst them they slewe, and kyled nolesse of all together: then twetye thousande. Next therelike some, no lesse then nyne thousande, were fled into twoo ströge towres, haunynge all maner of ordinaunce to withstande them.

¶ Then Hachabeus leauynge Symon, Josephus, zacheus, and those that were wth them (whiche were very many) wente to besiege them, & to fyght where most neede was. Now they that were wth Symon, beinge led wth courtesynesse, were intreated for money, the howe certayne of those that laye in the towres: toke. I. x. Machmas: & let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Hachabeus what had happened, he called þe captaynes of the people together, accusinge those persones, & they had solde the herthe for money, and let their enemyes go. So he slewe those traitours, and immediatly wete in hande wth the ii. towres. And wth they had ordned the selues manly with their weapons and handes, they slewe in the two castles moe then twente thousande.

* Now Timotheus whom þe Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered a multitude of straunge people, & brought an host also of hozmen of the Assyans, to wyne Ieruy by strength. But when he dyed nye, Hachabeus & they þe were wth hym * fell to the prayer, supplicke all thes vps their heades, beinge girded wth bearie cloth about their loynes, fell downe before the altier, and besought the Lorde that he wolde be mercifull to them, but an enemye vnto their enemyes, & to take parte agaynst their aduersaryes, * accordynge as it is promysed in the lawe. So after þe prayer, they wete on further fro the cyte: and wth they came nye þe enemyes, they prepared them selues agaynst them.

And by tymes in þe mornynge at the brynke of the dawe, both the hostes buckled together. * The one parte had the Lord for their refuge, which is þe geue of prosperite strength and victorie. The other had a maly Romack whiche is a captayne of warre.

The battail now beinge grente, & there appeared vnto the enemyes from beauchen. ii. men vps horsebackes wth byrdes of golde, ledynge the Iewes, & twoo of them haunynge Hachabeus betwixte them, that kepte hym safe on euery syde wth their weapons, but shot darters and lightenynges vpon the enemyes: where the howe they were confounded wth blindness & so faste as they fled, that they fell downe. There were slayne of sote men twentye thousande and fyue hundred, and fyue hundred hozmen. As for Timotheus him selfe, he fled vnto Ceras a very ströge holde, wherin Ceras was captayne. But Hachabeus and his company layed sege to it chearfully. iiii. dayes.

Now they that were wth hym trustynge to the strength of the place, curbed and baned exccabdingly, and made great teakynge wth wycked wordes. Next therelike, vpon the fyrst daye in the mornynge. x. young men of Hachabeus company, beinge let on fyre in their myndes (because of the blasphemy) came maully vnto the wall, and wth bolde Romackes they and they other companions climmed vp vpon the towres, undertakynge to set fyre vpon the portes, & to burne those blasphemous persones quicke. Two dayes were they destroyng þe castle, whych when they founde Timotheus (that was crept into a corner) they haled hym, & slew Ceras his brother in lyne manly wth Appollophanes. Whiche this was done, they songe psalmes, wth prayres and thanksgyunge vnto the Lorde, whych had done to great thynges for Israel, and gyue them the victorie.

N Of longe after this, Lysias þe kynges steward & a kynsman of hye whych had the gouernance of hye matters) toke soe dyspensure for þe thynges that had happened: and whē he had gathered. lxx. M. men of fote wth all the holte of þe hoismen, he came agaynste the Je-wes, thynchyng to wyne þe cite, to make it an habytacyn for the heathen, * and þe tēple wolde he haue to be an house of lurre, ly-ke as the other goddes houses of the heathē are, & to sell the prestes offyce euery yere: not cōsidering the power of God, but was wylle in his mynde, * trustyng in þe multitude of fote men, in thousandes of hoismen, and in his. lxx. Elephantrs.

25 So he came into Ieremy & then to Beth-sura (a castell of defence) lyving in a narrow place. b. f. luncionges from Jerusalem, & dwāne it. Now when Machabeus and hye cōpany knewe that the stronge holdes were taken, * they fell to their prayes wth wepyng & teares before the Lorde. And all þe people in lyke maner besought him, þe wolde send a good angell to deliuer Israel. Machabeus hym self was the fyrst that made hym ready to the battayll, exhortyng þe other that were wth hym, to overcome the selues, & to helpe their brethren. And when they were goynge forth of Jerusalem together wth a cry & wyllyng mynde, they appeared before the byson host bache a man in whyte clothyng wth harnesse of golde, chapyng his speare.
Then they prayde the Lorde all together, whych had thewed them intercy, & were comforted in their myndes: in so moche that they were ready, not only to fyght with men, but wth the most cruell bestes, pee & recourne thorow walles of yron.

Thus they wente on wyllyngly haupn-ge an helper fōr heauen, and þe Lorde mercifull vnto the. They fell myghty vpo their enemyes lyke lpos, brought downe. xi. M. fote away naked. See Lysias hi self was fayne to be shamefully, and so to escape. Meier the lesse, þe mā was not without vnderstanding, but cōsidered by hym self þe power was mynished, and pōdded how the Jewes being defended by þe helpe of Almighty God, were notable to be ouercome: wherfore he sent the wordes, & promysed, þe he wolde cōfente to all thynges whych were reasonabill, and to make þe hyng their frede. To þe whych prayer of Lysias Machabeus agreed, lckyinge in all thynges of comen wealch & whatsoeuer Ma-chabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Jewes, the kyng graunted it. For there were letters wyttē vnto the Jewes from Lys-ias, concerninge these wordes,

Lysias sendeth greetynge to the people of the Jewes. Ihon and Absalon whych were sent from you, deliuered me wth praynges, & requeyd me to fulfill the thynges concernyng the; carande. Therefore loke what might be graunted, I certified þe hyng ther of: & whatsoeuer was cōuenient. I agerred the-

to. If ye now will be fapfull in þe matters I shall enbemyr my selfe hereafter also to do you good. As concerninge other thynges by euery article thereof: I haue cōmpted the to poure messaugers, & to those whom I sent vnto you, to comē to you of þe same, fare ye well. In the. C. and. xlviij. yere, the. xxiij. daye of the moneth Elouolothis.

Now þe kynges lētre cōtēnyng these wodes. Wping Antiochus sendeth greetynge vnto his brother Lysias. For so moche as oure father, * is now deed, oure wyll is, that they whych are in oure realme, lyue wthout eny insurreccion, & euery mā to be diligent in hye awne matters. We vnderstāde also, þe þe Jewes wolde not consent to oure father, for to be brought vnto þe custome of the Scēples, but they to kepe their awne statutes: for þe whych cause they requyre of vs also, to lett them remayne still by their awne lawes.

Wherfore, oure mynde is, þe this people shalde in selfe we haue concluded & determy-ned also, to restore them their tēple agayne:
that they maye lyue accordyng to the vse & custome of their forefathers. Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore, yf þe sende vnto them and agre with the: that when they are certifyed of oure mynde, they maye be of good chere, and loke to their awne wealch.

And this was the lētre, that the kyng wrote vnto þe Jewes: kyng Antiochus sendeth greetynge vnto the counsell and þe other people of þe Jewes: If ye fare well, we haue our desyre: as for vs, we are in good health.
Henclaus came and tolde vs, howe þe desyre was to come to some to poure people, whych are wth vs.

Wherfore those that theyll come, we geue these lyberte, vnto the. xxx. daye of the mo-neth of Aprii. þe they maye vse þe mentes of þe Jewes and their awne lawes, lyke as aforesaid: none of the by eny māner of wayes to haue harme, for thynges done i ignoraūce. Henclaus whō we haue set vnto you, shal comē to you at large, fare ye wel. In the. C. lviij. yere, the. xv. daye of the moneth of Aprii.

The Romaynes also sent a lētre, cōtē-nyng these wordes: Quingus Metellus & Titus Manlius embassadours of the Ro-maynes, sende greetynge vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lysias the kynges kynsman hath graunted you, we graunte you the same also. But as concerninge the thynges whych he referred vnto the kyng, seinde hyther some wth spede, and pōde the matter diligently amonge your selues, that we maye cast y^e best to your profyte, for we must departe now vnto Antioche. And therfore write shortly agayne, y^e we maye know your minde: farr well. In y^e hūdrēth. xlviij. p^{ar}te. the. xlv. daye of the moneth of Aprill.

¶ The. xlii. Chapter.

¶ Timothy troubleth the Jewes. The toperked hebe of the poples agaynst the Jewes. Judas is assured of fauor. He testeth byr on y^e gate of Jamnia. The pursuit of the Jewes agaynst Timothy. Timothy is taken and let goe bynight. Judas pursueth Sogias. The daye offering sacrifice for the citye. Wherwith the hope of the resurrection.

When these couenautes were made Lepias went vnto the king, & the Jewes spiled their ground. But Timothy, & Apollonius y^e sonne of Crenai, & Jeronim & Demophon y^e y^{ou}nger, & Ananias y^e captayne of Cyperis, & they that laye in those places: wolde not lett the spue in rest a peace. Therof Joppa also dyd euen soch a shamefull dede. They prayed the Jewes y^e dwelt amonge them, to go with their wyues & chylde into y^e shippes whych they had prepared, and dyd with this, as though they had ought thyn no euill wyl. For so much the as there was gone forth a general proclamation thow the cytye because of peace, they cōfessed thereto, a suspecte nothyng: but when they were gone forth into y^e depe, they drowned no lesse then. ii. C. of them.

¶ Whē Judas knew of this cruelte he went vnto his people, he commaunded those that were with hi to make the ready, exhortyng them to call vpo God the ryghteous iudge: went forth agaynst those murderers of his bretheren, set fyre in the hauf by nyght, went by the shippes, and those that cleyed from the fyre, he slewe with y^e sweerde. And when he had done this, he departed as though he wolde come agayne, and rote out all the of Joppa. But when he had gotte wynde, that y^e Jammites were mynded to do in lyke manner vnto y^e Jewes whych dwelt amonge the, he came vpon the Jammites by nyght, & lett fyre on the haufen with the shippes: so that the lyght of the fyre was sene at Ierusalem vpon a. ii. C. and. xl. furlonges.

¶ Now when they were gone from thence ix. furlonges, in their iourney towards Timothy. v. thousand men of fote and. v. hundred horzmen of the Arabians, fought with him. So when y^e battell was earnest, & prospered with Judas thow the helpe of God: the residue of the Arabians beyng ouercome, besought Judas to be at one with them, & promysed to geue hym certayne payntes, and to do him good in other thynges. Judas thynkyng that they shoulde in dede be profitable concerninge many thynges, promysed them peace: wher vpon they shoke handes, and so they departed to their tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cytye, whych was very faste kepte with byddes, sent round aboute with wallis, and byuerse hyndes of people dwellinge thern, called Caspin.

¶ They that were within it, put such trust in the strength of the wallis, & in their stoare of vitayles: that they were y^e slacker in their doynges, cursyng and cōspynge Judas with blasphemys, and spenyng such wordes as it becommeth not. But Achabarus cursyng vpon the great byrnce of the wynde (whych without any battayll rāies, & ordynance of warre, dyd cast downe y^e wallis of Iericho, in y^e tyme of Josue) fell manfully vpo y^e wallis, toke the cytye, (& thow the helpe of the Lord) made an exceeding greute slaughter: In so much y^e a lake of two furlonges brade whych laye there, seemed to flowe with the bloude of the slayne.

¶ Then departed they from thence. vii. C. & x. furlonges, and came to Carana vnto the Jewes that are called Cubianei. But as for Timothy, they coule not get him there: for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed from thence, and had lefte certayne men in a very strong holde. But Wolstheus & Solipatre, whych were Capytaynes with Achabarus, slewe those y^e Timothy had lefte in the house of defence. euen. x. men. And Achabarus prepared him with the. vi. men y^e were aboute hym, for the in ordre by compaynes, and wente forth agaynst Timothy, whych had with hym an. C. &. xx. men of fote. ii. C. and. v. C. horsemen.

¶ When Timothy had knowledge of Judas cōpyng, he sent y^e women, chylde and the other baggage vnto a castill called Anon. (For it coule not be wone, & was hard to come vnto, the wayes of y^e same places were so narrow) & whē Judas cōpany came first in syght, y^e enemyes were smytten with feare, thow the presence of God, whych seyth all thynges: In so much y^e they despyng one here, another there, were rather dyscayted of their awne people, & wounded y^e strokes of their awne sweordes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpo them, punishyng those vngobly, & slewe. xxx. men of the. Timothy also him self fell into y^e handes of Wolstheus and Solipatre, whō he besought with many prayers, to lett hym go with his lyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers & bretherē y^e prison, whych (if they put hi to death) myght be dyscomfyted. So whē he had promysed synfully to deliuer the agayne accordyng to y^e dycition made, they lett hym go without harme, for the health of the church. And when Judas had slayne. xlv. men he wente from Carnon.

mightely. In this cytie was moche ordinarie and piousness of dwelers. But whē Judas and his cōpany had called vpon Almyghy God (whych wyth hys power breaketh the strength of the encyrcles) they wane the cytie, and slewe .xxv. of the, & were within from thence wente they to the cytye of the Scythians, whych lyeth .vi. C. furlonges fro Jerusalem. But when þe Jewes whych were in the cytye tellyed, that the cytyens be alke loupynge wyth them, yee, and increased them kynndly in the tyme of their aduersitee, Judas and hys cōpany gaue them thāckes, desyringe them to be freely still vnto them: and so they came to Jerusalem the hye feast of the wekes beyng at hande. And after the feast of pentecost they went forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernoure of Iudaea, wyth .iii. C. men of force. .iii. C. hoymen. Whych when they met together, it chaunced a fewe of þe Jewes to be slayne. And doostheys one of þe Bachemans a myghty hoymā take hold of Gorgias, & wolde haue take him quych. But an hoymā of Ephraim fell vpon him, and smote of his arme, so þe Gorgias escaped & fled into Mozaia. Whē they now þe were of Gorgias side, had foughten longe & were weare. Judas called vpon the Lorde, that he wolde be their helpe, & capayne of the felde: and with that, he beganne wry a manly voyce to take vp a longe of prayse, & a crye: In so moche þe he made the encyrcles afraied, and Gorgias me of warre toke their flight. So Judas gathered his holte, & came into þe cytye of Doolia. And when the tenth daye came vpon the, they cleynt them: lues (as the custome was) & kepte the Sabbath in þe same place. And vpon the daye folowynge, Judas & his cōpany cam to take vp the bodies of the that were slayne, and to burye the in the fathers graues. Now vnder the corne of certaine Jewes whych were slayne, they founde Jewels that they had taken out of þe temple & from the Idols of the * Ianniters: whych thynges is for vpyden the Jewes by þe lawe. Then euery man saue, þe this was the cause, wherfore they were slayne.

¶ And to euery man gaue thāckes vnto þe Lorde for hys ppytyous iudgement, which had opened the thynges that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto thet prayes, and besought God, þe the lawe whych was made, myght be put out of remembraunce. Besydes that, Judas exhorted þe people earnestly, to kepe the felces from such synne: for so moche as they sawe befoze their eyes: þe these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so moche þe he brought together two thousande Bachemans of Iphraim, which he sent vnto Ierusalem, that there myght a sacrifice be offered for the misdeede. In the which place he dyd well and ryght: for he had some consideracon þe poudryng of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought that they, which were slayne, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vayne, to make eny holte of sacrifice, for the, that were ded. But for so moche as he sawe, that they whych dye in the fauoure & beleue of God, are in good rest and ioye, he thought it to be good & honorable for a recōcilynge, to do the same for those which were slayne, that the offence myght be forgyuen.

¶ The xxi. Chapter.

¶ The chynge of Eupator vnto Antiochus. The death of Antiochus: Machabees going to fight agaynst Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto praye. The kylleth .xiiii. thousande men in the tentes of Antiochus. Wherby he the betrayre of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus reuengeth friendship with the Jewes.

¶ Antiochus the gatte * Judas knowe * Antiochus Eupator was commynge with a grete power into Jewry, & Lysias the steward and ruler of his matters with him hauinge an. C. and .r. C. men of force. .v. C. hoymen. xxi. C. Seleucides, and .ii. C. charctes. Antiochus also loded him self with them; but with grete vylfrenate and spake saye to the kynge, not for eny good of þe coultre, but because he thought to haue bene made some grete man of auctorite. But þe kynge of kyngdomes Antiochus mynde agaynst thes vngodly personne, & Lysias infourmyd the kynge, * that this Antiochus was þe cause of all mischance: so that the kynge commaunded to take him, and (as the manner of the is) to put hym vnto death in the same daye.

¶ There was also in the same place a towre of L. cubytes hye, heappyd with ashes: but aboute it was so made, that me myght lode downe on euery syde. Wher into the kynge commaunded that shamefull person to be cast amonge the ashes, as one that was cause of all vnglacionsnesse. And cras it was that the vngodly quide dyd such a death, and not to be buryed: for he had done moche myschance vnto the aultre of God (whos spyr & allidies were holy) therfore was it right, þe hye in selfe also quide be destroyed wyth ashes.

¶ But the kynge was wroth in hys mynde, and came to see him self: moze cruelly vnto the Jewes, then hys father was. Whych is when Judas perceaied, * he commaunded the people to call vpon þe Lord myght and daye: that he wolde now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alwaies: for they were afraied to be put from the lawe, from their naturall countre and from the holy temple: and not to suffre the people (which a lytle while agoe beganne to recouer) to be subdued agayne of the blasphemous nacyns.

¶ So when they had done thes together, C. and besought the Lord for mercy, wyth wepyng and fastynge the dayes longe, flact vpon the grounde: Judas exposed them, to make make them selues ready. But he and the elders together deuised, to go forth first with their people, afore the kynge brought his host into Ieruzp, and afore he beleaged the city. & to committe the matter vnto God.

¶ Therefore he ascribed the power of all thynges vnto God the maker of the world exhortinge his people to fight manfully (per-euen vnto death) for the labors, the temple, the citty, their owne native countrey, and to defende the ciuitys: and let his boos befor Wodpye. He gaue them also that there were worthy him, a token of the victory of God, chollinge out the mildest sponge inen, wente by nyght into the kynges paupers, the dore of the boos xiij. 42. m. *, e. the greatest Clepantes, with those that last vpon them.

Thus when they had brought a greater fear and rumour amongst the enemies of the Jewes, by all things being prosperously with them, they departed in the beate of the dape, God beinge their helper and defender.
Now while the Kinge perceived the manly courage of the Jewes, he wente aboute to take the stronge places by craft, and removed his hoofe to ward befor them, which was a well befite house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chased awaye, huried, and discomfited.

And Iudas sent vnto thes that were in it for such thinges as were necessary. In f. Twelue booke also there was one in bodours. Iudas tolde the enemyes thes secretes: but they sought hym out, a whē they had gotte hym they put hi in prison. After this dōd f. Iudas came with thes that were in Bethlura, to helpe truce with them, departed, and stode a battell with Iudas. whēch our came hym.

¶ But when he vnderstode, that Philippus (whom he had left to be ouersceer of his bul-nesses at Antioche) began to rebel agaynst him, he was astonnyed in his mynde: so he peld hym self to the Jewes, & made the eche to do whatsoeuer they thought right.

Now when he was reconciled wth the he offered, made moche of the temple, gaue grea te gyftes vnto it, embraced Machabe^s, ma kinge hym captayne and gouernour from Iherosoloms vnto the Gerrenes.

Neurthelesse when he came to Ptolomeas, þe people of the cytie were not content with þe bonde of frendshipp: for they were afraied, that he wolde breake þe couenaunt. Then wente Lysias vp into the senate, and enourmed the people, beweynd the cause of thepp, and pacified the. So he came agayne to Antioche. This is now the matter concerninge the longes iourney, and his returne.

● The Cliff Chapter

¶ By the weapon of the Roys, Demetrius smythe Al-canso to kill the Arroy. Alcanso maketh a compact with the Jewes, which he get by death through the weapon of the Roys. Alcanso commaundeth Mayis to be taken. The holowne of Mayis.

After three yeares was Iudas infourmed, how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and dyppres, thorow the haven of Cripolis, to take certaine commondous places and countrees, agains the Antiochus and his captayne Lysias.
Now Alcimus (which had bene dyer) & dissfully despyed him self, in the tyme of the myrryng: Ieving, þy þy no means he coulde be helpe, ner haue any more inttraunce to the austre: he came to hyng Demetrius in the hūdyeth and one & fetyfe yeare, presentynge vnto hym a crowne of Golde, a palme & an olive tree: which (as me thought) belonged to the temple, and þy daye he helde his tongue.
But when he had gotten oportynite for his madnesse, Demetrius called him to counsell, and asked hym, what thynges of counsell þy Iewes leane vnto? he answered: The Ie-wes that be called Aldeie (whose captayne is Iudas Maccabews) mayntayne warres, make insurreccions, and will not let the realine be in peace.

For I beynge depriued of my fathers honour: I meane the bpe yfste howe am come hyther: partly becaule I was faithfully vn- to the kyng, and partly becaule I sought þe profyt of the cytyens. And whp' all oure people, tho: so the wickednesse of them, are not a little troubled. Wherfore I beleeue the (O kyng) conseyde all these thynges dyl- gently, and then make some psonifyon for þe lande & the people, accordynge to the kyn- nesse that thou hast offred vnto thē. For as longe as Iudas hath the wyppurall, it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupinge euell will at Judas, set the kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynst hy. ¶ Which immediately sent Alcinoz, ruler of the Elephantes, a captayne, into Jewry, commaundinge hym, to take Judas him selfe alpye, but to slaye the þe were with hym, and to make Alcinoz hys priest of great thyle.

Then the heathen which fled out of Ieruſſalem from Iudas, came to Aſcanio by Ro-ches, thynkinge the harme and deſcape of the Iewes to be their welfare. Now when the Iewes herde of Aſcanios compynge, and the gathering together of the heathen: they ſpeeked theſe ſeues wordes, ¶ A ſeſought hym, which made them by people, and cuer defended his owne poſicion with ſwepnet tokens, that he wolde preſerue them ſpill. So at the commaundement of the captayne, they remoued fro thence, & came to a towne called Deſſſſan. And ſomys Iudas brother fell in hand to Aſcanio, but thozow ſodeyn apmyning of the enemye, he was aſtrayd.

Nevertheless, Sicanos bearinge the manlynce of them that were wth Judas, & the holde

holde stomaches that they had to fyght for theire naturall countrey, durst not proue the matter with bloodshedding. Wherfore he sent Jossabonius, & Theodocius & Anthanas before, to enquire and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduilement there vpon and the captaynes shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde: to haue peace. And they appointed a daie to fyt vpon these matters quietly among them selues, the sholes also were brought and set forth. Neuertheless, Judas commaunded certaine men of armes to wayte in couenient places, lest there shulde sodenly arise any euill thow the enemies. And to theyr comoned reasonably together.

D Nicanoz, whyle he abode at Ierusalem, ordered him selfe not vnreasonably, but sent a wayte the people that were gathered together. He loved Judas euer with hys herte, & fauoured him. He prayed hym also to take a wayte, and to bypunge forth chylidren. So he married, lpyed in rest, and they led a comely lyfe. But Nicinus perceauinge the loue that was betwixte them, and how they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, & tolde him that Nicanoz had taken straunge matters in hand, and ordered Judas an enemy of the realme) to be the kyniges successeur. Then the kynge was sore displeased, & thow he wyked accusacions, which Nicinus made of Nicanoz, he was so prouoked, that he wrote vnto Nicanoz, saying: that he was very angere for the frendshyppe and agreement, whyle he had made wth Machabeus. Neuertheless he commaunded him in all the haste, that he shulde take Machabeus prisoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

E Whyle Nicanoz was at Ierusalem, he was at hys wyttes ende, & sore grieved, & he shulde breake the thynges wherein they had agreed: specially, seynge Machabeus was p^rma. & neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myght not withstande the kynge, he sought opportunitie to fulfill his commaundement. For withstanding when Machabeus sawe that Nicanoz beganne to be churlysh vnto him, & p^r he intreated him more gently then he was wonte, he perceaued p^roch vnkynndnes came not of good, and therfore he gathered a few of hys men, & withpewte him selfe to Nicanoz. Which whyle he knewe that Machabeus had manfully peruenied him, he came vnto p^r great and most holy temple and commaunded p^r prestes (which were doinge their usuall of fringes) to deliuer hym p^rma. And whyle they stode p^r they coude not tel where p^rma was whyle he sought, he stretched out his hāde, & made an othe, sayinge: If ye will not deliuer me Judas can proue, I shall remoue this temple of God ito p^r playne felde, I shall breake downe p^r altar, & collocate this temple vnto to Bactus. After these wordes he departed. Then the prestes lyft vp their handes to the warde heauen, & besought hym p^r was euer p^r defender of their people, saying: Thou O Lord of all, whyle thou hast nede of nothinge, wouldest p^r the temple of thy habitacon shulde be amonge vs. Therfore now O most holy Lord, kepe this house euer vnderfled, whyle lately was clesed. Now was there acculed vnto Nicanoz, one Razis an Alderman of Ierusalem, a louer of the whole cyte, & a man of good repute: whyle p^r he kynde herte p^r he bare vnto p^r people, was called a father of p^r Jewes. This man oft tymes, whyle the Jewes were mynided to kepe the selues vnderfled, defended & deliuered the, bringe content stably to speke his body and his lyfe for hys people.

So Nicanoz wyllynge to declare p^r hate that he bare to the Jewes, sent fytie hidreth men of warre to take him: for he thought, yf he gat him, he shulde bylge p^r Jewes in great decaye. Now when p^r people beganne to rushe i at his house, to breake p^r doores, & to set fyre on it: he beinge now enat, wolde haue defended him selfe with hys wearde: chosynge rather to dye manfully, then to p^relme him selfe to thole wicked doers: because of his noble stocke, he had rather haue bene put to extreme crueltie. Notwylstanding what time as he misde of his stroke for haste, & p^r mulitude fell in violently betwixte p^r doores: he ranne boldly to the wal, & cast him selfe downe manfully amonge the heape of them, which gaue soone place to his fall, so p^r he fel vpon hys belly. Neuertheless, while there was yet breath within hym, he was kynbled in hys mynde, & whyle his bloude gushyd out exceedingly (for he was very sore wounded) he raise thow the myddest of the people, and gat hym to the toppes of a rocke. So when his bloude was now gone, he toke out his awn bowbel wth both his hādes, & thow the vpon p^r people callenge vpon p^r Lord of lyfe & spycie to rewarde him this agayne and so he dyed.

C The xv. Chapter.

Nicanoz sought aboute to come vnto Judas on p^r Saboth daye. The blasphemie of Nicanoz, Machabeus resoundinge vnto p^r Jewes p^r blysson, both wth these dreyes. The prayer of Machabeus. Alure the hōde of Nicanoz is once ouercome. Machabeus commaund: both his hēd and hys handes to be cut of and hys tōus ge to be geuen vnto foliwe.

When Nicanoz knewe that Judas was in the countrey of Samaria, he thought wth all his power to kype a felde vpon him vpon a Sabboth daye. Neuertheless the Jewes p^r were compelled to go wth hym, saye: We do not so cruelly and vnkynndly, but halowe the Sabboth daye, and wth hym him that seyth all thynges. For all thynges, yet sayd the vngarepous percome: Is there a myghtie one in heauē, that commaunded the Sabboth

Days to be kepte: And when they sayde yet the twinge God, the myghtie Lord in heauen * commaunded the seventh daye to be kepte, he sayde: And I am myghty vpon earth, to commaunde them for to arme them selves, and to performe the dayes duty. Notwithstandinge he myght not haue his purpose.

25 Ricanoz had crucified wth great pryde to overcome Judas, & to bypnye awaye the victory. But Hecabeus had euer a fast confidence and a perfecte hope in God, that he wolde helpe hym, & exhorted hys people, not to be afrayed of the cominge of the heathen: but alwaye to remember the help that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, yee & to be sure now also, that almyghty God wolde geue them the victory. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battayls that they had flicchen afoze, and made them to be of a good courage.

So when their hartes were plucte by, he shewed them also the disceatfullnesse of the heathen, and how they wolde kepe no count naunt nor ofe. Thus he weakened them not wth the armour of chylde and speare, but wth wholesome wordes and exhortacions.

He shewed the a byme also, wherthow he made them all glad, whych was this: he thought that he sawe Onias (whych had bene the ype priest, a vertuous and lounge man, sad and of honest churcheason, well spoken, & one that had bene exercised in Godlynes from a chylde) holding by hys handes towarde heauen, and prayenge for his people. After this there appeared vnto him another man, whych was aged, honorable and glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of the brethren, and of the people of Israell. This is he that prayeth moche for the people and for all y holy cite: Jeremy y prophete of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde out hys ryght hande, and gaue vnto Judas a swerde of Golde, sayenge: Take this holy swerde, a gyfte from God, wherewith thou shalt smyte doone the enemyes of the people of Israell.

And so they were well comforted thozow the wordes of Judas, and toke courage vnto them, to that the yonge men were determined in their myndes to fyght, & to byde spay at it. In to much f in the thynges whych they toke in hande, their boldnesse shewed y same, because the holy cite and the temple were in perill: for the which they toke more care, then for their wyues, chylzen, hierial and kynfolkes. Agayne, they that were in the cite, were most carefull for those which were to fyght. And when they were all in a bove that the subgenty of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes by to nye, the host byng set in aray, the Elephantes and other men every one standyng in hys place, Hecabeus considered the cōpyng of the multitude, the obdyuance of diuers weapons, the cruelnes of the beastes, and helpe by his handes towarde heauen, calling vpon the Loude y bold wonder, whych geueth not the victory after the multitude of weapons and power of the host (but to the that please hym) accordyng to hys a wne wyl. Therefore in hys prayer he sayd these wordes.

O Loude, thou y bydest sende thyme Angell in the tyme of Hecabeus kyng of Iuda, and in the holte of Sennacherib betwixt anghyethfour score & fyue thousand: sende now also thy good angell before vs (O Loude of heauens) in the fearfullnesse and byede of thy myghtie arme, that they which come against thy holy people to blaspeme them, maye be afrayed. And to be made an ende of his wordes. The Ricanoz & they that were wth hym, drew nre wth swadmes and songes: but Judas and hys company wth prayer and callenge vpon God.

With their handes they smote, but wth theyr bettes they played vnto the Loude, & shew no lesse then xxxv. m. For thozow y present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of, & were turnyng agayne wth hope, they vnderstode that Ricanoz hym selfe was slayne wth the other. Then they gaue a greates shoute and a crye, prayyng the Almyghty Lord wth a loude choore. And Judas (whych was euer ready to spende hys body & lyfe for hys chetysnes) commaunded to smite of Ricanoz head, wth hys acme & hande, & to be brought to Ierusalem. When he came t, yre, he called all the people, & the priests at y altar wth those that were in the castill, & shewed the Ricanoz head, and his wyched hande, whych he had presumptuously holden by agaynst the temple of God. He caused y frange also of y vngodly Ricanoz to be cutt in pte peces, & to be cast to the fowles, & the cruel mans hande to be hanged by before the temple.

So every man gaue thankes vnto the Lord, sayenge: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vnderfild.

As for Ricanoz head, he hanged it vpon the ype castill, for an euident & playne token of y helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holy, namely the xlii. daye of the moneth Adar, which in y Syrians language is called the nexte daye before Machabeus daye. Thus was Ricanoz slayne, and from that tyme forth the Jewes had the citey in possession: And here will I now make an ende.

The byrth of Iesus Chyft was on this wyse. * When his mother Mary was married to Joseph before they came to dwel to gether. she was founde with chyldre by the holy ghoost. Then Joseph her husbnde because he was a ryghteous man. and wolde not put her to shame he was mynded penevly to departe from her. But whyll he thus thought. behold. the aungell of the Lorde appeared unto hym in slepe. saying. Joseph. thou sonne of Dauid. fene not to take unto the Mary thy wyfe. For that which is conceived in her. cometh of the holy ghoost. She shall byynge forth a sonne. and thou shalt call hys name. * Iesus. For he shall save his people from theyr synnes.

All this was done. þat it might be fulfilled. which was spoke of the Lorde by þe prophet. saying. * Behold. a mayd shall be chyldre. * and shall bring forth a sonne. * and they shall call his name Emmanuel. which ys a man interpreter. it is almost to say as God with vs.

And Joseph sone as he awoke out of slepe. byd as the angel of the Lorde had byden hym. and he toke hys wyfe unto hym. & knewe her not. tyll he had brought forth a chylde. the fyft begotten sonne. and called his name Iesus.

The ij. Chapter.

The tyme and place of Chyfts byrth. The wyfe met with the pudent. Chyft bred into a synne. the pange chylde is a synne. Chyft turneth into Galilee.

When Iesus was bozne at Bethlem. he was in the tyme of herode the kynge. In the tyme of herode the kynge. Beholde. there came wyfe mentid the east to Jerusalem. saying. Where is he that is bozne king of Jewes. For we have sene hys starre in the east. and are come to worshippe hym.

gel of the Lord appeared in a dreame to Joseph, in Egypt, sayenge: arylse, and take the chyld & hys mother, and go into the lande of Israell. ¶ for they are dead which sought the chyldes lyfe. And he arose, and toke the chyld & hys mother, & came into the land of Israell. ¶ But when he hearde that Archelaus byd caryne in Jewry, in the rowme of his father herode, he was afraid to go thither. Notwithstandinge, after he was warned of God in a dreame, he turned & fflye into þe parties of Galile, and went and dwelt in a kyngdome of heauen. I

* For I saye vnto you: except your righteousnesse excede the righteousnesse of the scribes and pharisees, ye cannot entre into the kyngdome of heauen.

B Ye haue heard that it was sayd vnto the of y olde tyme. * Thou shalt not kill: whosoener killeth, shall be in daunger of iudgement. But I say vnto you: that whosoener is angry with his brother (vnadvisedly) shall be in daunger of iudgement. And whosoener saye vnto his brother * Racha, shall be in daunger of a counsell. But whosoener sayeth thou foole, shall be in daunger of hell fyre.

Therefore, if thou offest thy gyfte at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought agaynst the: leaue thee thyne offeringe before the altar: * go thy waye first, and be reconciled to thy brother, and then come, and offer thy gyfte. I

* Agree with thine aduersarye quicklye whyles thou art in the waye with him, lest at any tyme the aduersarye deliuer thee to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer thee to the synnister, and then thou be cast into prison. Verily, I say vnto the: thou shalt not come out thence, tyll thou haue payed the vtmost farthinge.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of olde tyme. * Thou shalt not committe adoultre. But I say vnto you: that whosoener lokech on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath committed adoultre with her all ready in hys heart.

* If thy right eye hynder the, * plucke hym out, and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perishe, then þy whole bodye shuld be cast into hell. And if thy right hande hynder the, cutt hym off, and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perishe, then that all thy bodye shulde be cast into hell. I

It is sayd, whosoener putteth awaye his wyfe, * lett hym geue her a letter of the deuorcement. But I say vnto you: that whosoener doth put awaye his wyfe (excepte it be for fornicarye) causeth her to breake matrimonye. And whosoener marryeth her that is deuorced, committeth adoultre.

Agayne, ye haue heard how it was sayd to them of olde tyme: * thou shalt not forswear thy selfe, but shalt performe vnto þy othe: thole thinges that thou swearest.

* But I say vnto you: sweare not at all: neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by the earth, for it is his fote stole: neither by Ierusalem, for it is the cytie of the great king: neither shalt thou sweare by thy heed, because þy canst not make one haire whyte or blacke. But your communicacion shall be, ye, ye, ay, ay: for whatsoever is added moze then these, it commeth of euill.

Ye haue heard that it is sayd: an eye for an eye: and a tooth for a toth. But I saye vnto you, þy eye * rest not euill. But if whosoener geue the a blowe on the right cheeke, turne to hym the other also. And if any man wille sue thee at the law, and take awaye thy coat, let him haue thy cloake also. And whosoener wille chell thee to go a myle, go with him twayne. Geue to him that asketh, and to hym that wolde borrowe, turne not thou awaye.

* Ye haue heard that it is sayde, * thou shalt loue thine neyghbour, and hate thine enemye. But I saye vnto you: loue your enemies. * Blesse the that curse you: * do good to them that hate you. * Praye for the which hurt you and persecute you, that ye maye be the chyldre of your father which is in heauen: for he maketh his sonne to aspe on þe euill, & on þy good, & sendeth raine on þy ill & on þy vniuit. For * þy ye loue the which loue you: what reward haue ye? do not the publicans also euen the same? And if ye make moche of your brethren only, what singular thinge do ye? do not also the publicans praye for the? shall therefore be perfecte, euen as your father which is in heauen is perfecte. I

¶ The viij. Chapter.

In these heare, þy geue not your almes in the sight of men, to the intent that ye wold be sene of them. Or els ye haue no reward with your father which is in heauen.

Therefore, whā thou givest thine almes, let not thy righte hande be knowe before the, as þy hypocrites do in the synagoges and in the streetes: for to be prayled of men. Verily, I saye vnto you: they haue their reward. But when thou wylt geue almes, let not thy left hande knowe what thy righte hande doth, that thine almes maye be in secret: and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward the openly. I

And when thou prayest * thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they wile to stand prayinge in the synagoges, and in the corners of the streetes, that they maye be sene of men. Verily, I saye vnto you: they haue their reward. But when thou prayest: * entere into thy chamber, & when thou hast shut thy doore praye to thy father which is in secret: * thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward the openly.

But when ye praye: * bable not much, as the heathen do: for they thynke it wille come to passe, that they shall be herd for their much babylnges sake. Be not ye therefore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what ye praye for.

* Where father which art in heauen, halo- wed be thy name. Lett thy kyngdome come. Thy will be fulfilled, as well in earth, as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure daylye bread. And forgive vs oure dettes, as we forgive oure detters. And leade vs not into temptation: but deliuer vs from euyl. For thyne is the kyngdome and the power, and the glorye for euer. Amen. ¶ Therefore, * yf ye forgive other me thy trespases, your heu- ly father shall forgive you. ¶ (your trespasses.) But yf ye wyl not forgive men they trespases, nomore shall your father forgive you your trespases.

* Therefore, * when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces, that it maye appere vnto men, how that they fast. Aliter, I saie vnto you, they haue theyre reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoynte thyne beard, and wash thy face, that it appere not vnto men, how that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is i secret: and thy father which seeth in secret, shall re- ward be the openly.

Lape not vp for your selues treasure vpo earth, where the rust and mothe both corrup- te, and where theues breake throughe, and scale. But lape vp for you, treasures i he- uen, where neither rust nor mothe both cor- rupte, and where theues do not breake tho- row nor scale. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

* The light of the body is the eye. Where- fore, yf thyne eye be single, all thy body shall be full of light. But and yf thyne eye be whe- led, all thy body shall be full of darcknesse. Wherefore, yf the lyghte yf is in the dar- knes, how greates is that darcknes?

* No man can serue two masters. For either he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els heane to the one, and despyse the other: ye cannot serue God and man. ¶ There- fore I saie vnto you: * be not carefull for your lyfe, what ye shall eat or drinke, nor yet for your bodye, what ye shall put on. Is not the lyfe moze worth than meat: and the body moze of value than rayment? Behold, the fowles of the ayer: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor carry into the barnes: and your heavenly father feedeth the. Are ye not much better then they?

* Watche of you: by takinge carefull thought: can adde one cubyte vnto your stature: And why care ye for rayment: Consi- der the lyfles of the felde, how they growe. They labour not, neither do they spinne. And yet I saie vnto you, that euen Salo- mon in all his royaltie was not arrayed lyke one of these. Wherefore, yf God do clothe the grasse of the felde (which thought stande to dape, is to morow cast into y foynaille) shall he not inoch moze do the same for you, O ye of lytle fayth?

¶ Therefore, take no thought, saying: what shall we eat, or what shall we drinke, or wherewith shall we be clothed: after all these thynges do the gentylisake. For your he- uenly father knoweth, that ye haue neede of all these thynges. But rather seke ye first y kyngdome of God, and the righte consue- therof, and all these thynges shall be ministered vnto you. ¶

Care not then for the morow, for the mo- rowe daye shall care for it selfe: sufficient is to the daye, is the trouble therof.

¶ The viij Chapter.

¶ The folowynge wordes and sayde iustment, repre- senting the hypocrites, especially vnto parr, in which to be ware of false propheies, and whiche the hearers of dya woide to be doers of the same.

The firste word, that ye be not iudged. ¶ Luke. vi. ¶ (condemne not, and ye shall not be con- demned.) * For as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. * And with what measure ye mete, with the same shall other men measure to you. ¶ Aliter firste ¶ thou a mote in the brothers eye, but con- sider not the beame that is in thine awne eye? ¶ De how lafist thou to thy brother? ¶ Whither: suffice me, I will plucke out a mote out of thine eye, and beholde, a beame is in thine a- wne eye. ¶ Thou hypocrite, firste take out the beame out of thine awne eye, and then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the mote out of thy brothers eye.

¶ And, and it shall be given you: * Seke, & ye shall fynde: Knocke, and it shall be opened vnto you. ¶ For whosoever alkerh, receaueth: and whosoever sekerh, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shall be opened. ¶ In there any man amonge you, which (yf hye some aske bread) wyl offer him a stone: Or yf he aske fyfthe, will he offer him a scerp? ¶ If ye then (when ye are euill) can geue youre children good gyftes, how much moze shall your fa- ther which is in heauen, geue good thynges, yf ye aske of hym?

¶ Therefore, * whatsoeuer ye wolde yf men fruide do to you: do ye euen lo to them also. ¶ For this is the lawe and the prophetes.

* Enter in at the strait gate: for wyde is the gate, and broad is the waye that lea- deth to destruction: and many there be which go in ther at. ¶ For strait is the gate, and nar- rowe is the waye, which leadeth vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it. ¶ Beware of false propheies, which come to you in ap- pers clothinge, but in wordy they are rane.

two possessed of deuylls, which came out of the grained, and were out of measure fence, for that no man might go by that way. And beholde, they cryed out sayinge: * W. Iesu s. sonne of God: what haue we to do with þe? Art thou come hyther to torment vs before the tyme? And ther was a good waye of leſs them: a heerd of many swyne, feyng. So, the deuylls besought him, sayinge, þe shouldest vs out, lustre vs to go oure waye into the heerd of swyne: And he sayde vnto them: go poure wayes. Then wet they out, and departed into the heerd of swyne. And beholde, the whole heerd of swyne was carried headlonge into the see, and perished in the waters. Then they that kepte the, fled, and wet their wayes into the citty, and tolde euery thinge, and what had forctuned vnto the possessed of the deuylls. And beholde, the whole citty came out to mete Iesus: and when they sawe him, they besought him þe wolde departe out of their coastes.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ The heauly the pallie, callith Matthew from the custome, and teacht him by deuylls, heauly the woman of the bloody syle, belueth Iesus daughter, geueth it bynde men the syle, manely a woman man to syle, and dyuety out a beuety.

¶ Entred also into a cyppe, and passed ouer, ad came into his awne citty, and beholde, they brought to hym a man sicke of the pallie, lyinge in a bed. And when Iesus sawe the sayth of them, he sayd vnto the sicke of the pallie: sonne, be of good cheare, thy synnes be forgiven thee. And beholde: certayne of the scribes sayde within them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he sayde, whether is easier to saye, thy synnes be forgiven thee, or to saye, arise and walke? But that þe maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in earth. Then layeth he vnto the sycke of the pallie: arise, take vp thy bed, ad go vnto thyne house. And he arose, ad departed to his house. But the people that sawe it, marueiled, and glorified God, which had geuen such power vnto men.

¶ And as Iesus passed forth from thence, he sawe a mā (named Mathew) sittyng at the reuerce of custome, and he sayeth vnto him: follow me. And he arose, he followed him. And he came to passe as Iesus sat at meate in hys house: beholde, many publicans also and synners thar came, sat downe with Iesus and his disciples.

¶ And when þe pharisees sawe it, they sayde vnto his disciples: why eateth youre master with publicans and synners? But when Iesus heard that, he sayde vnto them: the þe that be longe, nede not the phylisoy, but they that ne sicke. So ope rather and learne what þe meaneth. * I will haue mercy, and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the ryghtewes, but synners to repentance.

¶ Then came the disciples of Iohn vnto him, sayinge: * why do we and the pharisees fast, for the most parte: but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayde vnto the: can the bydegromes children mourne as long as the bydegrome is with them? But the dayed wyll come, when the bydegrome shal be taken from them, and then shall they fast. So man putteth a peece of new cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he awaye the peece from the garment, and the rent is made worse. Nether do men put new wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, and the wyne runneth out, and the bottels perthe. But they putt new wyne into new bottels, and both are sauē together.

¶ Why þe thus spake vnto the, beholde, ther came a certa yne ruler, a wothepped him, sayinge: my daughter is eu now dysased, but come and laye thy hand vpon her, and she shall lyue. And Iesus arose, ad folowed him, and to dyd his disciples. And beholde, a woman which was dysened with an yllue of bloude twelue yeres, came byndye him, ad touched the hēme of his vesture. For she sayde within her selfe: þe I maye touche but euen hys vesture only. I shal be safe. But Iesus turned him aboute, and whan he sawe her, he sayde, daughter, be of good comforte, thy faith hath made the safe. And the woman was made whole, euen that same tyme.

¶ And when Iesus came into the rulers house, and sawe the minstrels, ad the people makinge a noise, he sayde vnto the: get you hence, for þe maye is not dead: but slepeth. And they laughed him to scorne. But whan the people were put forth, he wet in, and take her by þe hande, and (and sayer: damcell, arise.) and þe damcell arose. And this noise went aboute into all that lande.

¶ And whan Iesus departed thence, two bynde mentolowed him, repyng: sayinge: Thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on vs: And when he was come into the house, the bynde came to him. And Iesus sayeth vnto them: Belene þe, that I am able to do this: They saye vnto him: Lord, we beleue. Then touched he their eyes, sayinge: accordinge to youre sayth be it vnto you. And their eyes were opened. And Iesus charged them sayinge: Se that no mā knowe of it. But they, whan they were departed, spreade aboyn the his name in all that lande.

¶ As they wet out, beholde they brought to him a dome mā possessed of a deuyll. And whan þe deuyll was callt out, þe dome spake.

but onely for the prestes / We haue ye not read in the lawe, how that / on the Saboth dayes / the prestes in the temple breake the Saboth, & are blamelesse: But I saye vnto you: that in this place is one greater then the temple. Wherefore, ye wylt what this meaneth: * I require mercy, & not sacrifice: ye wolde not haue condemned innocentes. * For the sonne of man also, is Lord euen of the Saboth daye.

And he departed thence: * and went into their synagoge: and beholde, ther was a man which had his hande bryd vp. And they asked hym, sayinge: Is it lawfull to heale vpo the Saboth dayes: / that they myght accuse him. And he sayde vnto them: which of you wylt it be, that shall haue. * And they, and yf it fall into a pytte on the Saboth daye, wyl he not take it out and lyfte it out: howe much more then is a man better then a shepe: Wherefore, it is lefull to do a good dede on the Saboth dayes. Then sayeth he to him: stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth: And it was restored vnto healt, lyke as the other.

* Then the Phariseis went out, and held a counsell agaynst him, how they myght destroye him. But when Iesus knewe it, he departed thence, and moche people folowed him, and he healed the all, and charged them, that they shuld not make him known: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by Esay the Prophet, which sayeth: * Beholde, my child, whom I haue chosen, my beloued, in whom my soule desireth. I will put my sperte vpon him, and he shall shewe iudgement to the gentylis. He shal not strene neyerce, neither shall any man heare his voyce in the strettes, a boyled reede shall be not brynt, and smokynge flax shall he not quene, till he sende forth iudgement vnto victorie, & in his name shall the gentylis trust.

* Then was brought to him a blind & dōme man, & was vexed with a deuill. As he healed him, in somoch, that the blind and dōme, both spake and sawe. And all the people were amazed, and sayde: Is not this that sonne of Dauid: * But when the Phariseis heard it, they sayd: This fellowe deuylde the deuils no other wyse out, but by the helpe of Belzebub the cheefe of the deuils.

But when Iesus knewe their thoughtes he sayde vnto them: Euey kyngdome deuinded agaynst it selfe, shall be brought to naught. And euery cite or house deuylde agaynst it selfe shall not stande. And yf Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuinded agaynst him selfe how shall then his kyngdome endure. Also, yf I by helpe of Belzebub cast out deuils, by whose helpe do youe chyldezen cast them out: Wherefore, they shall vnto iudges. But yf I cast out by deuils the sperte of God: then is y kyngdome of God come vnto you:

Or els: how can one enter into a strong mans house, and spoyle his Jewels, except he fynd bynde the stronge man, and then spoyle his house: * he that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he yf gathereth not with me, scattereth abrode. Wherefore, I saye vnto you, all manner of synne and blasphemie shall be forgiven vnto men: * but the blasphemy agaynst the sperte, shall not be forgiven vnto men. * And whosoener speaketh a word agaynst the sonne of man, it shall be forgiven hym. But whosoener speaketh agaynst the holy gost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this worlde, neither in the worlde to come: * Either make the tree good, and his fruite good, or els make the tree euill, and his fruite euill. * For the tree is knowne by his fruite. O generation of hyppocrites, how can ye speake good thinges, when ye youre selues are euill: * For out of the aboundance of the hert, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of y good treasure of the hert, byngeth forth good thynges. And an euill man, out of euill treasure, byngeth forth euill thynges. But I say vnto you, of euery ydell worde that men shall haue spoken, they shall geue accountes in the daye of iudgement. * For out of thy wordes thou shalt be iustified: & out of thy wordes thou shalt be condemned.

But he answered and sayde to them. * The euill and deuous generation: seeketh a signe and ther shall no sygne be geuen to them, but the sygne of the Prophet Jonas. * For as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the whales belly, so shall the sonne of man be thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the herte of y earth.

The men of ninue shall cyle in the iudgement with this nation, & condēne it, because they amended at the preaching of Jonas. Beholde, here is one greater then Jonas. * The queene of the south shall rise in the iudgement with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the vtmost partes of the worlde to heare y wordes of Salomon. And beholde, in this place is one greater then Salomon.

Mat. xiii. a. In the same daye wnt Iesus out of the house, & sat by the see syde, and moche people were gathered together vnto him, so grety y he went, and sat in a shype, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thynges to the by similitudes, sayinge: Beholde, the sower went forth to sowe. And when he sowed, some seedes fell by the wayes syde, and the fowles came, and deuoured them vp. Some fell vpon stony places, where they had not moche erth, and anon they sprong vp, because the y had no deuyell of erth: and when the sonne was vp, they caught heat, & because they had no rote, they withered awaye. Agayne, some fell amonge thornes, and the thornes sprong vp and choaked them. But some fell into good ground, & brought forth frute: some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let him heare.

Mat. xiii. a. And the discipule came, & sayde vnto him: Why speakest thou to the by paraboles? He answered and sayde vnto them: * It is geue vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heuē, but to them it is not geuen. * For whosoever hath, to him shall be geue: and he shall haue aboundance. But whoso euer hath not: from him shall be taken a waye that also which he hath. Therefore speake I to them by similitude: for they seinge, se not: and hearinge, they heare not: neither do they vnderstand. And in this is fulfilled the prophete of Esaias, which sayth: * with the eares ye shall heare, and shall not vnderstand: and seinge ye shall se, and shall not perceaue. For these peoples heartes is waxed grosse, and their eares are dull of hearinge, and theyr eyes haue they closed, lest at any tyme they should se with theyr eyes, and heare with theyr eares, & should vnderstand with theyr herte, & be conuerted, that I also myght benle them.

Mat. xiii. a. But blessed are your eares, for they se: & your eares, for they heare. Secretly I saye vnto you, that many prophetes & righteous men haue desyred to se those thynges which ye se, & haue not sene them: & to heare those thynges which ye heare, and haue not hearede them. * There ye therfore y similitude of the sower. Whā one heareth y word of the kyngdome, & vnderstandeth it not, then cometh y euill man, & taketh awaye that which was sowne in hys herte: this is he, which was sowne by the waye syde. But he that receaued the seede which was cast into stony places, y same is he that heareth the word, and anon withioye receaueth it, yet hath he no rote in hym selfe, but dureth for a season: for whā tribulacion or persecucion happeneth because of the worde, by and by he falleth. The also that receaued seede into y thornes, is he y heareth the worde: and the care of this worlde, and the disspayffynesse of cyrcles, choke vp the worde, and so is he made vnfertill. But he that receaued seede into y good ground is he that heareth the worde, and vnderstandeth it: which also beareth frute, & bringeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde.

¶ Another similitude put he forth vnto the, sayinge: * The kyngdome of heauen is likened vnto a man, which sowed good seed in his felde. But whyll men slept, his enemie came, & sowed tares among the wheate, & went his waye. But when the blade was sprong vp, and had brought forth frute, there appeared the tares also. So the seruantes of the household came, and sayde vnto him. Spryde the tares, that thou sowe good seed in thy felde: for wher then hath it tares? He sayde vnto them, the enuious man hath done this. The seruantes sayde vnto him: wyll thou then that we go, and weede them vp? But he sayde, nay, lest while ye gather vp the tares ye plucke vp also the wheate with them, let bothe growe together vntill the haruest, and in tyme of haruest, I wyll saye to the reapers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in burses to be burnt: but gather the wheate into my barn.

¶ Another parable put he forth vnto the, sayinge. * The kyngdome of heauē is lyke to a grappe of mustard seed, which a man toke & sowed in his felde, which is the lest of all seedes. But when it is growne, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tree: so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make theyr nestes in the boughes thereof.

¶ All these thynges spake Iesus vnto y people by similitudes, & with out a parable spake he nothinge vnto the: that it myght be fulfilled, which was spoke by y prophet, that sayth: * I will open my mouth in paraboles: I will

And in the fourth watche of þynghth. Iesus wēt vnto the walkynge on þe see. And whē þe disciples sawe hym walkynge on the see, they were troubled, sayinge: it is some spūre, & they cryed out for feare. But stryght waies, Iesus spake vnto them, sayinge: be of good cheare, it is I, be not a frayed.

Peter and wynd hym, and sayde: Lorde, yf it be thou, byd me come vnto þe on þe water. And he sayde, come. And when Peter was come downe out of the shippe, he walked on the water, to go to Iesus. But whē he sawe a myggher wynde, he was a frayed. And when he beganne to syncke, he cryed sayinge: lorde haue me. And immediately Iesus stretyed forth his hāde, & caught him, & sayd vnto hi: thou of lytell fayth, wherfore dydest thou doubt? And when they were come vnto þe shippe, the wynde ceased.

¶ Then they that were in þe shippe, came and worshypped hym, sayinge: of a truthe thou art the sonne of God. And when they were gone ouer they came into the lande of Genesareth. And when the men of the place had knowldege of him, they set out matts: vnto all that countre rounde about the coast: & brought vnto him all that were sycke, & besought hym, yf they myght touche the hemme of his vesture only. And as many as touched it were made safe.

¶ The xij. Chapter.

¶ Christe: cūth his disciples, & rebuketh the scriues & pharisees for theye geuynge goddes commaundment totheirowe tradicions. The charge that goeth into the mouth desyleth not the man. The despyrers the womā of canaanis daughter, healeth the mulier, & sendeth to loue & a fewe people, theye sendeth, iiii. xij. men, beset the women & christen.

¶ Then came to Iesus scribes and pharisees (whyche were come from Ierusalem) sayinge: why do thy disciples transgresse the tradition of the elders: for they walde not theyr handes whē they cate bread. But he answered & sayde vnto them: why do ye also transgresse the commaundement of God, because of poure awne tradicion: for God commaundeth sayinge: * honour father and mother, and he that curseth father or mother: let hym dye the death. But ye saye: euery one shall saye to his father and mother: * what gife to euer quide haue come of me, the same is turned vnto thy profit: & so shall he not honour his father or his mother. And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte, because of poure awne tradicion. Ppocrites, full well dyd I saye prophesie of you, sayig: * This people draweth vnto me with theyr mouth, and honoureth me with lyppes, howbeit, their hertes are farr from me: but in wayne do they serue me, teachynge the doctrine and 23 preceptes of men.

And he called the people to him, and sayd vnto them: heare and vnderstande. What wybch goeth into the mouth, desyleth not the man: but that which cometh out of the mouth, desyleth the man.

Then came his disciples, and sayde vnto him: knowest thou, that þe pharisees were offended at this sayinge? But he answered and sayd. Euery place which nyg heavenly father hath not planted, shall be plucked vp by the rotes. Let the alone, they be þe bynde leaders of þe bynde. If the bynde leade the bynde, both shall fall into the dysche.

Then answered Peter & sayd vnto him: declare vnto vs this parable. Iesus sayde: are ye also yet without vnderstandinge: do not ye yet vnderstande, yf what soener I seith in at the mouth, goeth into þe bynde, & is cast out into the draught? But those thinges, wybch procede out of þe mouth, come forth: as I seþ þe hert, & they desyle þe man. For out of þe herte procede euill thoughtes, murders, breakeynge of wedlocke, whordoms, thefes, falswittnesse, blasphemies. There are yf diuers, which desyle a mā. But to the measure of vnto all then hādes, desyleth not a mā.

¶ And Iesus went thier, & departed into the coastes of Tyre and Sydon: & beholde, a woman of Canaan, which cam out of the same coastes, cryed vnto him, sayinge: haue mercy on me o Lorde, þe sonne of Dauid. My daughter is ppytously vexed with a deuyll. But he answered her nothing at all. His disciples came, and besought him, sayinge: sende her awaye, for the crieth after vs: But he answered, & sayde: I am not set * but vnto þe lost shepe of þe house of Israel. Then cam she, & worshypped him, sayinge: lorde, helpe me. he answered and said: it is not meete, to take þe chyldeys bread, and to cast it to dogges. She answered & sayde: truthe the Lorde, for the dogges eate of yf crōmes, which fall from their masters table. Then Iesus answered and sayde vnto her. O woman, greake is thy faith, be it vnto the, euen as yf wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.

¶ And Iesus went a waye from thence, and cam nye vnto the see of Galilee, & went vp into a mountayne, & sat downe there. And moche people came vnto him, byingynge to them those þe were lame, blind, deafe, maimed, & other many: & callt them downe at Iesus fete. And he healed the: in so moche, þe people wondered, whan they sawe þe domine speake, & mapined to be whole, the lame to walke, and the bynde to se. And they glorified the God of Israel.

And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude which sayd: this is my beloved sonne: in who I delecte & heare hym. And when the disciples hearde these thynges, they fell on the faces & were sore afrayed. And Iesus came & touched them, & sayd: arise, & be not a frayd. And when they had left vp they eyes they sawe no man save Iesus onely.

And when they came downe fro the mountaine, Iesus charged the saying: Bewe ye vnto no man, vntill the sonne of man be revealed agayne fro the dead. ¶ And his disciples asked him, sayng: why then saye ye scribes, y helias muste fyrst come? And the chyld was healed euery y same tyme.

¶ Then came y disciples to Iesus secretly & sayde: Why could not we cast hym out? Iesus sayd vnto the: Because of your vnbelefe. For verely I saye vnto you: yf ye haue faithe as a greyn of musterd seed, ye shall saye vnto this mountaine: remove hence to yonder place, and it shall remove: nether shall any thinge be impossible vnto you. Iesus called a chyld vnto hym, & set him in y myddes of them, & sayd: wherely I saye vnto you: except ye turne, & become as chylde, ye shall not enter into y kyngdom of heauen. Whosoever therefore humbleth him selfe, as this chyld, the same is the greatest in the kyngdom of heauen. And whoso receaueth such a chyld in my name, receaueth me. ¶ But whoso doth offende one of these lytel ones which beleue in me: it were better for hym, that a millstone were hanged aboute his necke, & that he were drowned in the depth of the see. Wo vnto the world because of offences. ¶ Accellary it is that offences come: But wo vnto the man, by whom the offence cometh.

¶ Wherfore yf thy hande or thy fote hinder the, cut him of: & cast it from the. Take heed: that ye despye not one of these lytel ones. For I saye vnto you, y in heauē their angels do alwayes beholde the face of my father, whyche is in heauē. ¶ For y sonne of man is come to saue that which was lost. * And as they departed fed hiericho, much people followed hi. And beholde, two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus passed by, they cried saying: Lord thou sonne of dauid, haue mercy on vs. And the people rebuked them, because they shulde holde their peace. But they cried the more saying: haue mercy on vs. O Lord thou sonne of dauid. And Jesus stode still, and called them, & sayde: what wylt thou that I shalldo vnto you. They saue vnto him: Lord, that our eyes maye be opened: So Iesus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes, & immediately their eyes receaued sight. And they followed him.

The Gospell,

me. And pſend mā ſaye ought vnto you, ſay pe: the Loſde hath made of them: a ſtreight waye be wylt let the go. All this was done, ſit might be fulfilled which was ſpoke by the prophete, ſaying. * T ell ye the daughter of ſion: behold, thy kyng cometh vnto ſe, mehe, ſettinge vps an aſſe & a colte, the ſole of the aſſe vſed to the pocke. The diſcyples weſ & dyd as Jeſu comanded the, & brought the aſſe, & the colte, & put on the their clothes, & ſet hi there. And many of the people tyed their garments in ſ wape. Other cut bounce brianches fro ſ trees, & ſtrewed the ſ wape.

¶ Then cometh the people ſ wylt befoſe, & they y came after, cryng ſaying: hoſanna to the ſonne of Dauid * Bleſſed be y cometh i the name of y Loſde: hoſanna in y heſt. ¶ ¶ And whē he was come to Jeruſale, all y cite was moued, ſaying: who is this? And the people ſay: this is Jeſus: the prophete of Nazareth (a cite of Galile) And Jeſus went into the temple of god, & caſt out all the y ſolde & bought in the temple, & ouerthrew the tables of y money changers, & the ſeates of them that ſolde dones, & ſayd vnto them:
It is wyttē: my houſe ſhalbe called y houſe of prayer. But ye haue made it a den of theares. And the blinde & the halte came to him in the temple, & he healed them.

¶ When the cheſe Maſters & Scribes ſawe y wonders that he dyd, & the chyldre cryng in the temple: ſ ſaying: hoſanna to the ſonne of Dauid: they beſoughted, and ſayd vnto him: beare ſt thou what theſe ſaye? But Jeſus ſaith vnto them why not: haue ye neuer redde? Out of the mouth of babes & ſucke lynges thou haſte ordeyned prayſe. And he leſte them, and went out of the cite & vnto Bethanie, & had his aſſe there. ¶

¶ In the morninge as he returned into y cite agayne, he bledged: & whā he had ſpoken a ſpygge tree the waye, he came to it, & ſou de nothinge there, but ſeuen onely, & ſayde vnto it: ſeuen frute growe on the bſce for wardes. And anon y ſpygge tree withered a waye. And when the diſcyples ſawe it, they marueled, ſaying: how ſoone is y ſpygge tree withered a waye? Jeſus answered, and ſayd vnto the: verely I ſaye vnto you: y ſeue n ſayth & doth not, ye ſhall not onely do this that is happened vnto y ſpygge tree: but alſo y ſe ſhall ſay vnto this mountayne, remo ue, & caſt thy ſelfe into the ſee: it ſhalbe done.

¶ And all thinges whatſoeuer ye aſke i pray er: y ſe beleue y ſe ſhall receaue them.

¶ And when he was come in to y temple, the cheſe Maſters & the elders of the people ca me vnto him: (as he was teachinge) & ſayde:
¶ What auctorite doſt thou theſe thinges?
& who gaue the theſe power? Jeſus answered & ſayde vnto the: I alſo wyl aſke of you a certayne thing, which y ſe tell me, I in y ke wylt will tell you by what auctorite I do theſe thinges. ¶ The baptiſme of John: whence wouldeſt thou heauen of me? And they thoug ht amonge them ſelues, ſaying: y ſe wyl ſaye fro heaue, he wyl ſaye vnto vs: wyl dyd ye not then beleue him? But y ſe wyl ſay of me n, then ſcare we the people. ¶ For all men holde John as a prophete. And they answered vnto Jeſus & ſayde: we cannot tell. And he ſayd vnto the: neither tell I you, by what au thorite I do theſe thinges. ¶ What ſaye ye to this? ¶ A man had two ſonnes, & came to the ſpyll, & ſayde: ſonne, go worke to daye i my vineyarde. He answered & ſayde, I wyl not, but after ward, he repented, & went. ¶ The can be to the ſceder, & ſayd I ſe wyl. And he answered, & ſayd: I wyl ſe, & wyl not. The ende of theſe twoe dyd y wyl of the father.

And theſe ſayd vnto him: the ſpyll. Jeſus ſay not: but publicans & harlots beleued ym.

And ye: whan ye had ſene it? were not mo myght haue beleued hym. ¶

¶ Hereſe another ſymilitude: ¶ There was a certayne man an houſholder, wher y planted a vineyarde, & hedged it rounde about, & ma de a wynepreſſe in it, & built a tower, & let it out to huſbandmen, & went into a ſtrange cou ntry. And when y tyme of y ſeue drew nea re, he ſent his ſeruautes to the huſbandmen y they myght receaue the frutes of it. And y huſbandmen caught his ſeruautes, & beat one, killed another, & ſtoned another. Agayne, he ſent other ſeruautes, mo on then the fyrſt: ad they dyd vnto the ſpyll wyl. But laſt of all, he ſent vnto the his a wone ſonne, ſaying: they wyl ſtande in a we of my ſonne. But whē y huſbandmen ſawe the ſonne, they ſayd an dger them ſelues: ¶ Theſe is the beſte: come, let us ſlay him, & let vs emoye his inheritance.
And they caught hym, & thruſt hym out of y vineyarde, & ſlew hym. When the Loſde ſawe the vineyarde cometh, what wyl he do vnto thoſe huſbandmen? They ſayd vnto hi:
For ſo much as they be euill, he wyl cruelly deſtroye the, & will let out his vineyarde vnto other huſbandmen, which ſhall deliuer hym the frute in due ſeaſons. Jeſus ſayeth vnto the: dyd ye neuer reade in ſ ſcriptures? ¶ The ſtone wher y the wyldes reſuſed, the ſame is these Pharisees and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived, that he spake of them. And they went about to lay hands on him: but they feared the people, because they took him as a Prophet. And Jesus answered, & spake vnto the agayne by parables and sayde.

The xxxiij. Chapter.

Of the manner of the Kings Sonnes Tribute to be given to the Emperor. And also of the signification of the shadowes concerning the resurrection, & answer: vnto the shew vnto the question.

¶ The Kingdome of heauen is lyke vnto a man that was a hynde, which made a mariage for his sonne & sent forth his seruantes, to call them that were by to the weddinge, & they wolde not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruantes sayinge: Tell the which are by: behold, I haue prepared my dinner: my oken & my fattinges are kylled, & all thynges are ready, come vnto my mariage. But they made lyght of it, & wete their wayes: one to his ferme place, another to his marchauntyse, & the remanent toke his seruantes, & intreated the shamefully to leaue them. But when the kyng hearde thereof, he was wroth, & sent forth his men of warre & destroyed those murderers, and bent vp theyr cite.

¶ The sayd he to his seruantes: my mariage is dede & prepared. But they which were bydden, were not worthy. So ye therfore out into the wayes: as many as ye fynde by to the mariage. And the seruantes went out into the hye wayes, & gathered to gether all, as many as they coude fynde, both good & bad, & the weddinge was furnished with gesses. Then the kyng came in, to se the gesses, & when he spied there a mā, which had not on a weddinge garment, he sayd vnto hym: fele, how canst thou in hyther not hauing a weddinge garment? And he was eue speechlesse. Then sayd he kyng to the ministrers: take & bynde him hand and foote, & cast hym into wyter darcknes: & there shall be weeping & gnashinge of teth. For many be called, but few are chosen.

¶ Then went the pharisees, & toke countsell how they myghte tangle him in his wordes. And they sent out vnto hym theyr dyscyples with herodes seruantes, sayinge: Master, we knowe that thou art true, & teachest the waye of God truly, neither carest thou for any man, for thou regardest not the outward appearance of men. Tell vnto us therefore: how thou thinkest of this lawfull tribute to be geue vnto Cesar or not? But Jesus perceauing theyr wickednes, sayde: Why tempt ye me ye hypocrites? shewe me yf I tribute mony. And they toke of a penny. And he sayde vnto theyr: whose is this image & superscription? They saye vnto him, Cessars. He sayd he vnto theyr: & geue therfore vnto Cesar, the thynges which are Cesars:

¶ The same daye came to him the Saducees (which saye there is no resurrection) & asked him sayinge: Master, Moses sayde: that if yf a man dye hauing no chyldre, his brother shoulde marrye his wyfe, & so by seed vnto his brother. They were with businesse by this: & the fyrste married a wyfe, & deceased wouth yssue & lefte his wyfe vnto his brother. The second, the thirde & the fourth, vnto the fowthe. Laste of all yf woman dyed also. Therefore, in resurrection, whose wyfe shall she be of the leue? for they all had her. Jesus answered & sayde vnto theyr: do erre, not knowinge the scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection, theyr nether marry, nor are married but are as the Angells in heauen.

But as touching the resurrection of the dead: haue ye not red that which is spoke vnto you of God, which sayeth: I am the God of Abraham & the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob: God is not a God of dead, but of lyuing. And when yf people hard this, they were astounded at his doctrine.

¶ But when the pharisees had heard, yf he had put the Saducees to silence, they came together, & one of the which was a doctoure of lawe asked him a question, tempting him, & sayinge: Master, which is the greates commandement in the lawe? Jesus sayd vnto hym: Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thy herte, and with all thy soule, & with all thy mynde. This is the fyrst & greates commandement. And the seconde is lyke vnto this: Thou shalt loue thyne neybour as thy self. In these two commandementes hangeth all the lawe and the Prophetes.

Whyle the pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked the, saying: what thinkest thou of Christ? whose sonne is he? They saye vnto him: the sonne of Dauid. He sayde vnto them: how then doeth Dauid call hym his sonne? For Dauid sayeth: The Lord sayd vnto my Lord: & yet thou myghtest haue sayd I make thine enemyes thy foote boole. If Dauid then, call him Lord, how is he the sonne? And no mā was able to answer him anye thing: neither durste any man from that daye forthe aske him any moe questions.

was called Cayphas) and helde a counsell, that they myght take Iesus by suttelre, and kyll him. But the sayd: not on þ holp daye, lest there be an vppoure amonge the people.

When Iesus was in Bethany, in the house of Simon þ leper, ther came vnto him a womā: haung an alabaſter boxe of precious oymēt, and powred it on his hee, as he ſate at the bourde. But when his diſciples ſawe it, they had inbigunacyon, ſayinge. Wherto ſerueſt thou waſt? This oymēt myght haue bene well ſolde, and geue to the poore. Whē Iesus vnderſtoode that, he ſayde vnto them: why trouble ye the womā? for ſhe hath wrought a good worke vpon me. * for ye haue the poore all wayes, with you: But me thou ſe not haue alwayes. And in þ he hath caſt this oymēt on my bodye, ſhe dyd it to burpe me. Therely I ſaye vnto you: whereſoeuer theſe gyllell ſhal be preached in all þ world, there ſhall alſo this þ ſhe hath done, be tolde for a memoꝛiall of her.

* The one of the twelue (whiche was called Judas Iſcariot) went vnto þ cheſe pretres, and ſayd vnto them: what will ye geue me, and I will deliuer him vnto you? And they apoynted vnto hym threty peces of ſyluer. And ſo that tyme forth, he ſoughte opoꝛtunitie to betraye him.

* The fyrſt daye of ſwete bread, the diſciples came to Iesus, ſayinge vnto him: where wilt thou that we prepare for the, to eate the paſſeouer? And he ſayd: go i to the citty, to ſoche a mā, and ſaye vnto him, the maſter ſayeth: my tyme is at hand, I will kepe myne Eaſter by the, with my diſciples. And þ diſciples byd as Iesus had apoynted the, and they made ready the paſſeouer.

* When the eue was come, he ſate doune with the twelue. And as they byd eate, he ſayd: Therely, I ſaye vnto you, that a one of you ſhall betraye me. And they were excoꝛdinge ſorrowfull, and beganne euery one of them to ſaye vnto him: Lord, iſt it I? he answered and ſayde: be that dyppeth hys hande with me in the diſche, the maſter ſhall betraye me.

* The ſonne of man truly goeth, as it is written of him: but wnto that man, by whom the ſonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for þ mā, iſe he had not bene boꝛne. Then Judas which betrayed hi, answered, and ſayd: maſter, iſt it I? he ſayde vnto him: þ haſt ſayd. When they were eating, Iesus toke bread, and what he had geue thankes, he brake it, & gaue it to þ diſciples, & ſayd: Take heate, this is my body. And he toke þ cup, & thāked, and gaue it the, ſayinge: drinke ye all of this. For this is my bloud, which is of the new teſtament: that is ſhed for many, for þ remiſſion of ſynnes. But I ſaye vnto you: I will not drinke hence forth of this fruite of the vyne tree, vntill that daye, when I ſhall drinke it newe with you in my fathers kyngdome.

* And whē they had ſayde grace, they went out vnto mount Oliuete. Then ſayeth Iesus vnto the all ye ſhal be offended becauſe of me this nyght. For it is wyrtte: * I will ſmyte the ſhepherde, & þ ſhepe of the flocke ſhal be ſcattered abroade. But after I am rylen againe, I will go before you into Galile. Peter answered, & ſayde vnto him: though all men be offended becauſe of the, yet will not I be offended. Iesus ſayd vnto him: Therely, I ſaye vnto the, that in this ſame nyght, before the cocke crowe, thou ſhalt denie me threty. Peter ſayde vnto him: Yee, though I ſhuld dye with the, yet will I not denie the: Like wyſe alſo ſayde all the diſciples.

* Then came Iesus w the vnto a farme place (which is called Gethſemane) and ſayde vnto the diſciples: ſyt ye hēre while I go and praye yonder. And he toke with him Peter and the two ſonnes of zebede, and began to wepe ſorrowfull and heupe. The ſayde Iesus vnto the: * my ſoule his heuy, euen vnto the death. Tēp ye hēre: and watche w me. And he toke a ſprell farther, and ſell ſat on his face, and prayed, ſayinge: O my father, yf it be poſſible, * let this cuppe paſſe frome: neuer theleſſe, not as I will, but as þ wilt. And he came vnto þ diſciples, & founde them aſleepe, and ſayeth vnto Peter: what, couldeſt thou not watch with me one houre: watche, ad praye, that ye entre not into teſtacyon. * The ſpyete is willinge, but the fleſhe is weak.

* He went awayne once againe and prayed, ſayge, O my father, yf this cuppe maye not paſſe a waye frome me, excepte I drinke of it, thy will be fulfilled. And he came, and ſoude the aſleepe againe. For their eyes were heuy. And he leſte the & went againe, and prayed þ threty tyme, ſayinge þ ſame wordes. Then cometh he to his diſciples, and ſayeth vnto the: Sleepe on now, and take your reſt. Beholde, the houre is at hande, & þ ſonne of mā is betrayed into the handes of ſynners. Arise, let vs be goinge: behold, he is at hande, that doth betraye me. * Whil he yet ſpake: lo: Judas one of the nombre of the twelue, came, & with him a greate multitude, w ſwordes & ſtaues, ſent from the cheſe pretres and elders of the people. But he þ betrayed him gaue the a token, ſayinge: whomſoeuer I kysse, that ſame is he, hold him faſt. And forth with he came to Iesus, and ſayde, hāyle vnto the: and kysſed him. And Iesus ſayde vnto him: friend, wherfore aet thou come? The he came thyr, and laped handes on Iesus and toke him.

Of S. Matthew. Ro. xiii.

When he was set downe to geue iudgement, his wyfe sent vnto him sayinge: haue þu nothynge to do with þu selfe mā. For I haue suffered many thinges this daye in my selfe because of him. * But the chiefe prestes and the elders perswaded the people, þat they shoulde aske Barrabas, ad bestrope Iesus. The debite answered, and sayde vnto the: whether of the twayne, wilt thou, that I let loose vnto you? They sayd: * Barrabas. Pilate sayde vnto them: * what shall I do then with Iesus wherby is called Christus? They all sayd vnto him: let hi be crucified. The debite sayde: what cruell hath he done? But they cryed the more, sayinge: let him be crucified. When Pilate sawe þe he coulde perswade nothinge, but that more busynesse was made, he toke water, and washed hys handes before the people, sayinge: I am innocēt of the blood of this iust person. þe shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayd * his blood be on vs, and on oure children. * Then let he Barrabas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.

* Then the loudcours of the debite toke Iesus in the comen hall, and gathered vnto him all the company. And they stripped him, and put on him a purpill robe, and platted a crowne of thornes and put vpon his heed, ad a rebe in his ryght hande: and bowed þe kyne before him: & mocked hi, sayinge: haile, kynge of the Jewes: and whan they had spyt vpon him, they toke the rebe, and smote him on the heed.

And after that they had mocked him, they toke the robe of him agayne, and put hys awne rayment on him, & led him awaye to crucifye him. And as they came out, * they founde a mā of Cyren (named Simon) him they compelled to beare his crosse. * And they came vnto the place which is called Golgotha (þis is to saye, a place of deed ned sculles) and gaue hym veneger to drinke mingled with gall. And whan he had tasted thereof, he wolde not drinke.

When they had crucified him, they parted his garments, & dyd cast lottes: þe myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet. * They departed my garments amonge them: and vpon my vesture dyd they cast lottes. And they late and watched him there, and * set vpon oure his heed the cause of hys deeth, wrytten: This is Iesus the kynge of the Jewes. * Then were there two theues crucified with him, one on the ryght hande, and another on the lyfte.

* They that passed by, reviled him, waggedge their heades, and sayinge: thou that destroyest the temple of God and dydest build it in the dayes, saue thy selfe. * Ithou be the sonne of God, come downe from the crosse. Like wyse also þe hye prestes, mocking him with þe scerles and elders sayde: he saved other, him selfe can he not save. If he be þe kynge of Israel: let him now come downe fro the crosse, & we will beleue him. * He trusted in God, let him deliuer him now, þe he will haue him: for he sayde, I am þe sonne of God. The theues also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teth.

* Ihesu xpye house was there bereknes ouer all the lande vnto the nynt houre. And about the nynt houre, Iesus cryed, with a loude voyce, sayinge: Eli, Eli lama sabathai. That is to saye: my God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? Some of them þe stode there, wher they herde þe sayde: This man calleth for helias. And they cryd wyse * one of them ranne, and toke a sponge, & whan he had fylled it full of veneger, he put it on a rebe, and gaue him to drinke. Where sayde, let be: let vs se whether helias will come, & deliuer hi. Iesus, whan he had cryed agayne w a loude voyce, yelied vpon þe goost.

And beholde, þe voyde of the temple dyd rent in to two partes, from the toppe to the bottome, and the earth dyd quake, and the stones rent and graues dyd open: and many bodies of santes which slept, arose, & went out of the graues after his resurrection, and came in to the holy cytie, and appeared vnto many. * Whan the Centurion and they that were with him watching Iesus, sawe the earth quake, and those thinges which happened, they feared greatly, sayig: Truly, this was the sonne of God.

* And many women were there beholdinge hym a farr off: wherby followed Iesus fro Galile, mynstringe vnto him. Amonge which was Mary Magdalen, and Mary mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of zebedee chyliden. Whan þe cun was come * there came a riche man of Tramarich named Ioseph, which also was Iesus discipule.

He went to Pilate and begged the body of Iesus. Then Pilate commaunded the bodye to be deliuered. And whan Ioseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, and laied it in hye newe tombe, whiche he had hewen out, euen in the rocke, and rolled a grete stone to the doore of the sepulchre & departed. see * Lord was layed: & go quickly, & tell his disciples, * he is risen agayne fro the dead. And behold, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye shall se him. Lo I haue tolde you: **¶

* And they departed quickly from the sepulchre, with feare and greates Joye, & dyd runne, to hying his disciples worde. And as they wet to tell his disciples: behold, Iesus mette, sayinge: All halle. And they came, & held him by the fete, & worshipped him. The sayd Iesus vnto the: he not a frayde. Go tell my brethren, * they go into Galile: & there shall they se me. Whē they were gone, behold, some of the keepers came into the cite & the-wed vnto the hye priestes, all * things that had happened. And they gathered the egether with the elders, & toke counsell, & gaue large money vnto * soldiers, sayinge: Shape ye, * his disciples came by night & stole hym awaye whyle ye slept. And ye this come to * rulers eares, we will perswade him, and saue you harmles. So they toke * money, & dyd as they were taught. And this sayinge is noyed amonge * Iewes vnto this daye. **¶

* Then the * disciples wet a waye into Galile, into a mountayne where Iesus had appointed them. And whē they sawe hym, they worshipped hym. But some doubted. And Ie-sus came, and spake vnto the, sayinge: * All power is geuen vnto me in heauē, & in erth.
So ye therefore, & teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the father, & of the sonne, & of the holy goost: Teaching the to observe all thinges, whatsoeuer I haue commanded you. And lo I am with you all ther rebode in the tynp wyth the byrd seruantes, and folowed hym.

C And they came into Capernaum: and streight waye on the Saboth dayes, he entered into the synagoge, & taught. And they were astonyed at his learninge. * For he taught them as one that had auctoryte, & not as the scribes.

And there was in their synagoge an vnclene spirite, and he cryed sayinge: What haue we to do with the thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the what thou art eue that holy one of God. And Iesus rebuked hym sayinge: holde thy peace, and come out of the man. And whan the vnclene spirite had toarne him, & cryed with a loude voyce, he came out of him. And they were all amazed, in so much that they demaunded one of another amonge them selues sayinge: what thyng is this? What newe doctrine is this? For with auctorite commaunded he the foule spirites, and they obeyed hym. And immediately his fame spred abroad through out all the region borderinge on Galile.

And forth with, whā they were come out of the synagoge * they entred into a house of Symon and Andrew, wyth James and John. But Symons mother in lawe laye sick of a feuer. And anon they tell him of her. And he came, & toke her by the hande: & lifte her vp: & immediatly she feele forsoke hyr. & she mynistred vnto the. And at euen when some was downe, they brought vnto him all that were dyscaised, and them that were vexed with deuils. And all the cytie was gathered together at a dore, ad he healed many that were sick of diuers diseases, ad cast out many deuyls, & suffered not the deuyls to speake, because they knewe him.

And in the mornynge depe early, Iesus (whan he was risen vp) departed, and wot out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with hym, folowed after hym. And when they had founde him, they saye vnto him: all men seke for the. And he sayd vnto them: let vs go into the next townes, that I maye preach there also: for therfore am I come. And he preached in their synagoges, in all Galile, and cast the deuyls out.

And ther came a leper to him, beseeching hym, and kneeling downe, and sayde vnto him, if thou wilt, thou cannest make me cleane. And Iesus had compassion on hym, & putte forth his hande, touched hym, & sayeth vnto him: I will, be thou cleane. And asone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosy departed fro him, and he sent him awaye forth with, and sayeth vnto hym. * Se thou saye nothinge to any man: but get the hence, & shewe thy selfe to the p̄sente, and offer for thy clensinge, those thynges whiche Moses commaunded, for a witness vnto them. But he (asone as he was departed) beganne to tell many thynges, and to publyshe the sayenge: in so much that Iesus coulde nomore openly enter into the cytie, but was wont in desert places. And they came to hym from euery quarter.

C The ij. Chapter.

C he chose the min of the p̄sente, called by the open synagoge, and called by the people.

After a fewe dayes also, he entred into Capernaum agayne, and it was noyed he was in the house. And anon many were gathered together, in so much that now there was no come to receaue them, no not so moche as about the dore. And he preached the woordes vnto them. * And they came vnto him, bringe one synke of palsye wher was borne of fower men. And when they coulde not come nye vnto him for pease, they vncouered the rofe of the house that he was in. And whā they had broken by the rofe, they dyd (wyth coardes) let downe the bed wherin the synke of the palsye laye. When Iesus sawe theye sawth, he sayde vnto the synke of the palsye: * sonne thy synnes be forgiven the.

But ther were certayne of the scribes spytinge there, & thynking in their heart: why doth he speake thus blasphemys? who can forgive synnes, but God onlye? And immediately when Iesus perceaued in hys spyrte, that they so thought wyth in them selues, he sayeth vnto them: whye thynke ye such thynges in youre heartes? Whether it is clayer to saye to the synke of the palsye: thy synnes be forgiven the: or to saye, arise, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power in earth to forgive synnes, he spake vnto the synke of the palsye: I saye vnto the: arise, and take vp thy bed, and get the hence vnto thine awne house. And immediatly he arose, toke vp the bed, and went forth before them: all in so much that they were all amazed, & glorified God, sayinge: we neuer sawe it on thus fallow.

And he went agayne vnto the see, & all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught them. And as Iesus passed by, he sawe leue the sonne of Aiphe, sittinge at the receypte of custom, and sayde vnto hi: folow me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that whan Iesus late at meate in hys house, many publicans and synners late also together at meate wyth Iesus and his disciples. For there were many, & folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharisees sawe him eate wyth publicans and synners, they saye vnto his disciples: howe hyppocrites it, that he eateth & dryncketh wyth publicans and synners,

¶ The parable of the sowes. Christ telleth the tempest of the wynd, whych shal be hym.

And he began agayne, to teach by p se byde. And there gathered together vnto him much people, so gregethat he had to enter into a ship, & ad sat in the see, and all the people was by the see syde on the wynde. And he taught them many thynges by parables, and sayde vnto them in his doctrine: hearken to: beholde, * there went out a sower to sow. And it sowed as he sowed, that some fell by p waye syde, and the fowles of the ayre came, and deuoured it vp: Some fell on stony grounde where it had not moche erth: and immediately sprauge vp, because it had not deapth of erth: but as some as the sonne was vp, it caught heat: & because it had not rotyng, it withered awaye.

And some fell amonge thornes, & p thornes grew vp, and choked it, and it gaue no fruite. And some fell vpon good ground, and dyd yelde fruite that sprang vp, and grew, and brought forth, some thyrty folde, and some fiftie folde, and some an hundred folde. And he sayde vnto them: he that hath eares to heare let him heare. ✠

And when he was alone, they that were aboute hym wyth the twelue asked hym of the parable. And he sayde vnto them. * To pou it is geuen to knowe the mystry of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are with out, all thynges happen by parables: y when they see, they maye se, and not discern, ad when they heare, * they maye heare, and not vnderstande: lest at any tyme they shuld turne, and their synnes shuld be forgiven them. And he sayde vnto them: knowe ye not this parable? and how then wyll ye knowe all other parables?

* The sower soweth the woide. And they (wherof some be repented to be by p waye syde) are those, where the woide is sowne: And wha they heare, sathā cometh immediately, and taketh awaye the woide y was sowne in theyr hertes. And lyke wyse the other that receaued seide in to the stony ground, are they: whych when they heare the woide, atonce receaue it w gladnes, yet haue no rote in the selues, and so endure but a tyme: ad anone whā trouble a persecutorye seeth for y woide sake, they fall immediately. There be other also p receaue seide into thornes: and those are those as heare y woide, & y cares of this worlde, and y dyssempfulness of ryches and plussers of other thynges, entre in and choke y woide, ad it is made vnfertill: and other ther be, y haue receaue seide into a good ground: they are those y heare y woide, and receaue it, so that one cometh doth bynge forth thyrty, some thyrty, some an hundred.

And he sayde vnto them: * is the candle lyghited, to be put vnder a busshell, or vnder the tabler? Is it not lyghited to be put on a candlestyk? * For there is nothyng so preuy, so shall not be opened: neether hethit bene so secret, but y it shall come abroade. I feyn man haue eares to heare, let him heare. And he sayde vnto them: take hede what ye heare: * with what measure ye mete, with the same shall other men measure vnto pou agayne. And vnto pou that heare, shall more be geuen. * vnto him that hath, shall it be geuen, ad from him that hath not, shall be taken awaye, euen that which he hath.

And he sayde: so is the kyngdome of God, ent as * p a man shuld sow seide in p ground, and shuld slepe, and ryle vp nyght and daye: and the seide shuld spryng and growe vp, while he is not a ware. For p earth bynggeth forth fruite of her selfe: first the blade, then the care, after that the full cometh in the care. But when the fruite is brought forth, anone he throoteth in the spikell, because the heryell is come.

And he sayde: where vnto shall we lyken the kyngdome of God: or with what comparison shall we compare it? * It is lyke a grayne of mustart seed: whych when it is sowne in the earth, is lesse then all seedes that be in the earth: whan it is sowne, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes: and beareth greake bzaunches, so that the fowles of the ayre maye make their nestes vnder the shadow of it.

* And with many soche parables spake he the woide vnto them, after as they myght heare it. But wyth out parable spake he no thyng vnto the. But whā they were alone, * he expounded all thynges to his discyples. And the same daye when eue was come, he sayde vnto them: let vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they lefte the people, & toke him euen as he was in the ship. And ther were also wyth hym other discyples.

* And ther arose a great boyme of wynde, & p waues bathed in to p ship, so that it was now full. And he was in the sterne a slepe on a pelowe. And they awoke him, & saie vnto hym: Master, carest y not, that we perishe? And he

And they came * oner to the other ſyde of the ſee into the countrey of Gadarenes. And when he was come out of the ſhippe, immediatly there met hym out of the graues a man poſſeſſed of an vncleane ſpyete, whych had byd abydinge amonge the graues. And no man coulde bynde him: no not with cheynes, becauſe that when he was often boūde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the chaynes a ſunder, and brake the fetters in peeces, & ſeether coulde eny man tame hi. And alwayes, nyght and daye he was in the mountaynes and in the graues, cryeng and beating hym ſelfe wpyth ſtones. But when he had ſpyed Jeſus a ſarre of, he ranne, and worſhipped hym, and cryed with a loude voyce and ſayde: what haue I to do wpyth the? Jeſus the ſonne of Dauid ſayd vnto hym: I requyre the in the name of God that thou to me: me not. for he ſayd vnto hym: come out of the man thou ſoule ſpyete. And he aſked hym: what is thy name? And he answered and ſayde vnto hym: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayd hym inſtantly, that he wolde not ſende them awaye out of the countrey.

¶ But ther was there nye vnto the mountaynes * a greaſe heerd of ſwyne ſcyringe, & all þe deuils beſought hym, ſayinge: ſende vs in to the heerd of ſwyne, that we maye enter into the. ¶ Copye of the vij. Chapter of the Gospell of S. Marke. The vij. Chapter of the Gospell of S. Marke.

And he departed thence, & cam into hyss awne countre, and hyss dyscyples folowed hym. And when the Sabbath daye was come, he beganne to teache in the synagoge. And many that hearde hym were astonyed, and sayd: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wysdome is this, that is geuen vnto hym, and suche vertues y are wrought by hyss handes? ¶ Is not this the carpenter & Joses sonne, the brother of James and Joses and of Judas & Symon? are not hyss sisters here with vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus sayd vnto the: ¶ A prophet is not despised, but if hyss awne countre, and amonge hyss awne kynne, as in his owne house hold. And he coulde there thew no myracle, but lappe hyss handes vpo a fewe sycke folcke, and healed them, and merueyled, because of theyr vnbeliefe. ¶

¶ And he went aboute by the townes that laye on euery syde, teaching. And he called the twelue, and beganne to sende them forth two & two, and gaue the power agaynst vncleane spytes. And he commaunded the, that they shuld take nothing in their iourney: ¶ save a rodde onely: no serpye, no bread, no money: if theyr pover, but a lute, & shooe of sandals. And that they shuld not put on two cootes. And he sayde vnto the: wher soeuer ye entre I to an house, there abide, & tyll ye departe thence. ¶ And whosoever shall not receaue you nor heare you, wher ye departe thence, shake of y duste that is vnder your fete, for a witnesse vnto them. ¶ I saye verely vnto you: if shalbe easier for yodom & Gomoz in the daye of iudgement, then for that crite. ¶ And they wet out & preached, that men shuld repent: & they cast out many deuyles: & annoynted many y were sycke with oyle, and healed them.

¶ And kynge Herode hearde of hym: (for hyss name was spread abroad) and he sayde: John Baptiste is risen agayne fro y dead, & therfore myracles are wrought by hi. Wher sayd it is helyas: some sayd: it is a prophet, as one of the prophetes. But when Herode hearde of hym, he sayde: it is John whom I beheaded, he is risen from death agayne. ¶ For Herode hym selfe had sent forth men of warre, and layed handes vpon John, and bounde hym, & cast hym into prison for Herodias sake, hyss wythes wyfe (because he had maryed her). For John sayde vnto Herode. ¶ It is not lawfull for y to haue thy wythes wyfe. Herodias layd wythes for hym, and wolde haue kylled hym, but she coulde not. For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a iust ma & an holy: & gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he yd many thynges, and hearde hym gladly.

And when a cōuenient daye was come, y Herode on hyss birthdaye, made a supper to y lordes hye capitayns, & chefe officers of Salile: & wha y daughter of the same Herodias cam in, & daunced, & pleased Herode & the that sate at boure also: the kynge sayde vnto y damosell: alke of me what thou wilt, and I will geue it the. ¶ And he swore vnto hyr: what soeuer y shall aske of me, I will geue it y, euen vnto y one halfe of my kynngdome. And she went forth, & sayde vnto her mother: what shall I aske: the sayd: John Baptistes head. And she ca i strepght waie wyth haste vnto y kynge, & asked, saying: I will, y thou geue me by and by in a charger, the head of John Baptiste. And y kynge was forp: howbeit for hyss othes sake, and for the sake wherby late at supper also, he wolde not cast her off. And immediately the kynge sent the hangman, and commaunded hyss head to be brought in. And he went, and beheaded hym in the prison, and brought his head in a charger, and gaue it to the damosell, and the damosell gaue it to her mother. ¶ And when hyss dyscyples hearde of it, they came, and toke vpp hyss body, and layed it in a graue. ¶

And the Apostles gathered the selues together vnto Iesus, as told hym all thynges both what they had done, ad what they had taught. And he sayd vnto the: come ye alone out of y waie into the wyldernes, & rest a whyle. For there were many commers, and goers, and they had no leasure to moch as to eate: ¶ And he went by shyp out of the waie into a desert place. And his disciples answered hym: Where shalbe a man hane bread here in the wyldernes to satisfye these? And he asked them: how many loaves haue ye? They sayde: seuen. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grounde. And he toke the seuen loaves, and when he had geuen thanckes, he brake, and gaue to hys disciples, to let before them. And they did let them before the people. And they had a fewe small fyngers. And when he had blessed, he commaunded them also to be set before them. And they byd cate, and were satisfied. And they toke wy of the brokenmeate that was left: seuen basketes full. And they that byd cate: were about foure thousande.

And he sent them awaye. †

And anon he entred into a chapp with his 23

But at the first cracyon. * God made them man and woman. * Therefore shall a ma lea- ue hys father & mother, & byde by hys wyfe, & they twayne shalbe one fleche. So then are they now not twayne, but one fleche. Therefore, what God hath coupled together let not man separate. † Gen. i. d. † Mat. i. d. † Luc. i. d.

And in the house hys disciples asked him agayne of the same matter. And he sayeth vn- to them. * Whosoener putteth awaye hys wyfe, & marryeth another, breaketh wedlo- ke to her warde. And yf a woma forsake her husband, and be marryed to another, she com- myteth aduocerye. * And the which brought chyliden to hym, that he shulde touch them. And hys disciples rebuked those that brou- ght them. But when Iesus sawe it, he was dyspleased & sayd vnto them: suffer the chil- dren to come vnto me, forbyd them not. For of such is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you, whosoener doth not receaue þ kyngdome of God * as a childe, he shal not entre therein. And whā he had taken the by in hys armes, he put his handes vpon them, and blessed them. † Mat. x. d. † Luc. x. d.

And when he was gone forth into the waye, ther came one cnapge and knied to hym, & asked hym: * good master, what shal I do, that I maye enherite eternal lyfe? Iesus sayde vnto hym: why callest thou me good? There is none good, but one, which is God. Thou knowest the commandementes: beca- he not marrymory: hyl not: sleale not, beare no false wytnes: defraude no man: honour thy father and mother. He answered ad sayd vnto hym: After, all these I haue observed from my yowth. Iesus behelde hym, and fa- uoured hym, and sayd vnto hym: one thyng thou lackest. * So thy waye. * Sell that thou hast, and geue to the poore, & yf thou haue treasurie in heauen, and come, folow me. And take vp my crosse vpon thy shul- ders. But he was dysforted because of that sayinge, and went awaye mournyng for he had great possessions. † Mat. x. d. † Luc. x. d.

And whā Iesus had looked rounde aboute, he sayde vnto his disciples. * how vncaspe shall they þ haue money: entere to the kyng- dome of God. And the disciples were aston- nyed at hys wordes. But Iesus answered agayne, & sayeth vnto the: childe, how harde is it for the, that trust in money, to entre in- to þ kyngdome of God? It is easier for a camel to go thorow yf of an nedle, then for the ryche to entre into þ kyngdome of God. And they were astonnyed out of measure, sayinge betwene them selues: who then can be saved? Iesus toke vpon them, and sayd: with me it is impossible, but not with God: for * with God all thynges are possible. † Mat. x. d. † Luc. x. d.

And Peter began to saye vnto byn: Lo.

¶ I will followe thee whithersoever thou shalt go.

The Gospell

*Mat. xix.
Luk. xiiij.

* We haue forsaaken all, & haue followed the. Jesus answered, & sayde: Alerty I saye vnto you, ther is no ma that hath forsaake house, or brether, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wyfe, or chyldren, or landes for my sake & the Gospelles, but he shall receaue an hundred fold more in this lyfe, house & bretheren, and sisters, and mothers, and chyldren, and landes wryth persecutions: & in þe wyll be to come, eternal lyfe. * But many þe are fyt, that laste a yaste, fyt. And the y were in þe wyse goryng vnto Jerusalem. And Jesus went before them, and they were amazed, & folowed, and were asfaydr.

*Mat. xvi.
Luk. xiiij.

And Jesus toke the twelue agayne, and beganne to tell the what thynges shalbe daye vnto hym. * Schole, we go vnto Jerusalem, & the sonne of ma shalbe deliuered vnto the hye Priestes, and vnto the Scribes: so they shall condemne hym to deeth, and shall deliuer hym to the gentyls, and they shall mocke hym, and scourge hym, spyt vpon hym, and kyll hym. And the yde daye he shall ryse agayne.

*Mat. xvi.

* And James and John the sonnes of zebedee came vnto him, sayyng: Chaster: we wolde, that thou shouldest do for vs whatsoeuer we desyre. he sayde vnto them: what wolde ye that I shuld do for you? They sayde vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we maye sette, one on the ryght hande, and the other on the lyfte hande, in thy glory. But Jesus sayd vnto them: Ye wote not what ye aske. Can ye drynche of the cup, that I drynche of: and be baptysed wryth the baptysme, that I am baptysed wryth? And they sayde vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayde vnto them: ye shall in dede drynche of the cup, that I drynche of: ad wryth þe baptysme that I am baptysed wryth all, shall ye be baptysed in: but to sye on my ryght hande, & on my lyfte hande, is not myne to geue, but it shall happen vnto them, for whom it is prepared.

*Mat. xvi.

* And when þe ten heard it, they began to dyscayne at James and John. But Jesus whan he had called them to hym, sayd vnto them: ye knowe, that * they wyche are seene to beate rule amonge the people, raygne, and Lordes ouer them. And they that be greete amonge the, exerceye auctorite vpon them. Fenertheles, so shall it not be amonge you: but whosoever of you wyll be greete amonge you, shalbe poure mynister. And whosoever wyll cheefe, shalbe seruaut of all. For * the sonne of man also came not to be mynistered vnto: but to mynister, ad to geue his lyfe for the redempcion of many.

*Mat. xvi.

* And they came to hierico: * And as he wete out of þe cite of hierico wryth his dyscyples, and a greate nombre of people: blynde Bartymew the sonne of a tymer, satte by þe wayes syde beggynge. And when he hearde that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to crye, ad to saye: Jesus, thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked hym, that he shuld holde hye peace. But he cryed the more a greate deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, ad commaunded hym to be called: And they called þe blynde, sayyng vnto hym: Be of good comforte: ryse, he calleth the. And he threwe a waye hye cloke, and rose, and came to Jesus: And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blynde sayde vnto hym: Chaster, that I myght se. Jesus sayde vnto hym: go thy waye, thy fapth hath saved the. And immediately he receaued hye sight, & folowed Jesus in the waye.

*Mat. xvi.

* The xj. Chapter.
 * Christ ryseth to Jerusalem. & he ryseth wryth þe dyscyples and there are cast out of the temple. The dyscyples quere hym to the churche.
 * And when the y came nye to Jerusalem vnto Bethpaze a Bethanien, belynde mount Olyuete, he sendeth forth two of hye dyscyples, and sayeth vnto the: So poure wape into the toune, that is aue agaynst you. And as soon as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynde a colte bounde, wheron neuer ma fate: lose hym, and byrnye hym byther. And yf eny man saye vnto you: why do ye so? Saye ye, that the Lorde hath neede of hym: and it cryght waye he wyl sende hym byther. And they went thetyr waye, and founde the colte tyed by the doore wryth out in a place wher two wapes met, & they loosed hym. And dyuers of them that stode there, sayde vnto them: * what do ye, loosinge the colte? And they sayde vnto them, euen as Jesus had commaunded: And they let them go. And they broughe the colte to Jesus and cast thez garmentes on hym: and he satte vpon hym. And many spake thez garmentes in the waye. Other cut downe bryanches of the trees, and strowed them in the waye. And they that went before and they that folowed: cryed, sayyng. Hosanna: * blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde. Blessed be the kyngdome of me, that cometh in the name of hym that is Lorde of oure father Dauid: Hosanna in the heye.

*Mat. xvi.

And the Lorde entred into Jerusalem and into the temple. And wher he had loosed robb about vpon all thynges, and now the euen tyde was come, he went out vnto Bethanien wryth the twelue. * And on the morow when they were come out from Bethanien, he hungered. And whan he had spied a fyg treer a farr of, haupnge leaues, he came to it, yf he myght fynde eny thynges thereon. And when he came to it, he founde nothyng but leaues.

but leaues for the tyme of hys death was not yet. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the fygge tre: neuer man eate frute of the here after: whyl the woelde stode. And hys disciples hearde it.

And they came to Ierusalem. And Iesus went into the temple, & began to saye vnto them that solde and bought in the temple, ad ouerthrew the tables of the monye chaungers, & the stoles of them that solde dones: and wolde not suffer, that any man shuld carye a vessel thowow by tye. And he taught, sayinge vnto them: is it not wyrtten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nacpous: But ye haue made it a denne of theiers.

And the Scribes and hye pnestes hearde it, and sought howe to destrope hym. & for they feared hym, because all the people marvelled of hys doctryne. And when euen was come, Iesus went out of the temple. & And in the morninge as they passed by, they sawe a fygge tree dyed vp by the cotes. And Iesus remembered, and sayde vnto him: master, beholde, the fygge tree whych thou cursedst, is wyddozed awaye. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: haue confydens in God.

And I saye vnto you, that whosoener shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, & ad cast the selfe into the see, and shall not doute in hys herte, but shall beleue that those thynges whiche he sayeth shal come to passe, what soeuer he sayeth he shall haue.

Therefore I saye vnto you, what thynges soeuer ye desire wyl ye praye, beleue ye pr receaue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stand & praye, & forgeue, ye pr haue ought agaynst any man, that youre father also whych is in heauen, maye forgeue you your trespasses.

And they came agayne to Ierusalem. & And as he walked in the temple, ther came to him the hye pnestes, & the Scribes, & the elders, and saye vnto hym: by what auctorite doest thou these thynges: and who gaue the thes auctorite, to do these thynges? Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng: & answer me me, & I will tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. & The daytyme of Iohn, whether was it fro heauen, or of me? Answer me. And they thought in the selues, sayinge: ye wyl saye, fro heauen: he wyl saye why then did ye not beleue hym: but ye they had sayd, of me, they feared the people. For all me couited Iohn, & he was a verie prophet. And they answered & sayd vnto Iesu: we cannot tell. And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto the: neither wyl I tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. I

And he beganne to speake vnto them by paraboles. A certayne man planted a vynyard, and compassed it aboute wth an hedge, and ordeined a wyne presse, and bylt a toure, and let it out to hye vnto husbandmen, and went into a straile countre. And whē the tyme was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruant, that he myght receaue of the husbandmen of the frute of the vynyard. And they caught hym, and bet hym, and sent hym awaye agayne emptye. And mozeouer, he sent vnto the another seruant, and at hym they cast stones and brake hys heeb, & sent him awaye agayne all to reupled. And agayne, he sent another, and him they kyllde: & many other, beatinge some, and kyllinge some.

And so when he had yet but one beloued sonne, he sent him also at the last vnto them, sayinge: they wyl feare me some. & But the husbandme sayd amongest the selues: this is his heyre: come & let vs kyll him, & the heritage shalbe oures. And they took him & kyllde hi, & cast hym out of the vynyard. What shall therfore the Lorde of the vynyarde do: he shall come, and destrope the husbandme, & let out the vynyard to other. haue ye not red this scripture: & The stone whych by builders byd refuse, is become y chief stone of the corner: this is the Lorde doinge, & it is meruelous in oure eyes. & They wot about also to take him, & feared the people. & For they knewe, & he had spoken the parable agaynst the. And they left hym and went the waye.

And they sent vnto hym certayne of the pharisees & herodes seruantes, to take him his wordes. And as those as they were come, they sayd vnto him: Master, we knowe that thou arte true, & carest for no man: for thou cōspirest not by word appearance of men, but teachest y waye of God truly: Is it lawful to paye tribute to Cesar, or not? Dought we to geue, or ought we not to geue? But he vnderstode they spmulated, & sayd vnto the: Why tepte ye me: bringe me a peny, & I maye se it. And they brought it. And he sayeth vnto the: Whose is this penyage & super-scrip? And they sayd vnto hym: Cesar. And Iesus answered, and saye vnto them: & Geue to Cesar the thynges that belonge to Cesar: and to God, the thynges whych pertyne to God. And they meruelled at hym.

There came also vnto hym the Saduces, & whych saye f there is no resurreccion. And they asked hym sayinge: Master & Moses wrote vnto vs, pfeenyng many brother byc, & ad leaue hys wyfe behynde hym, and leaue no chyldzen: that hys brother shuld take hys wyfe, and reffe by seed vnto hys brother. & There were seven brethren, and the first took a wyfe: and when he dyed, left no seed.

behynde hym. And the seconde toke hyr, and dyed: neither left he any seed. And the thyrde lyke wyfe. And seuen had hir, ad left no seed behynde the. Last of all the wyfe dyed also. In the resurreccyon therfore when they shall ryse agayne: whose wyfe shall the be of the? For seue had her to wyfe. And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: Do ye not therfore erre, because ye vnderstande not the scriptures, neither the power of God: for whē they shall ryse agayne fro deeth, they neither marry, nor are marryed: but are as the angels, which are in heauē. As touching the deeth, y^e they ryse agayne: haue ye not redde i the booke of Moses, how in p^ro^phetie, God spake vnto hym, saying: I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, but the God of Jacob: he is no God of deeth, but y^e God of lyuynge. Ye are therfore greatly deceaued.

* And whā ther came one of the Scribes, and had hearde them dysputynge to gether (and perceaued that he had answered them well): he asked hym: which is the fyrst of all the commaundementes? Iesus answered him, the fyrste of all the commaundementes is: heare O Israel. * The Lorde oure God, is Lord onely: And thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God with all thy hart, & wyth all thy soule, and wyth all thy mynde, and wyth all thy strength. This is the fyrste commaundment. And the seconde is lyke vnto this: * Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe. Ther is none other commaundment greater then this.

And the Scribe sayde vnto hym: well master, thou hast sayd the truthe, for ther is one God, & ther is none but he. And to loue hym wyth all the herte, and wyth all the mynde, & wyth all the soule, & wyth all the strength: and to loue a mans neyghbour as hym selfe, is a greater thyng, then all burnt offerynges and sacrificys. And when Iesus sawe y^e he answered discretly, he sayde vnto hym: Thou art not farre from the kyngdome of God. And no man after that, durst aske hym any questyon.

And Iesus answered & sayde, teachynge in the temple: how saye the Scribes y^e Chyrt is the sonne of Dauid: for Dauid him selfe inspyred y^e p^ro^phetie goost, sayd: * The Lorde sayde to my Lorde, syt on my ryght hande: tll I make thyne enemyes thy fote stoe. Dauid himselfe calleth hē Lorde: & how is he then hys sonne? And moche people hearde him gladly. And he sayde vnto them in his doctrine: be ware of the Scribes, which & loue to go in lōge clothynge: & loue saluatiōs in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregacyons, ad the hyppermost countes at feastes: whych deuoure wydowes houles, ad vnder a patience, make longe prayers. These shall receaue greater dampnacyon.

* And when Iesus sat ouer agaynst the treasury, he behelde, * how the people put money i to the treasury. And many that were ryche, cast in moche. And ther cam a certayne pooze wydowe, and she threw in two mytes, whych make a farthyng. And he called vnto hym hys discyples & sayed vnto the. Secretly I saye vnto you, that this pooze wydowe hath cast more in, then all they which haue cast into the treasury. For they all dyd cast in of their superfluyte: but she of her pouerte, dyd cast in all that she had, euen all her lyuynge.

Chapter. 4.

¶ The ende of the wynde. The hope and the bourge is vnknewen.

¶ As as he went out of the temple, * one of his discyples sayde vnto hym: Master. se what stones, and what buyldynges are here. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Drect y^e these greates buyldynges: Ther shall not be left one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwen downe. And as he sat on mounte Syon, ouer agaynst the temple, Peter, and James, and Iohn, and Andrew, asked hym secretly: tell vs, when shall these thynges be? And what is the sygne when all these thynges shall be fulfilled? And Iesus answered them, and began to saye: * take hede, lest any mā deceaue you. For many shall come in my name sayynge: I am Chyrt, and shall deceaue many.

When ye shall heare of warres, and tydinges of warres, be ye not troubled. For such tpynges must nedes be: But the ende is not yet. For ther shall nacp aryle agaynste nacpon, and & kyngdome agaynste kyngdome: And eber thalbe creth quakes in all quarters, and famyngment shall ther be, and troubled. These are y^e begynnynges of sorowes. * But take ye hede to poure selues. * For they shall byngne you by to the counceils, and into the synagoges, and ye shall be beaten: yet, and shall be brought before rulers and kynges for my sake, for a testimoniall vnto the. * And the Gospell must fyrste be published among all nacpons.

* But whē they leade you and present you, take ye no thought, neither pnyng in aforehande what ye shall saye: y^e what shal be geuen you in the same houre, that shal speake. For it is not ye y^e speake, but the holy goost. The brother shall deliuer y^e the brother to deeth, and the father the sonne: and the chyliden shall ryse agaynste thez fathers & mothers, and shall put them to deeth. And ye shall be hated of all men for my names sake. But who so emburcht vnto the ende, the same shall be safe.

C The .xx. Chapter.

Of the passion, death, and buryall of Ihesu.

And anone in the dawninge * the hye Priestes helde a counsell wth the elders & the Scribes, & the whole congregation, & bounde Iesus, & ledde him awaye, & deliuered hym to Pilate. And Pilate asked him: art thou k^{ing} of the Jewes? And he answered, & sayd vnto hym: thou sayest it. And the hye Priestes accused him of many thynges. So Pilate asked him agayne, sayinge: * Answerest thou nothing? Beholde, how many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesus yet answered nothing, so that Pilate merueyled.

At that feast Pilate byd deliuer vnto the a prisoner: whomsocuer they wolde desyre. And ther was one that was called Barabaz, wherby laye bounde with them that made insurrection: he had conuyncted murder. And the people called vnto him, and began to desyre him, that he wolde do, accordyng as he had euer done vnto them. Wylate answered them sayng: Will ye that I let loose vnto you the k^{ing} of the Jewes? For he knewe, that the hye Priestes had deliuered him of enuy. But the hye Priestes moued the people, that he shulde rather deliuer Barabaz vnto them.

Pilate answered agayne, and sayde vnto them: * What will ye then that I do, vnto him, whos ye call the k^{ing} of the Jewes? And they cryed agayne: crucifie hym. Wylate sayd vnto the, what couldest thou haue done? And they cryed the more feruently: Crucifie hym. And so Wylate wyllynge to content the people, * let lose Barabaz vnto them & deliuered vnto Iesus (whan he had scourged hym) for to be crucified.

And the souldiers led him awaye into the common hall, and called together the whole multitude, & they clothed him with purple, & they plantid a crowne of thornes, & crowned him withall, & beganne to salute him: haile k^{ing} of the Jewes. And the y^{mo}te hym, on the heed wth a reede and byd spitt vpon hym & bowed their knees, & worshipped hym.

And whē they had mocked him, they toke the purple of hym, & put his auncient clothes on him, & ledde hym out, to crucifie hym. * And they cōpelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene: the father of Alexander and Rufus) which came out of the felde, to bære his crosse. * And they brought him to a place named Golgotha: wherby is of a man interpreted: the place of deedmyns skulls) and they gaue him to drinke, wyne mingled wth mycke, but he receaued it not.

And when they had crucified hym * they parted his garments, casting lots vpon them, what euer man shulde take. And it was aboute the third houre, & they crucified hym. And the tittle of his cause was writte: The k^{ing} of the Jewes. * And the president with him two theues. The one on the right hande, & the other on his lyfte. And the scripture was fulfilled which sayeth: * he was counted amonge the wicked.

* And they that went by, rayled on hym: wagging their heedes, ad saying: A wretch the thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in thre dayes: saue thy selfe, & come downe from the crosse. Lykewys also mocked hym the hye Priestes amonge them selves with the Scribes & sayde, he saved other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Christ the k^{ing} of Israel defende now frō the crosse, that we may se, & beleue. And they that were crucified with him checked him also.

* And whē the syxte houre was come, darkness arose ouer all the erth, vntyll the nyynth houre. And at the nyynth houre Iesus cryed wth a loude voyce, saying: Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani: wherby is (of one interpreted) * my God, my God why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stode by, when they heard that, sayd: beholde, he calleth for Helias. * And one ran, and fyllid a sponge full of vineger, and putte on a reede, & gaue him to drinke, sayinge: let him alone, let vs se, whether Helias wyl come and take hym downe.

But Iesus cryed wth a loude voyce, & ad gaue vp the goost. * And the vayle of the temple byd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the bottoome. * And when the Centurion (which stode before him) sawe, that he so cryed, and gaue vp the goost, he sayde: truly this man was the sonne of God. * Ther were also wemen a good wape of, beholding him: amonge whome was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James the ylle: & of Ioseph, & Mary Salome * (which also when he was in Galilee had followed him & ministered vnto him) and many other women, whych came wth Iesus vnto Ierusalem.

And now when the euen was come (because it was ¶ The resurrection of Iesu Christ, and howe he ascended into heauen.

Ad when p̄ Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalen, & Mary Ia-cob, & Salome, bought sweete spices, p̄ they myght come, & amongst him. * And early in the morning, the first daye of the Sabbath they came vnto the sepulchre, when the shē was risen. And they sayd among them sel-ues: who shall rolle vs a waye the stone frō the doore of the sepulchre? And when they looked, they sawe how that the stone was rolled a waye, for it was a very greate one. And they wet into the sepulchre, and sawe a younge man sittynge on the right syde, clothed in a longe white garment, & they were afrayed.

* And he sayeth vnto them, be not afrayed: ye see Iesus of Nazareth, whych was crucified. he is risen, he is not here. Shoulde the place where they had put hī. But goe yowre waye, and tell his disciples, & Peter, that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye se hī, as he sayd vnto you. * And they wet out quickly, and fledd from the sepulchre. for they trembled & were amazed. Neither sayde they eny thyng to eny man, for they were afrayed.

* When Iesus was risen early the first daye after the Sabbath: he appeared first to Mary Magdalen, out of whō he had cast seuen deuyles. And she went, and tolde them that were with him, as they mourned & weapte. And they, whan they herde that he was a lyue, and had appered vnto her, beleued it not. * After that, appeared he vnto two of them in a Trauering figure, as they walked, & went in to the country. And they went & tolde it to the remanant. And they beleued not these alio.

* Afterwarde he appeared vnto the eleuen as they sat at meate: and cast in there their vnbelefe, and hardnes of herte: because they beleued not them whych had sene that he was risen agayne frō the dead. And he sayde vnto the: * Go ye into all the worl-de, and p̄che the Gospell to all creatures. he that beleueth & is baptised, shall be saued. But he that beleueth not, shall be damned.

beleue. * In my name they shall cast out deuyles, they shall speake with newe tonges, they shall & dryue awaye serpentes. And p̄ they drynke any deadly thyng, it shall not harme them. They shall laye their handes on the sycke, & they shall recover.

So then, when p̄ Loed had spoken vnto them: he was receined into heauen, and sat on the right hand of God. And they went forth, and p̄ached euery where: the Loed

The first Chapter.

¶ The conception and birth of Iohn the baptist. The circumcision of Iesu. The thanksgynges of Mary and zachary.

There was in p̄ dayes of he-rode the kynge of Iurie, a certaine p̄est named zacharyas: of the coule of Abia. And his wyfe was of the daughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth:
they were, both pyghteous before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordynances of the Loed, that no mā coulde fynde fauoure with them. And they had no chyldre, because that Elizabeth was barren, and they booth were now well stricken in age.

And it came to passe, p̄ whē zachary executed the p̄esties offyce before God, as his course came (accorpyng to the custome of the p̄stres

presses office) hys lot fell to burne incense.

And he * went into the temple of the Lorde, & the whole multitude of people were with out in prayer, whilst the incense was burninge. And there appeared vnto him an Angell of the Lorde, standing on the ryght syde of the altare of incense. And when zacharias sawe him, he was abashed, & feare d on him.

But the Angell sayde vnto him: feare not zachary, for thy prayer is heard. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare thea sonne, and thou shalt call his name John. Ad thou shalt haue soye and gladnes, and many shall reioyce at his birth. for he shall be great in the sight of the Lorde, and shall nether dunke wyne ner strange drinke. And he shall be tyed with the holy goost, euen fro his mothers wombe: and many of the chyldren of Israel shall tourne to their Lord God. And he shall go before him in the spyte & power of * helias, to tourne the hertes of the fathers to the chyldre, and the vnbelievers to the wisdom of the iust men, to makereadye a perfect people for the Lorde.

And zacharias sayde vnto the angell: by what token shall I knowe this: for I am olde, and my wyfe well streyken in yeres. And the angell answered, and sayd vnto him. I am Gabriel, that stande in the presens of God, and am sent to speake vnto the: and to shewe the thes gald tydings. And beholde it shall come to passe, that thou shalt be domine, ad not be habd to speake, untill the daye that these thynges be performed, because thou beleuost not my wordes, which shall be fulfilled in this season.

And the people wrotyd for zacharias, ad merueyled that he taryed in the temple. And when he came out, he coulde not speke vnto them. And they perceaued, that he had sene a visyon in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned speechlesse.

And it fortuned, that as sone as the dayes of his office were out, he departed into his awne house. And after thole dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceaued, & hid her selfe sone monethes, sayinge: Theys wyfe hath God deare with me, in the dayes wherein he hath looked on me, to take from me my rebuke amonge men. And in the syxt moneth the angell Gabriel was sent from God vnto a cytye of Galile, named Nazareth, to a virgin spoused to a man, whose name was Ioseph, of the house of dauid. Ad the virgins name was Mary. And the angell went in vnto her, and sayde. Haple full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed art thou amonge women.

When she sawe him, she was abashed at his sayinge: and cast in her mynde, what maner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her: feare not Mary: for thou shalt haue grace with God. Behold, * thou shalt conceaue in thy wombe, & beare a sonne, & * shall call his name Iesus. he shall be great, & shall be called the sonne of the hyst. And the Lorde God shall geue vnto him the sente of his father dauid: ad * he shall rule ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and * of his kyngdome there shall be no ende.

Then sayde Mary vnto the angell: how shall this be, seynge I knowe not a man? And the angell answered, & sayde vnto her. The holy goost shall come vpon y, and the power of the hyst shall ouer shadowe the. Therfore also that holy thyng which shall be borne, shall be called the sonne of God. And be holbe, thy colyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceived a sonne in her age. And this is her syxt moneth, which was called barren: for * with God shall nothing be vnpossible. And Mary sayde: beholde the hande mayden of * Lorde, be it vnto me according to thy word. And the angell departed from her.

And Mary arose in thole dayes, & wnt into the mountayns with haste, into the cytye of Iewrie, and entred into the house of zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuned, that when Elizabeth heard: si salutation of Mary, the babe sprang in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy goost, & cried with a loud voice, and sayde: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that y mother of my Lorde shulde come to me: for lo, as sure as the voyce of thy salutation sounded in myn eares, the babe sprang in my wombe for soye. And blessed art thou that hast belued: for thole thynges shall be performed, which were tolde the from the Lorde. And Mary sayd.

* My soule magnifieth the Lord. And my sprete hath reioyced in God my sauour. For he hath looked on the lowe degre of hys hande mayden: for lo: now from hence forth shall all generations call me blessed. Because he that is my gyfry, hath done to me grate thynges, & holpe is his name. And his mercy is on the that feare him, from generation to generation. he hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered the that are proud in the ymaginacyn of their herte. * he hath putte downe the mygthy from their seates, and exalted them of lowe degre. he hath fylled the hongry with good thynges: and sent awaye the ryche emptye. he hath helpe bys seruaut Israel, in remembraunce of hys mercy.

* Euen as he promysed to oure fathers, * Abraham, and to his seede for euer. And Mary abode with her aboute a. iij. monethes, ad retourned agayne to her a wne house.

Elizabeths tyme came that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne. And her neyghbours and her colyns heard howe

And it fortuned that in y^e eighth daye, they came & to cercise the chylde: and called his name zacharias, after y^e name of hys father. And his mother answered and sayde: not so but he shalbe called Iohn. And they sayd vnto her: There is none in thy kynred, that is named with this name. And they made sygnes to his father, howe he wolde haue be called. And he aiaied for wytyng tables, and wrote, saying: his name is Iohn. And they marvelled all. And hys mouth was opened immediately, & his tongue also, & he spake, and prayled God. And feare came on all the that dwelt nye: vnto them. And all thesaynges were noyfed abroade throughtout all y^e hill countre of Iurie: and all they that herde the layde them vp in their hertes, saying: What manner of chylde shall this be? And the hande of the Lorde was with him:

And his father zacharias was filled with the holy goost, and prophesied sayinge:

The seconde Chapter.

* The birth and circumcison of Iesus. How he was receiued into the temple, howe Simeon and Anna prophesie of him, and how he was founde in the temple among the doctours.

And it chaunced in those dayes: that ther went oute a commaundement from Augustus the Emperour, y^e all the world shulde be taxed. And thys taxing was the fyrst, & executed when Syrenus was leftenant in Syria. And every man went vnto his awne cytie to be taxed. And Ioseph also ascended fro Galile, out of a cytie called Nazareth, into Iewry: vnto a cytie of Dauid, which is called Bethlechem, because he was of the house and lynage of Dauid, to be taxed with Mary his spoused wyfe, which was with childe.

* Luc. i. xviij.

And it fortuned that while they were there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she broughte forth her fyrst begotten sonne, & wrapped him in swadynge clothes, and layde him in a manger, because ther was no rowme for him in the pynce.

* * * * *

And ther were in the same region shepherdes, watchynge and keepynge their flocke by night. And lo, the angell of the Lorde stode harde by them, and the brightnes of the Lorde shone rounde aboute the, & they were loze afrayed. And the angell sayde vnto the: Be not afrayed. For behold, I bringe you tydings of greate ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is borne this daye in the cytie of Dauid, a sauour which is Christ y^e Lord. And take this for a sygne: ye shall fynde the childe wrapped in swadynge clothes, & layed in a manger. And the veryght waye ther was with the angell a multitude of heauently sowyers, prayng God: & sayinge: Glorify to God on hye, and peace on the erth, & vnto men of a good will.

* * * * *

And it fortuned, as lone as y^e angels were gone awaye from them into heauyn, the shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now eue vnto Bethlechem, and se this thing that we heare saye is happened, which the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came wth hast, & founde Mary and Ioseph & the babe layde in a manger. And when they had seene it, they published abroade the saynges, which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that hearde it, wondered at those thynges which were tolde the of the shepherdes. But Mary kepte all those saynges, and pondered them in her hert. And the shepherdes returned, prayng and lauding God for all the thynges that they had herde and seene, eue as it was tolde vnto them.

* And whē the eighth daye was come y^e the childe shulde be circumcised: his name was called Iesus: which was named of y^e Angell, before he was conceived y^e wode.

* Gen. xviij. & Luc. i. xviij.

* And when the tyme of their purification (after the lawe of Moyses) was come, they brought him to Iherusalem, to present him to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde: euery man chylde that fyrst openeth y^e matrix, shalbe called holy to y^e Lorde) and to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payre of turtle doves, or two pounge pignons. hierusalem whose name was Simeon. And the same man was iust & godly, & looked for the consolation of Israel, and the holy goost was in him. And an answer had he receaved of the holy goost, y^e he shoulde not se death, excepte he fynde lawe the Lordes Christ. And he came by inspiration into the temple.

And when the father & mother brought in the chyldre Iesus: to do for him after the custome of the lawe, then toke he him byn in his armes, & sayd: Lorde, now lettest thou thy servant departe in peace, accordyng to thy wordes. For myne eyes haue seene, & my saluacion: which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. A lycht to lighten y^e gentils, & the glory of thy people Israel.

And his father & mother: incruypled at those thynges, wher he spoken of hym. And Simeon blessed them, and sayde vnto Mary his mother: beholde, this chyld is sett to be fall and vpspring agayne of many in Israel, & for a signe which shalbe spokē agaynst. And moouinge, the hearte of all peace thy soule, that the thoughtes of many hartes maye be opened.

And ther was a Prophetesse, one Anna, y^e daughter of Iohnan of the tribe of Aser: which was of a great age, & had lyncd with an husbande, viij. yeres from der virginite. And she had bene a widowe aboute. iij. score & iij. yere, which departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastinges and prayes night & daye. And she came forth y^e saye houre, and prayed to the Lorde, & spake of him, to all the that looked for redempcyon in hierusalem.

And whan they had performed all thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to thire awncitie Nazareth. And the chyldre grew, and were stronge in sperte, & was fylled with wysdome, & the grace of God was vpon him.

And his father & mother went to hierusalem every yere: at the feast of easter. And when he was. xij. yere olde, they went vp to hierusalem after the custome of the feast daye. And when they had fulfilled the dayes: as they returned home, the chyldre Iesus a boode styll in Ierusalem, & hys father & mother knewe he not of it: but they supposyng him to haue bene in the company, came a dayes iorney & sought him amonge their kynfolke & acquaintance. And when they founde him not, they went backe agayne to hierusalem, and sought him. And it fortuned that after. iij. dayes, they founde him in the temple, spetynge in the myddes of the doctours, hearing them, & posynge them. And all the that heard him, were astounyed at his vnderstanding & answers.

And when they sawe him, they marueyled. And his mother sayde vnto him: sonne, why hast thou thus dealt with vs? Beholde, thy father & I haue sought the, forswage. And he sayde vnto the: how is it y^e sought me? wylt ye not, that I must goe aboute my fathers busynesse? And they vnderstode not that saynges which he spake vnto them. And he went downe with them, & came to Nazareth, & was obedient vnto them. But his mother kept all these saynges together in her herte. And Iesus increaseth in wysdome & age, and in fauoure, with vs & men.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

¶ The preaching, baptisme, and presentment of Iohn. The baptisme of Iesus, and acceptall of the generation of the fathers.

In the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Tiberius the Emperoure, Pontius Pilate beyng leftenant of Iewrye, and Herode beyng: Tetrach of Galile, and his brother Philip Tetrach of Syreia & of the region of the Tetracotes, & Lyfaniath the Tetrach of Trablone. Wher Iudas and Cayphas were the hie prestes, y^e worde of the Lorde came vnto Iohn the sonne of a charias in the wyldernes. And he came in to all the coastes aboute Jordan, preachinge baptisme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtte in the booke of y^e wordes of Eysaas the prophet, sayenge: The voyce of a crier in wyldernes: prepare y^e waye of the Lord, make his pathes straight. Every valley shalbe fylled, & every mountayne & hyll shalbe brought lowe. And thynge that be croked, shalbe made streight: & y^e rough wayes shalbe made playne: & all the that see, the saluation of God.

Then sayde he to the people, that were comē forth to be baptyzed of him: & wege generation of vyces, who hath taught you to fye from the wrath to come? & bring forth therfore due frutes of repentance, & begyn not to saye wyth in youre selues: we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you, God is able of these stones to reseyse vp chyldren vnto Abrahā. Now also is the axle leyde vnto the rote of the trees: & every tree therfore which byngeth not forth good frute, is hewen downe, & cast into the fyre.

And y^e people asked him, sayenge: what shal we do then? he answered and sayeth, vnto the: he that hath two coats, let him parte wyth hym that hath none, & he y^e hath meate, let him do lyke wyse.

Then cam y^e publicans also to be baptyzed, & sayde vnto him: Master, what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them: requyre no more, then that which is appointed vnto you.

He founde also the wyse demaund of him, sayenge: and what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them: hurt no man: neyther trouble any man wrongfully: and be content with youre wages.

Drutt W. and M. H. H.

And he crept him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said vnto him: Pe thou be the sonne of God, cast thy selfe downe from hence. for it is wyrtten: I will geue his Angels charge ouer thee, to keepe thee, and in their handes they shall beare the vp, that thou dost not thy foot agaynst a stone. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him, it is sayd: thou shalt not tempte the Lord thy God. And as tyme as all the tentation was ended, the diuell departed from him for a season.

And Jesus returned by the power of the spirit, into Galile, and there went a fame of him throught out all the region. And he taught in the synagogues and was commended of all men.

And he came to Nazareth where he was nourished and (as his custom was) he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up for to read. And there was delivered unto him the booke of the prophete Esaias. And when he had opened the booke, he founde the place, where it was written. The spirit of the Lord upon me, because he hath anointed me: to preach the Gospel to the poore he hath sent me: to heale the broken hearted, to preach deliveraunce to the captiue, & sight to the blinde: freely to set at libertie the that are bound, and to preach the acceptable penne of the Lord.

And he closed the booke, and gaue it agayne to the minister, and satte downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue, were fastened on him. And he began to saye vnto them: This daye is this scripture fulfilled in your eares. And all bare hym witness: and wondered at the gracious wordes, which proceeded out of his mouth. And they sayde: Is not this Iosephs sonne?

And he sayd vnto them: Ye will utterly saye vnto me this puerbe: Phisicion, heale thy selfe. What seruice we haue heard done in Capernaum, do the same here likewise in thynne owne countre. And he sayde: Verily I saye vnto you: No prophete is accepted in his owne countre.

But I tell you of a trouth: many widowes were in Israel in the daies of helias when heauen was shut thre yeres and syxe monethes, when greate famynment was throughout all the lande, and vnto noone of the was helias sent, saue into Sarepta beydes Sidon, vnto a womā that was a widowe. And many lepers were in Israel in the tyme of Elisha the prophete: none of the was clyed, sayng I amman the syrtid.

And all they in the synagogue (when they herde these thinges, were filled with wrath: and rose vp, and thrust him out of the churche, & led him euē vnto the edge of the hyll: where on the churche was bylde) & they myght cast him downe headlong. But he departed, and went bys waye euē throught the myddes of the. And came downe to Capernaum, (a churche of Galile) and there taught them on the Sabbath dayes. And they were astounded at his doctrine: for his preaching was with power. And in the synagogue there was a man which had an vniclaue spirit of a deuill, and cryed with a loud voice, sayinge: let me alone, what hast thou to do with vs, thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destruye vs? I knowe the what thou art, cuz the holp of God. And Iesus rebuked him, sayinge: holde thy peace, and come out of hym. And when the deuill had throught hym in the myddes, he came out of him, and hurt him not. And ferre cam on the all, and they spake among them selues, sayinge: what manner a thing is this? For with aucthoritie & power he commaundeth the foules spirtes, and they come out. And the fame of hym was spreade throught out euery place of the countre rounde aboute.

And when he was rylen bys come out of the synagogue, he entred into Simons house. And Simons mother in lawe was taken with a great feuer, and they made intercession to hym for her. And he stood ouer her, and rebuked the feuer, and the feuer left her. And immediatly she arose, and ministered vnto them.

When the sonne was downe, all they that had syck, take with diuers diseases, brought them vnto hym: and he layde his handes on euery one of the, and healed them. And the mylles also came out of many, crying a saying: thou art Christ the sonne of God. And he rebuked the, and suffered them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Christ.

As sone as it was daye, he departed, and went into a desert place, & the people sought him, and came to hym, and kept hym that he shulde not departe from them. And he sayde vnto them: I must preach the kyngdome of God to other cities also: for therfore am I sent. And he preached in the synagogues of Galile.

And he entred into one of the fischpes, (which perteyned to Simon) and prayed him that he wold thrust oute a lyttell from the lande. And he satte downe, and taught the people out of the fisch. When he had lefte speakinge, he layde vnto Simon: Launche out into the depe, ad let fische poure nettes to make a draught. And Simon answered, and sayd vnto hym: Master, we haue laboured all nyght, and haue taken nothinge.auertheles, at thy commaundement I will lofe forth the net. When Symon Peter sawe this, he fell downe at Iesus knees, saying: Lord, go fre me, for I am a sinful man. For he was assayed a all y were with hym, at the draught of fyshes which they had taken: and so was also James and John the sonnes of zebedee, which were partners with Symon. And Iesus sayde vnto Symon: feare not, from hence forth thou shalt catche men. * And it fortuned that when he was in a certen cytie: behold, there was a man full of leprosy, & when he had spyed Iesus, he fell flat on hye face, and besought him, saying: Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth his hand, and touched him saying: I will, be thou cleane. And immediately the leprosy departed fro hym. And he charged hym, y he should tell no man: but go shew thy selfe to the prieste, & offer for thy cleansing accordyng, as Moyses commaunded, for a wytnesse vnto them.

But so much the more went there a faine abode of hym, and much people came together to heare, & to be healed of hym of theyr infirmities. And he kepte hym oute of the waye in the wildernesses, and gaue him selfe to prayer.

* And it happened on a certen daye: that he taught: and ther late the pharises and doctors of lawe, which were come out of all the townes of Galile and Jewrye, and Ierusalem. And the power of the Lord was present, to heale the. * And behold, men brought in a bed, a man which was take with a palse: and they sought meanes to bring him in, and to laye him before hym. And when they coude not fynde on what syde they myghte bring hym in (because of the people) they went vp on the toppe of the house & let him downe thowre the tpyng, bed and all, euen in the myddes before Iesus. When he sawe they sayde he sayd vnto him: man, thy synnes be forgiven the. And the scribes and the pharises began to thincke, saying: What fellowe is this, which speaketh blasphemye: * who can forgive synnes but God only?

But whē Iesus perceaued their thoughtes, he answered, and said vnto them: What thyngke ye in your hartes: whether is ealier to saye thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye: be thou cleane.

* But y ye maye knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synne on earth, he sayd vnto the synke of the palse: I saye vnto thy: arise, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thy house. And immediately he rose vp before them, and toke vp his bed, (where on he laye) and departed to his owne house, praising God. And they were all amased, and they gaue the glosp vnto God. And were fylled with feare, saying: We haue sene draungethynges to daye.

* And after this, he went forth, and sawe a publican named Leuy, (sytyng at the receyte of custome, & he sayd vnto him: folow me. And he left all, and rose vp, and folowed him: And Leuy made hym a greute fcaste in his owne house. And ther was a greute compaignie of publicans and of other that sate at meate, with them. * And the scribes and pharises murmured against his disciples, saying: Why do ye receyte and dyner with publicans and sinners? And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: They that are whole, neede not the physician: but they that are sycke. I came not to call the ryghte wse, but synners to repentance.

And they sayde vnto hym: * Why do the disciples of John fast often, and praye, & the disciples of the pharises also: but thyne eate and dyner? he sayde vnto them: * Can ye make the chylde of the wedding fast, wyle the byrdge come is with the? * The daye wyl come, when the byrdge come also: thalbe take awaye from the: then shall they fast in those dayes.

he spake also vnto them a similitude. No man putteth a peece of a newe garment, into an old vesture, for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe, and the peece that was take out of the newe, agreeth not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde bottels, for yf he do, the newe wyne wyl burst the bottels, and runne out it self, and the bottels shall perishe. But newe wyne must be put in to newe bottels, and both are preferred. No man also that dycketh old wyne, straight waye can a waye with newe: for he sayeth the olde is better.

And when he was now, not farre fro the house, the Centurion sent frendes to hym, sayinge vnto hym: * Lorde, trouble not thy self: for I am not worthy: that thou shouldest enter vnder my rooffe. Wherefore I thought not my self worthy to come vnto y: but saye thou the word, & my seruaut shall be whole. For I also am a man set vnder power, and haue vnder me soldiers, as I saye vnto one go, and he goeth, & to another, come, & he cometh: and to my seruaut, do this, & he doth it. When Iesus heard this, he inclyned at hym, and turned hym about, and sayde to the people that folowed him: I saye vnto you, I haue not founde so great faith, no, not in Is- rael. And they that were sent, turned backe home agayne and founde the seruaut whole that had bene sick.

¶ And it fortuned after this, yf he went into a cytie which is called Naun, & many of his disciples went with him, and moche peo- ple. When he came nye to the gate of the cy- tie: behold, ther was a deef man caryed out, which was the onely sonne of his mother, & she was a widow, & moche people of the cy- tie was with her. And when the Lord sawe her, he had compassion on her, and sayde vn- to her: wepe not. And he came nye, & touch- ed the cōfyn: and they that bare him stode styl. And he sayde: Penge man, I saye vnto the, arise. And he that was deef, sat vp, & began to speake. * And he deliuered him to his mo- ther. And ther came a feare on them al. And

And they wete to another towne. * And it chaunced that as they were walking in the wyne, a certayne man sayd vnto him, * I wyl folowe the whithersoever thou goest. Iesus sayde vnto him: forsooke haue holes, ad byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to laye his head.

And he sayde vnto another: folowe me. And the same sayde: Lorde, suffer me first to go and bury my father. Iesus sayde vnto him: * Let the deed burye their deed: but go þ, and preache the kyngdome of God. And another sayde: Lorde, * I wyl folowe the: but let me first go byd them fare well, which are at home at my house. Iesus sayde vnto hym: No man that putteth his handes to the plowe, and looketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of God.

Chap. x. Chapter.

The tenth day the lre. before him to please, and geueth them a charge how to beuote them selues, prayeth his iustaucy father, and receiveth the scripe that is geuen hym, and by the example of the Samaritan: the which shoulde be a maner neighbour. After receaueth the Lorde: into her house, many exagolaine pa dyrs gent in bearyng hym woude.

After these thynges, the Lorde appoynted other. lre. * (two and two) also, and sent them tway and tway before hym into euery cytie & place, whyther he him selfe wolde come. Therefore sayd he vnto them: * the haruest is great, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therefore þ lord of the haruest, to sende forth labourers into his haruest. So your wapes: * be bold, I sende you forth as labbers among wolues. Beware no wollet, neither kerry, nor shoces, & * lute no ma by the waye. * Into whatsoeuer house ye enter, first saye: Peace be to thy house. And if the sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon him: yf not, it shall turne to you agayne. And in the same house tary tyll, eatyng and drychlyng such as they geue: for the labourer is worthy of his rewarde. *

So not from house to house, & into what soeuer cytie ye enter, & they receaue you, cate such thynges as are set before you, and heale the sicke that are therein, and saye vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come npe vpon you. * But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, & they receaue you not, go your wapes out into the streets of the same, & saye: euen the deery dust of pouer cytie (which cleaueth on vs) do we wype of agaynst you: Notwithstanding, be sure of this, that the kyngdome of God was come npe vpon you. I saye vnto you: þ it shall be easier in that daye for zodome, then for that cytie.

* And vnto the Chorazin: wo vnto the Bethsaida. For þ miracles had bene done in Cyre and Sidon, which haue bene done in you, they had a greates whyle ago: yepented of theyr synnes, yettyng in beecloth and asines. Neuertheles, it shall be easier for Cyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (which art exalted to heauen) shalt be thurst downe to hell. * Ye þ heareth you, heareth me: and he that despyseth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth him that sent me.

And the lre. turned agayne w hope, sayng: Lorde, euen þ very deuils are subbued to vs thorow thy name. And he sayd vnto them: * I sawe Satan (as it had bene lightning) falling downe from heauen. * Behold, I geue vnto you power, to treade on serpents, and scorpions, and ouer all manner power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you. Neuertheles, in this reioyse not, þ þ wyetes are subbued vnto you: but reioyse, that þ pouer names are wypten in heauen.

That same houre reioyled Iesus in (the bold) ghost, and sayd: I thanke the, O father. * Lorde of heauen and earth, that thou hast byd these thynges from the wyte and wynde, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for to pleased it the. * All thynges are geue me of my father. * No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: ad who the father is, but the sonne, & he to whos þ sonne wyl shewe hym.

And he turned to his disciples, and sayde secretly: * I happy are the eyes, which se þ thynges that ye se. For I tell you, that many prophetes prophets and kinges haue desired to se those things which ye se, and haue not sene the: and to heare those things which ye heare, and haue not hearde them.

E And behold a certayne lawyer stode by, & tempted him, saying. * After, what shall I do, to inherit eternall lyfe? he sayde vnto him: What is written in the lawe: how redest thou? And he answered ad sayde: I loue the Lorde thy God, with all thy heart, & with all thy soule, & with all thy strength, & with all thy mynde: and thy neyghbour as thy selfe. And he sayde vnto him: Thou hast answered right. & this do, and thou shalt lyue. But he willinge to iustifie him selfe, sayde vnto Iesus: And who is my neyghbour?

Iesus answered, & sayde, A certayne man descended from iherusalem to hierico, & fell among theenes, which robbed him of his rayment & wounded him, ad departed, leupnge him halfe dead. And it chaunced, that there came downe a certayne puelle yf same waie, & whē he sawe hi, he passed by. And lyke wyse a Leuite, whē he wēt nye to yf place, came ad looked on hi, & passed by. But a certayne Samaritane, as he cogneped, came vnto hym: ad when he sawe him, he had compassion on him & wēt to, and boude vp his woundes, & poured in oyle & wyne, and set him on his owne beast, and brought him to a cōmyn pynne, ad made piousion for him. And on the morow, whē he departed, he toke out .ij. pēce, & gaue the to yf host, & sayd vnto hi. Take care of hi & whatsoeuer yf spendest moare, whē I come agayne I will recōpence the. Which now of these thre thynkest yf, was neyghbour vnto him yf fell among the theues? And he sayd: he that sheweth mercy on him. Then sayde Iesū vnto him: Go, and do thou lyke wyse.

E It fortained that as they went, he entered into a certayne towne. And a certayne woman named Martha receaued him into her house. And this woman had a syster called Mary, which also sat at Iesus fete, & heard his worde. But Martha was troubled aboute moche scrupunge, & stode & sayde: Lorde, dost yf not care, that my syster hath left me to serue alone: And byd her therefore, yf she helpe me. And Iesus answered, & sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, & troubled aboute many thynges: wherelys one is nedefull. A ry hath cholen the good parte, which shall not be taken a waie from her.

E The xij. Chapter.

E The teachys his disciples to praye, depyeth out a deuyll, & rebuketh the blasphemous Pharisee. They reuenge Ierosolym. He exhorty with the Pharisee, & rejoyceth the people of the Iherusalem, for they are poynted.

Ad it fortained as he was prayinge in a certayne place: whē he ceased, one of his disciples sayde vnto hym: Lorde, teach vs to praye, as Iohn also taught bys disciples. And he sayde vnto them: when ye praye, saye. * O our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy will be fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. Our dayly bread geue vs this daye. And forgie vs our synnes: for euen we forgiue euery man that treasareth vs. And Leade vs from temptacion. But deliuer vs from euyl.

And he sayd vnto them: If any of you shall haue a frend, & shall go to him at myght, and saye vnto him, frende: lende me thre loanes, for a frende of myncis come out of the waie to me, and I haue nothinge to set before him, and he withyn answer, and saye: trouble me not, the doie is now shut, and my chyldren are with me in the chamber, I cannot ryle and geue the. I saye vnto you, though he wyl not arise and geue him, because he is his frende: yet because of his importunite he will ryle, ad geue him as many as he nedeth. And I saye vnto you: * alke, and it shall geuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde: knocke, ad it shall be opened vnto you. For euery one yf asketh, receaueth: and he that seeketh, fyndeth: & to him yf knocketh, shall it be opened. If some shall aske byrd of eny of you that is a father, wyl he geue him a stone? Or yf he aske fish, wyl he forgyue geue him a serpent? Or yf he aske an egge, will he offer him a scorpion? Yf ye then begyng euyl, can geue good giftes vnto youre chyldren, how much moare shall your father of heauen geue the holy sperte to them, that desyre it of him.

* And he was castinge out a deuyll, and the fame was domine. And whē he had cast out the deuyll, the domine spake, & the people wonderd. But some of them sayde: * he casteth out deuylls thoroowe Beelzebub the chefe of the deuylls. And other tempted him and requyred of him a signe from heauen. But he knowinge their thoughtes, sayd vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuied agaynst it selfe, is desolate: and one house doth fall vpon another. If Satan also, be deuyned agaynst him selfe, how shall his kyngdome endure? Because ye saye, that I cast out deuylls thoroowe Beelzebub. If I, by the helpe of Beelzebub cast out deuylls, by whose helpe do youre chyldren cast them out. Therefore shall they be your iudges. But yf I, with the synger of God cast out deuylls, no doute the kyngdome of God is come vpon you.

* When a stronge man armed watcheth his house: the thynges that he possideth are in peace. But when a stronger then he cometh vpon him, and ouercometh him, he taketh from him all his barnes (wherin he trusteth) ad deuierth his goodes. Ye that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth his gode.

The Gospel.

* Mar. 11. b. * When the vniuersall fyre is gone out of a man, he walketh through dyar places, seeking rest. And when he fyndeth none, he sayeth: I will returne againe vnto my house, whence I came out. And whil he seeketh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he and taketh to him seuen other fyres: worse then him selfe: and they enter in, & dwell there. And the ende of that mō, is worse then the beginninge.

And so fortuned that as he spake these thynges, a certayne woman of the company lyfte vph her voyce, and said vnto him. Hay-py is the wombe that bare the, and the pappes which gaue the sucke. But he sayde. Yee, happy are they that heare the wordes of God and keue it.

When the people were gathered thicke together, he began to saye. This is an euill nation, they seke a sygne, and euer shall seeke a sygne be gentie them, but the sygne of Ionas the prophet. For as Ionas was a sygne to the Ninuities, so shall also the sonne of man be to thys nation. * The queene of the south shall cyle at the iudgement, with the men of thys nation, and condemne them: for she came from the vttermost partes of the erth, to heare the wisdom of Salomon. And beholde, a greater then Salomon is here. * The meane of Ninue shall cyle at the iudgement with thys nation: and shall condemne them: for they were brought to repentance by p peca- chynge of Ionas. And beholde, a greater then Ionas is here.

E ¶ * No man lygtheth a candell, and putteth it in a piew place, neither under a bushell: but on a candell he putteth it, that they which come in, maye see the light. * The lyght of the body is the cpe. Therefore, when thys cpe is syngle, all thy body also shalbe full of lyght. But if thys cpe be cull, thy body also shalbe full of darkness. Take heed therefore, that the lyght which is in the, be not darckened. ¶ If all thy body therefore be cleare, haunged no parte darcke: the that it all be full of lighr, even as when a candell doeth lyght the wyth wyndowes. ¶

And as he spake, a certayne Ipharye besought him, to dyne with him, and Iesus went in, and sat doune to meate. When the Ipharye sawe it, he maruelled, that he had not fyste followed before byner. And y^e Lozbe saide vnto him: y^e go to do ye Ipharies, make cleane the out syde of the cup, and the platter: but your inward parte is full of rauennyng, and wylchynesse. Ye fooles, dyd not he (that made that which is without) make that which is within also? Agyerhell.

*Esa. lvi. b. ¶ Hold, all thinges are cleane vnto you. *But two vnto you Pharises, for ye reyne mynt adrewe, and all manner crybes, and vasse ouerindgement and the love of God. These ought ye to haue done, and yet not to leaue the other undone.

the chiefe vniuors:
 * Who vnto you Pharisees: for ye loue the vppermost seat in the sinagoges, and gretings in the market. Who vnto you scribbles and Pharisees, ye pporities, for ye care as graues which appere not, and the me that wal-ke ouer them, are not ware of them. ¶ Then answered one of the laweers, and sayde vnto him: I answer, thus saying thou puttest vnto to rebuke also. And he sayde: * Who vnto you also ye lawers: for ye lade men with burthenes which they be not not able to beare: and ye poure selues touche not the packes with, ouer of your fingers. Who vnto you: * ye blypde the scripblers of the Prophets, and your fathers hyllid them, truly ye beare witnes, that ye p loue the deces of your fathers: for they hyllid them, and ye blypde their scrip-blers. ¶ Therfore sayde the wisdome of God,
 * I will fnd them: Prophets and Apostles and some of them they shall slaye and pre-sente: that the bloude of all Prophets, which is shed from the begynninge of the worlde maye be required of this generacion, from the bloude of * Abell, vnto the bloud of zachary, which perished betwene the oulter and the temple. Surely I saye vnto you: it shall be required of this nation.

Two wynter pen la warers: for ye haue taken a wayte the herte of knowledge, ye entered not in yowre felices, ad them that came in, ye forbad. When he thus spake vnto them, the la warers and the Pharisees began to wexe bityr aboute him, and capiciously to alke him many thinges, layinge wayte for him, and felynge to catche some thinge of his mouth, wherby they mighte accuse him.

The. xi. Chapter.

The leuen of the Whirles, Chiefe comforteth hystatitples agaynst preferuon, warneth them to beware of couetousnes by the symilitude of a recti: puerophem, he will not haue them to chaunge vpon a rashly thynke, but to watch, and to be ready agaynst bycommage.

So they gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (in so moche that they trood one another) he began to say vnto his disciples : first of all

* beware of the kute of the Phariseis which is hypocrysy. * For they is nothing com-reth, that shall not be vncouered: neither hyd, that shall not be knownen. * For what thin-ges ye haue spoken in darknes, shall be made in the lichte. And that which ye haue spoken into the eare, euen in secret places, shall be preached on the toppes of the houses. * I saye vnto you my frendes: be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that haue no moare, that they can do. But I will be with you, whom ye shall feare. feare him, which after this which after he hath kyled, hath power to cast ito hell. Yee, I sape vnto you: feare him. Aee not fyne sparowes bought for two farthinges? And not one of them is forgotten of God. No, euen þe very heeres of pouce herd are all nombred. Feare not therfore: þe are moare of value then many sparowes.

Mat. x. 1. I sape vnto you * every one: whosoever confeseth me before men, him shall I sonne of man knowe: also before þe angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men, shall be denied before þe angels of God. * And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst þe sone of man, it shall be forgiven him. * But vnto him y blasphemeth the holy goost, it shall not be forgiven. When they bringe you vnto the synagoges, and vnto the rulers and officers, take ye no thought, how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall speake: for the holy goost shall reache you in the same houre, what ye ought to sape.

* One of the company sayde vnto him: Master, speake to my brother, that he deuide the inheritance with me. And he sayde vnto him: Man, who made me a iudge or a deider, ouer you? And he sayde vnto them: take heede, and be warre of couetousnes. For no mannes lyfe standeth in the abundance of the thynges which he posseseth. And he put forth a synpleynde vnto them sayinge: The grounde of a certaine riche mā brought forth plentiful frutes, and he thought with in him selfe sayinge: what shall I do? because I haue no roume where to bestowe my frutes. And he sayd: This will I do. I will destroye my barnes, and bylde greater, and therein will I gather all my goodes that are growen vnto me: and I will sape to my soule: Soule * thou hast moche goodes layd vp in stooes for many yeaeres, take thyne ease: eate, drinke, be mery. But God sayd vnto him: * Thou folle, this nyght will they feete the awnye thep soule agayne from the. * The whos shall those thynges be, which thou hast prouided? So is it with him that gathereth riches to him selfe, and is not riche to warde God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therefore I sape vnto you. * Take no thought for youre lyfe, what ye shall eate: neither for the body, what ye shall put on. The life is moare the meate, and the body is moare then rayment. Consider the rauens, for they neither lo we nor repe, which neither haue, boozee house nor barn, and God feedeth them. In how moche aee ye better then fethered foules?

Mat. vi. 25 * Which of you (with his takinge thought) can add to his stature one cubit? If ye then be not able to do that thinge which is least: why take ye thought for the remnaunt? Consider the lylies how they growe: They labour not: they spyn not: and yet I sape vnto you, that Salomon in all his royaume, was not clothed lyke one of thes.

If God do clothe the grasse (which is to daye in the felde, and to morowe is cast into the foynne) how moche moare will he clothe you. O ye of lyle fapth: And also not ye what ye shall eate, or what ye shall drinke, neither cline ye vp an hys: for all solche thynges do the hethen people of the world seke for. Your father knoweth, that ye haue neede of solche thynges. Wherefore, * seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and all these thynges shall be ministred vnto you. * Feare not lytell flocke, for it is youre fathers pleasure, to geue you the kyngdome. * Well that ye haue, and geue almes. And prepare you bagges, which were not olde, eue a treface that fapleth not in heauen, where no thefe cometh, neither moth corrupteth. For where poure treasure is, there will poure herte be also.

* Let poure lynes be geerd about, a your lightes be burning: as in pore lanternes and ye poure selues lyke vnto men that wapte for thep: Lorde, when he will returne from the wch: dinge: that whan he cometh and knocketh they maye ope vnto him immediatly. Happy are those seruantes, whom the Lorde (when he cometh) shall fynde wakynge. Verily I sape vnto you, that he shall gyde hym selfe and make them to sye downe to meate, and walke by, and minister vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watch, pre, yf he come in the thirde watch, and fynde them so, happy are those seruantes. This vnderstand, that yf the good man of the house kene we, what houre the thefe wolde come, he wolde surely watch, and not suffer his house to be broken vp. * So ye therfore ready also: for the sonne of man will come at an houre when ye thincke not.

Peter sayde vnto him: * Master, tellest thou this similitude vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lorde sayde: whos is a faythfull and wise steward, whom his Lorde shall make ruler ouer his householde, to geue them their due of meate in due season: * happy is that seruunt, whom his Lorde when he cometh, shall fynde so doing. Of a trouth I sape vnto you, that he will make him ruler ouer all that he hath. But and yf the seruunt slepe in his herre. * Wye Lorde will desire his conduminge (and shall begynne to smite seruantes and maydens) to eate and drinke, and to be dronchen: the Lorde of that seruant will come in a daye when he thinketh not, and at an houre when he is not ware, and will bewee him in pees, and geue him his reward with the vnbeleuers.

* The seruant that knewe his masters will and prepared not him selfe, neither byd accordinge to his will, shall be beaten with many

¶ Of the Galyleans whow dydlate sƿer, and of those that dyed in dydlate. The symprison of the sƿer tre, whiche dealeth the sƿer woman. The parable of the mustarde see and treuen, whiche encre into the kyngdome. Alsas repouche Jerosale and Jerusalem.

Iher was present at the same season, certayne men that shewed him of the Galyleans, whose bloude dydlate had myngled with theyr awne sacrefyce. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Suppose ye that these. * Galileas were greater synners the all the other Galyleans, because they suffered suche punishment? I tell you naye: but except ye repent, ye shall all lyke wyse perishe. Orholc. xviij. vpon which the toure in dydlate fell, and slewe them, thynke ye, that they were synners aboue all men that dwelle in Jerusaleme? I tell you naye: But excepte ye repent, ye all shall lyke wyse perishe.

* Mat. 23. f. b. c. ¶ He tolde also this similitude: a certayne man had a * fygge tree planted in his vineparde & he came and soughte frute therof, and founde none. Then sayde he to the dydlate of his vineparde: beholde, this thre yere haue I come and soughte frute in this fygge tree, and fynde none: tat it doune: why cometh it the ground and he answered & sayd vnto him: Lorde, let it alone this yere also, tyll I bygge rounde aboute it, and donge it, to se whet her it will beare frute: ad yf it beare not then, after that shalt þeu it doune.

¶ But the Lorde answered him and sayde: ¶ Thou hypocrite, dost thou not eache one of you on the Saboth daye? towche his ore or his ale from the still, and leade him to the water? And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Sata hath bounde (to. xviij. yeres) be loosed from this bonde on the Saboth daye? And when he thus sayde, all bys aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioyced on all the excellent dedes, that were done by him.

¶ Then sayde he: what is the kyngdome of God like: or wherto shall I compare it? ¶ It is like a grayne of mustarde seebe, which a man toke, and sowed in his garden: and it grew and waxed a greute tree, and the foules of the ayre made nestes in the boughes of it.

¶ And agayne he sayde: wher vnto shall I lyken the kyngdome of God? ¶ it is like leuen, which a woman toke, and byddin the peches of meale, tyll all was leuened. And he went thorow all cities and townes, teachinge, and tozuepinge towardes Jerusale.

¶ Then sayde one vnto him: Lorde, are ther few that be saved? And he sayde vnto him: I saye vnto you, I will seke to entre in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is sƿen vp, and hath quit to the doze, and ye beginne to stonde without, and to knocke at the doze sayinge: Lorde, Lorde, open vnto vs, and he answereth and saye vnto you. ¶ I knowe pou not whet ye are. ¶ Then shall ye begyn to sƿer: we haue eaten & drinke in thy presence, & thou hast taught our strectes. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe pou not you not whence ye are : departe from me all ye þe worke iniquite. There shalbe wynginge & gnaunginge of teeth, when ye shall se Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, and all the Prophetes in þe kyngdome of God, and ye poure selust þrust out. * And theþ shall come fro the east and from the west, and from þe north and from the south, and shall sit downe in þe kyngdome of God. And beholde, * there are last, which shalbe fyrst. And ther are fyrst, which shalbe last.

G The same daye came there certayne of the Pharisees, and sayde vnto him, get the out of the waye, and departe hence: for herode will kyl the. And he sayde vnto them: So ye, and tell that fowr, beholde, I cast out deuyls and heale the people to daye and to morowe, and the thyrde daye I make an ende. Neuertheless, I must walke to daye and to morowe, and the daye folowynge: for it cannot be that a Prophet perishe the empyr other where, save at Jerusalem.

* O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest Prophetes, and stonest the that are sent vnto the: how ofte wolde I haue gathered theþ children together, as a byrde doth gather her poung under her wynges, and ye wolde not: youre habitation is left vnto you desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me, vntyll the tyme come that ye shall saye * blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde.

¶ Jesus enteth with the Pharisees, healeth the droop vpon the Sabbath, tenderly to be slowe, relecth of the grete supper, and bewecheth them that they will folow hym, to lape theynes accompanie before, what it will cost them. The last of the carow.

A And it chauned, that he went into the house of one of the these Pharisees, to eate bread on a Sabbath daye: and they watched hym. And beholde, there was a certayne man before him which had the droop. And Jesus answered and spake vnto the lawyers and Pharisees, sayynge: * is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath daye? And they helde theþ peace. And he toke him and healed him, and let him go: and answered them, sayynge, which of you shall haue an asse or an oxe fall into a pyt and wyl not straghe wyne pull him out on the Sabbath daye? And they coude not answer him agayne to these thynges.

¶ He put forth also a similitude to the geses, when he marked how they prented to þeyst rowme, and sayde vnto them: When þe art bydden of anye man to a weddinge, sit not downe in the best rowme, lest a more honorable man then thou be bydden of him, and he: that bade him and the come, ad saye to the: geue this man rowme, and thou then beginne to shame to take the lower rowme. But rather when thou art bydden, go ad sit in the lowest rowme: that whē he that bade the, cometh, he maye saye vnto the: * sitte here: for by hye. Then shal þe haue worchipp in the presence of the that sit at meate with the. * For whosoever exalteth him self, shalbe brought lowe. And he that humblyeth hym self, shalbe exalted. ¶

¶ Then sayde he also to hym, that had desired him to dyner: ¶ When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy bretheren, neither thy kynsmen: lest thy neyghbours: lest they also bydden the agayne, and a recompence be made the. But whē thou makest a feast, call the poore, the feble, the lame, and the bynde, a thou shalt be happy, for they can not recompence the: But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the iuste men.

¶ When one of them that sat at meate also, hearde these thynges, he sayd vnto him: happy is he that catcheth bread in the kyngdome of God. ¶ Then sayde he vnto hi. * A certayne man opened a grete supper, and bade many, and sent his seruaut to suppe tyme, to lape to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now ready. And they all atōce beganne to make excuse. The fyrst sayde vnto him: I haue bought a farme, and I must nedes go, a seite. I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyne pooke of oxen, and I go to yoke them. I praye the, haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue married a wyfe, and therefore I cannot come. And the seruaut returned and brought his master worde agayne therof.

¶ Then was the good man of the house displeased, and sayde to his seruaut: Go out quickly into the stretes and quarters of the cyte, and bring in hyer the poore, and the feble, and the halt and the bynde. And the seruaut sayd: Lorde, it is done as thou hast commaunded, and yett there is rowme. And þe Lorde sayd to the seruaut: Go out vnto the hye wayes and hedges, and * conuall them to come, that nup house maye be fylled, for I saye vnto you, þe none of those men which were bydden, shall tast of my supper. ¶

¶ Which of you dyspoted to buyde a toure, spyeth not downe before, and counterthe the cost, whether he haue sufficient to performe it: lest after he hath layde the foundacion, ad is not able to performe it, all that brdoleth it, begynne to mocke hym, sayynge: this man beganne to buyde, & was not able to make an ende?

¶ The parable of the wyrded ſeruauntes. For one tye of Gods wyrd ſhal perſeue, & the tye of man, and of poore ſeruauntes.

Ad he ſayde alſo vnto his diſciples. ¶ Ther was a certa yne man, which had a ſteward, and the ſame was accuſed vnto hym, that he had waſted hyſ goodes. And he called him, and ſayde vnto him: how is it, that I heare theſe of the: Geue accomptes of thy ſtewardſhippe: for thou mayſt be no longer ſteward. The ſteward ſayde with in him ſelfe: what ſhall I do: for my Maſter taketh awaye from me the ſtewardſhippe. I cannot bygge, to begge I am aſhamed. I wote what to do, y when I am put out of the ſtewardſhip, they maye receaue me into their houſes.

So when

B So whā he had called all hys masters detters together, he sayde vnto the p̄syt: how moch owest thou vnto my master? And he sayde: an hundred tonnes of oyle. And he sayde vnto him: take thy byll, & s̄t boune quyche and wyte s̄f̄t̄pe. Then sayd he to another: how moch owest thou? And he sayde: an hūdr̄d quarters of wheate. he sayde vnto him: Take thy byll, and wyte four̄e scoore. And the Lorde cōmended the vn̄tull serward, because he had done wylly. f̄or the chyldren of this wolde are in theȝ nation, & vn̄t̄e then the chyldren of israhel. And I saye vnto you: make you frendes of the vnygh̄t̄ous & māmon, that when ye shall haue neede they may receaue you into euerylastyng habytacions. K

Ite that is sayd full in that which is least, is sayd full also in moch. And he that is vnygh̄t̄ous in the least, is vnygh̄t̄ous also in moch. So theȝ, yf ye haue not ben sayd full in the vnygh̄t̄ous māmon, who wil beleue you in that which is true? And yf ye haue not ben sayd full in another mannes bysnes, who shal geue you ȳ which is your owne? So seruaunt cā serue two misters: for ether he shall hate the one, and loue the other: or els he shall leaue to ȳ one, & despyse the other. Ye cā not serue God & māmon.

All these thynges herde the pharises also, which were couetous, and they mocked him. And he sayd vnto theȝ: Ye are they which iustifye poure selues before men: but God knoweth your hertes. For that which is hyghly esteemed amonge men, is abhominable in the syght of God. K

The lawe and the pharises raygned vntill John: and sence that tyme, the kyngdome of God is preached, and every man strepeth to go in. * Calsey is it for heauen and erth to p̄ryf̄e, then one tye of the lawe to sayll. * Whosoeuer forsaketh hys wyfe, and marieth another, committeeth adoultre. And he which marieth her that is deuoyced from her husbande, committeeth adoultre also.

Ther was a certayne r̄p̄che mā, which was clothed in purple and s̄yne whyte, and fared deliciouly every daye: And there was a certayne begger named Lazarus, which laye at his gate full of sores, despyng to be refreshed with the cōcrumes, which fell from theȝ r̄p̄che mannes bozde. K (And no man geue vnto hym.) The dogges came also, and lyked his sores, And it fortuned, that the begger died, and was carryed by the angelles into Abrahams bosome. The riche man also dyed, and was buryed.

And beinge in hell in tormentes, he lyfte up his eyes and sawe Abraham a father of and Lazarus in hys bosome, and he cryed ad sayde: father Abraham: haue mercy on me, and sende Lazarus, that he maye dyppe the tpype of hys s̄pynger in water, and cole my tongue: for I am tormētēd in this flame. But Abraham sayde: Sonne: remember that thou in thy lyfe tyme, receauest thy pleasure, & cōtray wyle, Lazarus receauest payne. But now is he comforted, and thou art punished. Responde all this, betwene vs and you ther is a greates set, so ȳ they which wolde go from hence to you, cannot: neyth maye come from thence to vs.

Then he sayd: I praye the therfore father, & sende him to my fathers house. (For I haue s̄yne brethren) for to warne them, lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham sayde vnto him: they haue Moses and the pharises, let them heare them. And he sayde: maye father Abraham, but yf one come vnto the from the dead, they will repent. he sayde vnto him: If they heare not Moses and the pharises, neyth will they beleue, though one come from the dead. K

And though he tpyne agaynst the seven tymes in a daye, and seven tymes in a daye tourne agayne to the, saynges: if repenteth me, thou shalt forgive hym.

And the apostles sayde vnto the Lorde: increase oure faith. And the Lorde sayde: * yf ye had faith lyke a grynne of mustard seede, & shuld saye vnto this s̄p̄caynye tree, plucke thy selfe vp by the rootes, and plant thy selfe in the see: it shulde obey you.

Lyke wyse also as it chaunced in the dayes of Lot. They dyd cate, they dyancke, they bought, they solde, they plantred, they buylded: But euen the same daye that Lot went out of sodom, it rayned with fyre and byrmstone from heauen, & destroyed them all. Euen thus, shall it be in the daye, when the sonne of man shall appere.

But after warde he sayd within him selfe: though I feare not God, nor care for man, yet because thys wedowe is importune vpon me, I wyl auenge her, lest she come at the last and rāpe on me. And the Lorde sayde, heare what the vnyuersalwes Judge sayeth. And that not God auenge his electe, which cōte daye and nyght vnto him, yet, though he be seuerelye. I tell you that he will auenge them, & that quickly. * mat. xliij. 2. * Seuerelye, whē the sonne of mā cometh, shall he visite fāth on the erth.

* And he tolde this parable, vnto certayne which trusted in them selues that they were perfect, and despyed other. Two men went vnto the temple to praye: the one a Pharise, and the other a publicā. Thou knowest the commandementes: Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not kill: thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare falto hym: Per lackest thou one thyng.

Well all thou hast, and distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauē, & come, folowe me. When he hearde this, he was sorowful: for he was very ryche.

When Jesus sawe þe was sorowful, he sayde ether brethren, or wyfe, or chyldren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) which shall not receaue much more in this worlde, and in the wyghe to come, lyfe euertyllynge.

ten by the prophetes, of the sonne of man.
For he shalbe deliuered vnto the gentylis, & shalbe mockyd, and despytfully entreated, & spetted on: & when they haue scourged him, they will put hym to deeth, & and the thyr-ked hym, that he shoulde holde his peace. But he cryed so much the more: * thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And when he was come near, he asked hym, sayng: what wilt thou that I do vnto the? And he sayde: Lorde, that I may receaue my syght.

And Jesus sayd vn-
to hym: receaue thy syght: thy sayth hath saued the. And immediatly he receaued his syght, and folowed hym, prayng God.
And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue praise vnto God.

cans, and was ryche also. And he sought meanes to se Jesus, what he shoul-de: and coulde not for the prynces, because he was lytle of stature. And he ran before, and climbed vp into a wilde figge tree, to se him: for he was to come that waye. And when Jesus cam to the place, he looked vp, and sawe hym, and sayd vnto hym: zachy, come downe at once, for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came downe hastely, and recei-ued hym ioyfully. And when they sawe it, they all grudged, sayng: he is gone to sare wryth a man that is a synner.

And zachy stode forth, and sayd vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the poore: and if I haue done any man wronge, I restore him foure fold. Jesus sayde vnto him: this daye is health ha-pened vnto thy house, because that he also is become: the chyld of Abraham: & for the sonne of man is come to salue, and to saue that which was loste.

As they hearde these thynges, he addyd thereto a parable, because he was nye to Jerusalem, and because they thought, that the kyngdome of God shoulde thysp appere.
He sayde therfore: * A certayne noble mā went into a farre countre, to receaue hym a hyngdome, and to come agayne. And he called bys ten seruantes, and deliuered them ten pounde, sayng: vnto the: Occupeye, tyll I come. And bys cytelens hated hym, & sent a messager after him, sayng: we will not haue this man to raigne ouer vs.

And it came to passe, that when he had re-ceaued his kyngdome, he returned, & comma-ded these seruantes to be called vnto hym (to whom he had geuen the money) to wete how much euery man had done. Then came þe first, sayng: Lorde, thy pounde hath gayned fte poude. And he sayd vnto hym: * Well thou good seruant: because thou hast bene faythfull in a very lyttell thyng, haue thou auctorite ouer ten cytys. And another came, sayng: Lorde, thy poude hath made fyue pounde. And to the same he sayd: be thou also ruler ouer fyue cytys.

And another came, sayng: Lorde, beholde here is thy pounde, which I haue kept in a napkin: for I feared the, because thou art a strayt man: thou takest vp that thou lay-dest not downe, so reuelst that thou dydest not sove. He sayeth vnto hym: * Of thyne

¶ Chapter.

¶ At the tyme the churche was quene, and brackish them another. The parable of the vineyard. ¶ The tyme to be geuen vnto Iesus, & the tyme to be geuen vnto the church.

¶ As he fortuneth in one of those dayes as he taught the people in the temple and preached the gospell, the byr d les, and the scribes came together with the elders, & spake vnto him sayinge: * Tell vs by what auctorite doest thou these thynges: ¶ ether who is he, þ gaue the thes auctorite:
Iesus answered & sayd vnto the: I wil

And they thought wyth in them selues say

And they answered, that they coule not tell whence it was. And Iesus sayd vnto them: neither tell I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges. ¶

¶ Then beganne he to put forth to the people this parable: * A certayne man plantet a vineyard, and let it forth to husband men, and went hym selfe into a strange countre for a greate season. And when the tyme was come, he sent a seruant to the husband men, that they shulde geue hym of the frute of the vineyard. And they bet hym, and sent hym, a waye emptye. And agayne, he sent yet ano ther seruant. And hym they dyd beat, and entreated hym shamefully, and sent hym a waye emptye. Agayne, he sent the thyrde al so, and hym they wounded, and cast hym out.
¶ Then sayd the Lord of the vineyard: what shall I do: * I will sende my deare sonne: peraduenture they will stande in awe of him, when they se hym.

¶ But when þ husbandmen sawe hym, they thought wythin them selues, sayinge: this is the heire, * come, let vs kyll hym, that the inheritence maye be oures. And they cast hi out of þ vineyard, & kyllid hi. ¶ What shall the Lord of þ vineyarde therfore do vnto the:
he shall come, & destroye thes husbandmen, & shall let out þs vineyard to other. When they hearde this, they sayde: God forbid.

¶ And he behelde them, and sayde: what is thys then that is wyrtten: * the stone that the buylders refused, the same is become the hebd of the corner: Whosoever doth stromble vpon þ stone, shalbe broken: but on whosoeuer it faileth, it wyll gyrende him to powder. And the hys preless and the serybes the same houre wyll about to lape handes on hym, * and they feneed the people. for they perceaued that he had spoken thys spemilude agaynst them.

D And they watched hym, & sent forth spies, which shuld sayne the ielus ryghteous me, * to take him in hys wordes, and to deliuer him vnto þ power & auctorite of the debyte. And they asked hym, sayng: Master, we knowe that thou sayest & teachest ryght, neither considerest þ the outward appareance of any man, but teachest the waye of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue tribute vnto Cesar, or no: he perceaued the practising, and sayde vnto them: * why tempt ye me, shew me a peny. Whose ymage & superscription hath it: They answered and sayde: Cesar. And he sayde vnto the: geue then vnto Cesar, the thynges which belonge vnto Cesar, & to God the thynges that pertain vnto God. And they coulde not reprove his sayng before the people: & they maruailed at his answer, and helde their peace.

E Then came to hym certayn of the Saducees, & which denye that ther is any resurrection. And they asked him sayng: * Master, Moyses wrote vnto vs, if eny mannes brother dye hauing a wyfe, & he dye without chyldren, that then hys brother shulde take hys wyfe, and rapse vp seede vnto hys brother. Ther were therfore seuen brethren, and the fyrste toke a wyfe, & dyed without chyldren. And the seconde toke her, and he dyed chyldlesse. And the thyrde toke her: and in lyke wise the residue of the seuen, and left no chyldren behynde them, and dyed. Last of all the woma dyed also. Now in the resurrection, whose wyfe of them shal she be: for seuen had her to wyfe.

F Jesus answered and sayd vnto them. The chyldren of this worlde mary wyues, ad are maryed: but they which shalbe counted woorth of that worlde and the resurrection from the deed, do not mary wyues, neither are maryed, nor yet can dye any more, for they are equall vnto the angels, and are * the sonnes of God, in as much as they are chyldren of þ resurrection. And that thy: deed shal rse agayne: Wholes also the werth besides the busshie, when he calleth: the Lord, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of deed, but of lyuynge. For all hys vnto him. Then certayne of the Pharisees answered, and sayd: Master, thou hast wel sayd. And after that burst they not alic him any question at all.

And he sayde vnto them: * how saye they that Chyryl is Dauides sonne: And Dauid himselfe sayeth in the boke of þ Psalmes: * The Lord sayde vnto my Lord: sit thou on my ryght hande, tyll I make thys enemye thy foie: skole. And then therof calleth hym Lord: and how is he then hys sonne?

G Then in the audyence of all the people, he sayde vnto his disciples: * beware of þ Scribes, which wyll go in longe clothyng: & to be greetynge in the marketes, and the hys sentes in the synagoges, and the chese rowmes at feastes, which deuoure wyddowes houses, rapynge lode papers: the same shal receaue greater dampnacion.

C The xxi. Chapter.

C Compt commente: * poore wyddowes, scyth of the destruction of Ierusalem, of all teachers, of the scribes & trouble for to come, of the synagoge, of the, and of the synagoge.

A Sh he belde, * he sayde the rynges into the treasure. he laide also a certayne poore wyddowes, which cast in thysche two myses. And he sayde: of a trueth I saye vnto you, * that thys poore wyddow hath put in moare then they all. for they all haue of thes superfluous added vnto the offerynge of God: but she, of her penury hath cast in all the substance that she had.

B And vnto some that spake of the temple, how it was garnysched with goodly stones and Jewels, he sayde: * The dayes wyll come, in the which of thes thynges which ye se: there shall not be left one stone vpon another, & shall not be therof one fene. And they asked hym sayng: Master, when shall thes thynges be, and what sygne wyll ther be when thes thynges come to passe?

C And he sayde: * take heed, that ye be not decaued. for * many shall come in my name, and saye that they are Chyryl: and theye shal decaue the. folowe ye not the therfore. But when ye here of warres and sedicions, be not afrayed. for thes thynges must first come to passe, but the ende foloweth not by and by. Then sayde he vnto them. * Nacion shall rse agaynst nacion, & kyngdome agaynst kyngdome, and greate earthquake shalbe in all places, and hunger, and pestilence, & fearfull thynges. And grente sygnes shal be from heauen.

D But before all thes, * they shal lape habes on you, and persecute you, delperunge you vnto the synagoges & into prisons, & shal bringe you vnto kynges & rulers for my names sake. And thys shal chaunce you for a testimony. Be at a sure point therof: your hertes, not to fudy before, what ye shal suffer: for * I wyll geue you a mouth & wyddome, where agaynst, all your aduersariese. E i. shal inge. A true, this was a righteous mā. And all the people fcame together to that spght, & sawe the thynges whych had happened. smote they bestes, and returned. And all hys acquaintaunce & the women that loved hym from Galile, stode a farrre of, be-holdyng these thynges.

And beholde * ther was a mā (named Joseph) a counsellour, and he was a good man and a iuste: the same had not consented to the counsell & dede of them, whych was of An-nachas, a cpyte of the Jewes, whych same also wanted for the kyngdome of God: he wente unto pylate, and begged the bodye of Jesus, and toke it downe and wrapped it in a linnen clooth, and layed it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein neuer man before was layed. * And that daye was the preparyng of the Sabboth, and the Sabboth daye on. The women that folo-wed after, whych had come with hym from Galile, beholde the sepulchre, and how his body was layed. And they returned and prepared sweete oboours and oylmentes: but rested the Sabboth daye, accordyng to the commaundement.

¶ The xxxviij. Chapter.

¶ The women come to the grave, & fynd it emptye, & they saye that it is emptye. ¶ The women, & they saye that it is emptye.

But upon the first daye of the Sabbothes, very early in the mornyng, they came unto the sepulchre, and brought the sweete oboours whych they had prepared, and other we-men with them. And they founde the stone rowled awaye from the sepulchre, and they went in: but founde not the bodye of the Loz-de Jesu. And it happened, as they were amasted therat, beholde, two men stode by them in chynnyng garmentes. * And as they were aspayde, and bowed downe theyr faces to the erth, they sayde unto them: why seek ye the lyvyng amonge the dede? he is not here: but is risen. Remember, how he spake unto you, whē he was yet in Galile, sayyng: that the sonne of man must be deliuered into the handes of synfull men, and be crucifyed, and the thyrde daye rise agayne.

And they remembred hys wordes, & returned from the sepulchre, & tolde all these thynges vnto those eldern, & to all the remnant.
* It was Mary Magdalen, & Joanna, and Mary Jacobi, and other that were with them, whych tolde these thynges vnto the Apostles. And theyr wordes seemed vnto the sayned thynges, neither beleued they them.

Then arose Peter and ran vnto the sepulchre, and looked in, and sawe the linnen clothes layde by them selfe, and departed, won-dryng in hym selfe at that whych had happened. ¶

* And beholde, two of them went that same daye to a towne (called Emmaus) whych was from Jerusalem about thre hore forlonges, and they talked together of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunced, that whyle they communed together and reasoned, Jesus hym selfe dyue nea-re, & went with them. But they eyes were holden, & they quide not knowe hym.
And he sayde vnto them: What maner of communycacions are these that ye haue one to another, as ye walke, and are ladd? And the one of them (whose name was Cleo-phas) answered, and sayde to hym: art thou onely a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast thou not knowen the thynges whych haue chaunced there, in these dayes? he sayde vnto them: what thynges?

And they sayd vnto hym: of Jesus of Nazareth, whych was a Prophet, myghtye in debe and word before God and all the people: and how the hye Priestes, & our rulers deliuered hym to be condemned to death: & haue crucifyed hym. But we trusted that it had bene he whych shuld haue redeemed Israel. And as touchyng all these thynges, to daye is eue the thyrde daye, that they were done.

* Yet, and certayne women also of our copany made vs assaynyed, whiche came early vnto the sepulchre, and founde not hys bodye:
and came, sayyng, that they had seene a vision of angels, whych sayd that he was aliue. And certayne of the whych were with vs, went to the sepulchre, and founde it eue so as the women had sayde: but hym they sa-we not.

And he sayde vnto them: O fooles & slo-we of herte, to beleue all that the Prophetes haue spoke. * Wought not Christ to haue suffered these thynges, and to enter into hys glory? And he began at Moses, and all the Prophetes, & interpreted vnto them in all scriptures whych were written of hym. And they dyuerse vnto the towne, whych they went vnto. And he made, as though he wold haue gone further. And they * conscripned hym sayyng: abyde with vs, for it draweth towards nyght, and the daye is farre past.
And he went into eary with them.

* And it came to passe, as he late at men-te with them, he toke bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gaue to them. And their eyes

The Gospell of Sapnter John.

The first Chapter.

¶ The euangelijss byth of Chrys, and how he became man. & be testimony of John. & he callijng of anijss, & Peter.

In the begynnynge was the woꝛde, and the woꝛde was wꝛth God: and God was the woꝛde. The same was in þe begynnynge wꝛth God. ¶ All thynges were made by it, & wꝛthout it, was made nothyng that was made. ¶ In it was lyfte, and the lyfte was the lyfte of men, and the lyfte shyneth in darcknes, and the darcknes comprehended it not.

There was sent from God a man, whose name was John. The same ca as a wꝛtnes to beare wꝛtnes of the lyfte, that all men thꝛough hym myght beleue. ¶ He was not þe lyfte: but was sent to beare wꝛtnes of the lyfte. That lyfte was þe true lyfte, whych lygtheth euery man that cometh into the woꝛlde. He was in the woꝛlde, and the woꝛlde was made by hym: and the woꝛlde knewe hym not.

He came amonge hys owne, and hys owne receaued him not. As many as receaued hym: to them gaue he power to be the sonnes of God: euen them that helened on hys name: whych were bozne, not of bloude nor of the wyll of the fleshe, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

¶ And the same woꝛde became fleshe, and dwelt amonge vs: and we sawe the glory of it, as the glory of the onely begotten sonne of the father, full of grace and trueth.

¶ John beareth wꝛtnes of hym, and cryeth sayyng: ¶ Chys was he of whō I spake: whych though he came after me, went before me, for he was before me. ¶ And of hys fulnes haue all we receaued, euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moyses, but grace & trueth came by Iesus Chyrl.

¶ No man hath sene God at any tyme. The onely begotten sonne, whych is in the bolome of þe father, he hath declared hym.

¶ And chys is þe recorde of John: when þe Iewes sent Barthe and Leuites fro Jerusalem, to aske hym, what art thou? And he answered & denyed not, & sayde plainly. I am not Chyrl. And they asked him: what art thou? He sayde: I am not. ¶ Art thou that prophete? And he answered no. Then sayde they vnto hym: what art thou, that we maye geue an answer to them that were opened, and they knewe hym: and he waspshed out of their syght. And they sayd betwene them selues: dyd not oure hertes burne wꝛth vs, whylt he talked wꝛth vs by the waye, and opened to vs the scriptuꝛes? And they rose by the same houre, and returned agayne to Jerusalem, and founde the cleuen gathered together, and them that were wꝛth them, sayyng: the Loyde is rylen in dede, & hath apere to Symon. And they tolde, what thynges were done by the waye, and how they knewe hym, in brennyng of byrds.

¶ As they thus spake: Iesus hym self stode in the myddes of them, and sayeth vnto þe: peace be vnto you. ¶ But they were abashed and asfraid, & supposyd that they had sene a spete. And he sayd vnto them: why are ye troubled, and why do the thyghtes ayle in poure hertes? Scholde my byrdes and my fete, that it is euen I myselfe. ¶ And he me and se: for a spete hath not fleshe and bones, as ye se me haue. And whē he hat thus spoken, he shewed them hys handes and hys fete. And whylt they yet beleued not for loye, and wonderd, he sayd vnto the: ¶ Haue ye here any meate? And they offered hym a pecce of a byrped fleshe, and of an honny come. And he toke it, and dyd eate before them.

¶ And he sayde vnto them. ¶ These are the woꝛdes whych I spake vnto you, whylt I was wꝛth you: that all must nedes be fulfilled. ¶ Whych were wꝛtten of me in the lawe of Moyses and in the Prophetes, and in the Psalms.

¶ ¶ Then opened he they wꝛttes, that they myght vnderstande the scriptuꝛes, and sayde vnto them: ¶ Thus is it wꝛtten, and thus it behoued Chyrl to suffre, and to ryse agayne from deeth the thyrde daye, & that repentaunce and remysyon of synnes shoulde be preached in hys name amonge all nacions, & in must begynne at Jerusalem. And ye are wꝛtnesses of thes thynges. ¶ And beholde, I will sende the promys of my father vpon you. ¶ But tary ye in the cyte of Jerusalem, vntill ye be endewed wꝛth power from an hye.

¶ And he led them out into Bethany, and lyfte by hys handes, and blessed them. ¶ And it came to passe, as he blessed them, he departed from them, and was caried by into heauen. And they worshipped hym, and returned to Jerusalem wꝛth greate ioye, and were contynually in the temple prayyng & laudinge God, & Amen.

them that sent vs. What sayest thou of thyself? he sayde * I am the voyce of a crier in the wilderness, make straight the waye of y^e Lord, & as sayde the Prophet & Isaia.

And they which were sent, were of the Pharisees: And they asked him, & sayde vnto him: why baptisest thou then, if thou be not Christ, nor helias, neither that Prophet? John answered the sayinge * I baptise with water: but there standeth one amonge you, whom ye knowe not, he it is which though he came after me, was before me, whose sho lachet I am not worthy to vnloose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordan: * where John byd baptise. * Mat. iii. 14. Mar. i. 9. Luc. iii. 16. Joh. i. 33.

This is he of whō I sayd: After me cometh a man, which went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe him not: but that he shulde be declared to Israel, therefore am I come baptisinge with water. * Joh. i. 35. Mar. i. 10. Luc. iii. 17. Joh. i. 33.

And John bare recorde, sayinge: I sawe the spere descende from heauen, lyne vnto a doue, & abode vpon him, and I knewe hym not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same sayde vnto me: vpon whom thou shalt se the spere descende, and tarye still on hym, the same is he which baptiseth with y^e holy goost. And I sawe, and bare recorde, that he is the sonne of God. * Joh. i. 34. Mar. i. 11. Luc. iii. 18. Joh. i. 33.

The next daye after, John stode agayne, & two of his disciples, ad he behelde Iesus as he walked by, & sayeth: beholde y^e labe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake, and they followed Iesus. And Iesus turned about, and sawe them folowe hym, & sayeth vnto them: what see ye? They sayd vnto hym: Rabbi (which is to saye y^e one interpreteth it Master) where dwellest thou? he sayeth vnto them: come & se. They came, & sawe where he dwelt: & abode with hym y^e daye. For it was about the tenth houre. * Joh. i. 35. Mar. i. 12. Luc. iii. 19. Joh. i. 33.

One of y^e two which hearde John speake, and folowed him, was y^ender Simon Peter's brother. The same founde hys brother Simon fyste, and sayeth vnto him: we haue founde Messias (which is by interpretation, anointed) and brought him to Iesus. And Iesus behelde hym, & sayde: thou art * Simon the sonne of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas: which is by interpretation a stone. * Joh. i. 36. Mar. i. 13. Luc. iii. 20. Joh. i. 33.

The daye folowyng, Iesus wolde go in to Galilee, and foinde Philip, and sayeth vnto him: folowe me * Philip was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrew and Peter. Philip founde Nathanael, and sayeth vnto him: we haue founde hym, of whome * Moyses in the lawe & the Prophetes dyd wyte, Iesus y^e sonne of Ioseph of Nazareth. And Nathanael sayd vnto h^e: can there any good thyng ge come out of Nazareth? Philip sayeth vnto him: come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comyng to him, & sayeth of hym: Beholde a ryght Isaac yte, in whom is no gyle. Nathanael sayeth vnto him: where knowest thou me? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Before that Philip called the, when thou wast vnder the figge tree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayd vnto him: Rabbi, thou art cut the very sonne of God, thou art y^e kynge of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Because I sayde vnto the, I sawe the vnder y^e figge tree, y^e beleuest. Thou shalt see greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto him: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: hereafter shall ye se heauen open, & y^e angels of God ascending & descending ouer y^e sonne of man. * Joh. i. 37. Mar. i. 14. Luc. iii. 21. Joh. i. 33.

¶ The ij. Chapter.

¶ Christ turneth the water into wyne, and baptyzeth the dyers sitlers out of the temple.

Ad the third daye, was ther a marriage in Cana a cytie of Galilee, the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called: & his disciples vnto the marriage. And when the wyne fayled, the mother of Iesus sayeth vnto him: they haue no wyne. Iesus sayeth vnto her: woman * what haue I to do wyth the, myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayeth vnto the mistresses: whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you, do it. And there were standinge there, syre waterpotes of stone after the manner of the purifyinge of the Jewes, containinge two or the thre huns a peece. * Joh. i. 38. Mar. i. 15. Luc. iii. 22. Joh. i. 33.

Iesus sayeth vnto the: fill the waterpotes with water. And they fylled the vp to y^e brim. And he sayeth vnto them: drawe out now, & beare vnto the gouernour of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was turned vnto wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but y^e mistresses which bare the water knewe) he calleth y^e bygdgegonne, & sayeth vnto hym: Every man at the beginninge doth first good wyne, & then whyn men be doneche, then that wyne is worse. But thou hast kept the good wyne, vntill now. * Joh. i. 39. Mar. i. 16. Luc. iii. 23. Joh. i. 33.

Thys beginninge of myrracles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galilee, and shewed hys glory, & his disciples beleued on hym. * After this he went downe to Capernaum, he & his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples, and there continued not manye dayes. * Joh. i. 40. Mar. i. 17. Luc. iii. 24. Joh. i. 33.

* And y^e y^e Jewes there was eueryn habode, and Iesus went vp to Ierusalem, & soide spyrtyng in the temple, those that solde oxen and shepe and doves, & chaungers of money. And when he had made (as it were) a scourge of linal cordes, he dyd ouer them all. * Joh. i. 41. Mar. i. 18. Luc. iii. 25. Joh. i. 33.

out of the temple, with the shepe & oxen, and powred out the chaungers money, & ouer-threw the tables, & sayde vnto the that solde doves: haue these thinges hence, & make not my fathers house an house of merchandise.

And his disciples remembred it was written:
* the relic of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

Then answered þe Iewes and sayde vnto him: what tolken thouest thou vnto vs, saying that thou dost these thinges? Iesus answered & sayde vnto them: * despoyle this temple, and in thre dayes I will reare it vp.

Then sayde þe Iewes. xlvi. yeris was this temple an vnbryng: & thou saydest it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of his body. Allone, therefore as he was ryen from death agayne, his disciples remembred that he thus had sayde. And they beleued the scripture, & þe wordes which Iesus had sayde.

When he was in Ierusalem at Easter in þe feast daye, many beleued on his name, whē they sawe his myracles whych he dyd. But Iesus dyd not comēt him selfe vnto them, because he knewe all men, and neded not, that any man shuld testifie of him. * For he knewe what was in man.

coulede do suche myracles as thou doest, excepte God were wth him. Iesus answered & sayd vnto hi: Niccolay, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a mā be borne from above, he cannot se the kyngdom of God. Nicodemus sayeth vnto hym how can a man be borne wthē he is older can he enter into his mothers wombe and

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ Jesus feareth foue thousand men. & seareth alwaye that they wold not make him away, and reioyce in the fleshy heares of hys wordes. The ciuill are offences at hym.

¶ After these thinges & Jesus went hys waye ouer the see of Galilee whiche is the see of Tiberias: & a great multitude folowed him, because they sawe his myracles which he dyd on them that were diseased. And Jesus went vp into a mountayne, & there he saie wryth hys disciples. I and easter, afeast of y^e Jewes was nye. ¶ * When Jesus then yfste vp hys eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto him, he sayeth vnto Philip: whence shall we bye bread, that these maye eate? This he sayd to proue hym: for he him selfe knewe, what he wolde do.

¶ Philip answered him: two hundred peny worthe of bread are not sufficient for them, y^e every man maye take a litle. One of his disciples (Andrew, Simon Peters brother) sayeth vnto him: There is a lad here, which hath fyue barley loaves and two fysshes: but what are they amonge so many? And Jesus sayde: Make y^e people sit downe. Ther was much grasse in y^e place. So the men late downe in number, about fyue thousand. And Jesus toke the bread: And whan he had givene thanks, he gaue to the disciples, and y^e disciples to the that were set downe: And y^e wyle of the fysshes as much as they wolde.

When they had eaten pough, he sayeth vnto his disciples: gather vp y^e broken meate which remaineth: y^e nothinge be lost. And they gathered it together, and fylled twelue bishettes with the broken meate of the fyue barley loaves: which broken meate remained vnto them that had eaten. Then those men (when they had sene the myracle that Jesus dyd) sayd: this is of a trouth & y^e same Prophecie, y^e shulde come into the world.

¶ When Jesus therefore perceaued, y^e they wolde come, & take hym vnto make hym kynge, & he departed agayne into a mountayne him selfe alone.

* And when euen was now come, hys disciples wnt downe vnto the see, & gat vp into a shippe, and came ouer the see vnto Capernaum. And it was now darke, and Jesus was not come to them. And y^e searole with a greate wynde that blew. So when they had rowen about a. c. v. or. xlii. furlonges, they sawe Jesus walkyng in the see, & a drawinge nye vnto the shippe, & they were afayred. But he sayeth vnto them: It is I, be not afayred. Then wold they haue receaued him vnto the shippe, & immediately the shippe was at the lande whether they went.

¶ The daye folowynge whan the people (which stode on the other syde of the see) sawe, y^e ther was none other ship there, save that one whereto his disciples were entred, & that Jesus went not in wryth his disciples into y^e shippe: but that his disciples were gone awaye alone: howbeit, there ca other shippes fro Tiberias nye vnto the place, where they dyd eate bread, after that the Lord had givene thanks: when the people therefore sawe that Jesus was not there, neither hys disciples, they also toke shippynge, & came to Capernaum, seekinge for Jesus.

¶ And when they had founde hym on the other syde of the see, they sayde vnto hym: Rabbi, where camest thou hyther? Jesus answered them, and sayde: verely, verely I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe y^e myracles but because ye dyd eate of the loaves, and were fylled.

* Labour not for the meate which perissheth, but for that which endureth vnto euertlastinge lyfe, which meate is the sonne of man: shall geue vnto you. for y^e hym hath God the father sealed.

¶ Then sayde they vnto him: what shal we do, that we myght worke the workes of God? Jesus answered sayde vnto the: This is the worke of God, that ye beleue on him, whome whom he hath sent. They sayde therfore vnto him: what sygne shewest thou then, that we maye fey, and beleue the? What doest thou woynke? Wher fathers dyd eate Manna in the desert as it is wyrtte: he gaue the: bread from heauen to eate. Then Iesus sayde vnto the: verely, verely I saye vnto you: Whos eate gaue you not that bread from heauen: * but my father geueth you the true bread from heauen. For the bread of God is he, whych cometh downe from heauen, and geueth lyfe vnto the world.

Then sayd they vnto him: Lord, euermore geue vs this bread. And Iesus sayd vnto they: I am the bread of lyfe. he that cometh to me shall not hunger: and he that beleueth on me shall neuer thurst. ¶ But I sayde vnto you: that ye also haue fene me, and yet ye beleue not. All that f father geueth me shall come to me: and he that cometh to me, I call not a waye: for I came downe fro heauen: * not to do that I will, but that he will, whych hath sent me. And this is the fathers will whych hath sent me, that of all whych he hath geuen me, I shall loose nothinge: but rayse them vp agayne at the last daye. And this is I will of him that sent me: that euerp one whych seeth the sonne: * and beleueth on him, haue euerlasting lyfe. And I will rayse him vp at the last daye. The Jewes the murmured at him, because he sayd: I am I bread comynge downe from heauen. And they sayde: * Is not this Iesus the sonne of Ioseph, whose father & mother we knowe? how is it the he sayeth, I came downe fro heauen? Iesus answered & sayd vnto them: Murmur not amonge youre selues. ¶

¶ So man can come to me, except the father whych hath sent me, drawe hym: And I will rayse hym vp at I last daye. It is wrytten in the Prophetes: * and they shal be all taught of God. Euerp man therfore I hath hearde, and hath learned of the father, cometh vnto me. ¶ Nor that eny man hath fene the father, save he which is of God: the same hath fene the father.

¶ Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he I putteth his trust in me, hath euerlasting lyfe. I am that bread of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eate Manna in the wyldernes, & are deed: ¶ This is that bread, whych cometh downe from heauen, that a man maye eate therof, & not dye. I am that Ipyng bread, whych came downe from heauen. If eny man eate of this bread, he shall lyue for euer: * And the bread that I will geue, is my fleshe, whych I will geue for the lyfe of the world. ¶

¶ The Jewes therfore stroue amonge them selues, sayng: how ca this felowe geue vs I fleshe of his, to eate? Then Iesus sayde vnto them: ¶ Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, except ye eate the fleshe of the sonne of man, and drynke his bloude: ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso eateth my fleshe & drynkerh my bloude, hath eternall lyfe, & I will rayse him vp at the last daye. ¶ For my fleshe is meate in dede: and my bloude is dryncke in dede. he that eateth my fleshe & drynkerh my bloude, dwelleth in me and I in him. As the Ipyng father hath sent me, and I line for I father: ¶ When he that eateth me, shall lyue by the meynng of me. This is I bread, whych cam downe fro heauen: not as your fathers dyd eate Manna, & are deed: he that eateth of this bread, shall lyue euer. ¶

These thinges sayd he in the synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therfore of his disciples (whych they had herde this) sayde: this is an harde sayng: who can abyde the hearinge of it? Iesus knewe in hym selfe, that his disciples murmured at it, & he sayd vnto them: Doth this offende you? What and ye shall be I forme of man attende vp thither where he was before? ¶ It is the spere that quyknerh, the fleshe wylteth nothinge. The wordes I I spake vnto you, are spere and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Iesus knewe from the begynning, whych they were, that beleued not, & who shalde betraye him: And he sayd: therfore sayde I vnto you: that * no man can come vnto me, except it were geuen vnto hym of my father.

¶ From thym many of his disciples went backe, and forsoke him, and walked nomore with hym. Then sayde Iesus to the twelue: will ye also goo awaye? Then Simon Peter answered him: Lord, to whom shall we go? ¶ Thou haste the wordes of eternall lyfe: * and we beleue and are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the Ipyng God. Iesus answereth the: haue not I chosen you twelue, and * one of you is a deuyll? he spake of Judas Iscariot the sonne of Simon. ¶ For he it was, that shuld betraye hym, heynge one of the twelue.

¶ Now when halfe off feate was done,
 Jesus went up into the temple, and taught:
 And the Jewes maneyed, saying: how knowest thou the scriptures, seeing he neuer

* Did not I shew you a lawe, a yet none of you heareth it: why go ye about to kill me? The people answered and sayde: thou hast the deuil: who goeth about to kill the? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: * I haue done one worke, and ye all maruaile. I shewed these fewe daies vnto you I circumsise you: not because it is of Moses, but ^b of the fathers: And yet ye vs the Saboth daye, circumsise a man. If a man on the Saboth daye receiue circumcision without breachinge of the lawe of Moses: disspaine ye at me, because I haue made a man euery whit whole on the Saboth daye? * Iudge not after the vnter apperience, but iudge with a righteous iudgement.

Then sayde some of them of Ierusalem: is not this he, whom they go about to kill? But he, he speaketh boldly, and they saye nothing to him. Do the rulers knowe it? he saith: this is verie of himselfe: I wil be it: we knowe this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

Then cryed Iesus in þe temple (as he taught) saying: ye both knowe me, and whence I ampe knowe. And I am not come of my selfe: but he that sent me is true, whom ye knowe not. John. 8. 16 Iesus answered: If I honour my selfe, myne honour is nothinge. It is my father y honoureth me, which ye saye, is your God, & yet ye haue not knowen hym: but I knowe him. And yf I saye, I knowe him not, I shal be a lyar lyke vnto you. But I knowe him, and kepe his sayinge.

John. 8. 17 Your father Abraham was glad to se my daye: & and he sawe it, & reioyced. Then sayd the Jewes vnto him: thou art not yet. I. yere olde, and hast thou sente Abraham. Iesus sayd vnto the: Therely werely, I saye vnto you: yet Abraham was borne, & I am. John. 8. 18 ¶ Then tolde they vnto Iesus, to call at hym: But Iesus theyd him selfe, and went out of the temple. John. 8. 19 ¶

¶ Christ maketh the man to se that was borne blynde.

John. 9. 1 ¶ And as Iesus passed by, he sawe a man, which was blynde from hys birth. And his discyples assured him sayinge: Master, who dyd synne, this man, or hys father and mother, that he was borne blynde. Iesus answered: Neither hath this man sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of God shulde be shewed in hym. I must worke the workes of hym that sent me, whyle it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worke. As longe as I am in the worlde. ¶ John. 9. 2 ¶

John. 9. 3 ¶ As he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made claye of the spittle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, & sayd vnto him: Go, worsche thein in the pole of Siloe, which by interpretation is a noche to lape as, sent. He went his waye therfore, and washed, & came agayne, seinge: So the neighbours and they y had sent him before (how y he was a begger) said: is not this he that sat and begged? Some sayd: this is he. Agayne, other sayd: ¶ John. 9. 4 ¶

John. 9. 5 ¶ He hym selfe sayde: I am curen he. Therfore sayde they vnto hym: howe are thyne eyes opened? he answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the pole Siloe, and washe. And whan I went & washed, I receaued my sight. ¶ Then sayd they vnto him: where is he? he sayde: I cannot tell.

John. 9. 6 ¶ They brought to the pharises, hym that a lytel before was blynde: and it was the Sabbath daye, when Iesus made claye, and opened hys eyes. ¶ Then agayne the pharises also asked hym, howe he had receaued his sight. He sayd vnto them: he put claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed, and do se. ¶ Therfore sayd some of the pharises: thys mā is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabbath daye. ¶ Other sayde: howe can a man y is a synner, do such myracle? And ther was a stryfe amonge them. ¶ They spake vnto the blynde mā agayne: What sayst thou of him, because he hath opened thyne eyes? he sayd: ¶ John. 9. 7 ¶

John. 9. 8 ¶ But the Jewes dyd not beleue of the mā (how that he had bene blynde, and receaued hys sight) vntill they called the father and mother of him that had receaued hys sight. And they asked them, saying: Is thys youre sonne, who ye saye was borne blynde? how both he now se then? his father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe, that thys is oure sonne, and that he was borne blynde: but by what meane he now seeth, we cannot tell. ¶ Who hath opened his eyes, cannot we tell he is olde ynough, aske him, let hym answer for hym selfe. ¶ Suche wordes spake hys father ad mother, because they feared the Jewes. ¶ For the Jewes had conspyred all ready, that yf any man dyd confesse that he was Christ, he shulde be crucified. ¶ Therfore sayd hys father and mother: he is olde ynough, aske him. ¶ John. 9. 9 ¶

John. 9. 10 ¶ Then agayne called they the man y was blynde, and sayd vnto hym: Seue God the waye: we knowe that thys man is a synner. he answered therfore, and sayde: Whyther he be a synner or no, I cannot tell. One thinge I am sure of: that where as I was blynde, now I se. ¶ Then sayd they to hym agayne: What dyd he to the? how opened he thyne eyes? he answered them: I tolde you yer whyle, and ye dyd not heare. Wherefore wold ye heare it agayne? Wyl ye also be his disciples? ¶ He answered them hym, & sayd: y his discipule. We are Iudhis discipules. We are sure, y God spake vnto Moses. ¶ As for this selowe, we knowe not fro whence he is.

John. 9. 11 ¶ The man answered, and sayde vnto the: this is a maruelous thing, that ye wote not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes. ¶ For we be sure, y God heareth not synners. But yf euyr man be a worshipper of God, and obedient vnto his wyl, him heareth he. ¶ Hence the wold begyn saye it not hearse, that any man opened the eyes named Caiphas being the hye priefte & same perceiued vnto them: Perceiued nochtynge at all, nor confydred, that it is expedient for vs, that one man dye for the people, and not for all the people perishe. & thus spake he not of him selfe, but beyng hye priefte that same yere, he prophesied that Iesus shulde dye for the people, and not for the people onely, but that he shuld gather together in one, the children of God, & were scattered abrode. & Then from that daye forth they toke connect together, for to put him to death.

Iesus therfore walked homow openly among the Jewes: but went his waye thence vnto a countreye to a wilderness, into a cy-tie which is called Bethaniam, and there continued wth his disciples. & And the Jewes Cassar was nyer of hand, & many went out of & countreye vnto Jerusalem before the Easter, to purifie the felues. & He soughte they for Ie-sus, & spake among the felues, as they stode in the temple: & What thinke ye, seying he chmeth not to the fests daye? & The hye prieftes and pharises & had geuen a commaundement, if ye any man knewe wher he were, he shuld queweit, that they myght take him. &

Chapter xii.

Many murmured against Iesus, because he saith, Iesus crucified here, and cryeth vnto Jerusalem.

¶ Then Iesus (foure dayes before Casar) came to Bethany, wher Lazarus had ben dead, whome he raysed from death. & Ther they made hym a supper, and Martha serued, but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table wth him. & Then toke Mary a poynt of oynment (called Nardus, perfecete & drecious) and anointed Ie-sus fete, and wypped his fete with her hear, & the house was fylled with the odoure of the oynment. & Then sayd one of his disciples: (cuen Judas Iscariot) Simons sonne, which afterward betrayed him) why was not this oynment helde for thy hundred pence, and geuen to the poore? & His he sayd, not that he cared for the poore but because he was a thefe, & & had the bagge, & bare that which was geue. & Then sayd Ies: Let her alone, against the daye of my buryinge hath she kept this, for the poore allwayes shall ye haue with you, but me haue ye not allwaye.

¶ And the people of the Jewes therfore had knowledge that he was elder. And they came not for Iesus sake onely, but for they myght see Lazarus also: whom he raysed fro death.
¶ But the hye prieftes hilde a councell, if they myght put Lazarus to death also, because & for his sake many of the Jewes went awaye and beleued on Iesus. &

¶ On the next daye moche people that were come to the feste, when they hearde that Iesus shuld come to Jerusalem, toke breaunches of palme trees, and went forth to mete hym, and cryed: hosanna, & blessed is he that in the name of the Lorde, cometh kyng of Israell. And Iesus got a ponge asse, and late theron, as it is wyrtten: & fere not daughter of Syon, beholde, thy kyng cometh, sye-ting on an asses colke. & These thinges unde-stode not his disciples at the first: but when Iesus was glorified, then remembred they that such thinges were wyrtten of him, and y suche thinges they had done vnto hym. & The people & was with hym: when he called Lazarus out of his graue, & ad rayed hym from death) bare recozde. & Therfore mete hym the people also, because they hearde that he had done suche a miracle. & The pharises therfore sayd among them felues: perseeue ye, howe we preuaple nothing beholde, & all the while would goeth after him.

¶ Ther were certen Gekes among the that came to worshipp at the feste: the same came therfore to Philipp (which was of Bethsaida a cytie in Galilee) and desired hym, saying: Syr, we wolde sayue fe Iesus. And Iesus answered them, sayinge: & the honre is come, & the sonne of man must be glorified.

¶ Truly verely, I saye vnto you: except the wheate cozne fall into the ground, & dye, it byrdeth alone. If it dye, it bynggeth forth much fruite. & He y loucht thus lyfe, shall de-stroye it: and he y hath thus lyfe in this world, shall kepe it vnto lyfe eternall. If any man mynist vnto me, lett him followe me, and & where I am, there shall also my minster be. If any man mynist vnto me, hym will my father honoure. &

¶ Nowe is my soule troubled, & ad what shall I saye: Father, delpner me from this houre: but therfore came I vnto this houre. & Father, glorify thy name. & Then & ther a voyce from heauē, sayng: I haue both glorified it, & will glorify it agayne. & The people therfore that stode by and heard it, sayde, that it thounded. & Other sayde: an angell spake to hym. Iesus answered and sayde: this voyce came not because of me: & but for your sakes.

¶ Nowe is the iudgment of this world:
& now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I (ye I were lyft vp from the erth) will drawe all men vnto me. & Thus he sayde signyfyinge, wher death he shulde dye. & The people answered hym: We haue heard one of the lawe, & that & chist byrdeth euer, & ad how sayst thou: the sonne of man must be lyft vpr who is that sonne of man? & Then Iesus sayd vnto the: per a lytel while is the lpgde with you. & Walke whyle ye haue lpght, lest the darkenes come on you. He that walkehallo in the darck, woerth not whether he goeth whyle ye haue lpght, beleue on the lpght, & ye maye be the children of the lpght. &

¶ & These

¶ These thynges spake Iesus, and departed, and bid him selfe from them. But though he had done so many miracles before the, yet beleued not they on hym, that the sayinge of Elias the prophet myght be fulfilled, which he spake: * Lord, who shall beleue our sayinge? And to whiche the arme of the Lord declared. Therefore could they not beleue, because that Elias saith agayne: * he hath blynded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they shuld not se with their eyes, & lest they shuld vnderstand with their heart, and shuld be conuerted, and I shuld heale them. Soch thynges sayd Elias, when he sawe his glozpe, & spake of him. Neuertheles, amonge the chiefe rulers also, many beleued on hym. But because of pharises they wold not be a knowle of us, lest they shuld be excommunicat. * for they loue y people of men, more then the praye of God.

¶ Iesus cryed, and sayd: he that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on hym that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me. * I am come * a lyght into the worlde: that whosoever beleueth on me, shuld not be in darkness. And yf any man heare my wordes, & beleue not, I iudge him not. for * I came not to iudge the worlde: but to saue the worlde. he that refuseth me, & receaueth not my wordes, hath one that iudgeth hym. The worde that I haue spok, the same shall iudge hym in the last daie. for I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father which sent me: he gaue me a commaundment, what I shuld saye, & what I shuld speake. And I knowe that y his commaundement is yf euerlastinge. Whatsoeuer I speake therefore, as the father bade me, so I speake. ¶

¶ Whyn washeth the disciples fete, telleth them of Judas the traitor, and commaundeth them earnestly to loue one another.

¶ BEFORE the feaste of Easter, whē Iesus knewe that hys houre was come, that he shuld depart out of this worlde vnto y father. Whē he loked his which were in the worlde, vnto the ende he loked them. And whē supper was ended, after that the denyll had * put in the berte of Judas Iscarioth Symons sonne, to be traye hym. Iesus knowyng that * the father had given all thynges vnto hys handes, and that he was come from God, and went to God: he rose from supper, and layde asyde his vpper garmentes: and when he had taken a towell, he gyrded him selfe. After that, he powred water into a balyne, and began to wash the disciples fete, and to wype them with the towell wherwith he was gyrded.

¶ Then came he to Symō Petre. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Lord, dost thou walthe my fete? Iesus answered, and sayd vnto hi: what I do, y wost it not nowe, but y shall know hereafter. Peter sayeth vnto him: thou shalt neuer walthe my fete. Iesus answered hym: yf I walthe the not, thou hast no parte with me. Symon Peter sayeth vnto hym: Lord, not my fete onely, but all the handes and the head. Iesus sayeth to hym: he that is washed, needeth not, save to walthe his fete, but is cleane euer y wote. And ye are cleane, * but not all. for he knewe who it was that shuld be traye hym. Therefore sayd he: ye are not all cleane. So after he had washed their fete, and reccaued hys clothes, and was sett downe, he sayde vnto them agayne: wote ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me master and Lord, and ye saye well, for so am I. If I then poure lord and master haue washed your fete, ye also ought to walthe one anothers fete. for * I haue geue you an ensample that ye shuld do, as I haue done to you. I cleerly verely, I saye vnto you: yf seruante is not greater then his master, neither y messenger greater then he that sent hym.

¶ If ye vnderstande these thynges * happy are ye, yf ye do them. I speake not of you all, I knowe whō I haue chosen. But that the scripture maye be fulfilled: * ye that catech bread with me, hath yf ye by hys blete agast me. Nowe * tell I you before it come: yf whē it is come to passe, ye might beleue that I am he. Cleerly verely, I saye vnto you: * he y receaueth whomsoeuer I sende, receaueth me. And he that receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me.

¶ Whē Iesus had thus sayd, he was troubled in the spere, and testified and sayd: verely verely, I saye vnto you: that * one of you shall be traye me. ¶ When the disciples looked one on another, do wpyng of whom he spake. ¶ There was one of Iesus disciples, (which leanned on hym) * cūen he whom Iesus loued. ¶ To hym beckened Symon Peter therefore, that he shuld asse, who it was of whom he spake. he then when he leand on Iesus brest, sayd vnto him: Lord, who is it? Iesus answered: he is to whom I geue a foppe. And he wet the bierde & gaue it to Judas Iscarioth Symons sonne. And after the foppe, ¶ Sara entered into him. ¶ When sayd Iesus vnto him: that thou dost, do quickly. ¶ That wist no man at the table, for what intent he spake vnto him. Som of the thought because, * Judas had the bagge, y Iesus had sayd vnto him: bye these thynges that we haue receiued of agaynst the feaste: or y he shuld geue some thyng to the poore. ¶ Aflone the as he had receaued the foppe, he went immediately out and it was night. ¶ Therefore when he was gone oute, Iesus sayd: ¶ Now is the some of man glorified, and God is glorified by him. ¶ If God be glorified by hi, God shall also glorify hym by him selfe: and shall straghte waie glorify hym.

And wyther I go, ye knowe, and the waye ye knowe.

Thomas sayth vnto hi: Lorde, we knowe not wyther thou goest. And how is it possible for vs to knowe the waye? Iesus sayth vnto hym: I am the waye and the trouth, ad the * lyfe. * No man cometh vnto the father, but by me. If ye had knowe me, ye had knowe my father also. And now ye knowe him, and haue seue hym.

Whily sayth vnto hym: Lorde, thewe vs the father, & it sufficeth vs. Iesus sayth vnto hym: haue I bene so longe tyme with you, & yett hast thou not knowe me? Whily, he that hath seue me, hath seue my father. And howe sayest thou then: thewe vs the father? Belonest I not, * I am in the father, & the father in me. * The woordes I speake vnto you, I speake not of my self: but * the father that dwelleth in me is he p doth the woordes. And he that loueth me, shall be loued of my father, and I wyl loue hym, and wyl therwye mune awieselfe to him. * Iudas sayth vnto hym: (not Iudas Iscariot) Lorde, what is done that thou wyle thewe thy selfe vnto vs, and not vnto the world? Iesus answered a sayd: vnto the: p a man loue me, he will kepe my sayings, and my father wyl loue hym, and we wyl come vnto hym, and dwell w hym. He that loueth me not, heareth not my sayings. And the woerde which ye heare, is not myne, but the father's which sent me.

Wher I leaue with you, my peace I geue vnto you. Not as the world geneth, geue I vnto you. Let not poure hertes be greued, nether feare. Ye haue hearde howe I sayde vnto you: I go, and come agayne vnto you. If ye loued me, ye wolde verely reioyse, because I sayd: I go vnto the father, for the father is greater then I. * And nowe haue I thewed you before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue. Here after wyl I not talke many woordes vnto you. For the prince of this world cometh, and * hath naught in me. But p I wolde make knowe that I loue the father. branches. He that abyrdeth in me, and I in him, the same bygerth moche frute. For without me can ye do nothing. If a man byde not in me, he is cast forth as a branche, & is withered: and men gather them: and cast the into the fyre, and they burne. * If ye byde in me, and my wordes abyrdin you: aske what ye will, and it shalbe done for you. * Wherin is my father glorified: that ye beare much frute, and become my disciples.

As the father hath loved me, enen so haue I also loved you. Continue ye in my loue. If ye kepe my commandementes, ye shall byde in my loue, enen as I haue kepte my fathers commandementes, & byde in hys loue. These thynges haue I spoken vnto you, p my loue myghte remaine vnto you, and that poure loue myghte be full.

* * * This is my commaundemēt, that ye loue together, as I haue loved you. Greater loue hath no man, then this: that a man bestowe hys lyfe for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, yf ye do whatsoeuer I commaunde you. Hence forth call I you not seruantes: for the seruant knoweth not what hys lord doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for all thynges that I haue heard of my father, haue I opened to you.

Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeyned you, to goo, and byngge forth frute, and p your frute shuld remaine, that whatsoeuer ye aske of the father in my name, he maye geue it you. *

* This commaunde I you, that ye loue together. If the world hate you, ye knowe that it hateth me before it hateth you. If ye were of the world, the world wolde loue his owne: howbeit, because ye are not of p world. But I haue chose you out of p world therfore: the world hateth you. Remember the worde that I sayd vnto you: the seruant is not greater then the lord. * If they haue persecuted me, they will also persecute you. If they haue kept my sayng, they will kepe yours also.

* But all these thynges will they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not knowen hym that sent me. If I had not come and spoken vnto them, they shuld haue had no synne: but now haue they nothyng to cloke their synne withall. He that hateth me, hateth my father also: If I had not done amonge them the workes whych none of her man dyd, they shuld haue had no synne. But now haue they both sene, & hated: not onely me but also my father. But this happeneth that the synnyng myghte be fulfilled, that is written in their lawe: * they hated me without a cause. * * But when the comforter is come, y whom I will sende vnto you from p father: enen in the spere of treuth, whych proceedeth of the father: he shall testifie of me.

And ye shall beare witness also, because ye haue bene with me from the beginning.

¶ Comforter agaynst trouble. Whypers are hearme thowd. Chapd.

In these thynges haue I sayde vnto you because ye shuld not be offendid. * Thep shall excommunicat, that ye shal be in the tyme shall come, that * whosoever killeth you, will thinke that he doth God seruyce. * And such thynges will they do vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father, neither yet me. But these thynges haue I tolde you, that when p tyme is come, ye maye remember then that I tolde you. * These thynges sayde I vnto you at the beginning, because I was present with you.

* But now I go my waye to hym that sent me, & none of you asketh me whither I go. But because I haue sayd such thynges vnto you, your hertes are full of sorowe. Nevertheless, I tel you the treuth, it is expedient for you, p I goo awaye. For if I goo not awaye, that comforter will not come vnto you. But if I departe, * I will sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he will rebynke the world of synne, and of righte wronges, & of iudgement. Of synne, because they beleeue not on me. Of righte wronges, because I go to my father, and p shall see me nomore: Of iudgement, because the synnyng of this world is iudged all ready.

I haue yet many thynges to saye vnto you but ye cannot heare them awaye now. Howbeit when he is come, which is the spere of treuth, he will leade you into all treuth. He shall not speake of hym selfe: but whatsoeuer he shall heare, that shall he speake, and he will shewe you thynges to come. He shal glorify me, for he shall receaue of myne, & shall shewe vnto you. * All thynges that the father hath, are myne. Therefore sayde I vnto you, that he shall take of myne and shewe vnto you. *

* After a while ye shall not see me, and agayne after a while ye shall see me: for I go to the father. When sayde some of hys disciples betwene them selues: what is this that he sayth vnto vs, after a while, ye shall not see me, and agayne after a while ye shall see me: and that I go to the father? They sayd therfore: what is this that he sayth: after a while, we cannot tell what he sayth. Jesus perceaued, that they wolde aske him, and sayde vnto them. The enquire of this betwene your selues, because I sayde after a while ye shall not see me, & agayne after a while ye shall see me. The Gospell

It would when the trauaileth, hath sozowe, because her poure is come: but as none as she is belivered of the child, she remembreth none of the anguish she, for sope that a man is borne into the worlde. And ye now therefore haue sozowe: but I will se you agayne, and your hertes shall reioyce, and your sope shall no man take fro you. K And in þ daye shall ye aske me no question. I Verely verely, I saie vnto you: * whatsoeuer ye shall aske þ father in my name, he will geue it you. Hytherto haue ye asked nothinge in my name.
Aske, and ye shall receaue: that your sope maye be full.

These thinges haue I spoke vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme will come, when I shall nomore speake vnto you by prouerbes: but I shall shewe you playnly from my father.
At þ daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saie not vnto you that I will speake vnto my father for you. For the father him selfe toucht you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, that I came out fro God. I wet out fro the father, and came into the worlde.
Agayne, I leaue the worlde, and go to the father.

His disciples sayd vnto him: so, now enliketh thou playnly, and speakest no prouerbe.
* I now are we free, that * thou knowest all things, and needst not, that any man shulde aske the any question. Therefore beleue we, þ thou camest from God. I Iesus answered them: Now ye do beleue. * Behold, the honore draweth nye, and is all ready come. þ ye shall be scattered euery mā to his owne, & I shal leane me alone. And yet am I not alone. For
* the father is with me.

These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye myghte haue peace. For in the worlde shall ye haue tribulacion: but be of good chere, I haue ouercome the worlde.

¶ The xviij. Chapter.

¶ The moost hartly and louing prayer of Ihesus vnto his father, for all such as receaue the trewth.

These wordes spake Iesus, and left vp his eyes to heauen, and sayde: father,
* the houre is come: glorifye thy sonne that thy sonne also maye glorifye the: as thou hast geuen him power ouer all flesh, that he shuld geue eternal lyfe to as many as thou wilt geuen him. This is * lyfe eternal, þ they might knowe the, the onely true God, & Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent.

I haue glorified the on the earth. * I haue finisshed the worke, which thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye thou me (* father) with thine awne self, with the glory, which I had with the, yee the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto the mē, which thou gauest me out of the worlde. Thine they were, and thou gauest them me, and they haue kept the worde. Now they haue knowen, þ all thinges whatsoeuer thou hast geuen me, are of the. For I haue geuen vnto them the wordes which thou gauest me, and they haue receaued them, and haue knowen surely, that I came out from the: and they haue be-leued, that thou diddest send me.

I praye for the, &c. I praye not for * the worlde: but for them: which þ hast geuen me, for they are thine. And all mine are thine, & thyne are mine, & I am glorified in the. And now I am not in the worlde, and they are in the worlde, and I come to the. I * Holy father, kepe thyow thine awne name, them which thou hast geuen me, þ they also maye be one, as we are. Whyte I was with the in the worlde, I kepte the in thy name. * Those that thou gauest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that lost childe, * that the scripture might be fulfilled.

Now come I to the, & these wordes speake I in the worlde, that they might haue my joy ful in them. I haue geuen the the worlde, and * the worlde hath hated them, because they are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I desiree not that þ shuldest take them out of the worlde: but * that thou kepe them from euyl. They are not of the worlde, as I also am not of the worlde. Sanctify them thyow thy treuth. Thy word is the treuth. As thou bydest send me into the worlde, euen so haue I also sent them into þ worlde, & for their sakes sanctifie I my selfe, that they also myght be sanctified thyow the treuth.

Nevertheless, I praye not for the alone, but for them also which shall beleue on me thyow their preaching: that they all maye be
* one, as thou father art in me, and I in the,
and that they also maye be one in vs: that the worlde maye beleue, that thou hast sent me:
And the glory which thou gauest me, I haue geuen them, that they maye be one, as we also are one. I in the, and thou in me, þ they maye be made perfecte in one, & þ the worlde maye knowe, that thou hast sent me: that me loned them as thou hast loved me.

Father, I will that they which thou hast geuen me * be with me where I am, þ they maye se my glory, which thou hast geuen me.
For thou louedest me before the makinge of the worlde. * O righteous father, þ worlde also hath not knowe the: but I haue knowe the: and these haue knowen, that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and will declare it, that the loue wher with thou hast loued me, maye be in them, & I in them. K

¶ The xviij. Chapter.

¶ Ihesus is betrayed. The thynke of the moost simple the officers to the grounde. Where Ihesus of Malchus rece. Ihesus þe brought before Anas, Capitane, and before Pilate.

When

Mat. xxv. 12.
Luce. xiv. 12.

When Iesus had spoke these wordes, * he wot forth with hys disciples ouer the brooke Cedron, where was a garde, into y which he entered and hys disciples. Judas also which betrayed him, knewe the place: for Iesus ofte tymes reposede thysheer w hys disciples. Judas then after he had receaued a bonde of men, (and mynysters of the hye priestes & Pharises) came thysheer with lanternes, and torches, and weapons.

And Iesus knowinge all thynges that shulde come on hym, went forth, and sayde vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hi:

Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus sayeth vnto them: I am he. Judas also which betrayed hym, stode with them. As sone then as he had sayde vnto the, I am he, they went backwarde and fell to the grounde. Then asked he the agayne: whom seke ye? They sayde: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. If ye selle me therefore, let these goe theire waye. But the sayng might be fulfilled which he spak: * of them which thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

John vi. 16.

Then Simon Peter hauynge a swearde, drew it, and smote the hye priestes seruaunt, and cut of hys ryght eare. The seruauntes name was Malchus. Therefore sayeth Iesus vnto Peter: * put by thy swearde into the sheath: shall I not drynke of the cup, which my father hath geuen me? Then the company and the Capayne, and mynysters of the Jewes toke Iesus, and bounde hym, and led him awaye to Anna high: for he was father in lawe vnto Capphas, which was the hye priest that same yere. Capphas was the, which gaue counsell to the Jewes * that it was expedient, that one man shulde dye for the people.

Mat. xxvi. 56.
Luce. xxii. 47.

* And Symon Peter folowed Iesus, and toke another disciple: that disciple was knowne vnto the hye priest, & went in with Iesus into the palace of the hye priest. But Peter stode at the doore without. Then went out that other disciple (which was knowne vnto the hye priest) and spake to the damsell that he kept the doore, and brought in Peter. Then sayde the damsell that kept the doore, vnto Peter. Art not y also one of this mannes disciples? he sayde: I am not. The seruaunt and the mynisters stode there, which had made a fyre of coles: for it was colde, so they warmede them selves. Peter also stode amonge them, and warmed hym.

Mat. xxvi. 68.
Luce. xxii. 56.

* The hye priest then asked Iesus of hys disciples, and of hys doctrine. Iesus answered hym: I spake openly to the world. I neuer taught in the Synagoge, and in the temple, whyther all the Jewes refozte, and in secret haue I sayde nothing. Why askest thou me? Alaske them which hearde me, what I haue sayd vnto them. Andholde, they can tell what I sayde. When he had thus spoken, one of the mynisters which stode by, smote Iesus on the face, sayinge: * answerest thou the? he preaske for: Iesus answered hym: If I haue euill spoken, beare witness of the euill: But yf I haue well spoken, why smytest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Capphas the hye priest.

Mat. xxvi. 68.

Symon Peter stode, and warned him selfe. * The hye priest then vnto hym: art not thou also one of hys disciples? he denyed it, & sayde: I am not. One of the seruauntes of the hye priestes (hys cosyn whose eare Peter smote of) sayde vnto hym: dyd not I see thein y garde with him? Peter therefore denyed agayne: and immediately the coles errew. * Then led they Iesus from Capphas to the hall of iudgement. It was in the morninge, & they thein selves went not into y iudgement hall: lest they shulde be defyled, but that they myght cate Passouer. Pylate then went out vnto the and sayde: what accusacion bring ye agaynst this man? He answered and sayde vnto him: If he were not an euill doer we woulde not haue deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Pylate vnto the: take ye hym, & iudge him after your awne lawe. The Jewes therefore sayd vnto hi: It is not lawfull for vs to put any man to death. * That the wordes of Iesus myght be fulfilled * which he spake, signifyinge, what he said he shuld dye.

The Gospell.

I When Pilate toke Iesus therfore, & scourged hym. * And the souldiers wounde a crowne of thornes, and put it on his head. And they dyd on him a purple garment. * And came vnto hym, and sayde: haill kyng of the Jewes: and they smote hym on the face. Pilate wote forthagayne, and sayde vnto them: beholde, I bringe hym forth to you, that ye maye knowe, that I fynde no faute in hym. Then came Iesus forth, wea- ping a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And he sayeth vnto the: beholde the ma-
When the hye priestes therfore and mini- sters sawe hym, they cryed sayinge: crucify him, crucify hym. Pilate sayeth vnto them: Take ye him, and crucify him: for I fynde no cause in him. The Jewes answered him: We haue a lawe, and by oure lawe he ought to dye: because he made him selfe the sonne of God. Whē Pilate hearde þ sayinge, he was the more astayde, and went agayne into þ iudgement hall, and sayeth vnto Iesus: whe- ce arte thou? But Iesus gaue him noue an- swere. Then layde Pilate vnto him: Spea- kest thou not vnto me: knowest þ not, that I haue power to crucify the, and haue power to loose the: Iesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynst me, * except it were geuen the of heaue. Therfore he that deliuered me vnto the, hath the more syme. And from thence forth sought Pilate mea- nes to loose hym: but the Jewes cryed say- inge: yf thou let him go, thou art not a clere frende. For * whosoener maketh hym selfe a kynge, is agaynst Cesar.
When Pilate hearde þ sayinge, he brought Iesus forth, and fate downe to geue sentence, in a place þ is called þ pament: but in þ he byde couthe, Gabbatha. It was þ preparyng daye of the easter, aboute þ fyfte houre. And he sayeth vnto þ Jewes: beholde your kyg? They cryed, a waye whi, a waye to hi, cruci- fy him. Pilate saith vnto the: Shall I cruci- fy þe? They cryed: We byde þ sayes: we haue no kyg but Cesar. * Then deliuered he hym vnto them, to be crucified.
And they toke Iesus, and led hym a waye. And he bare his crosse, & went forth into a place, whiche is called þ ce of deedes skulles. But i hebreue, Golgotha: where they crucified hym, and two othe with hym, on either syde one. And Iesus in he myddes. And Pilate wrote a tyle, & put it on the cros- se. The wryttinge was, Iesus of Nazareth kyng of the Jewes. Thys tyle reddyng many of the Jewes. For þ place where Ies was crucified, was npe to the cyppe. And it was wrytten in hebreue, and Greke and Latyn. Then sayde the hye priestes of the Jewes to Pilate: wryte not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayde, I am kyng of the Jewes: Py- late answered: what I haue wrytten, that haue I wrytten.

Then the souldiers, * when they had cru- cified Iesus, they toke his garmentes & made foure partes, to eueri souldier a parte, & also his coate. The coate was without seme, wrought vps thowowe out. They sayd ther- fore amonge them selues: Let vs not be- nyde it, but cast lotes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture myght be fulfilled, sayinge: * They parted myement amonge the, and for my coate they cast lotes. And the souldiers byd each thinges in debe.

There stode by the crosse of Iesus his mo- ther, and his mothers syster, Mary the wyfe of Cleophas, & Mary Magdalene. Whē Iesus therfore sawe his mother, & þ disciple stō- dige * who he loved, he sayeth vnto his mo- ther: woman, beholde thy sonne. Then sayde he to þ disciple: beholde thy mother. And from þ houre the disciple toke her for his awne.

After these thinges, Iesus knowinge that all thinges were now performed: þ the scrip- ture myght be fulfilled: he sayeth: I thyt. So they stode a vessel by, full of vnege-Therfore they splied a sledge with vnege- and wounde it about with ylope, and put it to his mouth. Aflone as Iesus then receaued of the vnege, he sayde, * Iet is finished, & bowed his head, and gaue vp the goost. The Jewes therfore because it was the prayng of the Sabbath, that þ bodys shuld not re- maine vpon the crosse on the sabbath daye (for that sabbath daye was an hye daye) be- sought Pilate, þ their legges might be broke and that they might be taken downe. Then came the souldiers, and brake the legges of þ fyrt, and of the other which was crucified with him. But when they came to Iesus: ad sawe þ he was dede already, they brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers w a spea- re, thrust him into the syde, ad forth with ca- me ther out bloude and water.

And þ sawe it, bare recorde, & byn record is true. And he knoweth þ the sayth true, that ye might beleue also. For these thinges we- re done, þ scripture shulde be fulfilled, & þe shall not breake a bone of him. And agayne another scripture sayeth: they shal loke on him, who they feared. * After this, Ioseph of Aramathia (which was a disciple of Iesus: but secretly for feare of the Jewes) be- sought Pilate, that he might take downe the body of Iesus. And Pilate gaue him licence, & he came thither, and toke the body of Iesus. And he also Nicodemus, which at þ begynnyng came to Iesus by night, brought of myrr and aloes mingled together, aboute an hund- red pounde wayght. Then toke they þ bo- dy of Iesus, & wounde it in linnen clothes w the odours, as the maner of the Jewes is to bury. And in the place where he was cru- cified, there was a garden, and in þ garden a newe

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ The resurrection of Christ, which appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all his disciples. to theys greates comforte.

In the first daye of the Sabboothes ca Mary Magdalene early (when it was yet darcke) vnto y sepulchre, & ad sawe the stone taken awaye fco the graue. Then she rane, and came to Symon Peter, and to the other discipyle * who Iesus loued, and sayeth vnto the. They haue take awaye y Lorde out of the graue, & we canot tell where they haue layde him. Peter therfore went forth, & that other discipyle, ad came vnto y sepulchre. They rane both together, & the other discipyle dyd out rane Peter, & came first to the sepulchre. And wha he had stowped downe he sawe the linnen clothes lyenge, yet wet he not in. * Then came Symon Peter, folowinge him, & went into y sepulchre, & sawe y linnen clothes lye, & y napykin that was aboute his hebd, not lyinge w the linnen clothes, but wrappyd together in a place by it selfe. Then went in also y other discipyle, which came first to y sepulchre, and the he sawe & beleneu. For as yet they knewe not y scripture, that he shoulde rse agayne fco deeth. K

¶ When the disciples wet awaye agayne vnto theyr owne home. * Mary stode without at y sepulchre weepinge. So as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into y sepulchre, & seeth two angels clothed in whyte, sytting, y oue at the hebd & y other at y fete. where they had layde the body of Ies^{us}. They saye vnto her, womā, why wepest thou? She sayeth vnto the: for they haue take awaye my Lorde, & I wote not where they haue layde hi. Wh^{er} he had thus sayd, she turned her selfe backe, & sawe Iesus standinge, and knewe not yit was Iesus: Iesus sayeth vnto her, womā, why wepest thou? Wh^{er} lokest thou? She supposinge that he had bene a gardener, sayeth vnto him. Sy: pf y haue boyme hi here, tell me wher y hast layde him, ad I will let him. Iesus sayeth vnto her. Mary. She turned her selfe, & sayd vnto hym: Rabbi, which is to saye, my master. Iesus sayeth vnto her, ¶ touch me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to * my brethe, & saye vnto the: I asende vnto my father & your father: & to my God, & your God. * Mary Magdalene came & tolde y discipules, y she had sene the Lorde, ad that he had spokt such thynges vnto her. K

¶ The same daye at night which was the first daye of y Sabboothes, when y doores were shut (where y discipules were assembled together for feare of y Jewes) came Iesus, and stode in the myddes, & saith vnto them:

peace be vnto you. And wh^{er} he had so sayde, he shewed vnto them his handes, & his syde. Then * were y discipules glad when they sa^{we} y Lorde. Then sayd Iesus to the agayne: peace be vnto you. As my father * sent me, eue so sende I you also. And wh^{er} he had sayd those wordes, he blyethed on them and sayeth vnto them: Receiue y y holy goost. Wh^{er} soeuer y spines pe remitte, theye are remitted vnto them. * And wh^{er} soeuer y spines ye re- sayne, theye are retayned. K

¶ But * Thomas was not ytwelue: which is called trithymus) one of yt the wh^{er} Iesus came. The other discipules therfore sayde vnto hi: we haue sene y Lorde. But he sayde vnto the: excepte I se in hys handes y print of y napyles, & put my fpynger into y printe of y napyles, I shal not beleue. I will not beleue. And after. viij. dayes, agayne his discipules were w in. * Thomas ad the. Then came Iesus when y doores were shut, & stode in the myddes, and sayde: peace be vnto you.

After y sayd he to Thomas: hyge thy fpynger hether, & se my handes, & reach hys hert by h^{er} h^{er}, & thrust it into my syde, & be not sayth lesse, but beleneue. * Thomas answerd, and sayde vnto him: my Lorde, & my God: Iesus sayeth vnto hi: Thomas, because y hast sene me, thou hast beleued, blessed are they that haue not sene, and yet haue beleued. K

¶ And many other thynges truly dyd Ies^{us} in the presence of his discipules, which are not wyrtten in this boke. These are wyrtte, that ye myght beleue, that Iesus is Ch^{rist} y sone of God, and that: in beleneue ye myght haue lpe thozow hys name.

¶ The xxj. Chapter.

¶ The appereth to hys discipules agayne by the fce of Epherias, and commaunde Peter chiefely to feare hys lord.

In the thirde daye dyd Iesus thewe hym y selfe agayne, at the fce of Epherias. And on this wyse he shewed he hym selfe. There were together Symon Peter & Thomas (which is called trithymus) and * J^{ohn} the channell of Cana in Galile, and the sonnes of zebedee, and two other of hys discipules, Symon Peter sayeth vnto them: I wyll go a fishinge. They saye vnto him: we also wyll go with the. They wet the y waye & entred into a shyppe immediatly, & that night caught they nothinge. But when y mornynge was now come, Iesus stode on y shoze: neccerthelesse the discipules knewe not yit was Iesus. Iesus sayeth vnto the: Chyldren, haue ye eny meat: they answered him, no. And there appered vnto them cloven tonges, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it sate vpon eache one of them: * and they were all fylled with the holy goost, and beganne to speake with other tongues, euen as the same spete gaue them vnterstandinge.

¶ Ther were dwellinge at ierusalem, jewes, deuoute men, out of euery nacyn of the that are vnder heauen. When this was noped aboute, the multitude came together, & were assayed, because that euery man hearde the speake with his awne language. They wondered all, and marueyled, sayinge among the

¶ The iij. Chapter.

¶ The hale is referred to hys fete. Peter preacheth Light vnto the people.

¶ Peter and John went vp together into the temple at the nyght houre of prayer. And a certayne man that was halt from hys mothers wobe, was brought, whom they layde dayly at the gate of the temple (which is called beuetyfull) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter and John, that they wolde into the temple, he desyred to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on him with John, & sayd: loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto the, trustynge, to receaue some thyng of them. ¶ The sayde Peter: Synner and golde haue I none such as I haue, gene I the. In the name of Iesus Chyft of Nazareth, * ryle vp and walke. And he toke hym by the ryght hand, and lyfte hym vp. And immediately hys fete and anckel bones receaued strenght. And he sprang, stode, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walkynge, and leapinge, and prayyinge God.

¶ And all the people sawe hym walke and prayse God. And they knewe hym, p it was he, which sat and begged at the beuetyfull gate of the temple. And they wondered and were sore astonyed at that which had happened vnto hym. And as the halt which was healed, helde Peter and John, all the people ranne amased vnto the in the porche that is called Salomons.

¶ When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people. ¶ Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at this, or why loke ye to on vs, as though by oure a woe power or strength we had made thys man go? ¶ The God of Abraham, and of Isaac and of Jacob, the God of oure fathers hath glorified hys sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered, * and denyed in p presence of Pilate, when he had lugged hym to be looked. ¶ But ye denyed the holy and iust, * and delieryd a moethere to be geuen poon, and kyled * the Lorde of lyfe, whom God hath rayled from death, of the which we are witnesses. And hys name thowowe the sayth of his name, hath made this ma sound, who ye se and knowe. And the sayth which is by hym, hath geuen to hym thys healt in the presence of you all.

¶ And now bethye, I wote p thowow ignorance ye dyd it, as dyd al the poure euilers. ¶ But God (which before had the wey, by the mouth of all hys prophetes, howe p chyft shuld suffer) hath thus wyle fulfyllid. ¶ Let it * repent you therfore, and chaunge, p poure synnes maye be done awaye. ¶ When p tyme of reftelthyng commeth, which we shall haue of the presence of the Lorde, and when God shall sende him, which before was pached vnto you, that is to wite Iesus Chyft, which must receaue heauen vntill the tyme that all thynges, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all hys holy prophetes, sence p worlde began, be restored agayne.

¶ Whos trulpe sayde vnto the fathers: * A prophet shall the Lorde poure God rayle vp vnto you, cut of poure brenche lyke vnto me: hym me: him shall ye heare, in all thynges whatsoever he shall saye vnto you. For the tyme will come, that euery soule which will not heare that same Prophet, shall be destroyed from amonge the people. All the Prophetes also from Samuel and thence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in lyke wyse tolde of these dayes.

Ye are the chyldren of the Prophetes, and of the couenant, which God made vnto oure fathers, sayinge to Abraham: * Euen in thy seede shall all the kynredes of the earth be blessed. For when God had rayled vpon his sonne Iesus vnto you, he sent hi to blesse you, that euery one of you shoulde turne from his wickednes. R

Of the iij. Chapter.

¶ The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. There are witnesses to praye, but they loose them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto God then vnto men.

As they spake vnto the people, the prestes and the rulers of the temple, and the Saducees, came vpon the, takinge it greuouly, that they taughte the people, and preached in Iesus the resurrection from deeth. And they layde handes on them, and put them in holde vntill y nexte daye: for it was now euentyde. Howbeit many of them which heard the wordes beleue, and the nombre of the men was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunced on the morow, that their rulers and elders and Scribes, (and Ananias the chefe prest, and Cayphas, and Iohn, and Alexander, & as many as were of y kynred of y hye prestes) gathered together at Ierusalem. And wha they had set them before them, they asked y by what power, or in what name haue ye done this? R

Then Peter full of y holy goost sayde vnto the yerrulers of the people, and elders of Israel, yf we this daye be examined of the good dede that we haue done to the speche ma by what means he is made whole: be it knowne vnto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of * Iesus Chyist of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God rayled agayne from deeth: euen by him doth this man stande here present before you whole. * This is the stone which was cast asyde of you by the elders, which is become the chefe of the corner. Neither is there saluacion in any other. * For amonge men under heauen there is geuen none other name, wherein we must be saved. R

When they sawe the boldnes of Peter and Iohn, and understode that they were vnder-standed and lape men, they marueyled, and they knewe them, that they had bene with Iesu: and beholdinge also the man (which was healed) standynge with the, they coulde not saye agaynst it: but commaunded them to go asyde out of y counsell, and councelled amonge them selues, sayinge: * what shall we do to these men? For a manifest signe is done by them, and is openly knowen to all them that dwell in Ierusalem, and we cannot denye it: But that it be noyled no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten and charge the, y they speake hence forth no man in this name. R

And they called them, & commanded them, that in nowise they shoulde speake nexte teach in y name of Iesu. But Peter & Iohn answered and sayde vnto them: whether it be eyght in y sight of God, to heke vnto you more then to God, iudge ye. For we cannot but speake, that which we haue seene & heard. So they threatened they them, and let them go, and founde nothyng: howe to punish the, because of the people. For all men prayled God because of * y which was done: for the man was aboute fouerty yeare olde, on whom theyr myracle of healyng was shewed.

Asone as they were let go, they came to thes fellows, and shewed all that the hye prestes and elders had sayde. And when they heard y, they lyfte vp their voyces to God with one accorde, and sayde: Lorde, thou art God, which hast made heauen and erth, the see, & all that in the is, which * in the holy goost, as by y mouth of thy seruait David: * ouer all thynges thou hast sayd: * Why doth the herbe rage, and the people ymagen vayne thynges? The kyn- gdes of the erth stode vp, and the ruler came together, agaynst the Lorde and agaynst his anoynted.

For of a trouth, agaynst thy holy chyld Iesus whom y hast anoynted: both herode and alio Pontius pylate, with the Scitues and the people of Israel, gathered them selues together: * in this case: for to do what: forner thy hande and thy counsell determy- ned before to be done. And now Lorde, we holde their threatenynge, and graunte vnto thy seruantes, that with all conyden- ce they maye speake thy worde. So that thou stretche forth thyne hande, that healyng ad signes and wonders be done by the name of thy holy chyld Iesus. And asone as they had prayd: y place moued where they were assembled together: * and they were all fylled with the holy goost, and they spake the worde of God boldly.

And the multitude of them that bele- ued, * were of one heart, & of one soule. They ther sayde anye of them, that ought of the thynges which he possessed, was his owne: but they had all thynges common. And with grante power ganne the Apostles wytnes of the resurrection of the Lord Iesu. And great grace was with them all. Neither was there any amonge them, that lacked. For as many as were possessers of landes or houses, solde them, and brought y pryce of y thynges that were solde.

¶ The difference of maner and of the office of the Apostles is shewed. For as the office of the Apostles is to be a witness, so the office of the Evangelists is to be a witness. And the office of the Evangelists is to be a witness. And the office of the Evangelists is to be a witness.

A Certayne man named Ananias with Sapphira his wyfe solde a possession, & kepte awaye parte of the ppyce (his wyfe also beyng of counsell) and brought a certayne parte, and layde it downe at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayde: Ananias, how is it, that Sathan hath fylled thine heart, that thou shouldst lye vnto the holy goost, and kepe awaye parte of the ppyce of the lande? Perchayn it not vnto the onely: & after it was solde, was it not in thine awne power? Why hast thou concealed this thinge in thine heart? Thou hast not liden vnto me, but vnto God. Wherfore Ananias herde these wordes, he fell downe, and gaue vp the goost. And great feare came on all them that heard these thinges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put hym a parte, & carryed hym out, and buried hym.

And it fortyneth, that (as it were aboute the space of the houre after) his wyfe came in, ignorant of that which was done. And Peter sayde vnto her: Tell me, how solde ye not þe lande for so much? And she sayd: yee, for so much. Then Peter sayde vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to test the spete of þe Lord? Beholde, the fete of them which haue buried thy husband, are at the doore, and shall cary the out. Then fell she downe straightly waye at his fete, and yelied vp þe goost. And the yonge men came in, and founde her deed, & carryed her out, & buried her by her husband. And great feare came on all the congregacion, and on as many as heard it.

* Act. xli.

¶ By þe handes of the Apostles * were many signes and wonders wrought among the people. And they were all together with one accord in * Salomons porche. And of other durst no mā tope him self to the newe theologie the people magnified them. ¶ And that the people should be delivered from the curse of the lawe.

¶ There came also a multitude out of the cyties rounde aboute, vnto Ierusalem, bringyng theke folkes, and them which were cured with vniuersal sperte. And the people were breaddened by one.

* Then the chefe Prieste rose vp, and all they that were with him (which is the secte of the Saducees) & were full of indignacion, and layde handes on the Apostles, and put them in the comytty prison. * But the angell of the Lord by nyght opened the prison doores, and brought them forth, and sayde: go, and stande, and speake in the temple to the people all þe wordes of this lyfe. When they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the mornynge: and taught. But the chefe ppyete came and they that were with him, & called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chyldeyn of Israel, and sent men to the prison, to fet them. When the mynystrs came, and founde them not in the prison, they returned and tolde, sayyng: the prison truly founde we shut with all bilgiers, and the keepers standyng without before the doores. But wher we had opened, we founde no mā within. When the chefe Prieste and the ruler of the temple, and the hye Priests heard these thinges, they doubted of this, wher vnto this wolde growe.

¶ Then came one and shewed them: beholde, the men that ye put in prison, stande in the temple, and teach the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, with mynystrs, and brought them without violence. For they feared the people, lest they shoulde haue bene stoned. And when they had brought them, they set the before the counsell. And the chefe Prieste asked them, sayyng: * whyd not we straitly commaunde you: that ye shuld not teach in this name? And behold, ye haue fylled Ierusalem with poure doctrine, and intend to byngne * this manys blood vnto vs.

And now I sape vnto you: refraine your selues from this men, and lett them alone. for yf this counsel or this worke be of men, it will come to naught. But and yf it be of God, ye cannot destroye it, lest haply ye be founde to stryue agaynst God. And to hym agreed the other: and whan they had called the apostles, they bet them, *and commaunded that they shulde not speake in the name of Iesu, and lett them go.

And they departed from the councill, I reioysing, that they were counted worthy, to suffer rebuke for his name. And dayly in the temple and in euery house they ceased not, to teach and preach Iesus Christ.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ Steuen (an deacon) was ordered in the congregation to do seruyce in necessaty thynges of the body, that the apostles myghte occupye only the worke of God. Steuen is actiue.

At those dapes (whā the number of the disciples grew) there arose a grudge amonge the Grekes agaynst the hebrues, because their weddowes were despayred. In the dayly ministracion. When the twelue called the multitude of the disciples together and sayde, it is not meete, that we shuld leane the worde of God: and serue tables. Wherefore brethren, loke ye out amonge you iensen men: of honest report, and full of the holy ghost and wisdom, to whom we maye committe this busynesse. But we will geue oure selues continually to praye, and to the ministracyō of the worde. And the sayngre pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steuen a mā full of faith and of the holy ghost, and phylip, and procorus, and nichanos, and timon, and bernemias, and * nicolaus a conert of Antioche. To whiche they bet before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they layde thepp handes on them.

And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Ierusalem greatly, and a grate compaignie of the pfectes were obedient to the sayth.

And Steuen, full of sayth and power, dyd great wonderes and miracles aminge the people. When there arose certen of the Synagoges, which is called the Synagoge of the Libertynes and Cyrenyces, and of Alexandria, and of Cilicia, and of Asia, disputynge with Steuen. * And they coulde not resylte the wisdom, e the sperte, * which spake. Then sent they in men, which sayde: we haue heard hym speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people ad the elders and the scribes: and came vnto hym and caught hym, and brought him to the councill, and brought forth false witness, which sayde: This man craileth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe: for we heard him saye: this Iesus of Nazareth shal destroye this place, and wil changinge the ordinances, which Moses gaue vs. And all that sate in the councill, looked stedfastly on him, and sawe his face as it had bene the face of an angell.

The vij. Chapter.

¶ Steuen maketh answer to the accusation, touching the hardeneth Iheros, and is comfited vnto death.

When sayd the chefe pfecte: is it true for? And he sa-ye men, brethren and fathers, hearken. The God of gloyp appeared vnto our father Abraham, whan he was in Mesopotamia, befoze he dwelt in Charran, and sayd vnto hym: Get the out of thy countre, and from thy kynred, and come into y land, which I shal shewe y. Then came he out of the labr of Chalde, and dwelt in Charran. And from thence, whan hys father was dead, he brought hym into this lāde in which ye now dwell, and he gaue hym none inheritance in it, no nor the byerth of a sone: * and promysed that he wold geue it to him to possesse: * and his seed after hym, when as yet he had no chylde.

God verely spake on thys wise: that his sode shulde sojourn in a strange land, * that they shulde kepe them in bondage, and * encrease them euell. iij. C. yeres. And the nacyon (to whom they shalbe in bondage) will I iudge, sayd God. And after that shal they come forth and serue me in this place. * And he gaue him the couenaunt of circumcysion. * And he begat Isaac, and circumcised him the right dape. ad * Isaac begat Jacob, and * Jacob begat the twelue patriarches: * And the patriarches hauing indygnacyon solde Ioseph into Egypte. And God was with hym, and deliuered hym out of all his aduersities, and gaue him fauour: * yfdom in the syght of Pharaos kyngs of Egypte. And he * made hym gouernour oure Egypte, and ouer all hys household.

But ther came a deth on all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliction that our fathers coulde no sustenance. But when Jacob heard that there was cozie in Egypt he sent oure fathers thir. * And at the second tyme, Ioseph was knowe of his brethren, * Iosephs kynred was made knowe vnto Pharaon. Then sent Ioseph a messager, and caused hys father to be brought, and all his kynne. ixx. v. soules. * And Jacob descended into Egypte: and dyed both he and

The. viij. Chapter.

Paul perfectly the Chyrien. The apostles are scared abroad, Philip cometh into Samaria, An-nias magus is baptized, he dyeth, Philip baptizeth the chamberlaine.

Saul* consented vnto hys death. And at y^e tyme there was a greate persecution agaynst the congregacyon which was at Iherusalem, ad they were all* scattered abrode throughout y^e regions of Jewry and Samaria, except the apostles. But denout men blessed Steuen, and made greate laimentacyon ouer hym. As for Saul he made hauocks of the congregacyon, and entred into euery houle, and drew out both men and women, and thrust them into prison. Therefore, they that were scattered abroad, went euery where preaching the worde of God.

28

But there was a certain man called Symon, which before tyme in faine cypre vied with chacecraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, saying that he was a man that coulde do great thynges. Whom they regarded, frō the left to p̄ greatell, sayinge: this man is the power of God, which is called great. And him they sett moche by, because that of longe tyme he had bewitched them with lozcerie.
But alſone as they gaue credence to Philip-ps preaching of the kyngdome of God, & of the name of Iesu Chriſt, they were baptizd both men & women. Then Symon hym ſelfe belieued alſo. And when he was baptizd, he continued w̄ Philip, and wonderd, beholding the miracles & ſignes, which were doyd:

✠ When the apostles which were at Jeculafle herd laye, that Samary had receaued the word of God, they sent vnto the Peter & John. Whiche when they were come downe, prayed for the, & they might receaue the holy ghost. For as yet he was come on noone of the; but they were baptised onely in þ name of Christ Iesu. & Then layd they their handes on them, & they receaued the holy ghost. &

14. Until Salmo saue that thou wast laying on of the apostles hands, the holp ghoft was geuen, he offered them money, laying: geue me also this power, that on whomsoeuer I put the handes, he may receaue the holp ghoft.
 But Peter sayd vnto him: thy money peristhe with the, because thou hast thoughte * y the gift of God maye be obteyned with money. Thou hast receiued parte, not felowshipp in this buyng. For the bert is not ryght in thy wyckednes, & praye God, y the thought of thyn heerte maye be forgiuen the. For I perceaue that thou art full of bitter gall, and manured in iniquite.

Then answered Simon & sayde: *praye ye to the Lorde for me, & none of these thynges which ye haue spoken, fall on me. And they when they had testified and preached y^e woorde of God, returned towarde Ierusalem, and preached the gospell in many cities of the Samaritans.

¶ And the angel of the Lord spake vnto Philip, saying: Arise, & go toward the south vnto the waue that goeth downe from Ieru-salem vnto the cite of Gaza, which is in the desert. And he arose, & went on. And behold, a man of Ethiopia, a chamberlaine, & of great authoritie with Achaie quene of the Ethiopians, had the rule of all her treasure. & came to Jerusalem for to worship. And as he returned home againe spending in byscharct, he was of say the prophete.

¶ Then the fyrste sayd vnto Philip: go nener, and iopne thy self to pouder chere. And Philip ran to hym, and heard hym reade the prophete Esay, and sayd: vnderstandst thou what thou readest? And he said: how can I creepe I had a gyde: And he belyued Philip, that he wolde come ym, and spke with hym.
 ¶ The tennoure of the scripture which he read, was this: * he was led as a shepe to be slay-ne: and lyke a lambe domine before his sheper, so opened he not his mouth. ¶ Because of hys humblenes, he was not esteemed. But who shal declare hys generaciō: for his lyfe is taken fro the earth. The chamberlayn answered Philip, and sayd: I praye the of wōd speakest the prophete this: of hym selfe, or of some other man?

Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Iesus. And as they went on theyr waye, they cam vnto a certē water, and the chāberlay-
 Sg ij ne sayd:

The Actes

* Actes. 5. 16
 He said: He, here is water: * what doth let me to be baptised: Philip sayde vnto him: If þe beleue with all thyne heart, thou mayest. And he answered, and sayde: I beleue that Iesus Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charer to stande still. And they went downe both into the water: both Philip and also the chamberlayn, and he was tyfied hym. And a stone as they were come out of þe water, the spyrte of þe Lord caught away Philip, and the chamberlayn sawe him nomore. And he went on hys waye relayingne: but Philip was founde at Aenon. And he walked thow. And the charer, which was in all the cytie, shoulde come to Celarea. ¶

¶ The ix. Chapter. ¶

¶ Saul is converted, and comfounded the Jewes.
 Peter preacheth to Aethiopia.

AND Saul per hatching out threatenings and slaughter agaynst the disciples of the Lord, wente vnto the hye prestre, and desired of hym letters, to cary to Damasco, to the synagoges: * that yf he founde any of thys waye, (whyther they were inf or weme) he myght bringe them bounde vnto Jerusalem. And when he ioyned, it fortuned that as he was nye to Damasco, suddenly there appered round about hym a lyyght from heauen, and he fell to the earth and heard a voyce, sayinge to him: * Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he sayde: what art thou, Lord? And the Lord sayd: I am Iesus, whom thou persecutest. It is hard for the to kythe agaynst the prestres. And he both tremblinge, & astounded sayde: Lord, * what wylt thou haue me to do? And the Lord sayd vnto hym: aryse, and go into the cytie, and it shalbe told the, what thou must do.

23 ¶ The men which ioyned with hym, stode amazed, hearing a voyce, but seyinge no man. And Saul arose from the earth, & whyle he opened his eyes, he sawe no mā. But they led him by the hande, and brought hym into Damasco. And he was there dayes without syght, and neither dyd eate nor dryncke. And there was a certen discipule at Damasco, named Ananias, and to him sayd the Lord in a visyon: Ananias: And he sayd: behold, I am here Lord. And the Lord sayde vnto hym: aryse, and go into the strette (whych is called Straight) and stee in the house of Iudas after one called Saul: of Tharsus. For behold, he prayeth, and hath sene in a visyon a man named Ananias comyng into him, and puttynge hys handes on hym: that he myght receaue his syght.

¶ Then Ananias answered: Lord, I haue heard by many of this mā: how much euyl he hath done to thy synagoge at Jerusalem: & here he hath autortizede of the hye prestres, to bynde all that call on thy name. ¶ The Lord vnto him: go thy waye, for he is a chosyn vessel vnto me, to bence my name before y^e Gentyls, and kynges, and the chyldezen of Israel. For I wyl shewe hym, how greates thynges * he must suffer for my names sake.

¶ And Ananias wete his waye, and entred into the house, and put hys handes on hym, and sayd: brother Saul, the Lord that appereth vnto the in þe waye as thou camest, hath sent me, þe thou myghtest receaue thy syght, and be fylled with the holy ghost. And immediately ther fell fro hys eyes as it had bene scales, and he receaued syght: and arose, and was baptised, and receaued meate and was comforted. ¶ Then was Saul a certen dayes with the disciples which were at Damasco. And straight waye he preached Christ in the synagoges, howe that he was the sonne of God, but all that heard hym, were amazed, & sayd: is not this he, that spoyled them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hyther for that intent, that he myght bringe the bounde vnto the hye prestres: & wt Saul encreased the more in strength, & confounded the Jewes which dwelt at Damasco, affirminge that this was very Christ. ¶

¶ And after a good while, the Jewes toke councell together, to kill him. But their laying a wayte was knowne of Saul. And they watched the gates daye and nyght to kyll him. ¶ Then þe disciples toke him by nyght and byrt hym thowre the wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

¶ And when Saul was come to Ierusalem, he aslaide to couple him selfe to the disciples: but they were all asfayde of hym, & beleued not y^e he was a discipule. But Barnabas toke hym, & brought hym to the apostles, & declared to the, howe he had sene the Lord in the waye, and that he had spoken to him, & how he had done boldly at Damasco: the name of Iesu. And he had hys conuersacion with them at Jerusalem, speakinge boldly in the name of the Lord Iesu. And he had a dysputed agaynst the Grekes: but they wente aboute to see hym. Which when the brethren knewe, * they brought hym to Celarea, and sent him forth to Tharsus. ¶ Then had the cōgregacon rest thowout all Jeruyp, and Galile, and Samary, and were edifyed, and walked in the feare of the Lord, and multiplied by the comfort of the holy ghost.

¶ And it chaunced as Peter walked through out all quarters, he cam also to the sayntes, which dwelt at Lybon. And there he founde a certen man name Ennas, which had kepte his bed epght yeres, and was speke of the palsy. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Ennas: ¶ The Lord Iesu Christ make the whole: aryse, and make thy bed. ¶ And he arose immediately. And all that dwelt at Lybon and Tarsaron in we him, and tourned to the Lord. ¶ There was

There was at Joppa a certain woman, a disciple named Tabitha (which by interpretation is called Dorcas) the same was full of good works and almesdeeds, which she dyd. And it chaunced in those dayes that she was sicke, & dyed. Whō when they had washed her, they layd her in a chamber. But for as much as Lydda was nye to Joppa, and the disciples had heard of Peter was there, they sent vnto him, besyring him, that he wolde not be creued to come vnto them.

Peter arose, & came with them. And whē he was come, they brought him into the chamber. And all the widows stood round about him, weeping, and shewing the coats and garments, which Dorcas made, while she was with the. And Peter put the all forth, and knyled downe, and prayde. and turned him to the body, and sayd: Tabitha, arise. And he opened her eyes, and when she sawe Peter, she sat vp. And he gaue her the hand, and left her vp. And whan he had called the sapientes and widowes, he he wed her alpyne. And it was knowen thoroout al Joppa, & many belened on the Lord. And it fortuned, that he taried many dayes in Joppa, with one Simon a tanner.

The .x. Chapter.

¶ The vision that Peter sawe. Also he was sent to Cornelius. The hearens also receau the prayer, and are happyed.

There was a certain man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captain of the soudpers of Italy, a deuote mā, & one that feared God with all hys household, which gaue much almes to the people, and prayde God all waye. The same in we by a vision rudely: about the ninth houre of the daye an angel of God commynge into him, and sayinge vnto him: Cornelius. When he looked on hym, he was asfayred, & sayd: what is it Lord? he sayde vnto hym: Thy prayers & thy almes are come vp into remembrance before God. And now sende men to Joppa, & call for one Symon, whose sypname is Peter. he lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the see syde. he shall tell y, what thou oughtest to do. And when the angell which spake vnto hym, was departed, he called two of hys householdes serauntes, and a deuoute soudice of them that waited on him, and tolde them all the matter, and sent them to Joppa.

When y moxowe as they went on their iorney, and byrwe up vnto the cytie, Peter wet vp * vpon the topp of the house to praye, about the fyrst houre. And whē he was adged, he wolde haue cast. But while they made ready, he fell into a trance, and sawe brauen opened, and a ceteen vessel come downe vnto hym, as it had bene a great tree; knipt at the foure corners, and was let downe ne to the earth, wherein were * all manner of fourfooted beastes of the earth, & vermen and woymes & foules of the ayre. And ther came a voyce to hi, rise Peter, kyt & eat. But Peter sayd: not to Lord. for I haue neuer eaten eny thinge that is comen of vncleane. And y voyce spake vnto him agayne the second tyme: * what God hath cleened, that call not y comen. This was done thesfe, and the vessel was receaued byngayne into heauen.

Whyle Peter also mused in him self what this vision (which he had sene) meant: Cornelius had made inquirage for Symon house, and stood before the doze: and called out one, and asked whether Simon which was sypnamed Peter were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on the vision, y spere sayd vnto him: behold, men seke the arye therfore, and get the downe, & go with them, & dwore not for I haue sent them. Peter went downe to the men which were sent vnto hym frd Cornelius and sayd: Behold, I am he whō ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? they sayd: Cornelius y captaigne iust mā, and one that feareth God, & of good repute amonge all the people of the Jewes, was warned by an holy angell to sende for the in to his house, & to heare woordes of the. Then called he them in, & lodged them.

And on the morowe, Peter went a waye with them, and * certain brethren frd Joppa accompanied hym. And the thryde daye entered they into Cesarea. And Cornelius wayted for them, and had called together hys kynsmen, and speciall frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in, Cornelius mette hym, and fell downe at hys fete, & woxypped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, sayinge: stande vp, * I my selfe also am a man. And as he talked with him, he came in, and founde many that were come together. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe how that * it is a vniawful thinge for a mā that is a Jewe, to company or come vnto an alient: but God hath thewed me, that I shulde not call any man common or vncleane: therfore came I vnto you without delaye, alloue as I was sent for. For the therfore, for what intent haue ye sent for me.

And Cornelius sayd: This daye now. iij. dayes about this houre, I fast fasting, and at the nynte houre I prayde in my house: and behold, a man stood before me in byghe clothyng, and sayde: Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thynne almesdeeds are had in remembrance in the sight of God. So he then therfore to go to Joppa, and call for Symon, whose sypname is Peter. he is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner by the see syde: which alloue as he is come. Quil speake vnto the. Herode was displeased w them of Cyze and Sidde. But they came all with one accord, & made intercession vnto Blasius the kynges chamberlayne, and beseyd peace, because their countrey was noryshed by the kynges prouysyon. And vpon a daye appointed, herode arayed hym in royal apparrell, and sett hym in hyss seat, and made an oracion vnto the. And the people gaue a shout, sayinge: it is the voyce of a God & not of a man. And immediately the angell of the Lord smote hym, because he gaue not God the honour, and he was eaten of wormes and gaue vp the ghost. And the worde of God grewe and multiplyed. And Barnabas and Paul returned to Iherusalem, when they had fulfilled their offer, and toke w the * John whose surname was Mark.

¶ The xiiiij. Chapter.

The Actes

When they had gone thow the ple unto Paphos, they founde a certayne sojournere, 25 a false prophet, a Jewe whose name was Barisus, which was with the ruler of the countre one Sergeius Paulus a prudent man. The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul, and desired to heare the worde of God. But Elpinas the sojournere for so is hym name by interpretation) with stode the, and sought to turne awaye the ruler fro the faith. 26 He Saul (which also is called Paul) beinge full of the holy ghost, set his eyes on him, and sayde: O full of all subtilty and disceitfulnes, thou chyld of the drupill, thou enemy of all righteounes: wilt thou cease to persecute the straight wayes of the Lorde? And now behold, the hande of the Lorde is upon the, and thou shalt be blynde, and not see the sunne for a season. And immediately, there fell on hym a miste and a darkness, as he went about, seekinge the that should leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened, he beleved, & won- dered at the doctrine of the Lorde.

When Paul departed from Paphos, they that were with him, came to Perga in Pam- philia: and John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But they wandred thow the countres, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and wente into the synagoge on the sabbath daye, and sate downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes, the rulers of the synagoge sente unto them, sayinge: Men and brethren, yf ye haue any sermon to exhoite the people, saye on.

Then Paul stode vp, and declared with the hande for syence, and sayde: Men of Israel, and ye that feare God, geue audience: The God of this people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt in straungers in the land of Egypt, and with a bye arme broughte them out of it, and about the tyme of fourtye yeares, suffered he theyr maners in the wyldernes. And he destroyed Iuen nacions in the lande of Canaan, and subdued theyr land to them by lot. And afterwarde, he gaue vnto them iudges about the space of foure hundred and ftye yeares, vnto the tyme of Samuells the prophete. And afterwarde, they desired a kynge, and God gaue vnto them Saul the sonne of Cis, a man of the tribe of Beniamin, by the space of fourtye yeares. And wha he was put downe, he sett vp Dauid to be theyr kynge, of whom he reppoynted sayinge: I haue founde Dauid the sonne of Iesse, a man after myne owne heart, which shall fulfill all my wyll.

Of this mannes seed hath God (a coo- dyng as he had promysed) broughte forth to Israel, a saviour, one Iesus, when John had first preached before his comynge the baptisme of repentance to Israel. And wha John had fulfilled his course, he sayde: who se theynke I am, the same am I not. Behold, ther cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feete I am not worthy to loofe.

Men and brethren, chyldren of the generacyon of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is this wyorde of saluacyon sent. For the inhabitants of Jerusalem and theyr rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes which are cõde euen Saboth daye, they haue fulfilled them, in condemninge him. And when they founde no cause of death in hym, yet desired they to place to kill hym. And when they had fulfilled all that were wyitten of him, they toke him downe fro the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre. But God rayded him agayne from death, & he was seuen many dayes of the which came vp with hym from Galile to Jerusalem: which are bys wytnesses vnto the people.

And we declare vnto you, how the promesse (which was made vnto the fathers) God hath fulfilled vnto their chyldren (euen vnto vs) if he rayded vp Iesus agayne. For as it is wyitten in the psalme: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begoten thee. As concernynge that he rayded him vp from death, now nomore to returne to corrupcion he sayd on this wyse: The holy promyses made to Dauid, wyl I geue faithfully to you. Wherfore, he sayeth also in another place, Thou shalt not suffice thyne holy to se corrupcion. For Dauid (after he had in bys tyme fulfilled the wyll of God) fell on slepe, and was layde vnto bys fathers, and sawe corrupcion. But he whos God rayded agayne sawe no corrupcion.

Be it knowne vnto you therfore (men and brethren) that the thowse thes man is preached vnto you the forgiveness of sinnes, and that by hym, all that beleue, are iustified from all thynges, from which ye coude not be iustified by the lawe of Moyses. Beware therfore, lest that fall on you, which is spoken of in the prophetes: Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: ye for I do a worke in your dayes, which ye shall not beleue, though a man declare it to you.

Wha the Jewes were gone out of the congregacyon, the Gentis besought the they woide preache the word to them the next Saboth. When the congregacyon was broken vp, many of the Jewes and verueous proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas, which spake to the: & exhorted them to continue in the grace of God. And the next Saboth daye cam almost the whole cytie together, to heare the wyorde of God. But wha the Jewes sawe the people

¶ The xiiij Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas preached in Iconium, some be true, some were up streton. At Ephra they wolde be sacrefice to idols, but Paul, aduersed the people to knowe the true God, Paul is thought: after this cometh he to Derba, Ephra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

And it fortuned in Iconium, that they went both together into y synagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, that a greate multitude both of the Jewes and also of y Gentiles belueued. But y vnbelueyng Jewes, steyd by, and vniquited the myndes of the gentyls agaynst the brethren. Longe tyme abode they there, and quyt the selues boldly with the helpe of the Lorde, which gaue testimony vnto the worde of his grace, & graued synge and woundes to be done by their handes. But the multitude of the cytie was deuyded: and parte helde with the Jewes, & parte with the Apostles.

Whan they saw an assaulte made both of the Gentyls & also of the Jewes with their rulers, to do them violence, and to stone them they were ware of it, ad * fled vnto Lystra and Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, ad vnto the regyon that lyeth rounde aboute, and there preached the Gospel. ¶ And all the multitude was moued at theyr doctrine, but Paul and Barnabas stayed still at Ephra. And there lye a certayne man at Lystra was lame in his feete, byngne * creple from his mothers wombe: ad neuer had walked.

The same hearde Paul preache. Which be holdyng hym, and perceauyng that he had sayth to be whole, layd with a loude voyce: stode vpyght on thy feete. And * he stert vp, and walked. And whē the people sawe what Paul had done, they lyfte by their voyces, sayng in the speache of Lycaonia: * God: des are come downe to vs in the lykenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, ad Paul Mercurius, because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters pylle, which dwelt before their cytie, brought oren and garlandes vnto the pylle, and wolde haue done sacrefice with the people.

Which whan the Apostles, Barnabas ad Paul herde of, they rent their clothes, and ra in amonge the people, cryng and sayng: why do ye this? * We are mortall men like vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shoulde turne from theyr vanities vnto the lyuinge God, * which made heauen and erth and the see and all thynges that are therein: the which in tynes past suffered all unspow to walke in theyr owne wayes. * After theise, he left not hym selfe withoute wynges, in that he thewe hym benefitecs fro heauen, in geuyng vs raine and fructfull seasons, fyllyng oure hertes with fode ad gladnes. And with these saynges, lease retrayned they the people, that they had not done sacrefice vnto them.

Therther came certayne Jewes from Antioche and Iconium: which (whan they had obteyned the peoples consent) * and had stoned Paul, drew him out of the cytie, (supposinge he had bene dead). Wherbet as y disciples rode rounde about him, he arose vp, and came into the cytie. And the nexte daye he departed with Barnabas to Derba. And whā they had preached to that cytie, a had taught many, they returned agayne to Ephra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strenghted y disciples soules agayne, and * exhorted the to contynue in the faith affyrmyng: that we must * thowowe moche tribulacion en tyn to the kyngdome of God. And whā they had ordeined them elders by electyon in euery cytye: gregacyon, and had prayde and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on who they belueued. And whan they had gone thowowe out of Asia, they came to Pamphilia, & whā they had preached the worde in Perga, they desired into the cytye Artalia, and thence departed by shippe to Antioche from whence they were committed vnto the grace of God to y woike which they fulfilled. Whan they were come, and had gathered the congreagation together, they reherced all that God had done by them: ad how he had opened the doye of faith vnto the Gentyls. And there they abode longe tyme with the disciples.

thyng, when we were come together with one accord, to sende chosen men vnto you, with oure beloued Barnabas and Paul, mē that haue icoparded thei lyues for the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Sylas, which shall all to tell you the same thynges by mouth. For it seemd good to the holy gost and to vs, to charge you with no more, than these necessary thynges: that is to saye, that ye absteyne frō thynges offered to ymagēs, and from bloud, and from strangeled and from fornicacion.
From which yf ye kepe poure selues, ye shall do well. So fare ye well.

Whē they therfore were departed, they ca-

The xviij. Chapter.

When came he to Mersa and to Ephesus, and beholde, a certayne dysciple was there named Timothy, a woman's sonne, which was a Jewe and beleued: but hys father was a Greke. Of whom reported well the byethren that were at Ephesus and Icomu hymn wold Paul that he shulde go forth with him, & toke and circuicised hym, because of the Jewes which were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that hys father was a Greke. As they went thowow the cyties, they deliuered them the decrees for to kepe, that were & ordeined of the Apostles and elders, which were at Jerusalem. And so were the congregacions stablished in the faith, and encreased in number dayly.

When they had gone thowow out Phrygia, and the region of Galacia, and * were forbydden of the holy ghost to preach the word in Asia, they came to Ephesus, and sought to go into the temple. But the spere tolled the not. But what they had gone thowow Ephesus they came downe to * Troada. And a visio appeared to Paul in the nyght. There stode a man of Chacedonia and prayed him, saying: come into Chacedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, immediatly we prepared to go into Chacedonia, bringe certified that the Lord had called vs, for to preach the gospel vnto the. Whan we losed forth then fro Troada, we came w a straye courte to Samothracia, and thence dawe to Neapoli, & from thence to Philippi, which is the chiefe cytie in partes of Chacedonia, & a free cytie. We were in that cytie abyding certayne dayes. And on the Saboth dayes we went out of the cite beynde a ryuer, where men were wont to praye. And we sate downe, & spake vnto the womē which recortized thither. And a certayne woman named Lydia in seller of purple, of the cytie of Thyatira, which worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lord opened, that she attended vnto the thyngs, which Paul spake. When she was baptised, ad her housholde, she besought vs, saying: If ye thinke that I beleue on the Lord, come into my house, and abyde there. And she * constrained vs.

And it fortuned as we went to prayer, a certayne damsell possessed with a spere that prophesied, met vs, which brought her master: a maister moche vauntinge w prophesyinge. The same followed Paul and vs, and cried, sayinge: * these men are the seruantes of the most hye God, which shew vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And theys dyd the many dayes. But Paul not content, turned aboute, and sayde to the spere. I commaunde the: * in the name of Iesu Christ, that thou come out of her. And he came out the same houre.

And when her maister and maister sawe that * hope of their gannes was gone, they caught Paul and Syllas, and bare the into the market place vnto the rulers, & brought the to the officers, sayinge: These men trouble oure cytie, seeing they are Jewes, & preach ordinaunces, which are not lawfull for vs to receaue, nerher to obserue, if yge we are Romans. And the people ranne agaynst them, and the officers rent their clothes, & commanded the to * be beate with rods. And whē they had beaten them fore, they cast the into prison, commaundynge the payler of the prison to kepe them diligently. Which when he had receaued such commaundement, thrust the into the priuer prison, & made theys fete fast in the stocks.

At mynnyght Paul & Syllas prayed, & lauded God. And the prisoners heard them. And sodenly there was a grete earthquake, so that the foudation of the prison was shaken, and * immediately all the doores opened and euery mannes bandes were loosed. Wōt the keeper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prison doores open, he dre out his sword, and wolde haue kille him selfe supposing that the prisoners had bene fled. But Paul cryed with a loud voyce, saying: do thy selfe no harme, for we are all here. Then he called for a lyght and sprang in ad ca tremblynge vnto Paul, and fell downe at the fete of Paul & Syllas, and brought them out, & sayde: Syris: what must I do to be saued? And they sayde: beleue on the Lord Iesus, & thou shalt be saued & thy housholde. And they preached vnto him the word of the Lord, & to all that were in hys house. And he toke them the same houre of the nyght, & washed their woundes, and was baptised ad all they of hys housholde straght waye. And when he had brought them into hys house, he set meate before them, and * ioyed that he with all his housholde, beleued on God.

And when it was dawe, the officers sent the ministers, saying: let those men go. The keeper of the prison tolde this fauour to Paul: the officers haue sent word to loose you. Now therefore, get you hence and go in peace. The sayde Paul vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncouened, for all that we are Romans, and haue cast vs into prison: & now wolde they sende vs a waye priuely: & spare euerly, but let the come the felices, & set us out. unto the officers, they feared when they heard, that they were Romaynes * they came and brought them: and brought them out, and desired them, to departe out of the cytie. And they went out of the person, and entered into the house of Aiden, and when they had sent the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

Chapter.

¶ Paul cometh to Thessalonica, where the Jews set the cytie on a fire. Paul chapp. cometh to Ates where he preached the true and vnderstand God.

As they made their journey thowrowe Amphipolis: and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagoge of the Jewes. And Paul (as hys manner was) went in unto them, and the Sabbath dayes declared out of the scripture vnto them, openinge & allegging, that * Christ must needs haue suffered, and cyle agayne from death, and that thys Iesus was Christ, whom (sayde he) I preach to you. And * some of them beleued, and came and accompanied with Paul & Syllas, and of the deuote Greeks a great multitude, and of the these women, not a few.

But the Jewes which beleued not, had indignacion and toke vnto them euill men, which were vagabundes, and gathered a company, and set all the cytie on a fowre, & made assaulte vnto the house of Iason, & sought to bringe them out to psonell. And when they founde the not, they sette Iason, & certayne othere vnto the heades of the cytie, cryinge: theise that trouble the worlde, are come hither also, whom Iason hath receaued puen: * And these all do contrary to the decrees of Cclar, affirminge another hyng, one Iesus. And they troubled the people, & the officers. And when they were sufficiently awfowed of Iason, ad of the other, they let the go.

And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Syllas by nyghte vnto Berea. Which when they were come thither, they entred into a Synagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrth amonge them of Thessalonica, which receaued the word with all diligence of mynde, and searched * the scriptures dayly, whether those thynges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipfull wemen which were Greeks, and of men not a few. When the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge, that Paul & Syllas were there, they came, and moued the people there. And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul, to go as it were to the see: but Syllas and Timotheus abode there still.

And they that gyded Paul, brought hi vnto Athens, & receaued a comendement vnto Syllas & Timotheus, for to come to him in Ipe, & came thither wny. Whil Paul waited for them at Athens, his spere was moued in him, whan he sawe the cytie gauen to worshipinge of ymages. Then disputed he in the synagoge with the Jewes, and with the deuoute persones: and in a market dayly with them that came vnto him by chance. Certayne Philosophers of the Epicures and of the Stoches, disputed with him. And some ther were which sayde: what wilt thys babbler saye: Other sayde: he seemeth to be a tydynges bypger of newe deys, because he preacheth vnto the Iesus & the resurrection. And they toke him, & brought him into a place sterte, saying: maye we not knowe what thys newe doctrine wherof thou speakest, is? For thou byngest straunge tydynges to oure eares. We wold knowe therefore, what these thynges meane. For all the Athenians and straungers which were there, gaue them selues to nothing els, but ether to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

Paul stode in the myddes of a place sterte, & sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in all thynges ye are to superstitious. For as I passed by, and behelde the manner how ye worshyp your goddes, I founde an auter wher was writ: vnto the vnknowen God. Whom ye then ignorantly worshyppe, hym shew I vnto you. * God hath made the worlde and all that is in it (eing that he is Lord of heauen and earth) * & dwelleth not in temples made with handes, neither is worshypped with mannes handes, as though he need of any thyng. Seinge he hym selfe * geueth lyfe and breth to all men euery where, & hath made of one bloude all nacions of me, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath assigned before, how longe tyme, & also the endes of their inhabitacon, & they shuld seke God, yf they myght seke and fynde him, though he be not farre from euery one of vs. For in hym we lyue, moue, and haue oure beinge, as certayne of youre awne Poeses sayde: for we are also his generacio. For as much then as we are the generacyon of God, we ought not to thinke that the Godhead is lyke vnto golde, siluer, or ston, grauen by craft and ymaginacyn of man.

And the tyme of this ignorance God regarded not. * But now hideth all men euery where repte because he hath appointed a daye, in the which he will iudge the world by righte wenes, by that man by whome he hath appointed, & hath offered faith to all me, after that he had rayled him from death.

When they heard of the resurrection from death, some mocked, and other sayd: we wold heare the agayne of thys matter. So Paul departed from amonge them. Howbeit certayne men claue vnto him and beleued: amonge monge the which was Symonius a synagoge, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

C The viij. Chapter.

Paul preached at Laodicea, continuing there apace, and being, goodly came into Syria, commeth to Antioche, Icone and Antioche. At Antioche Aquila and Priscilla.

After this, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth, and soke a certayne Jewe named * Aquila, bozne in Pontus, lately come from Italie with his wife Priscilla (because that * Emperour Claudius had commaunded all Jewes to departe from Rome) ad he drew vnto them, because he was of the same crafte, he abode with them, & wrought: they crafte was to make tentes. And he preached in the synagoge euery Sabbath daye. ^(scribing forth) in the meane while the name of the Lorde Iesus and exhorted the Jewes and the gentylis.

When * Silas, and Timotheus were come from Thracoulia, Paul was constrained by the sperte, to respyre to the Jewes * Iesus was very Christ. And when they sayde contrary * blasphemed * he shoke his raiment and sayde vnto them: your bloude be vpon pouer a wne heades: from hence forth will I go blamelesse vnto the gentylis. And he departed thence, and entered into a certayne manes house, named Titus, a woollhypper of God, whose house toyned hard to the synagoge. howbeit, one Eristus the chiefe ruler of the synagoge * beleued on the Lorde with all his household, and many of the Corinthians whan they gaue audice, beleued, and were baptised.

23 Then spake the Lorde to Paul in puyght by a vision: he not as sayde, but spake, ad holde not thy peace: for I am with the, & no man shall invade the that shall hurt the. For I have much people in this cite. And he continued there a yere and fyve moneths, and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Acaia, the Jewes made insurrecepon with one accorde agaynst Paul, and brought hym to the iudgement seate, sayinge: this felowe counceileth men to worship God contrary to the lawe. And wha Paul now was about to open his mouth, Gallio sayd vnto the Jewes: yf it were a matter of wronge, or an euill dede: Oye Jewes Iration wolde I shulde heare you: but yf it be a question of wordes or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to it your selues, for I will be no iudge of soche matters, and he draine them from the seate. The all the Greeks toke softenes the chiefe ruler of the Synagoge, and smote hym before the iudges seate, And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Paul after this, tarped there yet a good while, and then toke his leaue of the brethren and sayed thence into Ciria, Priscilla and Aquila accompanyinge hym. And ^{he} * he more his heed in Cethea, for he had a bowe: And he cam to Ephesus Adicte them there: but he hym selfe entered into the Synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. Wher they despyed him to tary longe tyme with them, he consented not, but had them fare well sayinge. I must needs (at this feast that cometh) be in Ierusalem: but I will returne agayne vnto you * yf God will. And he departed from Ephesus: and whan he was come vnto Cetea: and ascended vp and saluted the congregacion, he departed vnto Antioche: and when he had tarped there a while, he departed: and went ouer all the countre of Galatia and Phrygia by order, strengthyng all the discyples.

And a certayne Jew named * Apollos, ^(D) bozne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, all eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was informed in the waye of the Lorde, and spake frequently in the sperte, and taught diligently the thinges of the Lorde, & knewe but the baptisme of Iohn onely. And the same began to speake boldly in the Synagoge. Whan then Priscilla & Aquila had hearde they toke him vnto the, & expounded vnto hym the waye of God more perfectly.

And when he was disposed to go vnto Acaia, the brethren wrote, exhortyng the discyples to receaue him. Which whan he was come helped them moche which had beleued shozow grace. For he ouercame the Jewes myghtis, and that openly, shewing by the scriptures, that Iesus was Christ.

C The xix. Chapter.

Of the doctrine that were dyuyded at Ephesus and what mysdoes were done by Paul & Demetrios moued februous in the cite.

At fortun'd y whyll Apello was at Corinthum, Paul passed thowre the byper coastes, and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne discyples, and sayde vnto them haue ye receaued the holy ghost, sence ye beleued: And they sayde vnto hym: no, we haue not heard whether ther be any holy ghost or no. And he sayde vnto them. wherewith were ye then baptised: And they sayde with * Iohns baptisme. Then sayde Paul: * Iohn verely baptised with the baptim of repentance, sayinge vnto the people that they shulde beleue on hym, which shuld come after hi: that is on Christ Iesus. When they hearde this, they were baptised in the name of the Lorde Iesu. And whan Paul * sayde byss handes vpon them, * the holy ghost came on the, ad they * spake with tongues, and prophesied, and all the men were aboute twelue.

The Actes.

And he went into the synagoge, and behaued hym selfe boldly for þe space of thre monethes, disputinge and geuynge them exhortacions of the kyngdome of God. ¶ When dyuers wexed hard herted and beleued not, but spake euill of the wage (also that before the multitude) he departed fro the, and separated the disciples. And he disputed daily in the scole of one called Tyrranus. And this continued by the space of two yeres: so that all they which dwelt in Asia, heard the word of the Lord Iesu, both Jewes and Grekes.

* Actes. xvi. d. And God * wrought speciall mynacles by the handes of Paul: so that frim his body, were brought vnto the sick, naplums & paretectes, & the diseases departed from them, and * the euill spere went out of them.

* Mat. xvi. d. Then certayne of the vagabonde Jewes eroristes, toke vpon them to call ouer them (which had euill spere) þe name of þe Lord Iesus, sayinge: We aduise you by * Iesu, whom Paul pceareth. And ther were seuen sonnes of one Scen a Jew and chefe of the prestes which dyd so.

* Mat. xvi. d. And the euill spere answered and sayd: Iesus I knowe, & Paul I knowe: but who are ye? And the man in whom the euill spere was, rann on them, and ouercame them, and pryncipled agaynste the so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. And this was knowne to all the Jewes and Grekes also, which dwelt at Ephesus, & feare came on the all, & the name of the Lord Iesus was magnified.

* Mark. i. d. And many that beleued, came, and * confessed and shewed their workes. Many of them which vsed curious craftes, brought their booke, and burned them before all men, and they counted the pyce of them, and founde it fyfte thousand spulerlynges. So mightely grew the word of God, and pryncipled. After these thynges were ended, Paul purposed in the spere: whan he had passed ouer Macedonia ad Asia to go to Jerusalem, sayinge: After I haue bene there. I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministered vnto hym, euen Timotheus & Erastus: but he hym selfe remayned in Asia for a season.

* Mark. i. d.

* The same tyme ther arose no lytell a do aboute that wage. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a spulermyth (which made spuler chippes for diuans) was not a lytell beneficall vnto þe craftes men. Whom he called together with the workemen of lyke occupation, and sayd: Syis, ye knowe that by this crafte * we haue a ouerlantage. Whereour, ye se & heare that not alone at Ephesus, but almost thowout all Asia, thys Paul hath perswaded & turned awaye moche people sayinge, that * they be not goddes which are made with handes. So that not only this ouer crafte cometh into perill to be let not nought: but also that the temple of the greate Goddesse Diana shulde be despyed, & her magnificence shulde be destroyed, whour all Asia and the world worshippeth.

¶ When they hearde these saynges, they were full of wrath, & cryed out, sayinge. Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And al the cytie was on a roze, and they rushed into the comen hall with one assent, & caught Gaius and Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Pauls compans. When Paul wolde haue entred in vnto the people, the dysciples suffred hym not. But certayne of þe chefe of Asia (which were his freendes) sent vnto him, desyring hym, that he wolde not praeine the comen hall. Some therfore cryed one thyng and some another, & the congregacion was all out of quiete, & they in oare parte knewe not wherfore they were come together.

¶ Some of the company bue forth Alexander, the Jewes thurspinge hym forwardes: Alexander, * bekened with the bande, and wolde haue geuen þe people an answer. Whe they knewe that he was a Jewe, they arose a thoute almost for the space of two houres, of all men, cryinge: greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

¶ When the towne clarche had ceased þe people, he sayde: ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the cytie of the Ephesians is a worshyper of the greate goddesse Diana, & of the ymage which came from heauen. Since then that woman sayth here agaynste, ye ought to be content, and to do nothyng rashly: for ye haue brought hyther these men: which are netter robbers of churches, not yet despyers of yonce goddesse. Wherefore, ye Demetrius and the craftes men which are with hym, haue a matter agaynste eny man, the lawe is open, and ther are iuriers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye goo aboute eny other thyng, it shall be determined in a lawfull congregacion. For we are in jeopardy to be accused of thys dappyrour, for as moche as ther is no cause, wherby we maye geue a rekenyng of thys concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken, he let the congregacion be parte.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Grece. At Achaia he captiue vnto a deu body. At Ephesus he calith the elders of the congregacion together, commytinge the charge of the house vnto them, and exhorteth them of false teachers, in many dysprayer with them, and departed to dyppo.

¶ After that the rage was ceased, & Paul called the dysciples vnto hym, and toke hys leaue of the, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partes, and had geuen them alonge exhortacion, he came into Grece.

Grece & there abode. iij. monethes. And whē p Jewes layde waye for hys as he was about to slepe into Syria, he purposed to returne thowow into Ceonila. Ther accompanied hē into Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of Thessalonia, Priscarius and Secundus, and Gaius of Derba, & Timotheus, & out of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. These goinge before, tarped vs at Treas. And we sayled awaye fro Philippios after the dayes of twete bread, and cam vnto them to Treas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpo one of the Sabboth dayes, whā p disciples came together for to breake bread Paul preached vnto them (ready to departe on p morowe) & continued the preaching vnto in mynyping. And there were many lyghtes in the chamber, where we were gathered together, & ther late in a wyndowe a certayne yonge man (named Euticus) beinge falle in to a depe slepe. And as Paul was preachynge, he was the more overcome with slepe, & fell downe from the chyrche loffe, & was take vp deeb. But whan Paul went downe, he fell on him & embraced him and sayde: make nethynge a do, for his lyfe is in hym. So when he was come vp agayne, & had boked the byrad & eaten, and talcked a longe whyle (euē tyll the mornynge) at the last he departed. And thep brought p yonge man aloue, & were not a lyrell comforted.

And we went afoze to thyppe, a lowed vnto Aalon there to receaue Paul. For to had he appoynted, and wolde hym selfe goo a fore.
 When we were come together at Aalon, we toke him in, & came to ephyltines. And we sayled thence, and cam the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios. And the nexte daye we arri-ued at Samos, & taried at Trogydon. The nexte daye we came to Mylecton: for Paul had determined to sayle ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spende p tyme in Asia.

 For he halld: yf it were possible for him: to kepe at Ierusalem p daye of Pentecoste. And fro Mylecton he sent messengers to Ephesus, & called p elders of p cōgregaciō. Which whē they were come to him, he sayd vnto the: Ye knowe from the firste daye that I cam into Asia, after what maner I haue bene w you at all seasons, seruyng the Lorde with all humblenes of mynde, and with many teares & temptacions which happened vnto me by the laynges & wayte of the Jewes, because I wolde kepe backe nothyng p was profitable vnto you: but to shewe you and teache you openly, & thowow our euery houle, wit-nesynge both to p Jewes, & also to the Greckes, p repentance, that is toward God, & p sayth which is toward our Lorde Iesus.

And now beholde I go bounde in the spete vnto Ierusalem, not knowinge the thinges p shal come on me there, but p the holy goost withneseth in euery cytie, saying, that hādes and trouble abyde me. But none of these thinges moue me: & neither is my lyfe deare vnto my selfe, that I mighte fulfyll my course with love, & the ministe p p of the word: & which I haue receaued of the Lorde Iesu, to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God.

And now behold, I am sure, p henceforth ye all (thowow whō I haue gone preachynge the kyngdō of God) I shall le my face no more. Wherefore, I take you to recorde this daye that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue hēued you all the counsell of God. & I haue hē-therfore vnto youe selues & to all the flocke amonge whō the holy ghost hath made you ouerleas, to rule the congregacyon of God which he hath purchased with his bloude.

For I am sure of this, p after my departyng shall greuous wolues entee in amō-ge you, not paring the flocke. For ouer, of youe a wne selues shall men arise, speak-yng peruerse thynges to drawe disciples after the.
 Wherefore awake, & remember, that by the space of iij. yeres: I ceased not to warne euery one of you nyght and daye with teares.

And now brethren, I comēde you to God and to the word of his grace, which is able to build farther, & to geue you an inheritace amonge all them which are sanctified: & I haue desyred no mans syluer, golde, or ve-sture. For ye your selues knowe that & these hādes haue ministered vnto my necessities, & to them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thinges, how p to labouring ye ought to receaue the weake, & to remember the woides of p Lorde Iesu, how p he sayd: it is more blessed to geue then to receaue.

And when he had thus spoken, he knel-ed downe: & and prayed with the all. And they all wepte soze and fell on Pauls necke, and kysed hym, & sorowynge, most of all for the wordes which he spak. that they shulde se hys face no more. And they conuayed hym vnto the thyppe.

when we had founde brethren, we tarped there. viij. dayes. And they tolde Paul howe the syncke * that he shuld not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended we departed and went oure waye, and they all brought vs on oure waye, with wyues and chyldren, tyll we were come out of the citty. And we kured downe in the thozes * ad prayde. And when we had taken oure leaue one of another, we toke shyppe, & they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course from Cye, we went downe to Iherosolyma, & lodged the brethren, & abode with the one daye. The nexte daye, we that were of Pauls company departed, and came vnto C. clarea. And we entered into the house of * Philip & Centurion, which was one of the kene, & abode with hym.

The same man had foure daughters virgins, which byd * prophety. And as we tarped there a good mayny of dayes, there ca a certayne prophet fro Iurie, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls gerdell, & bounde his fete & handes, & sayd: Thus sayth the holy ghozt * so shal the Jewes at Iherusalem bynde yman that oweth this gerdell, and shall deliuer hym into the handes of the Scrutles.

When we hearde this, both we and other which were of the same place, besought hym that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. The Paul answered, & sayde: what do ye weppinge & weeping myne berte. I am ready, not to be bounde onely, but also to dye at Iherusalem for the name of the Lorde Jesu. Whē we coude not turne hym mynde, we ceased, sayinge * the wyll of the Lorde be fulfilled. After those dayes we toke vp oure brethren, & went vp to Jerusalem.

¶ Ther went with vs also certayne of the discyples of C. clarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus an olde discipple, with whō we shulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on the morow, Paul went in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came together. And whē he had saluted the, he tolde by order all thynges, that God had wrought amonge y gētyls by his mynistracion. And when they hearde it, they glorified the Lorde, and sayde vnto hym: Thou seest brother, how many thousand Jewes there are which beleue, and they are all earnest folowers ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes which are amonge the gentyls, to forsake Moses and saynt, that they ought not to circumcise the ychyliden, neither to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? The multitude must nedes come together: for they shal heare that thou arte come. And therfore this, that we saye to the.

* We haue. iij. men, which haue a vowe on them. Them take, & purifie thy selfe with the, and do cost on the, that they maye haue their heads: and all shall knowe, that those thynges which they haue hearde esceynyng the, are nothing: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and kepest the lawe. But as touching the gentyls which beleue * we haue written and concluded, that they obserue no suche thyng: save onely that they kepe them selves from thynges offered to ydoles, and from bloude, and from strangled, and from fornicacion. When the nexte daye Paul toke the mē, and * purgfyed hym selfe with them and entered into the temple, declaringe that he obserued the dayes of the purification, vntill that an offering shuld be offered for euery one of them.

¶ And when the seven dayes were now almost ended, y Iesus which were of Asia whē they laue hym in the temple, moued all the people, and layde handes on him, crying: mē of Israell, helpe. This is the mā, y teacheth all mē euery where agaynst the people and y lawe, and this place. He hath also brought Grekes into y temple, ad hath polluted this holy place. For they had sene with hym one in the citty. * Trophimus an Ephecia, whō they supposed that Paul had brought into y temple. And all the citty was moued, and the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul and drowe hym out of the temple, and forth with, the doores were shut.

¶ As they went about to kyl him, tidings came vnto the hys captayne of the souldiers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediately toke souldiers ad vndercaptaynes, and came downe vnto eheim. When they sawe y byper captayne and the souldiers: they leste lininge of Paul. When the captayne came neare and toke hym, and commaunded hym to be bounde with two chaynes, and demanded what he was, ad what he had done. And some cryed one thinge, some another amonge the people. And when he could not knowe the certayntie for the rage, he commaunded hym to be carryed into the castle. And whē he came vnto a stape, it fortooke that he was borne of the souldiers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people followed after, crying: a waye with hym.

¶ And when Paul beganne to be carryed into the castle, he sayde vnto y Captayne: maye I speake vnto the? Whiche sayde: Call thou speake Greke. Yet not thou that Egyptian, which before these dayes madest an vyroure, and leddest out into the wilderness: iij. thousand men that were motheres; But Paul sayde: I am a mā which am a Jewe of * Charlus a citty in Cyell, a Cyelin of no vyle citty, y beleue y suffice me to speake vnto the people. beckened with the hande vnto the people: and when there was made a greate splencie he spake vnto them in the hebreue tonge, sayinge.

¶ Paul and sereth the Jewes. He is scourged, and layde in prison agayne.

MEN, brethren, and fathers, heare pemyne as were which I make nowe vnto you. When they hearde, that he spake in the hebreue tonge to them, they kept the more splencie. And he sayeth: I am verely a mā which am a Jewe bozne: I was a cyprie of Cilice: neuertheles, yet brought vp in this cyprie, at the cite of Samariell, and informed diligently in the lawe of the fathers, and was frequent mynded to God ward, as ye all are this same daie, and I persecuted this wyse vnto the death bynyng and deliuryng into prison both men and wemen, as the chiefe priest doth beate me wytnesse, and all the estate of the elders: of whom also I receaued letters vnto the brethren, and went to Damascus to byng them, (which were there bounde) vnto Ierusalem for to be punnyshed.

When he is fortruned (that as I made my ioyney and was come nye vnto Damascus a bouise none) suddenly there shone from heauen a greate lyght rounde aboute me, and I fell vnto the earth, and hearde a voyce sayinge vnto me: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou Loide? And he sayde vnto me: I am Iesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were with me, sawe verely a lyghte, and were afrayde: but they hearde not the voyce of hym that spake with me. And I sayde: what wilt thou do Loide? And the Loide sayde vnto me: Arise, and go vnto Damascus, and there it shall be tolde the of all thynges, which are appoynted for the to do. And when I sawe nothinge for the brightnes of that lyght, I was leade by the hande of them that were with me, and came in to Damascus.

E And one Ananias a perfecte man, (and as pertaynyng to the lawe hauiyng good repute of all the Jewes, which there dwelt) came vnto me, and stode, and sayde vnto me: Brother Saul, receaue thy lyght. And the same houre I receaued my lyghte, and sawe hym. And he sayde: the God of our fathers hath ordeyned the befoze, that thou shouldest knowe hys wyll, and shouldest heare the voyce of hys mouth: for thou shalt be hys wyrties vnto all men of those thynges, which thou hast sene and heard. And nowe, why tarpest thou? Arise, and be bappyled, and waike awake thy spynnes: in calling on the name name of the Loide: And it was tuned, that when I was come agayne to Ierusalem, and prayde in the temple, I was in a trance, and sawe hym, sayinge vnto me: Wake haste, and get the quickship oute of Ierusalem: for they will not receaue thy wytnesse, that thou bearest of me.

And I sayde: Loide, they knowe that I prisoned, and bett in every synagoge them that beloued on the. And whā the bloude of thy wyrties steuen was shed, I also stode by, and consented vnto hys death, and kept the rayment of them that slewe hym. And he sayd vnto me departe, for I will sende the a farre hence vnto the Centuris.

They gaue hym audience vnto this worde, and then lyft vp theyr voyces and sayde: awake with soche a fellowe from the earth: for it is not reason that he shuld hyue. And as they cryed, and talt of this clothes, and thine dust into the ayer, the captayne commaunded hym to be brought into the castlle, and bad that he shuld be scourged, and to be examined, that he might knowe, wherefore they cryed so on hym. And when they bounde hym with thonges, Paul sayde vnto the Centurion, that stode by him: Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Roman and vncōdemnyed? When the Centurion hearde that, he went and tolde the vpper captayne, saying: What intendest thou to do? For this man is a citizen of Rome.

¶ Then the vpper captayne came, and sayd vnto him: tell me, art thou a Roman? he sayd: Yee. And the captayne answered, with a great soime obtaipned I this freedom. And Paul sayd: I was free bozne. Then straight waye departed from hym they which shuld haue craimpned hym. And the hye captayne also was afrayde, after he knewe that he was a Roman, and because he had bounde hym.

¶ On the morowe (because he wolde haue knowen the certentye wherefore he was accused of the Jewes) he loked hym from hys bondes, and commaunded the hye priestes and all the counsell to come together and brought the upper captayne and to the counsell, that he byynge hym forth vnto vs to morowe, as though we wold knowe some thyng more perfectly of him. But we (of chiefe he come nere) are redy to hyl hym.

Paul forth, & set hym befoze the.

¶ When Pauls sylkes some hearde of they lapyng awayte, he went, and entred into the castell, and tolde Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him and sayde: byynge thys younge man vnto the hye captayne: for he hath a certayne thyng to thewe hym. And he toke hym and brought hym to the hye captayne, and sayd: Paul the pisoner called me vnto hym, and prayed me to byynge thys younge man vnto the, wherby hath a certayne matter to weue the.

¶ The hye captayne toke hym by the hand, and went with him out of the wape, and asked hi: what is yt that thou hast to tell me. And he sayde: the Jewes are determyed to depze the, that thou woldest byynge forth Paul to morow into the counsell, as though they wolde enqpye somwhat of hym more perfectly. But folowe not thou theyr myn- des: for there lye in wape for hym of them, moo then fourtye men, which haue bounde them selues with a vowe, that they wyl ne- ther cate nor dryncke, tyll they haue kylled hym. And now are they redy, and loke that thou shuldest pmyes.

On the morow they left the horsemen to go with hym, and returned vnto the castle. Wher when they came to Cesarea, (and deliuered the epistle to the debyte) presented Paul also before him. When the debite had redde the lettre, he asked of what countree he was. And when he vnderstode that he was of Cillicie: I will heare the: (sayde he) when thyne accusars are come also: and he commaunded hym to be kepte in Herodes iudgement hall.

¶ The xxliij. Chapter.

¶ Paul was accused before Felix, he answered for hym selfe.

After foure dayes, Ananias the hye prest defended with the elders, and with a certayne oratour named Tertullus, which enforced the debite agaynst Paul. And when Paul was called forth, Tertullus beganne to accuse hym, saying: Seeing that we lyue in greete quietnes by the meanes of the, and that many good thynges are done vnto thy nation thowowe thy providence, that alone we euer and in all places moost noble Felix with all thakes. Notwithstanding, I be not rebusious vnto the, I praye the, that thou woldest heare vs of thy clement a few wordes:

¶ For we haue founde this man a pestilent fellowe, and a mouer of debate vnto all the Jewes in the whole world, and a maputryner: (or seducer) of the secte of the Nazarenes, which hath also enforced to pollute the temple. Whom we toke, and wolde haue iudged accordyng to our lawe: but the hye captayne Lysias came vpon vs, and with great violence toke hym awaye oute of oure handes, commaundyng hym accusars to come vnto the. Of whom thou mayest (yf thou wilt enquire) knowe the certenty of all these thynges, wherof we accuse hi: The Jewes lykewyse affirmed, sayinge, that these thynges were euen so.

¶ Then Paul (after that the debite hym selfe had bekened vnto hym that he shulde speake) answered: With a more quiet minde do I answer for my selfe, for as moche as I vnderstande, that thou hast bene of many yeares a iudge vnto this people, because that thou mayest knowe, yf there are yet, but twelue dayes sence I went vnto Jerusalem toke to worshippe, and * they neither founde me in the temple disputyng with any man, ether saylinge by the people, neither in the Synagoges, nor in the cytie. Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

¶ But thus I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (which they call hereise) so worship I the God of my fathers, beleuyngge all thynges which are wyrtten in the lawe & the prophetes, and haue hope towarde God, that: the same resurrection of the deeth, which they them selues toke for also shalbe, both of iust and vniust. And therefore * I trust I to haue allwaye a cleare conscience toward God, and to warde men.

¶ But after many yeares, I came * and brought almes to my people and offerynges on (and vnto) in the which they founde me purged in the temple, neither with multitude, nor yet with iniquetye: (and they sought me, and crept, sayinge, alwaye with oure exempt: howbeit there were certen Jewes out of Asia, which ought to be here present before the, and accuse me, yf they had ought agaynst me: or elles lett these same here saye, yf they haue founde any euill dayng in me, whyle I stande here in the counsell: except it be for this one voyce, that I crept standyng amonge them: of the resurrection from death am I iudged of you thus daye.

¶ Whil Felix heard these thynges, he deferred the, for he knewe very well of that waye, and sayde: when Lysias the captayne is come downe, I will knowe the remost of your matter. And * he commaunded an vndercaptayne to kepe Paul, and to lett hym haue rest, and that he shuld forbyd none of hym to acquyte him to minister vnto him, or to come vnto hym.

¶ And after a certayne dayes, whan Felix came with his wyfe Drusilla (which was a Jewelle) he called forth Paul, and hearded hym of the sayde, which is towarde Christ. And as he pyched of synners consciences remembrance, and iudgement to come, Felix trembled, and answered: So thy waye for this tyme: whan I haue a convenient season, I will sende for the. He hoped also, that money shulde haue bene geuen hym of Paul, that he myght loose him: wherfore, he called hym the oftener and conuened with hym. But after two yeares, festus Porcius came into Felix rowme. And Felix * wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, lett Paul in prison bounde.

To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurteth any, or commytted any thyng worship of death, I refuse not to dye. If in none of thy thynges are, whereof they accuse me, no man maye deliuer me to them, I appeale vnto Cēsar. and there be iudged of these matters. But whan paul had appaled to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cclar, I commaunded hym to be kepte, tyll I myght lende hym to Cclar. Agripa layde vnto ffeustus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayde he) thou shalt heare hym. And on the morowe whan Agripa was come and Bernice, with greate pompe, and were entred in to the counsell house, with the captaynes ad defence of the cytye, at ffeustus commaundement was paul brought forth. And ffeustus sayde: Asking Agripa, of all yemen which are heare present with vs, ye se thepp man, aboute whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue intreated me, both at Jerusalem and also here cryinge, that he ought not to lye any longer. many of the sapientes yd I shut vp in prison, and had receaued auctorite of the hye Iudges. And when they were put to death. I gave the sentence. And I punished them ofte in euery spynage, and compelled them to blasphemie: and was yet more mad vpon them, and persecuted them, euē vnto steaunge cyties. About which thynges as I wote to Damasco with auctorite and licence of the hye Iudges, euē at myddaye. (Whynge) I came in the waye a light from heauen about the brightness of the sonne shyned rounde about me, and them whych ioyned with me.

When we were all fallen to the erthe, I heard a voyce speaking vnto me, & saying in the hebreu tongue: * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to kicke agaynst the prickes. And I sayd: Who art thou Lord? And he sayde: I am Iesus whom thou persecutest, but rise and stand vp on thy fete. For I have appeared vnto y for this purpose, to make y a minister and a witnes both of those thynges whiche y haue seene, & of those thynges in the which I will appare vnto the, deliueringe the from the people, and from the gentyls, vnto whom now I sende the, to open their eyes, that they maye be turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they maye receaue forgiveness of synnes, and inheritance amonge them whiche are sanctified by faith that is to ward me.

Wherefor (Whynge Agrippa) I was not disobedient vnto the heauenly visyon: but shewed ffirst vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and shew out all the coastes of Jewry, and then to the gentyls, that they shuld repent, and turne to God, and do such workes as become them that repent. For this cause the Jewes caught me in the temple, and went about to kyll me. Synnyng therfore that I haue obtained helpe of God: I confesse vnto this daye, wyntellunge bothe to small & to great, saying none other thynges, then those whiche the prophetes aduocates yd saye: Quil cometh: that Christ shuld be lofter, and that he shuld be the ffirst that shuld rise from derth, and shuld shew light vnto the people, and to the gentyls. As he thus spake for hym selfe: Festus sayde with a loude voyce: Paul, yart bespde thy selfe. Wherfor sayde both make the madd. And Paul sayde: I am not mad: (most deare Festus) but speake forth the wordes of trerth and sobernes. For y hyng knoweth of these thynges, before who also I speake freely: neither thynke I that any of these thynges are hydden from him. For this thyng was not done in a cogner. Kyng Agrippa beleueth thou the prophetes: I wote well that thou beleueth. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Sum-what thou byngest me in mynde for to be come Christen. And Paul sayde: I wolde to God that not onely thou: but also all that heare me to daye were, not somwhat onely, but all together, such as I am, except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the debite, and 25 senten, and they that late with the. And when they were gone aparte, they talked betwene the selues, sayinge. This man doeth nothing worthy of death, or of bondes. Then sayde Agrippa vnto festus. This man myght haue bene let loose, yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

Of the xxvij. Chapter.

Paul synnyng towarde Rome, Julius the Captaine receiued hym courtesly, so at the last synnyng towarde.

When it was concluded, y we shuld sayle into Italy they deliuered both Paul a certayne other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captayne of Cesaris soudars. And we entered into a shipp of Adramium, and loosed from land, apoynted to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one * Atriscanus out of Macedonia, of the countre of Thessalonica carryinge shyl with vs. And y nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gaue him lyberte, to go vnto his frendes, & to refresh the hym selfe. And when we had launCHED from thence, we sayled harde by Cyprus, because the wyndes were contrarye. And when we had sayled ouer y see of Cephia, & Paphlagonia, we came to Adria whiche is in Syria.

And there the vndercaptayne founde a shipp of Alexandria ready, that sayled into Italy, and he put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes, and sawe we were come ouer agaynst Sydon: because the wynde wyth stode vs: we sayled harde by the coaste of Candia, ouer agaynst Salmo, and with moche worthe sayled beyonde it, & came vnto a place which is called the sayle hautes. For wher vnto was the cytie of Lasea when moche tyme was spent, and when sayling was ouer leopordons, because also that they had ouerlonge fasted, Paul put the in remembrance, and sayd vnto the: Shyde y perceane, that this viage with the wyth hure and moche damage, not of the ladinge ad shipp onely, but also of your luyng: For the lesse y vnder captayne beleued y gouerner & y minister of y shipp more then those thynges whiche were spoked of Paul. to wynter, which is an haue of Candy, and lyeth toward the south west and north west wynde. When the south wynde blew, they supplinge to obtayne their purpose, looke vnto Ailon, and sayled past all Candy.

¶ But not long after, there arose agaynst theyr purpose, a storme of wynde out of the northeast. And when the ship was caught & coulde not resist þe wynde, we let her go, and bryue with þe weather. But we were carped i to an yle which is named Clarida, and had moche worke to come by a boate, which they toke by, and vsed helpe, & made fast þe shippe, fearinge, lest they shuld fall into the Syrtes. And lo they let downe a vessel, and were carped. The next daye we were toiled with an exceeding storme they lyghtened the shippe, and the thyrde daye we cast out wryth our auncie bandes the table of the shippe. Whē at the last, neither the sunne nor starres in many dayes appeared, and no signall to empyll lase vpo vs, all hope that we shuld escape, was then take awaye. But after long abstinence, Paul stode forth in the myddes of them, & sayde: Syrtis, perquide haue barked to me, and not haue looked from Candy, neither to haue brought vnto vs this harme & losse. And now I exhorthe you to be of good cheere. For ther shalbe no losse of any man lyfe amonge you, sūre of the ship onely. For ther stode by me this nyght þe angel of God, whose I am, and who I serue, saying: feare not Paul. I must be brought before Cesar, And lo, God hath geuen the all them that sayle wryth the. Wherefore syrtis be of good cheere. For I beleue God, that it shalbe euē as it was tolde me. how be it we must be cast into a certain plynthe.

And whē they had gane a lytell further, they sounded agayne, and foūde. x. v. feddons. Then fearynge lest they shuld haue fallē on some rocke, they cast. iij. ankers out of the sterne, and wrythed for the daye. As the shipmen were about to fle out of the shippe (when they had let downe þe boate for the see, vnder a couloure, as though they wolde haue cast anker out of the forshippe) Paul sayde vnto the vndercaptayne and to the soudiers: receyue these abyde in the shippe cannot be safe. When the soudiers cut of þe rope of the boate, and let it fall awaye.

¶ And when the daye beganne to appeare, Paul besoughe them all to take meate, saying: this is the fourteenth daye, that ye haue fasted and conuyned fastynge, receauynge nothing at all. Wherefore, I praye you to take meate: for this no doubt is for your helth: for

* they shall not all here fall from the heed of any of you. And when he had thus spoken, he toke bread & gaue thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he beganne to eate. Then were they all of good cheere, and they also toke meate. We were all together in the shippe, two hundred thre score and syrtene soules. And whē they had eaten ynough, they lyghtened the shippe, and cast out the wheate in to the see.

And when they had taken by the ankers, they committed them selues vnto the see, and towed the rubber bandes and hoysed by the mayne sayle to the wynde, and drew to lande. And when they chanced on a place, which had the see on both the sydes, they thrust in the shippe. And the forsynete bucke fast and moored nor, but the hynder parte dyke wryth violence of the waues.

¶ The Soudyars counsell was to kyll the prisoners, lest any of them, when he had sowne out, shuld come awaye. But the vndercaptayne wyllinge to saue Paul, kept them from theyr purpose, and commaunded that they which coulde swimme, shoulde cast the selues first into the see, and scape to lande. And the other he commaunded to go, some on boardes, and some on broken peces of the shippe. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to lande.

The xxviij. Chapter.

¶ The vpper hurch was shuld be hatched by Pauls father, and perard to ship at Rome.

¶ And when they were scaped, then they knewe, that: the yle was called Mylete. And the strangers shewed vs no lytell kynnes: for they lynded a fyre, and recreated vs euery one, because of the present rayne, & because of þe colde. And whē Paul had gathered a bondell of styches, and sayde the on the fyre, there came a vpper out of the heat, & caught hym by the hāde. When the strangers sawe the beast hange on his hande, they sayde amonge them selues: no doute this mā is a moztterer: whō (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeance suffereth not to lync. And he thought of the vpper into the fyre, and felt no harme. Howbeit they wayred whē they shuld haue swolne, or fallen downe dead sodenly. But after they had loke a greute while, and sawe no harme come to hym, they chynge the mynides, and sayde: that he was a God.

C In the same quarters were lodges of the cheefe man of the ple (whose name was Publius) whych receaued vs, & lodged vs thre dayes courteously. And it fortuned that the father of Publius lape speke of a feuer, and of a bloupy flre. To whom paul entred in and prayde, and layde hys handes on hym & healeth him. So, when this was done, other also whych had dycaies in the ple, cam and were healede: whych also byd vs great honour. And when we departed, they labed vs wth soch thynges as were necessary.

After this monethes we departed in a ship of Alexandria, whych had wyntred in the ple, whose badge was Castor & Pollux. And wher we came to Myra, we tarped there the dayes. And fro thence we fet a chaffe, and came to Myra. And after one daye four wynde blew, and we came the nexte daye to Myra: where we founde brethren, and were despyed to tary wyth them seven dayes, and so came we to Rome. And from thence, when the brethren hearde of vs, they came to mete vs at Apphizum, and at the thre cauerces. When Paul sawe them, he thanked God, and werch bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vndercaptayne deliuered the personers to the cheefe captayne of the host: but Paul was sufferd to dwell by hym selfe wyth a souldyer that kept hym.

And after thre dayes, Paul called the cheefe of the Jewes together. And when they were come, he sayde vnto them: Men and brethren, though, * I haue cometerd nothing agaynst the people or lawes of Israel: * I was I deliuered prisoner from Jerusalem into the handes of the Romayns. Whych when they had examined me, wolde haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jewes spake contrary, I was constrained to appeale vnto cesar: not for I had ought to accuse my people of. For thys cause when haue I called for you, cūe to se you, and so speake wyth you: * because that for the hope of Israel I am bounde wth this cheue.

And then sayde vnto hem: my nether re-ceaued letters out of Jerusalem pertainyng vnto the nether cūp of the brethren for came thewed or spake cūp harme of Israel. But we wyll heare of the what thou thyndest. For as concerning thys secte, we knowe that * cūry where it is spoken agaynst. And when they had appoynted him a daye, ther came many to hym into hys lodgyng. To whom he expounded and testifed the kynge of God and preached vnto them of Iesus: both out of the lawe of Moses and out of the Prophecies, cūen from morninge to nyght. And some belued the thynges whych were spokē, and some belued not.

And when they agreed not amonge them selues, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one worde: well spake the holy ghost by Esay the prophet vnto oure fathers, saying: * Go vnto thys people, and saye: wyth poure eares shall ye heare, and shall not vnderstande: and wyth poure eyes shall ye se, & not perceaue.

For the hert of thys people is wreced gross, and wyth their eares haue they had no lust to heare, and their eyes haue they closed: lest they shulde se wyth their eyes, & heare wyth their eares, and vnderstande with their hertes, and shuld be conuerted, and I shuld heale them. Be it knownen therfore vnto you, that thys saluacion of God is sent to the gentyls, and they shall heare it. And wher he had sayde these wordes, the Jewes departed fro hym and had greates despycions amoge them selues.

And Paul dwelt two yeres full in hys lodgyng, and receaued all that cam in vnto hym, preachinge the kynge of God, and teachyng those thynges whych concern the Lorde Iesus wyth all confydence, no man forbydyng hym.

The Epistle of the Apostle Shapnet Paul to the Romanes.

The first Chapter.

¶ Paul becometh by his owne sayng the Romanes his brethren betwixt the Jewes in this his first chaptre, and sheweth the necessity of the Gospel.

Paul the ser-uaunt of Iesus Christ called to the office of an Apostle * put a parte for y^e Gospel of God
* wherby he had promysed afore by his prophetes in the holy scriptures of his sonne, whych was borne * of the seed of David after the fleshe: and hath bene declared to be the sonne of God wth power, after y^e fyrste that sanctifyeth, sence the tyme that Iesus Christ oure Lorde rose agayne from deeth * by whom we haue receaued grace & Apostolichy, that obedience myght be geuen vnto the fapth in his name among all creatures, of whose nombre you be, the electe of Iesu Christ. ¶

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and synners by electyon. * Grace be wth you and peace from God oure father, & from the Lorde Iesus Christ.

If yett I shalke my God thowow Ie-sus Christ for you all, that poure fapth is spoken of in all the worlde. For God is my witness / whom I serue. * Wth my spere in the Gospel of his sonne (that without ceasinge I make mencyon of you) praynge allwayes * my prayners, that by some men-ne, at the last (one tyme or othr) a prosperour iorney, by the wyll of God) myght fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to se you, that I myght bestowe among you some spirytual gyfte, to strengthe you with-all: that is, that I myght haue consolacyd to gether wth you, through the comen fapth whych both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye shuld knowe (brethren) how that I haue often tymes purposed to come vnto you * but haue bene lett hitherto) to haue some leute also amonge you, as among other of the Gentyls. I am better both to the Greekes and to the Iunglers, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that (as much as in me is) I am redy to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, because * it is the power of God vnto saluacyon to eue-ry one that belongeth, to the Jewes first, & also to the Gentyle.

For by it is the ryghtwysnes of God opened * from fapth to fapth. As it is wyttē
* the lust shall lyue by fapth.

For the wrath of God appeareth from heauen agaynst all vngodlynes and vnyghte-wines of men, whych withholde the truthe in vnyghtewisnes: seyinge * that it whych maye be knowen of God, is manifest among them because God hath shewed it vnto
the. * For his inuisible thynges (y^e is to saye his eternall power ad godhede) are sene, for as much as they are vnderstande * by the workes from the creatyō of the worlde: So that they are without excuse because that when they knewe God, they glorified hym not as God, neither were thankfull but were full of vanities in theyr imaginacyō, * and theyr foly shew was blunted. When they counted them selues wylde, they became fooles * and turned the glory of the immor-tall God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the similitude of a mortall man but also of byrdes, & four footed * beastes & of creeping beastes. Wherefore, God gaue them vp, to vncleynesse, thowow the lustes of theyr awne heates to defyle theyr awne bodies amonge the selues: whych chaunged his true the for a lye, and worshipped and serued the thynges that be made, more then hym that made them, whych is to be payed for euer. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto shameful lu-sters: * for euen theyr women dyd chaunge the naturall vse in to that whych is agaynst nature. And lyke wyle also the men, lette y^e natural vse of the woman, and dyd in theyr lustes one wth another, * men men men wroughte spytthynes, and receaued to the fellows the reward of the y^e creature, as it was accordeinge.

And as they regarded not to knowe God
* euen so God deliuered them vp vnto a leude mynde, that they shuld do those thynges whych were not comly, beyng full of all

Which men, though they knew the ryght wylles of God, (as they now) how that they which committe suche thynges, are worthy of death, not only so, (as they then) do the same *but also so (as they now) haue pleasure in them that do the same.

¶ The xij. Chapter.

¶ Herebynteth the Jewes, whych are touchyng the same are lyke the Jewes.

Therefore art thou inexcusable. And, whosoever thou be that *iudgest fori that same wherein thou iudgest another *thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou shalt iudge, dost thou the same selfe thynges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God is accordyng to trouth, agaynst them whych comyt loch thynges. Thyselfe thou thyng, O thou man that iudgest them whych do loche thynges, and dost thou the very same thy selfe, that thou haist escape the iudgement of God: For the despyfellest thou the riches of hys goodness, and pacyence and long sufferaunce, not knowyng *that the pacyence of God leaueh the to repentance.

But thou after thy stubbornesse, and heret that cannot repent, heapest vnto thy selfe wrath agaynt y dape of vengeance, when thalbe opened the ryght wylles iudgement of God, *which wylle reward euery man accordyng to hys dedes: that is to saye, paye, & honoure and immortalite, to them whych continue in good doying, and seche immortalite. But vnto them that are rebelles, and that do not obey the trouth, but folowe vnrightrounes, shall come indignacyon and wrath, tribulacyon and anguyshe vpon the soule of euery man that doth euyl: of y Jewe first, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doth good, shall come paye, and honoure, and peace, to the Jewe first, and also to the Gentyle. For *there is no respect of personnes, with God. For whosoever hath synned wythout lawe, shall also perishe wythout lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe.

¶ For in the sight of God, they *are not ryghteous whych beare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For when the Gentyls which haue not the lawe, do of nature the thynges contayned in the lawe: then they haunpe not the lawe, are a lawe vnto them selves, which thew the dede of the lawe iudge the secretes of men: by Iesus Christ, accordyng to my Gospel.

¶ Scholde, *thou art called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God, and knowest his wyl, and also lovest the thynges that be excellent, and art inforuned by the lawe: and belieuest that thou thy selfe art a gyde of the blynde, a light of the which are in darkness, an inforuner of them which lacke discrecyon, a teacher of the vnlearned, which hast y example of knowledg, a y of trouth by y lawe. Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest not thy selfe. Thou preachest, a man shoulde not steale: yet thou stealest. Thou that sayst, a man shoulde not comyt adoultre, beakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou that makest thy boast of the lawe, thou wast breakinge the lawe by thynoureit God. For the name of God is curill spoken of amonge the Gentyls, thow you *as it is wrytten.

¶ For circumcysion verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou be a breaker of the lawe, thy circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion. Therefore, yf the vncircumcised hepe yf ryght thynges contayned in the lawe, shall not his vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion: And shall not vncircumcysion which is by nature, yf it hepe the lawe, iudge the, whych bepe vnder the letter and circumsion, doest trasgresse the lawe: as is not a Jewe, which is a Jewe outwardly. He that is not circumcysion, which is outward in the fleshe. But *he is a Jewe which has his wythyn, and *the circumcysion of the herte is the true circumcysion, whych considereth the spere and not in the letter: whose paye is not of men, but of God.

¶ The xij. Chapter.

¶ Herebynteth the Jewes, whych are touchyng the same are lyke the Jewes.

What preferrest thou to thy Jewe: For what aduantagegeth circumcysion: Surely verely much. First, *because yf vnto them were cympted y wordes of God. What then though some of them dyd not beleue: *shall they vnbelue make the promys of God without effecte: God forbid. Let God be true, and *euery man a lyar, at it is wrytten: yf thou myghtest be iustified in thy saynges, and overcome, when thou art iudged.

¶ But yf our vnrightrounes make yf ryght wylles of God more excellent: what shall we saye to God vnrightrounes, which taketh vengeance. I speake after the maner of men: God forbid. a spinner: and not rather (as we speake euill of vs, and as some asserme that we saue) let vs do euill, that good maye come therof. Whose damnacion is iust.

C What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we haue all ready proued, how that both Jewes and Gentyls are all vnder synne, as it is wyrtten. * There is none ryghteous, no nor one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vniuersallye, there is none that doeth good, no not one. * Thepe there is an open scowle, with they: for they haue discauered: the poison of asps is vnder they: lyes. * Whose mouth is full of cursyng and bytternes. * Their tete are swyfte to shed blood. * Destruction and wretchednes are in they: wayes, and the waye of peace haue they not knowen. * There is no feare of God before they: eyes.

A We knowe that what thynges souereyn lawe sayth, it sayth it to the which are vnder lawe. * But all mouthes maye be stoped, & that all the world maye be subdued to God, because * by the deedes of the lawe ther shall no fleshe be iustified in hys syght. For by lawe cometh knowledge of sinne.

Now is the ryghtewels of God declared without the lawe, for asmoche as it is to be by the testimony of lawe and of prophets. The ryghtewels of God, cometh by the wryth of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. * On hym.

There is no difference: for all haue sinned, and are destitute of the gloire of God: but * are iustified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Iesu, whom God hath set forth * to be the obtayner of mercy: thorow faith, by the meanes of hys bloud, to declare hys ryghteousnes, in that he forgiveth the synnes that are passed, whych God byd suffer, to shewe at this tyme hys ryghtewels, that he might be counted iust, and the iustifear of hym whych beleueth on Iesus. H

Wherer is then thy redempcyon? It is excluded. * What lawe of woelkes? None: but by the lawe of faith.

Therefore we holde, that * a man is iustified by faith without the deedes of the lawe: Is he the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of the Gentyls? Yes, euen of the Gentyls also. For it is God only which iustifieth the circumcysion that is of faith, and vncircumcysion shalow faith. Do we then dectroye the lawe thowow faith? God forbid. But we rather maintayne the lawe.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

¶ He declared by the example of Abraham, that he was iustified by faith, and not by lawe, as the Jewes say.

hat shall we saye then, that * Abraham oure father (as percyppinge to the fleshe) byd synde? If Abraham were iustified by deedes, then had he wher in to reioyce: but not in God. For what sayth the scripture? * Abraham beleued God, and it was counted vnto him for ryghtewelsnes. To hym that worketh, is the rewarde not reckened of fauoure, but of duece. * To hym that worketh not, but beleueth on him that iustifieth the vngodly, is his faith counted for ryghtewelsnes. * (According to the promise of the grace of God) Euen as grauid describeth the blessednes of that man, vnto whom God imputeth ryghtewelsnes without deedes. * Blessed are they, whose vngyrtewelsnes are forgiven, and whose synnes are couered. * Blessed is that man, to whom the Lawe wyll not impute synne.

Came this blessednes then vnto the vncircumcysion, as vpon the circumcysion also? For we saue, that faith was reckened to Abraham for ryghtewelsnes. How was it then reckened: when he was in the circumcysion? or when he was in the vncircumcysion? * Not in petyne of circumcysion: but when he was yet vncircumcised. And he receaued the * sygne of circumcysion, as a scale of the ryghtewels of faith, whych he had yet before vncircumcised, that he shoulde be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcised, that ryghtewelsnes might be imputed to them also: and that he might be father of circumcysion, not vnto the onely whych came of the circumcised, but vnto the also that walke in the stepes of the faith: as was in oure father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcysion.

For the promys (that he shuld be the father of many) happened not to Abraham, as to his seed thowow lawe: but thowow ryghtewelsnes of faith. * If of yf they whych are of lawe, be theyres, then is faith but vayne and the promys of none effecte. * Because the lawe causeth wrath. For where no lawe is, there is no transgressyon. Therefore by faith is the inheritaunce given, that it might come of fauoure: that the promys might be sure to all the seed. Not to them onely whych are of the lawe: but to them also which are of the faith of Abraham, * which is the father of vs all. (As it is wyrtten: * I haue made * a father of many nacyns) euen before God, whom he beleued, whych redreth the deed vnto vs: and calleth those thynges whych be not, as though they were.

Whych Abraham, cōtēcy to hope, beleued in hope, that he shuld be the * father of many nacyns, accordyng to that whych was spoken: euen to thall thy seed be. * (as the sayng) * of ces of heauen, and the comde of the son. And he saynted not in the fapth, nor yet considered his awie body whych was now dead, euen when he was almost an hōderd yere olde: nether yet that Sharn was past chyldbearinge. he feared not at the promes of God thozow vnbefese: but became stronge in fapth. and gaue God the prayse, beyng full certifyed, that he whych had promised the same was able also to make it good. And therfore was it reckened to hym for ryghtewelsnes.

* Neuertheles it is not wrytten for hym onely, that it was reckened to hym (as the apostle saith: but also for vs, to whom it shalbe counted) (as the apostle saith,) so y we beleue on hym, prayd by Iesus oure Lorde from the dead: whych was dyscured for oure synnes, and was raynsed agayne for oure iustificacyon.

¶ The power of faith, hope and loue and how death raynsed from dead into chryst, by whome only we haue consequente synnes.

BEcause therfore that we are iustified by fapth, we are at * peacc with God, thozow oure Lorde Iesus Christ: by whom also it chaunfed vnto vs to be brought in thozow fapth, vnto this grace, wherein we stande, and * reioyce in hope of y gloze (as the apostle saith) of God. Not that onely: but also we reioyce in tribulacions: knowyng that * tribulacions bynggeth pacyence, pacyence bynggeth experience, experience bynggeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because the loue of God is shed abroad in oure hertes, by the holp ghost whych is geuen vnto vs.

¶ For * when we were yet weak, according to the tyme, Christ dyed for vs whych were vngodly: Yet fcare wyll eny man dye for a ryghtewes mā. Baraunture for a good man durst a man dye. * But * God seith one his loue toward vs, fcapye y whyll we were yet synners (as the apostle saith) Christ dyed for vs. (as the apostle saith) we that are iustified by his blood shall be saved fro wrath thozow hym.

¶ For yf when we were enemyes, we were reconceyted to God by the death of his sonne: much more, fcapye we are reconceyted, we shalbe preferred by his lyfe. Not onely this, but we also toye in God by the meanes of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, by whom we haue now openyed the accoment.

¶ Wherefore, as by one man, synne entered in, to the worlde, and * death by the meanes of synne. Euen to death also went oure all men, in so much as all we haue synned. For euen vnto y shawe was synne in y worlde, but synne is not impure, whan ther is no law: nece theles death raynsed fro Adam to Moyses, euen ouer the alio y had not synned with yphrean: geueled as dyd Adam: whyche was beca-reth the similitude of him that was to come.

¶ But the gyfte is not lyke as y synne. For yf thozow the synne of one, many be dead: moche more plentious vpon many was the grace of God * gyfte by grace: (as the apostle saith) whych was of oure man Iesus Christ.

¶ And y gyfte is not ouer one synne: as death cam thozow one synne of one y synned. For damnacon came of one synne vnto edemnaccon: but y gyfte came to iustify fro many synnes. For yf by the synne of one, death raynsed by the meanes of one: much more thep (whyche receaued abundance of grace and of the gyfte of ryghtewelsnes) shall rayne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Iesus Christ.

¶ Likewise then as by the synne of one thep (sparyng by euell on all men) to condeimnaccon: euen so by the ryghtewelsnes of one, sparyng good vpon all men to the ryghtewelsnes of lyfe. For as by one mannes dyabedience many became synners: so by the obediēce of one, shall many be made ryghteous. But * the lawe in y auncie tyme entered in, y synne shuld encrease, fcare thelater where abundance of synne was, there was more plentiousnes of grace. That as synne had raynsed vnto death, euen to myght grace raynsed thozow ryghtewelsnes, vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Iesus Christ. ¶

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ How far more as we be dyscured thozow Christ from synne, we muste fassure ourselues to be true as the creature of God, and not after our owne iudges. To be vngodly creature of ryghtewelsnes and synne.

hat shall we saye then: Shall we conseyne in synne, that there maye be abundance of grace? God forbid. how shall we that are ded as touchyng synne, lyue eny longer therein? * Knowe ye not that * all we whyche are baptesed vnto Iesu Christe are baptesed to dye with him: we are buryed then with him by baptyisme, for to dye: that lyke wyle as Christ was raynsed vnto death by the gloze of y father, euen so * we also shulde walke in a newe lyfe. For yf we be graft in death lyke vnto hym: euen so shall we be partakers of the resurreccyon: knowyng this, that oure olde man is crucified with hym also, that the body of synne in right vterly be destroyed, y hence forth we shuld not be seruauntcs vnto synne. For he that is dead, is iustified from synne.

¶ Euerfore * yf we be dead w Christ, we beleue, y we shall also lyue with hym: knowyng, that Christ being raynsed from death, dyed nomore. wether hath nomore power ouer hym. For as touchyng that he dyed, he dyed conceyng synne onely. And as touchyng: that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Likewise

The Epistle.

¶ The whyte confesse ye also, that ye are deed as touching synne, but are aluue vnto God thozow Iesus Christ oure Lord. ¶ Let not synne raygne therfore in poure mortall bodye, that ye shulde therunto obey by the lustres of it. ¶ Rather geue ye poure members as instrumentes of vnrightheines vnto synne: but geue ouer poure selues vnto God as theye that of deed, are aluue. And geue oure poure members as instrumentes of rightheines vnto God. ¶ For synne shall not haue power ouer you. Because ¶ ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

¶ What then shall we synne, because we are not vnder lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. ¶ Knowe ye not, how that ¶ to whom fouer ye commit youre selues as seruantes to obey, bys seruantes ye are to whome ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obediens vnto rightheines? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruantes of synne, ye haue yet obeyed with herte vnto the rule of the doctryne, that ye be brought vnto. ¶ Ye are then made fre frō synne, and are become the seruantes of rightheines.

¶ I speake grossly, because of the infirmities of poure fleshe. ¶ As ye haue geuen poure members seruantes to vncleannes and to iniquitye, (from one iniquitye to another) euen so now geue oure poure members seruantes vnto rightheines, that ye maye be sanctified. ¶ For wher were the seruantes of synne, ye were vnder of rightheines. What frute had ye then in thole thynges, wherof ye are now ashamyd. ¶ For the ende of thole thynges, is death. But now are ye deliuered frō synne, & made the seruantes of God, and haue your frute to be sanctified, and yende euerylastyng lyfe. ¶ For ¶ yer warde of synne is death. But eternall lyfe is y gyfte of God, thozow Iesus Christ oure Lord.

¶ Christ hath deliuered us from the lawe and boundeth us in that the sicke and sinners man is, and called it the lawe of the members.

¶ Rowe ye not yethe (I speake to them that knowe the lawe) how that the lawe hath power ouer a man, as long as it endureth. ¶ For ¶ the woman which is in subiection to a man, is bound by the lawe to the man, as long as he lyueth. But yf the man be deed, he is looked frō the lawe of y man, So then ¶ yf whyle y man lyueth the couple her selfe with another man, the shalbe counted a whoredome been her. But yf the man be deed, she is fre from the lawe of the husband, for that she is no whoredome breaker, though she couple her selfe with another man.

¶ Euen so ye also (my brethren) are deed concerninge y lawe by the bodye of Christ, that ye shulde be coupled to another (I meane to him that is gyven agayne frō death) that we shuld byng forth frute vnto God. ¶ For wher we were in y fleshe, y lustes of synne wherby we were stered by the lawe, raygned in oure members, to byng forth frute vnto death. But now are we deliuered from the lawe, and deed vnto it wherunto we were in bondage, that we shuld serue in a new conuersacion of the sperte, and not in the olde conuersacion of the letter.

¶ What shall we saye then (is the lawe synne? God forbid: neuertheless ¶ I knew not synne, but by the lawe. ¶ For I had not knowne what lust had meant, excepte the lawe had sayd, ¶ Thou shalt not lust. But synne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commandment and brought in all manner of concupiscence. ¶ For derely without lawe, synne was deed. ¶ Once lyued wythout lawe: But when the commandment came, the synne reuiued, and ¶ I was deed. And the very same commandment, wherby was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was founde to be vnto me an occasyon of death. ¶ For synne toke occasyon by the meanes of the commandment, and so diseaued me, & by y same slewe me. Wherfore ¶ the lawe is holy, and the commandment holy, and iust and good.

¶ And y then which was good, made death vnto me? God forbid. ¶ Rape it was synne: y synne might appere (by it which was good) to worke death in me: that synne by the commandment myght be out of me: y synfull. ¶ For we knowe, y the lawe is spirituall: but I am carnall. ¶ I solde vnder synne, because ¶ I allowe not y wherby I do. ¶ For what I wold, y do I not: but what I hate, that do I. ¶ If I do now that wherby I wold not, I consente vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I y do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. ¶ For I knowe, that in me (that is to saye in my fleshe) dwelleth no good thyng. ¶ For, to wyll is present with me: but I fynde no meanes to performe that wherby is good. ¶ For the good that I wold, do I not: but the euill wherby I wold not, that do I. ¶ If I do that I wold not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. ¶ I fynde then by the lawe, that when I wold do good, euill is present with me. ¶ For I desyre in the lawe of God, after the inward man. But I see another lawe in my members, rebelling agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, wherby is in my members. ¶ O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this bodye subdued vnto death? I thanke God thozow Iesus Christ oure Lord. So then, with the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but with the fleshe the lawe of synne.

23 For they that are carnall, are carnally myn-dred. But they that are spiritual, are gospily myn-^{dred}. To be carnally myn-^{dred}, is deceit. But to be spiritually myn-^{dred}, is life and peace. ¶ Because that the fleshy myn-de is enemy against God: for it is not obe-dyent to the lawe of God, neither can be. So therethy that are in the fleshy, cannot please God.

But ye are not in flesche, but in the spyre-te: þe so be that the sparte of God dwell in
you. If christis haue not þe spyre of Chryst, the same is none of hye. If Chryst be in you, the body is deyd because of synne-but þe spyre is lyfe for ryghtewelnes sake. Wherefore, yf the spyre of hym that rapied yf Iesus from deeth, dwell in you: euen he that rapied yf Chryst from deeth, shall quicken youre mortal bodys, because of hye sparte that dwelleth in you.

E Therefore brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For ye ye live after the flesh, ye shal dye. And ye ye (showe the sperte) domostrate the dedes of the body, ye shal lye. For as many as are led by the sperte of God, they are the sonnes of God. For ye have not receaved the sperte of bondage to feare any maner, but * ye ye have receaved the sperte of adopyon, wherby we crye: A bba father. * The same sperte certifieth our sperte that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, then are we also heires, y heires I meane of God, & heires anected with Christ: yf to be that we suffre with hym, that we maye be also glorified together with hym. R ledge. For they beynge ignorant of God-des ryghte welnes, and goynge aboute to sta-blyſhe thep a wone ryghte welnes, haue not bene obiecte vnto the ryghte welnes of God.

* For * Chyrt is the fulfylling of þe lawe, to iustifye all that beleue.

* For * Moſes wytteth of the ryghte wel-nes which cometh of the lawe, how þe man which doth the thynges of the lawe, shall lyue therby. But the ryghte welnes which cometh of fapth, speaketh on thys wyse: Saye not thou i thys bert. who shall ascende into heauen (that is euen to fetch Chyrt downe from aboue.) * After who shall descende into the depe: (that is euen to fetch vp Chyrt agayne fro deeth.) But what sayth he: * The woide is nye the, euen i thys mouth and in thys herte.

Thys same is the woide of fapth, which we preache:

we preache. For yf thou knowledg with thy mouth that Iesus is the Lorde, & beleue in thyn heart, that God rayfde hym vp from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue wth the heart iustifyeth: and to knowledg with the mouth, maketh a man safe. For the scr^{pt}ure sayth: * whofoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe and the Gentill. For one is Lorde of all, which is eythe vnto all y^e call vpoⁿ him. For * whofoever doth call on the name of y^e Lorde, shall be safe. how then shall they call on hym, on whom they haue not beleued: how shall they beleue on hym, of whom they haue not heard: how shall they heare, without a preacher? And how shall they preache except they be sent? As it is written: how beautifull are the site of them which byngne tydings of peace, and byngne tydings of good thynges. But they haue not all obeyed to y^e Gospel. For as sayth: * Lorde, who hath beleued oure saynges? So then sayth cometh by hearynge, and hearynge cometh by the woode of God. But I aske: haue they not herbe? so dout, * their sounde went out in to all landes: and their woordes into the eardes of the woelde.

But I demaunde, whether Israel dyd knowe or not? I saye I doles sayth: * I will prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a folke the nation I will anger you. asay after that, is bold and sayeth: * I am founde of the, that sought me not: I am manifest vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst I saill be sayth: * all daye longe haue I stretcht forth my handes vnto a people y^e beleueth not, but spreketh agaynst me.

All the Truce are not cut ashaie, therefore Paul warueth the Gentyle that he called, not to be orde mynnded in respect the Jewes, for the wogement of God are: bys and secrete.

¶ Shape then: hath God cast awaye hys people? God forbid. For enen I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the trybe of Benjamin, God hath not cast awaye his people, which he knewe before. Note ye not, what y^e scr^{pt}ure sayth of helias, how he malicly intercession to God agaynst Israel, saying: * Lorde, they haue kylled thy prophetes, and dygged downe thine alters: and I am lefte alone, and they seke my lyfe. But what sayth the answere of God vnto hym? * I haue reserved vnto my selfe seven thousande men, which haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Baal. Euen so also at thys tyme is ther a remanant left accorpyng to the electyon of grace. If it be of grace, then is it not now of woorkes. For then grace is no more grace, But If it be of woorkes, then is it now no grace. For then were deservynge nomore deservynge. What then? Israel hath 23 not obtayned that which he seletly: but the electyon hath obtayned it. The remanant are blynded accorpyng as it is written: * God hath geuen them the spere of unwygeted eyes that they shuld not se, & eares that they shuld not heare, euen vnto this daye. * And I would sayth: Let their table be made a snare to take them with all, and an occasioⁿ to fall, and a reward vnto them. Let they eyes be blynded that they se not: and bowe they downe their backe all waye.

I saye then: haue they therefore stombled, that they shuld utterly fall awaye together. God forbid: but howe they fall is saluacion happened vnto the Gentyle, for to prouoke them withall. Whereof yf the fall of them be the ryche of the woelde, and y^e mynshyppe of them the ryche of the gentyls: how much more their perfectiue? I speake to you gentyls, in as much as * I am y^e y^e of the gentyls, I will magnify myne office, yf by any meane I maye prouoke them which are my fleshe, and myght laue some of them. For yf the castinge awaye of the, be the recoueryng of the woelde: what shall the recoueryng of them be, but yf ye agayne from death: for yf one peece be holy, y^e whole heepe is holy. And yf the rote be holy, y^e branches shal be holy also.

Though some of the branches be broke of, and thou byng a wyde olyue tree, wast graff in among them, and made partaker of the rote and fatenes of the * olyue tree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the branches. For yf thou boast thy selfe, thou bearest not y^e rote, but the rote the. Thou wilt saye then: y^e branches are broken of that I myght be graff in. Thou sayest well: because of unbelieve they were broke of, and thou standest steadfast in sayth. Be not hys mynnded, but leare: for sepyng that God spared not y^e natural branches, take heed, lest it come to passe that ye spare not the also.

Beholde therefore the kyndnes and rygourousness of God: on them which fell: rygourousness, but towards the, kyndnes: yf thou continue in hys kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be hewen of, and they agayne: yf they y^e be not styll in unbelieve, shal be graffed in agayne. For God is of power to graffe the in the agayne. For yf thou wast cut out of a natural wyde olyue tree, and wast graffed contrary to nature in a true olyue tree: how much more shall the natural branches be graffed in their auncient tree agayne.

I wolde not that this secrete shulde be hyd from you my bierthen: lest ye shuld be wyse in your owne conseytes? y^e partly blynded is happened in Israel, vntill the fulnes of the gentyls be come in: and to all Israel shal be saved.

The Epistle

E laued. As it is wyrtten. * There shall come out of syon he that doth deliuer, and shall turne a wyper vngodlynes from Jacob. And this is my coneuant vnto the, wde I shall take a wyper thy synnes. As concenynge þy godlyl the are enemies for poure sakes: but as touchynge the electyon they are loued for the fathers sakes.

For verely, þy gyfte and callynge of God are soch, that it cannot repent hym of them: for loke, as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God, yet haue now obtained mercy thow row thei: vnbelyfe: euen so now haue they not beleued þy mercy which is happened vnto you: that they also maye obtayne mercy.

For God had wyppd all nacjons in vnbelyue, that he myght haue mercy on all.

W the depnes of the ryches both of þy wyfdom and knowlege of God: how vnderstandeable are his iudgements, & his wyppd past fyndynge out: for * who hath knowe the mynde of the Lorde: Or who hath bene hys counsellor: or other who hath geuen vnto hym fynd, and he shall be recompensed agayne: for of hym, and thow hym, and for hym are all thynges: To hym be glozpe for euer. Amen.

The xij. Chapter.

O the shere conuersacion, low, and wothes of soch as beleue in Christ.

I beleue you therfore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make yd bodies a quelle sacrifice, holy & acceptable vnto God: which is poure resonable freuyng of God: & fastyd nor poure selues lyke vnto this worlde: but be ye chaunged in youre shape, by the renynge of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thyng that good, and acceptable, and persfayte wyll of God is. for I saye (thow rowe the grace that vnto me geue is) to euery man amonge you, that * noman stonde hye in his owne conceite, more then it be cometh hym to esteeme of hym selfe: but to iudge of hym selfe, that he be gentile and sober, accordynge, as God hath denke to euery man the measure of sayth.

For as we haue many members in one body, and all members haue not one office: so we byng many, are one body in Christ, & euery man among oure selues, one anothers members. * * * * * Sprynge that we haue diuers gyfte accordynge to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: þe eny man haue the gyft of * * * * * pphesye, let hym haue it that it be agreeynge vnto the sayth. * * * * * let hym that hath an office waite on his office. let hym that teacheth take hede to hys doctryne. let hym that exhorteth, geue atteyndanace to his exhortaciō. If eny man geue, let hym do it with syngeles. let hym that enlech, do it with diligence. If eny man thewe mercy, let hym do it with cherfulness. let loue be without blisim vltaciō hate that which is euyl, & cleane vnto that which is good. Be kyn one to another with brotherly loue. * In geuynge honour, go one before another. * Be not thoughtfull of the busyness which ye haue in hande. Be feryent in the sperte. * * * * * Applye poure selues to the tyme. Reioyce in hope. Be patient in tribulacion. Continue in prayer. Distribute vnto the necessite of þy pantes: * be ready to haue * * * * * blesse. I saye) and coure not. Be mercy with the that are merc. Be also with them that wepe. Be of ipke affectiō one towarde another. Be not hye in prided: but make poure selues equall to them of the lower sorte.

Be not wse in poure awne oppyns. Recompence to noman euyl for euyl. Pryoude afore hande thynges honeste: * (not onely before God, but also) in the syght of all men. If it be possyble, (as moch as is in you) lyue peaceably with all men. Dearely beloued, auenge not poure selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. for it is wyrtten: * vengeance is mine, I will rewarde, sayeth the Lorde. Therefore, ye thynke enclyp dyng, fede him: ye be thyrt, geue hym drynke. for in so doinge thou shalt heape coles of fyre on hys heade. * Be not ouercome of euyl, but ouercome euyl, with goodnes. * * * * *

The xij. Chapter.

O the obediēce of men vnto thynges. Loue fullyfyll the lawe. It is to us no tyme to folowe the wothes of darkness.

Euery soule submyt hym selfe vnto the auctorite of the hyer powers. for * there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeyned of God. Whosoever therfore resysteth power, resysteth the ordinance of God. But they that resyst, shall receaue to them selfe damnacion. for rulers are not fearefull to them that do good, but to them that do euyl. Wyle thou be without fence of the power: do well then: and so shalt thou be payed of the same. for he is the mynyster of God, for thy welth. But ad ye thou do that which is euyl, then feare: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is mynyster of God, to take vengeance on hym that doth euyl. Therefore, ye must nedes obeie, not onely for fence of vengeance: but also because of conscience. And euen for this cause paye ye tribute. for they are Goddes mynysters, seruynge for the same purpose. * * * * *

Gue to euery man therfore hys due: * tribute to whom tribute belongeth: custome to whom custome is due: feare, to whom feare belongeth: honoure, to whom honoure pertyneth. * * * * * we nothyng to eny man: but this, that ye loue one another. for be that loueth that loueth another hath fulfilled the lawe. For these commaundmentes. + Thou shalt not committe adoulttry: thou shalt not kyl: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnes: thou shalt not lust, and to forthe (p) there be eny other commaundement) it is all comprehended in this sayinge. Namely: + Loue thynne neighbour as thy selfe. Loue thyselfe not his neyghbour. Therefore is loue the full-fulfilling of the lawe. ¶

¶ This also, we knowe the reason howe that it is tyme that we shoulde now awake out of slepe. For now is ouer saluacion neare, then whē we beleued. The nyght is pasted, daye is come nye. Let vs therefore cast awaye the dekes of darkynes, and let vs put on the remouer of yghthe. Let vs walke honestly as it were in daye lyght: *not in carynge & dypnyngke, neyther in chymberyng and wantaunces, neyther in styffe & enuyng: but put ye on the Lorde Iesus Chypt. ¶ And make not proud for the desyre, to fulfill the lustes of it.

The xliij. Chapter.

¶ The weake ought not to be despised. Whom will offend another despise. Agayne, for our weake thyng is weake not mali cōdempne a nother.

¶ In that is weake in the sayth, reuerce, not in disputynge and troublunge hys conscience. ¶ One beleueth that he maye cate all thyng. Another whych is weake, catech canerbes. Let not hym that catech, despyse hym p catech not. And let not he whych catech not, iudge him p catech. For God hath receaued him. ¶ What art thou iudge another mannes seruise whether he shal be or fall p certapneth vnto hys awne master: pe, he shall be holde vp, that he maye stande. ¶

¶ This man putteth differre betwene daye & daye. Another mā couereth all dayes alpyce. ¶ Let euery mā iustifie him selfe. ¶ He that obserueth the dape, doeth it vnto the Lorde. And he that doth not obserue the dape, doeth it for the Lorde also. He that catech, doeth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thanks. And he that catech not, catech not, to please the Lorde withall, and geueth God thanks. For none of vs lyueth for hym selfe, and no man dyeth for hym selfe. For yf we lyue, we lyue vnto the Lorde. And yf we dye, we dye vnto the Lord. Whether we lyue therefore, or dye, we are the Lordes. ¶ For Chypt therefore dyed, and rose agayne, and reuyued, that he myght be * Lorde of ded and quike.

¶ But why doest thou then iudge thy brother? Orther, why doest thou despyse thy brother? We shoulde all brought before the iudgement seate of Chypt. For it is writen: as truly as I lyue sayth the Lorde: * all knees shall bowe to me, and all tonges shall geue prayse to God. So shall euery one of vs geue acceptors of hym selfe to God. ¶ Let vs not therefore iudge one another eny more.

¶ But iudge thyselfe rather, that no mā put a stumbling block, or an occasiō to fall in hys brothers waye. For * I knowe, and am full certified by the Lorde Iesus, that * there is nothyng comen of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be comen: to hym is it comen. ¶ If thy brother be grieved with thy meate, nowe walke thou not charitably. Destroye not hym with thy meate, for who Chypt dyed. Cause not poure treasure to be enuyl lyked of. For the kyngdome of God is not meate and dypnyne: but rpyght welnes, ad pence and loye in the holy ghost. For he that in these thynges serueth Chypt, pleacth God, and is commended of men.

¶ Let vs therefore folowe those thynges which make for peace, and thynges wherewith one maye edifye another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates sake. ¶ All thynges are pure: but it is enuyl for y man: which eateth with hure of conscience. ¶ It is good neyther to cate fleshe, neyther to drinke wyne neyther eny thyng, wherby thy brother stoblet, ether fallet, or is made weake. Iust p sayth: haue it with thy selfe because God. I happy is he, that cōdempneth not hym selfe, in the thyng whiche be aloweth. For he that maketh cōscience, is dampned yf he cate: because he eateth not of sayth. For what cause is not of sayth, that same is spynne. ¶

The xlv. Chapter.

¶ The infirmite and frailties of the weak ought to be borne with all loue and benygnite, after the example of Chypt.

¶ Which are stronge ought to beare the frailties of the, which are weake, and not to stonde in oure awne cōsayers. Let euery man please hys neyghbour vnto hys welth and cōsuyng. For Chypt pleased not hym selfe: but as it is writen. ¶ He rebukes of the which rebuked y, fell on me. ¶ Whatsoeuer thynges are writen afore tyme, they are writen for our leaunyng, that we thoro patience and cōsolatōe of the scriptures, myght haue hope.

¶ The God of pacyence and cōsolacion, graunt you, to be lyke myded one to another, after the ensample of Chypt Iesu: * that ye all agreyng together maye wyrd one mouth prayse God the father of oure Lorde Iesus Chypt. Wherfore, receaue ye one another, as Chypt receaued vs, to the prayse of God. And thus I saye, that Iesus Chypt is a mynistre of the circumcisiō for the truth of God, to confirme the promysse made vnto y fathers: * that the gentyls myght prayse God for hys mercy, and you, partly to put you in remembrance, tho-w the grace that is geuen me of God, that I shuld be y minister of Iesu Chyrt amonge the Gentyls, & shuld mynister the Gospell of God, that the offeringe of the gentyls myght be acceptable, & sanctified by the holy ghozt.

I haue therefore wherof I maye reioyce tho-w Chyrt Iesu, in thole thynges which per-tayne to God. For I dare not speake of any of thole thynges, wherch Chyrt hath not wrought by me, to make y Gentyls obedient, wylh woide and dede, in myghty sygnes & wonders, by the power of the sperte of God: so that from Ierusalem & the coastes rounde about vnto Illypye, I haue fylled all coe-

To y^e same God, which alone is wysse, be honour and glaple thozow Iesus Christ for euer. Amen.

This Epistle was sent to the Romayns from Corinthum by Debe, the that was the minister vnto the congregacyon at Cenchrea.

The fyrst Epistle of Sapient Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The fyrst Chapter.

The commendeth the Corinthians, rebether that to be of one mynde, and rebether the bypocrytes that to be amonge them, whiche wylde be folowynge before God, yet there is no wysdom but in the behynde of God.

In called an Apostle of Iesus Christ, thozowe the will of God, and brother Soltemes.

In into the congregacyon of God whych is at Corinthum. To them that are sanctified by Christ Iesu, called sapientes, with all that call on the name of oure Lord Iesus Christ in euery place, ether of theise or of others.

Grace be vnto you and peace fro God oure father, & from the Lord Iesu Christ.

I thinke my God all wayes on youre behalfe, for the grace of God, whych is geue you by Iesus Christ, that in all thynges ye are made ryche by hym, in all vetteraunce & in all knowlegde, by the whiche thynges the testimony of Iesus Christ was confirmed in you, so ye are behynde in no gyfte, waytinge for the apperayng of oure Lord Iesus

Christ, which shall also strengthe you vnto the ende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of the comynge, of oure Lord Iesus Christ. God is faithful, by whom ye are called vnto the felypsynge of bys God Iesus Christ oure Lord. I beseeche you brotherly by the name of oure Lord Iesus Christ, that ye all speake one thyng, and that there be no dissencion amonge you: but that ye maye be a whole body: of one mynde and of one mynynge. For it is the wyll of oure Lord Iesu Christ, that there be no schisme amonge you. I speake of the same that euery one of you sayeth: I holde of Paul: I holde of Apollo: I holde of Cephas: I holde of Christ. Ist built denpbed: Was Paul crucified for you: ether were ye baptised in the name of Paul: I thanke God, that I baptised none of you, but Crispus and Gains: lest euery shuld saye, that I had baptised in myne awne name. I baptised also the house of Stephanas. Furthermore knowe I not, whether I baptised eny man.

For Christ sent me not to baptise, but to preache y^e Gospel, not wth wysdomme of wordes, lest the crosse of Christ shulde haue bene made of none effecte. For the preaching of y^e crosse, is to the that perishe, foolishnes: but vnto vs which are saued, it is the power of God. For it is wyttis: I will destroye y^e wysdomme of the wyse, and will cast awaye the vnderstandynge of the proude. Where is the wyse: Where is the scribe: Where is y^e disputer of this world: hath not God made the wysdomme of this world foolishnes?

For after that the world thozowe wysdomme me knewe not God, in y^e wysdomme of God, it pleased God thozowe foolishnes of preachinge, to saue them that beleeue. For the Jewes require a signe, and the Siches leaue after wysdomme. But we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasion of fallynge, and vnto the Siches foolishnes: but vnto them whiche are called both of the Jewes & Siches, we preache Christ the power of God and the wysdomme of God. For the foolishnes of God, is wyse then men: and the weakenes of God is stronger then men. Wherfore, ye fe your callinge, how that not many wysmen after the fleshe, nor many myghty, nor many of bye degre, are called: But God hath chosen the foolishnes of the world, to confounde the wyse. And God hath chosen the weaknes of the world, to confounde thynges whiche are myghty. And vyle thynges of the world, & thynges whiche are despyssed, hath God chosen, ye and thynges of no reputacyon, for to byzyne to nought thynges of reputacyon, that no fleshe shulde trioupe in bys presence. And of hym are ye, in Christ Iesu, whych

C The ij. Chapter.

It is no flatterye, and glorious praised wordes of wysdome, that can cōfesse, and cōuerthe soules vnto Christ, but the playne wordes of the Cryste, as theye in the mynde of hym and dys ciple.

And I bryethen (when I came to you) came not in gloryousnes of wordes, or of wysdome, & we-bunto you the testimony of God. Rather therfore I my selfe that I knewe any thyng at oncye you, saue this: & built, and the same that was crucified. And I was among you in weaknes, and in feare, and in muche tremblinge. And my wordes and my preachyng was not w enrynging wordes of mānes wysdome: but in the wyng of the spyrte and of power, that your fayth shuld not stande in the wysdome of men, but in the power of God.

23 We speake of wysdome amonge the that are perfect: not the wysdome of this worlde, neither of the rulers of this worlde (which go to nought): but we speake of wysdome of God, which is in secretes & is seeth hys, which God ordeyned before the worlde, vnto oure glory: which wysdome * none of the rulers of this worlde knewe. For: had they had knowledge, they wold not haue crucified the Lorde of glory. But as it is writen. * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not heard, neither haue entred into the heert of man, the thynges which God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

spyrte. For: * the spyrte searcheth all thynges, ye the botome of Goddes secretes. For what mā knoweth the thynges of a mā: saue the spyrte of man which is in him: and so the thynges of God knoweth no mā, but the spyrte of God.
And we haue not receaued the spyrte of the worlde: but the spyrte which cometh of God, for to knowe the thynges of God are geuen to vs of God: which thynges also we speake (not w wordes of mānes wysdome teacheth, but w wordes which the holy ghost doth teache) in hym spyrte shall cōparisons of spyrteuall thin-gys. 25 The naturall man perceaueth not the thynges that belonge to the spyrte of God. For they are hid from hym vnto him. Rather can he perceiue the, because they are spyrteuall examined. But he is spyrteuall, discerner all thynges: yet he him selfe is iudged of no mā.
For: who hath knowe the mynde of the Lord,

And I coulde not speake (vnto
you) bryethen (as vnto spyrteuall: but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto babes in Christ). * I gaue you mynistr to discipline, and not mente. For ye then were not strange, neither are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As I gaue vnto you as ther is a mynistr of enuryng, & a secretes: are ye not carnall, & walke after the manner of men? For whyle one sayth: I holde of Paul, & another: I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thyng is Apollo? Oncly in mynistrs are they by whom ye beleue, euen as the Lorde gaue euery mā grace. I haue planted, & Apollo watered: but God gaue the encrease. So then, whether is he that planteth any thyng, whether he that wa-tereth, but God that geueth the encrease. He that planteth and he that watereth, are one.
Euery man yet shall receiue his rewarde, accordyng to his labour. For we are Gods labourers, ye are Goddes byndandye, * ye are Goddes byndandye: Accordyng to the grace of God geue vnto me, as a wyle bynder haue I layde the foundacyon. And another bylt thereon. But let euery man take he-de, how he bylth bypon. For another founda-cyon can no mā laye, then it that is layde, * which is Iesus Christ. If any man bylde on this foundacyon, golde, syluer, pperuous stones, tymbre, haye, or stobbe: euery mannes woiche shall appere. For the daye shall declare, which shall shew in fyre. And the fyre shall trye euery mannes woiche, what it is. If any mannes woiche that be hard bylt vpon, byde, he shall receiue a rewarde:
If any mannes woiche burne, he shall suffer

Let

Et ¶ a mā this wyse esteeme vs, even as the mynisters of Chyrlt, and stewards of the * secrets of God. Furthermoze it is requyred of the stewards, that a mā be founde fapthfull. Wyth me is it but a verry small thyng, that I shuld be iudged of you, ether of mans iudgement. So I iudge not myne awne selfe. For I knowe nought by my selfe: yet am I not thereby iustificed. It is the Lorde that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge nothing before the tyme butyll the Lorde come, whych wyll iudge them thynges that are hyd in darkness, and open the counseils of the hertes. And then shall eury man haue payre of God.

These thynges (brethre) I haue for an example desired in myne awne person, & in Apollos, for poure sakes, y pe myght learne by vs, y noman counte of hym selfe beyonde y which is aboute wyttē: that one swell not agaynst another for euy mans cause. For who prefereth thy? What hast thou, that thou hast not receaved? If thou haue receaved it, why reioycst thou, as though y haddest not receaved it? Nowe ye are full: nowe ye are made cryde: ye ragge as kiges without vs: and I wolde to God ye dyd ragge, that we myght ragge with you.

For me thynketh, that God hath set forth vs (which are the last Apollos) * as it were men appoynted to deeth. For we are a galyng shoek vnto the woilde, and to the Angels, and to men. We are foolis for Chyrlts sake, but we are wyse thorow Chyrlt. We weake, but ye are strong. Ye are honorable, but we are despyed. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrst, and are naked, and are boyled with fyres, and haue no certayne dwellinge place, & labour, & wozechynge w oure awne handes. We are crucyld, and yet we blese. We are persecuted, and suffer it. We are euill spoken of, & we payne. We are made as it were the fishbines of the woilde, the offscouryng of all thynges, euen vnto this daye.

I wyte not these thynges, to shame you: but as my beloued somes I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousand instructours in Chyrlt: yet haue ye not many fathers. In Chyrlt Iesu I haue begotten you thow yf I myght. Wherefore, I desyre you to folowe me, (as I folowe Christ) for this cause haue I sent vnto you Timothy, which is my deare sonne, and fapthfull in the Lorde, whych shall put you in remembrance of my wayes, that I haue in Chyrlt, euen as I teach eury where in all congregacions. Some swell, as though I wold come nomore at you. But I wyll come to you shortly: yf God wyll. I will knowe, not by wordes of the which swell but the power: for the Kingdome of God is not in wordes, but in power. What wyll ye, Shall I come vnto you with a rodde, or els in loue and in the spere of softnesse?

C The. v. Chapter.

¶ After what matter Paul coryth the man, that had committed fornicacion with his wyfe: yet in lawe.

ere goeth a comen sayinge that ther is fornicacion amonge you, and loch fornicacion, as is not named amonge the gentylis: * y one shuld haue his father's & brother's wyfe. And ye swell, and haue not rather forowed, that he which hath done this dede, myght be put from amonge you. For I verry as abient in body, but present in sperte, haue determined all ready (as though I were present) concerninge hym that hath done this dede, in y name of oure Lord Iesu Chyrlt, when ye are gathered together, and my wyte to you, with the power of the Lorde Iesu Chyrlt * to deliuer hym vnto Satan, for the destruction of the fleshe, that the sperte maye be saued in the daye of the Lorde Iesu.

Poure reioysynge is not good: knowe ye not, that a lytic leuen someth y whole lope of dower. ¶ Pouregeth for the old leuen. ¶ y pe maye be newe dowe, as ye are (sweete brede. For Chyrlt & oure pallour is offered vnto vs. ¶ Therefore, let vs kepe holy dape, not with olde leuen, neither with the leuen of malicynous & wickednes: but with the sweete brede of purence and trouth.

I wyte vnto you in a pte, that ye shuld not company with fornicatours. And I meane not at all of the fornicatours of this woilde, ether of the couetous, or extorsioners, ether the ydolaters: for then must ye nedes haue gone out of y woilde. But now I dyd write vnto you, * that ye company not together, yf any that is called a brother, be a fornicator, or couetous, or a woorthpyper of ymages, ether a raplar, ether a dronckard. or an extorsionar: wyth hym that is soch, let that pe rate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge the which are without. Do ye not iudge the that are within? ¶ But a wape the euill from amonge you.

the congregacions, and make them iudges:
But his I saye to youre (same), Is ether utterly no wyfe man amonge you: What not one at all, that can iudge betweene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe to another: and that vnder the vnbeleners!

Nowe therefore, there is utterly a faute amonge you, because ye go to lawe one wyth another. Why rather suffer ye not wronge? why rather suffer ye not your selues, to haue harme/mape, ye poure selues do wronge, and robbe: & that the best? Do ye not knowe, howe the vniuersiteis shall not inheret kingdome of God: &e not decreued. For neither fornicatours, neither worshippers of ymages, neither aduolutes, neither weaklynges, neither abusers of the selues wyth mashynes, neither thurs, neither couetous, nether drunkardes, neither curied speakers, nether yllers, shall inheret the kingdome of God. And such were some of you, but ye are washed: but ye are sanctified: but ye are in-stified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, & by the sperte of oure God.

I maye do all thynges, but * all thynges are not profitabill. I maye do all thynges: but I will be brought vnder no mans power:
I deates are obdysed for the belly, & I bely for meates: but God shall bestrope both it and the. Let not the body be applyed vnto fornication, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the body. God hath rayled vp the Lorde, and shall rayle vs vp by hys power.

* Either knowe ye not, I poure bodys are members of Christ: shall I nowe take members of an harlot, and make them the mebers of an harlot: God forbid. Do ye not knowe, that he wyche comyleth hym selfe to an harlot, is become one body. * For two (sayth he) shall be one fleshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde is one sperte.

His fornicacion. Everyne I saye a mā doth, is without the body. But he that is a fornicatour, synneth against his awne body. Ether knowe ye not, howe I poure bodys are y-temple of holy ghost, which dwelleth in you, whom ye haue of God, and howe that ye are not poure a wne: For ye are dearly bought.
Therefore glorifie God in poure bodys, ad in poure spertes, which are Goddes.

The viij. Chapter.

Of marriage, brydgemes and wyddowes.

In concernynge the thynges whe-rof ye wrote vnto me: * It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Neuerthelesse, to a wyde who doth let every mā haue hys wyfe, and let every woman haue her husbande. Let the husbande geue vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. A thewyfe also I wyfe vnto the husbande. The wyfe hath not power of her awne body: but the husbande. And the wyfe I husbande hath not power of his awne body: but I wyfe. * Wythdawe not poure selues one fro another, except it be with consent for a tyme, for to geue your selues to fa-stynge and prayer. And afterwarde come together agayne, lest Satan tempte you for poure incontinencie.

This I saye of fauour, and not of commaundement. For I wolde I all men were as I my selfe am: but every mā hath his proprie gyfte of God, one after this maner, another after that. I saye vnto them that be vni-uerbed and wyddowes: it is good for the, ye they abyde euē as I do. But and * ye they cannot abyde, let the marry. For it is better to marry, then to burne.

Vnto the marryed commaunde, not I, but the Lorde: * Let not the wyfe be separated from the husbande. If she separate her selfe, let her remayne vnmarryed, or be receiued vnto her husbande agayne. And let not the husbande put a wyfe his wyfe from hym.

To the remanant speake I, not the Lorde If eny brother haue a wyfe I beleue not, ye the be content to dwell with him, let hym not put her awaye. And the woman wyche hath to her husbande an infidell, & consent to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym awaye.
For I vnbelenynge husbande is sanctified by I wyfe, & I vnbelenynge wyfe is sanctified by the husbande. * Ye els were your chylderen vncleane: but nowe are they holpe. But
* ye I vnbelenynge de parte, let him de parte.
A brother or a syster is not in subieccion to soche. But God hath called vs in peace. For how knowest thou (a woman) whether thou halt saue thy husbande or no? Other howe knowest thou (a man) whether thou halt saue the wyfe or no: but euē as God hath distributed to every man.

* As the Lorde hath called every man, so let hym walke: and so ordeyne I in all cōgregacions. If eny man be called beyng created, let him not adde vncircumcision. If eny be called vncircumcised, let hym not be circised. Circumcision is nothyng, and vncir-cumcision is nothyng: but the keepinge of I commaundementes of God.

* Let every man abyde in the same callinge, wherein he was called. * Art thou called a seruante: care not for it. Neuerthelesse, if thou mayst be free, be it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde, beyng a seruante, is the Lordes freeman. A thewyfe he that is called beyng free, is Chylles seruante. Ye are dearly bought, & be not ye the seruantes of men. Wherthen, let every man wherein he is called, therein abyde wyth God. *

bement of the Lorde: yet geue I counsell, as one that hath obtayned mercie of p^r Lorde, to be faythfull. I suppose thesē p^r it is good for the present necessite. For it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe? seke not a wyfe. But ad yf p^rmarie a wyfe, thou halt not synned. y^e the wyfe, yf a virgin marie, she hath not synned. Keuer the lesse soche shall haue trouble in their fleshe: but I fauoure you.

This saie I hereth, * the tyme is shorte. I reimagyne, y^e thetych which haue wyues, be as though they had none: ad they p^r wepe, be as though they wept not: and they that receiue toyce, be as though they reioyced not: & they that lye, be as though they possessed not: ad they that vse this worlde, be as though they vied it not. For * the passon of thys worlde goeth awaye. * I wolde haue you without care, he y^e is vnmarrjed, careth for the thynges p^r belong to p^r Lorde, howe he maye please p^r Lorde. But he y^e hath married a wyfe careth for p^r thynges p^r are of p^r worlde, howe he maye please his wyfe. There is difference betwene a virgin & a wyfe. The syngly womā careth for p^r thynges p^r are of p^r Lorde, p^r she maye be holy both in bodye & also in sperte. Agayne: the y^e is married, careth for p^r thynges p^r pertaine to p^r worlde, howe he maye please her husbande. * This spenke I for poure profet, not to tangle you in a snare: but p^r ye maye followe it which is honest & comly, & ye maye cleaue vnto the Lorde without leuol action. If eny man thinke that it is vncomly for his virgin, p^r the passe the tyme of marriage, and yf to nede require, let him do what he listeth, he synneth not: let them be coupled in marriage, keuerthelesse, he that purpoiseth to help in his herte, haunpge no nede: but hath power ouer his awne will: & hath so decreed in his hert, that he will kepe his virgin, both well. So then, he p^r ioyne thys virgin in marriage doth well. But he that ioyne thys virgin in marriage doth better. * The wyfe is bounde to p^r marriage, as longe as her husband liueth. If her husband dye, she is at libertie to marie with whom she will, onely in p^r Lorde. But she is happier, y^e she so abyde, after my iudgement. And I thinke verely, that I haue the sperte of God.

The viij. Chapter.

Wherewither them that vyllyfyne the selfe: haue: be of othre, and thereto haue men ought to be: as: uelturn towarde sothe as be deare.

To touching thynges * offered vnto p^r images, we are sure p^r we all haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a mā well: but lone chyl speth. If eny man thinke that he knoweth eny thyng, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to knowe. But p^r eny mā lo ue God, the same is knowen of him.

As concerning p^r eating of those thynges p^r are offered vnto ydols, we are sure, p^r p^r p^r image is nothing in the worlde ad p^r that is none other God, but one. And though they be that are called Goddes, whether in heauē other in erth (as ther be Goddes many, and Lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God, which is the father, of whō are all thynges, & we for him: & one Lord Iesus Christ, by whō are all thynges, and we by him. But eny p^r mā hath not knowledg. * Some haue conscience because of p^r image, vntill thys houre, rate as a thyge offered vnto p^r images: & to their conscience beinge weakē is despyd. But meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Neether yf we eate, are we the better. Neether yf we eate not, are we the worlde.

But take heede, lest by any meanes this libertie of pourses be an occasiō of falling to the p^r are weakē. For p^r some mā se p^r which hath knowledg, syt a care of meate offered vnto p^r images, shall not p^r conscience of him which is weakē, be boldened to eate those thynges, which are offered to p^r images. And to the contrary knowledg shall p^r weakē brother perswade, for whom Christ dyed. Whē ye synne to agaynst p^r hereth, & weakē they weakē conscience, ye synne agaynst Christ. Therefore: p^r meate hurt my brother. I will neuer eate fleshe lest I shulde offende my brother.

The ix. Chapter.

Wherewither them that thinke to be by the late, wherewither them to come on foot in the court: that they haue become.

As I not an Apostle: am I not Christ? * haue I not sene Iesus Christ oure Lorde: Art ye not my worke in p^r Lorde? If I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne Apostolic thyppre are pr in the Lord. Whyn answer to them that aske me, is this. Haue we not power to eate and to drynke? Haue we not power to leade about a woman a syster, as well as other Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lorde, ad Cephas: Ethe onely I and Barnabas haue not power thys to do: Who goeth a warfare eny tyme at hye & lowe cost: who placth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruite thereof? Who sedeth a flocke and eateth not of the mylke of the flocke?

Save I these thynges: after the maner of me: Sayth not p^r lawe p^r lawe also? For it is wyrtten in p^r lawe of Moses. * Thou shalt not mofell the mouth of p^r ore that treadeth oute the corne. Worth God take thought for oren: Sayth he it not altogether for oure sakes: For oure sakes no doute this is written: that he whych careth shulde care in hope: & that he whych thyllytheth in hope, shulde be partekere of hys hope. * If we sowe vnto pon spirit: shall thynges, is it a great thyng: yet we reape poure bodely thynges: If Conscience I saye, not thynge, but of the other. For why is my libertie, iudged of another mannes conscience? For yf I take my parte with thanks, why am I euill spoken of, for that thynge wherefore I geue thanks?

* Whether therefore ye eate or dryncke, or whatsover ye do, do all to the prayse of God. I see that ye geue none occasyon of euill, neither to the Jewes, nor yet to Gentyls, nether to the congregacyon of God: thus as I please all men in all thynges, not seeking myne awne profet, but the profet of many, that they might be saved.

The xij. Chapter.

¶ Brethren turne to the apostles and ministers that they shew you the sacrament of the body and blood of Christ, and byngely thynge asgaine to the first induction.

Be ye the folowes of me, as I am the folower of Christ. I commend you brethren, that ye remember me in all thynges, and kepe the ordinance, such as I deliuered them to you. But I wolde haue you to knowe, that Christ is the head of every man. And the man is the womans head. And God is Christs head. Every man prayng of prophethyng hauing euery thyng on his head, nameth his head. Every woman that prayeth or prophethyng bare headed, dishonoureth hys head. For that is euery all one, as yf she were a church. If the woman be not couered, let her also be shozen. * If it be shame for a woman to be shozen or shauen, let her couer her head.

A man ought not to couer his head, for as much as he is the ymage and glory of God. But the woman is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman: but the woman of the man. Asker was the man created for the womans sake: but the woman for the mannes sake. For this cause ought the woman to haue power on her head, for the angels sake: secret belesse, nether is y man with out the woman, nether the woman without the man in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the man, such so is the man: by the woman: but all of God.

Iudge in your selues, whether it be comely that a woman praye unto God bare headed. Noth not nature it selfe teach you, that it is a shame for a man, yf he haue longer beere: and a prayse to a woman: yf she haue longer beere. For hys beere is giuen her to couer her withall. If any man luste to stryue, we haue no such custome, nether the congregacions

of God.

This I warne you of, and commendeth not, that ye come not together after a better maner, but after a worse. For syth of all when ye come together in the congregacion, I hate that there is byscencion amonge you: and I portely beleue it. For * they must be settes amonge you, that they which are perfect amonge you, myght be knownen. And they come to gether therfore into one place, the Lordes bodye not be eaten. For euery man begynneth afore to eate his awne supper. And one is hongry, and another is dradde. haue ye not houses to eate and to drinke in? Despyse ye the congregacion of God, and shame the that haue not? What shall I saye unto you: that I praye you? In this praye I you not. I

¶ What which I deliuered unto you, I receaued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Jesus the same nyght, in which he was betrayed, toke bread: and when he had gremethanked, he brake it and sayde: * Take ye, and cate: this is my body, which is broken for you. This do ye in the remembrance of me. After the same maner also he toke the cup, whiche supper was done, sayng: This cuppe is the new testament in my blood. This do as oft as ye dryncke it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye shall cate this bread, and dryncke this cup: ye shall shewe the Lordes deeth: yll he come. Wherefore, whosoever, shall eate of this bread, or dryncke of the cup of the Lorde vnworthely, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lorde. * But let a man examen him selfe, and to let him eate of the bread, and drinke of the cup. For he that eateth or dryncketh vnworthely, eateth and dryncketh his awne damnyacion, because he maketh no difference of the Lordes body. For this cause many are weak and sicken amonge you, and many slepe. For If we had iudged our selues, we shuld not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lorde, we are chastened, that we shuld not be damned with the * worlde. Wherefore my brethren when ye come together to cate, tary one for another. If any man hunger, let him cate at home, that ye come not together unto conuersion. I. Other thynges will I set in order, when I come.

men as ye were led. Wherefore I declare unto you, that * no man speaking by the spirit of God, despiseth Jesus. Also no man can save that Jesus is the Lord, but by the holy ghost. * There are diversities of gifts, yet but one spirit. And there are differences of administration, and yet but one Lord. And there are divers manners of operations, and yet but one God. * whereby worketh all in all. * The gift of the spirit is given to every man, to chuse withall, for to one is given the word of the spirit the utterance of wisdom. To another is given the utterance of knowledge by the same spirit. To another is given faith, by the same spirit. To another the gifts of healing by the same spirit. To another power to do miracles. To another prophesie. To another judgement to discern spirits. To another divers tongues. To another the interpretation of tongues: But these all worketh even the selfe same spirit, dividing to every man a severall gift, even as he will. *

* For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of one body though they be many, yet are but one body, such is the Church. For by one spirit are we all baptised to make one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentiles, whether we be bound or free, and have * all of one of one spirit. For the body is not one member, but many. If the foot saye: I am not the hande, I am not of the body: is he therefore not of the body? And yet the foot saye, I am not the eye. I am not of the body: is he therefore not of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then the eare? If all were hearing: where were the smellings? But nowe hath God set the members every one severally in the body as it hath pleased him. If they were all one member: where were the body? Nowe are there many members, yet but one body. And the eye can not saye unto the hande: I have no need of thee. Againe, the foot can not saye to the face: I have no need of you. Pre rather agree to deale those members of the body which seeme to be more feeble, are necessary. And upon those members of the body which we thinke least honest, put we more honeste on. And our ungodly members have more beautie on. For our honest members neede it not.

But God hath so disposed the body, & hath given the more honour to that parte which lacked, lest there should be any schisme in the body: but that the members should indifferently care one for another. And if one member suffer, all suffer with him. If one member be bad in honour, all members be glad also.

For as the body of the Church, and members one of another. And God hath also ordeined in the congregation, first * Apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, then them that do miracles: after that, the giftes of healing, helpers, governors, diversities of tongues.

Are all Apostles? Are all Prophets? Are all teachers? Are all doers of miracles? Have all the giftes of healing? Do all speake with tongues? Do all interpret? Out of after the best giftes. And yet the we I unto you a more excellent waye.

The xij. Chapter.

Of manners and conditions of love.

Though I speake with the tongues of men and of angels, and have no love, I am even as sounding brass, or as a tinkling cymball. And though I could prophesy, and understand all secrets, and all knowledge: yet if I have not love, so that I can move mountains out of their places, and yet have no love, I am nothing. And though I bestowe all my goods to feede the poore, and though I give my body even that I burned, and yet have no love, it profiteth me nothing.

Love suffereth longe, and is courteous. Love envyeth not. Love beeth not forwardly, swelleth not, beareth not dishonestly. Seeketh not her owne, is not provoked to anger, thyngeth not evil, rejoyceth not in iniquity: but rejoyceth in the truth, suffereth all thynges, beleeueth all thynges, hopeth all thynges, endureth all thynges. Though that prophesyngs faile, other tongues cease, or knowledges vanishe awaye, yet love faileth never awaye.

For our knowledge is imperfect, and our prophesyinge is imperfect. But when which is perfect, is come, then that which is imperfect, shall be done awaye. When I was a childe, I spake as a childe, I understood as a childe, I imagined as a childe. But as soon as I was a man, I put awaye childishnes. Nowe we see in a glasse, even in a darcke speaking: but then shall we see face to face. Nowe I knowe imperfectly: but then shall I knowe even as I am knowen. Nowe I abject faith, hope, and love, eke these things: but these three of these is love.

The xliij. Chapter.

Of the manner of the gift of prophecy, interpreting in psalms, extolling the gifts of tongues and how they should be used.

longe, & profited him selfe: * he that propheseth, edifyeth the congregation: * I wolde that ye all spake with tongues: but rather that ye prophesed. For greater is he that propheseth, then he that speaketh with tongues, except he expounde it: that the congregation maye haue edifying. Now brethren, if I come vnto you I shall speake with tongues: what shall I profit you, except I speake to you, other by reuelacion, or by knowledge, or by prophecyng, or by doctrine?

Moreover, when thinges without lyfe haue sounde: whether it be a pipe, or an harpe, except they make a difference in sound, how shall it be knowne in what it is piped, or harped? For if the trumpet geue no other wayne voyce, who shall put the soulders to the warre? When so the trumpet shall speake with tongues, excepte ye speake wordes that haue signification, how shall it be vnderstanded what is spoken? For ye shall but speake in the ayre.

Many kyndes of voyces are in the world, and none of them are without signification. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shall be vnto him that speaketh, an alien: and he that speaketh, shall be an alien vnto me. Euen so ye (for as moche as ye couet spiritual gyftes) seeke, that ye maye excell, vnto the edifyinge of the congregation.

Wherefore, let him that speaketh with tongue, praye, that he maye interpret also. For if I praye with tongue, my spere prayeth, but my understandinge hath no good. What is it then? I will praye with the spere, and will praye with the understandinge. I will syng with the spere, and will syng with the understandinge. If or els, when thou blestest with the spere, how shall he that occupieth the rowme of the vnclearned, saye Amen, at thy geuyng of thankes, synging he vnderstandeth not. What thou sayest: Thou verely geuesthakes well, but the other is not edified. I thinke my God by I speake with tongues more then ye all. For had I leuer in the congregation, to speake foure wordes with my vnderstandinge, to informacion of other rather then ten thousand wordes with the tongue.

Wherefore, be not ye chyliden in wyte. Howbeit, as concernyng maliciounesse, be chyliden: but in wyte be perfect. In the lawe it is written: with sonnettes, and with sondrye lippes will I speake vnto this people, and yet for all that, will they not heare me, sayeth the Lorde. Wherefore, tongues are for a signe, not to them that beleue: but to them that beleue not. Contrary wyse, prophesyinge serueth not for them that beleue not: but for them which beleue.

If therefore, when all the congregation is come together, and all speake with tongues, ther come in they that are vnclearned, or they which beleue not: will they not saye, that ye are out of youre wittes? But and of all prophesye, and ther come in one that beleueth not, or one vnclearned, he is rebuked of all men, & is iudged of euery man, & so are the secretes of his heart opened, and so fall he downe on his face, and worshippeyth God, & sayth, that God is in you of a trinite.

Now is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, euery one of you hath a tongue, hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretacion. Let all thinges be done vnto edifyinge: If eny man speake with tongue, let it be by two or by the most by three, and that by course, and let another interpret it. But if there be no interpreter, let him kepe silence in the congregation, and let him speake to him selfe and to God.

Let the prophetes speake two, or three, & let the other iudge. If eny reuelacion be made to another that sytteth by, let the first holde his peace. For ye maye al prophesy one by one, that all maye learne, and that all maye haue comforte. And the secretes of the prophetes are in the power of the prophetes. For God is not causer of strep: but of peace, as (1^o Cor. 14. 33.) in all congregacions of the sayntes.

Let poure wemen kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto the to speake: but to be vnder obediens, as sayth the lawe. If they will learne eny thinge, let them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for wemen, to speake in the congregation. Whynge the wordes of God seden: Either came it vnto you onely? If eny man thynke him selfe to be a prophet, ether spiritual: let him knowe, what thinges I wyte vnto you. For they are the commaundementes of the Lorde. But and if eny man be ignorant, let him be ignorant. Wherefore brethren, couet to prophesye, and forsyde not to speake with tongues. Let all thinges be done honestly and in order. (1^o Cor. 14. 40.)

The xv. Chapter.

Of the resurrection of the dead.

Brethren, as pertaynyng to the gospel which I preached vnto you, which ye haue also accepted, and in the which ye continue, by the which also ye are saved: I do you to wit, after what manner I preached vnto you, ye kepe it, except ye haue beleued in vayne.

For fyke of all I deliuered vnto you, which I receiued: how that * Christ dyed for our synnes, agreeyng to the scriptures: * And that he was buried, and that he arose agayne the thirde daye accordyng to the scriptures: that he was sene * of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of moore then foure hundred brethren at ones: of which many many remayne vnto this daye, & many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to Iames, then to all the Apostles.

And last of all he was sene of me, as of one that was borne oute of due tyme. For I am the least of the apostles, which am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the congregacyon of God. But by the grace of God, I am what I am. And his grace which is in me, was not in vayne: For I labored more abundantly then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, & so haue ye beleued.

If Christ be preached how that he rose from the dead: how sape some amonge you, that there is no resurrection of the dead: If there be no rypunge agayne of the dead then is Christ not risen agayne. If Christ be not risen agayne, this is oure preaching in vayne, and your faith is also in vayne. Ye and we are founde false wytnesses of God. For we haue testified of God, how that he rased vp Christ: whom he rased not vp, yf it be so that the dead rype not agayne. For yf the dead rype not agayne, then is Christ not risen agayne. If it be so that Christ rose not agayne, then is youre faith in vayne, and ye are yett poure synners. Therefore they which are fallen a slepe in Christ, are perished. In this lyfe onely we beleue on Christ, then are we of all men most miserable.

But now is Christ risen from the dead, & become: as the fyrst frutes of them that slepe. For by a man came death, and by a man came the resurrection of the dead. For as by Adam all dyed: euen so by Christ, shall all be made alyue, but euerie man in his owne order. The fyrst is Christ, then they that are Christes at his comynge. Then cometh the ende, when he hath deliuered vnto the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath put downe all rule and all anctoyte & power. For he must raygne: yf he haue put all his enemies vnder his fete. The last enemy that shall be destroyed, is death: for he hath put all thynges vnder his fete. But wher he hath all thynges as put vnder him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which dyd put all thynges vnder him. Wher all thynges are subdued vnto him, then shall yf somme also him selfe be subiect vnto him, yf he put all thynges vnder him, that God maye be all in all.

How do they, which are baptised ouer the dead yf the dead rype not at all: Why are they then baptised ouer them? Yet and why shold we all waite then in inceder? By oure resorpyng which I haue in Christ Iesu oure Loyde, I dye daily. That I haue souged with beastes at Cephesus after the manner of men, what auanageth it me, yf the dead rype not agayne: Let vs eate and drynke, for to morowe we shall dye. Be not ye deceaued: euell wordes corrupte good maners. Awake truly out of slepe, and synne not. For some haue not yf knowledg of God: I speake this to your shame.

But some man will saye: howe as yet the dead: what bodye shall they come? Thou fool, & yf which thou sayest, is not quickened, except it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that body that shall be: but bare come as of wheat, or of some other: but God geueth it a body at his pleasure, to euerie seed his owne body.

All flesh is not one maner of flesh: but there is one maner of flesh of men, another maner of flesh of beastes, another of fowles, & another of fyshes. There are also celestiall bodies, & there are bodys terrestriall: But the glory of the celestiall is one, & the glory of the terrestriall is another. There is one maner of glory of the soune, and there is one maner of glory of the moone, & another glory of the steres. For one starre differeth from another in glory: So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corrupcion, it rypeth agayne in incorruption. It is sown in dishonour, it rypeth agayne in honour. It is sown in weaknes, it rypeth agayne in power. It is sown a naturall body, it rypeth agayne a spirituall body. There is a naturall body, & there is a spirituall body: as it is also written: The fyrst Adam was made a quychning soule, and the last Adam was made a quychning spete. Howbeit, yf is not fyf which is spirituall: but that which is naturall, and then yf which is spirituall. The fyrst man is of the earth, earthy: the seconde man is of the Lord fro heauen. As is the earthy, soche are they that are earthy. And as is the heuenly, soche are they that are heuenly. And as we haue borne yf ymage of the earth, so shall we beare the ymage of the heuenly.

This saue I be the first: yf flesh & blood cannot inheret the kyngdome of God. Neither doth corrupcion inheret incorruption. Beholde, I therue you a mystery: We shall not all slepe: but we shall all be changed, and that in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the dead shall rype incorruptible, & we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption: and this mortall must put on immortallite.

When this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortall hath put on immortallite: then shall be brought to passe the saying that is written: Weeth is swallowed vp in victory: & death where is the spynge of hell where is the victory? The spynge of death is synne: and the strenght of synne is the law. But thankes be vnto God which hath geuen vs a victory, thow we oure Lord Iesus Christ

¶ Deputeth them in remembrance of the gatheringe for the poore children at Jerusalem, & concludeth by a promise that the saluatiō of cer taine lodgings be giveth.

¶ Concerning the * gatheringe for the faintes, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so do ye. vpon some & a both haue let euery one of you put a sydent home, and laue by whatsoeuer is mete, that there be no gatheringes when I come. When I am come, whomsoever ye shall allowe by poure letters, them will I sende, to bryng your librenlyte vnto Ierusalem. And yf it be mete that I go also, they shall go wme. I will come vnto you when I go ouer to Macedonia. For I will go thowoe out * Macedonia. With you parauenture I will abyde a while: or els tary all wynter, that ye maye bryng me on ny weape, whither soeuer I go.

¶ I will not se you now in my passage: but I trust to abyde a while with you, yf God shall suffice me. I will tary at Ephesus, vntill the fyfth daye. For agreate doie and a fruitfull is opened vnto me * and there are many aduersaries. For * Timotheus come, so that he be with our feare with you. For he worketh the worke of the Lorde, as I do: let no man therfore despyse him. but commaue hym forth in peace, that he maye come vnto me. For I loke for him with the brethren.

¶ Colerick of brother * Apollo (a comfite 204. 1241) I greatly depriued him, to come vnto you with the brethren, but his mynde was not at all to come at this tyme. howbeit, he will come, when he shall haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stande fast in the fayth, quyte you lyke men, be frage. Let all your busynesse be done with loue.

¶ Brethren, ye knowe the house of * Stephania * (a of Fortunatus Aquatus) how that they are the fyfth frutes of Achaia, and that they haue appointed them selves to minister vnto the faintes: I beseeche you that ye be obediēt vnto soche, and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glad of the commynge of Stephania & Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that whych was lackinge vnto me on poure parte they haue supplied. For they haue comforted my spete & poures. Loke therfore y^e knowe them that are soche.

¶ The congregacions of Asia salute you Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lorde, and so doeth the congregacion that is in their house. (with whom also I am lodged.) All the brethren grette you * Grette ye one ano-

¶ Paul an apostle of Iesu Christ by the will of God, and by the * Timotheus.

¶ Vnto the congregacion of God, which is at Corinthum, with all the faintes whych are in all Achaia * Grace be wth you & peace from God our father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ.

* Blessed be God: the father of our Lord Iesus Christ) which is the father of mercie, & the God of all comforte, whych comforteth vs in all oure tribulacion, in so moche that we are habile to comforte them whych are in any manner of trouble, with the same comforte, wherewith we oure selves are comforted of God. For as the * afflicciōs of Christ are plenteous in vs, euen so is oure consolacion plenteous by Christ.

Whether we be troubled for your consolacion and health, * (a) whether we be comforted, it is for your comforte & saluatiō) which saluatiōe we work by power in that we possesse the same afflicciōs, which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted for your consolacion and saluatiō: our hope also is steadfast for you: in as moche as we know, how that as ye are partakers of the afflicciōs, so shall ye be partakers also of the consolacion.

Brethren. I wold not haue you ignorant of oure trouble, which happened vnto vs * Achaia. for we were greued out of measure passing strenght, so greatly that we despayred euen of life. Also we receaued an answer of death in oure selves, that we shuld not put oure trust in oure selves: but I God whych raiseth the dead to life, and whych deliuered vs from so great a death: and dorch despayr

Che.ij. Chapter.

¶ We sheweth the cause of hys absence & how faythfull he is to fauer you in that he has called, & to receaue hym agayne with loue.

But I determined this in my selfe, that I wold not come agayne to you in heynenes. For yf I make you lope, whos it I shuld make me glad, but the same which is made lope by me? And I wote this same vnto you, lest yf I came vnto you, I shuld take heynenes * 1.12 (upon you) of them, of whom I ought to reioyce. To this confidence haue I towarde you all, that my lopes is the lope of you all.
For out of great affliction and anguyshe of hert. I wote vnto you with many teares: not that ye shuld be made lope, but that ye myght perceaue the loue, whych I haue, most specially vnto you.

If eny man hath caused sorow, the same hath not made me lope, but partly: lest I shulde geue you all. * This is sufficient vnto
* 1.12 the same man, that he was rebuked of many. So that now contrary wyse, ye ought rather to forgiue him, and comforte him: lest that same persone shuld be swallowed vnto oure moche heynenes. Wherefore, I exorte you, that lone maye haue strenght ouer him.
For this cause verely byd I wote, that I myght knowe the pte of you, whether ye shuld be obedient in all thynges. To whom ye forgiue eny thyng, I forgiue also. For yf I forgiue eny thyng, to whom I forgaue it, for poure sakes I forgaue it, in the lyght of Christ, lest Satan shuld preuent vs. For his thoughtes are not vnknewen vnto vs. 1.12

* 1.12 When I was come to Troada for Christ first Gospelles sake, and a doxe wold opene vnto me of the Lord I had no rest in my ther: but toke my leaue of them, and went awaye into Macedonia. * Thanks be vnto God, which all wayes geureth vs the victorie in Christ, and openeth the fauer of his knowledge by vs in every place. * For we are vnto to God the sweete sauour of Christ, amonge them that are saued, and amonge them which

who is mete vnto these thynges: for we are not as the most part are, which choppe and chaunge with the worde of God: but eue out

¶ We marke the preachinge of the Gospel & howe the preachinge of the Gospel.

We begyn to prayse oure sel-ues agayne, & eue we as to me other, of Epistles of recommendacion vnto you or letters of recommenda-cion from you: Ye are oure equale wyseken in oure her-tes, which is vnderstande and red of all men, for almost as ye declare that ye are the epistle of Christ, imprinted by vs and wyrtten, not with ynke: but with the sperte of the lypunge God * not in tables of stone, but in
* fleshy tables of the hert.

* 1.12 Since then haue we thorow Christ to God wold, not that we are sufficient of oure selues: but yf we be able vnto any thyng: *
for same cometh of God, which hath made vs able to * mynister the newe testament, not of the letter, but of the sperte. For the letter killeth, but the sperte geureth lyfe.

I fche

If the ministracion of death shew the letters figured in stones, was glorious, so þe chylde of Israel coulde not beholde the face of Moyses, for the glory of his countenance; whych glory is done away: why shall not the ministracion of the sperte be moche more glorious: for yf the ministringe of condemnacion be glorious: moche more both the ministracion of egypte welkes errede in glory. ¶ For soþe that which was there glorified, is not once glorified in respect of this erring glory. For yf that which is destroyed was glorious, moche more that which remaineth, is glorious.

Saying then that we haue foche trust, we be great boldnes, & do not as Moyses, which Entereth in þe face, that the chylde of Israel shuld not se for what purpose that serueth which is put away. ¶ But their myndes were blinded. For vntill this day remaineth the same coueringe vntaken awaye in the lecter of the olde testament, whych daye shalbe put awaye in Christ. But euen vnto this daye when Moyses is redde: the daye haughe before their heretice. ¶ Entereth he: when they couer the face of the Lord, the daye shalbe taken awaye. ¶ The Lord no dout is a sperte. And where þe sperte of the Lord is, there is libertie. But we all beholde in a myrroure the glorye of þe Lord with his face open, and are chaiged vnto þe same similitude, from glory to glory, euen as of the sperte of the Lord.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

A true preacher shuld be content with the wordes of God, but seeketh the honour of Christ, yet thought he wold be wate. He is his life.

Herfore, saying that we haue foche an office, euen as God hath had mercy on vs. We go not out of synne: but haue cast from vs the clothes of vnhonestye, and walke not in craftynesse, neither handle we the wordes of God deceitfully, but open the trueth, & repute oure seluen to euery mannes conscience in þe sygne of God. ¶ For oure Gospel be yet hyd, it is hyd amonge them that are lost, in whom: the God of this world hath blinded the myndes of the which beles not, lest the lyght of the gospell of the glory of Christ which is þe ymage of God shulde shyne vnto them.

¶ For we preache not oure selues, but Christ Iesus to be the Lord, and oure selues pouer seruantes, for Iesus sake. For it is God, that commaunded the lyght to shyne out of darkness, which hath shyned in oure hearts, so to geue the lyght of the knowlege of the glory of God, in the face of Iesus Christ.

But we haue this treasure in ertren vessels, that the excellency of þe power myght be of God, and not oures. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without myght. We are in pouerte: but not utterly without somewhat. We suffer persecution: but are not forsaken therin. We are cast downe: neuerthelesse we perishe not. We all wayes beare aboute in the bodye, the bynging of the Lord Iesus, that the life of Iesu myght also appere in oure bodye.

¶ For we which lyue, are alwayes deliuered vnto death for Iesus sake, that the life also of Iesu myght appere in oure mortall fleshe. So then, death worketh in vs, but lyfe in you. ¶ But sayng that we haue the same sperte of sayth: accordyng as it is wyrtten: I beleeued, and therefore haue I spoken. ¶ We also beleeue, and therefore speake. ¶ We also knowe, that he which raptured up the Lord Iesus, shall carie vs also by the means of Iesus, & shall sitte vs with you. For all thynges do for pouer sakes: that the plenteous grace by thaimselfe geuen of many, maye rebounde to the prayse of God.

Herfore, we are not worried, but though oure bodye be in perill, yet thereinward man is renewed day by daye. ¶ For our tribulacion which is momentary and lyght, prepareth an exceeding & eternall weight of glorye vnto vs, while we loke not on the thynges which are sene, but on the thynges which are not sene. ¶ For the thynges which are sene, are temporal: but thynges which are not sene, are eternal. ¶

¶ The v. Chapter.

The rebelle is full of many troubles.

We knowe that of oure ertreny micion of this dwel-lyng were destroyed, we haue a byldinge of God, an habytacion not made with handes, but eternal in heauen. ¶ For: therefore syghe we, desiring to be clothed with oure nation which is from heauen: so yet, yf that we be founde clothed, & not naked. ¶ For we that are in this tabernacle, are geyned becauise we wold not be vnclothed, but wold be clothed vpon, that mortallite myght be swallowed up of lyfe. ¶ He þe hath opened vs for this thyng, is God: which very mane hath genen vnto vs the crosse of the sperte.

¶ Therfore, we are alwayes of good cheare, and knowe, that as longe as we are at home in the bodye, we are absent fro God. ¶ For we walke in synne, not after outward appareance. ¶ Neuerthelesse, we are of good comfort, and had leue to be absent from the bodye, and to be present with God. ¶ Therefore, wher we be at home or from home, we endeuour oure selues, to please him. ¶ For we must all appere before the iudgement seate of Christ, that euery man maye receiue the workes of his bodye accordyng to that he hath yon sorze, though it were but for a season. But I now reioyce, not that ye were sorz, but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly: so þ in norþynge ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentance vnto saluacion, not to be repented of, contrary wyse. * woelþelþ sorowe causeth deeth.

Cant. lxx.

C For beholde, what diligence this godly sorowe that ye toke, hath wrought in you: þee it caused you to cleare your selues. It caused indignacion, it caused fere, it caused desire. it caused punishment. For in all thynges ye haue shewed your selues, that ye were cleare in that matter. Wherefore, though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for his cause that had done the hurt, neither for his cause that was hurte: but þ your good mynde for 's myght apperue amonge you in the syght of God.

Therefore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: þee, and exceedingly the more I reioyce we, for the reioyce that C^h had: because his sperte was refreshed of you all. I am therefore not now ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges which we spake vnto you are true, even so, our boasting that I made vnto C^h is founde true. And his inward affection is founde abundant towards you, whā he remembreth the obedience of you all, howe to feare & tremblinge ye receaued hym. I reioyce þ I maye be bolde ouer you in all thynges.

C^h the viij. Chapter.

C^h putteth them in remembrance to keepe the poore captiues at Jerusalem, acceptinge as the sh^o accordinge to dy.

I Certifie you brethren, of the grace of God which was given in þe congregacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundance of theyr reioysynge is, that they are tryed with moche tribulacion. And though they were exceedinge poore, yet haue they geuen exceedinge echely, and that in singlenesse. For to theyr powres, I beare them recorde, þee, & beyōde theyr powre, they were willinge of theyr owne accord, and prayed vs with great instance, þ we wolde receaue their benefyte, and suffer they to be partetakers with other * in many thynges to the sayntes. And thus they dyd, not as we looked for: but gaue thei a wile selues ffre to the Lord, and after vnto vs by the wyll of God: so that we coude not but beþye C^h, to accomplishe the same benignolence amonge you also, euens as he had begonne.

25 Nowe therefore, as ye are riche in all parties, in sayth, in wyse, in knowedge, in all feruēnes, and in loue, which ye haue to vs: even so, let that ye be plenteous in thus benevolence also. This saie I, not commaundyng: but because of feruentnes. I do allowe the vnspayednesse of your loue towarde other men. For ye knowe the liberalitye of oure Lord Iesus C^h, that though he was * reche, yet for your sakes he became poore that ye, thoroowe his powerte, myght be made reche.

Thankes be vnto God, which put the same good mynde for you in the herte of C^h, which accepted the requeste: þee, rather he was to well willinge, that of his owne accord, he came vnto you.

Wherefore, shewe ye vnto them the paffe of your loue, and of oure boastinge of you in the syght of the congregacions.

If the ministrynge to synners, it is but superfluous for me to wryte vnto you: for I knowe the redyness of your mynde, wherof I boaste my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, that I thin was prepared a yere ago: and your custumple hath prouoked many. Neuerthelesse, yet haue I sent these brethren, lest our boasting which I make of you shoulde be in vaine, in this behalf, that ye (as I haue sayde) maye prepare your selues: lest peradventure yf they of Macedonia come with me, and finde you vnprepared, we (I wold not saye ye) shoulde be ashamed in this matter of boasting.

23 Wherefore, I thought it necessarye to exhort the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, and to prepare your good blessing promysed afoze, that it myght be ready, so yf it be a blessing, and not a defrauding.

* This yet I saye: he which foweth lytell, shall reape lytell: as he foweth (in geuyng) largelye, and selpe, shall reape plentifully: And let euery man do, accordyng as he hath purposed in his herte, not groundgyngly, oz of necessitye. * For God toucheth a chearfull geure.

Cod is able to make you riche in all grates that ye in all thynges haue pynge sufficient vnto the vtmost, maye be riche vnto all manner of good worthe, as it is wryten: * he hath sparcked abondaunce, and hath geuen to the poore, his right wellichsse remaineth for euer. he that multiplyeth seed vnto fower, multiplyeth also fode: and multiplye youre fode, and increase the frutes of youre right wellichsse. * that on all partes, ye maye be made ryche into all synghenes, which causeth thoz who vs, that thanks are geuen vnto God.

For the offyce of this ministryng, not onely supplyeth the neede of the synners: but also is aboundaunt therein, that for this laudable ministryng, thanks might be geuen to God of many, which praye God for the obedience of your consentynge to the Gospell of Christ, and for your synghenes in distributing to them, and to all men, and in theyr prayers for you, which longe after you, for the aboundaunt grates of God in you. * Thanks be vnto God, for his vnperurable gyfte.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ He toucheth the false apostles, and defendeth his auctorite and callinge.

I Paul my selfe beseeche you by the mercenelle & soferenelle of Christ, which whan I am present amonge you, am of no reputacion: but am bolde towarde you beinge absent. I beseeche you, yf ye be not to be bolde whan I am presente, with that same boldnesse, wherewith I am supposed to haue bene bolde, agaynst some, which repente vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in flesh, yet we do not warre fleshly. * For yf we wengens of our warfare, are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghty in God, to cast downe stronge holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe conncels and euery hye thyng that exalteth it selfe agaynst the knowledg of God, and bringe into captiuite all ymaginacion to the obedience of Christ, & are ready to take vengeance on all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Loke ye on thynges after the better apperawment.

If any man trust in hym selfe, that he is a Christian, lett hym consider this agayne of hym selfe, that as he is Christian, euen so, are we Christians. For though I boaste my selfe somwhat more of oure auctorite (which the Lorde hath geuen vs) to edifye, and not to destroie you: it shall not be to my shame: lett I shulde seme as though I wrote aboute to make you asyde with letters. For yf epistles sayth he are soze, and stronge: but his bodily presence is weak, and his speache rude. * Lett hym that is soche thyne on this wyle: that as we are in wordes by letters, when we are absent, soche are we in dedes, when we are present.

For we canot fynde in our hertes to make oure selues of the number of them, oz to copare oure selues to them, which praye the selues. Neuerthelesse, whyle they measure them selues with them selues, and compare the selues with them selues, they vnderstande nought. But we will not reioyce aboute measure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, which God hath distributed vnto vs, a measure to reache euen vnto you. For we stretch not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For euen to you also haue we come with the gospell of Christ, and we boaste not our selues out of measure of other mennes labours: yee, and we hope it wyl come to passe, yf when your faith is increased amonge you, we shalbe magnified accordyng to oure measure, more largelye, and that I shall preache the Gospell in those regions which are beyonde you: a not to boaste of those thynges, which by another mans measure are prepared alledady. But let hym that reioyseth, reioyce in the Lorde. For he yf prayeth hym selfe, is not allowed but he whom the Lorde prayeth.

¶ The .xi. Chapter.

¶ Paul vnder sufferance defendeth him selfe, and defendeth his auctorite agaynst the false prophetes.

Wid to God, ye could haue suffered me a lytell in my tolynges: yee, ye do also forbeare me. For I am gealous ouer you to godly gelouyng. For I haue coupled you to one man, that ye shulde make your selues a chaste virgin vnto Christ, receained, eþre another Gospel then that ye haue receaued, ye might right well haue bene confit. For I suppose that I was not behynde the these Apostles. But though I be rude in speakinge, yet I am not so in knowledge. Howbeit amonge you, we haue bene well knowe to þ utmost what we are in all things. Wpd I therein synne, because I sub-gions of Achaia. Wherefore? Because I loue you not: God knoweth. Rememberles, what I do, that wyl I do, to out a wyse occasyon from the which desyre occasyon: þ they might be founde lyke vnto vs, in that wherein they reioyce. For soch fals apostles are disceatfull wothers, and falsly on them felues lyke vnto the apostles of Christ. And no maruayle: for Satan him selfe is chaunged into the falsp of an angell of light. Therefore it is no gret thyng though þys mynisters falspon them selues, as though they were the ministers of ryghte welthe: whose ende shalbe accordyng to theyr dedes.

I sape agayne, lest eny man thynke that I am folyshe: or cleue now we take ye me as a foole, that I also maye boast my selfe a ly-tell. What I speake, I speake not after the Lorde: but as it were folyshe, in thys matter of boasting. Sepyng that many reioyce after the fleshe, I wyl reioyce also. For ye suffer folcs gladly, sepyng ye youre selues are wyle. For ye suffer yf a mā byng you in to bondage, yf a man deuoure, yf a mā take yf a mā exalte him selfe, yf a man synne you on the face. I speake as chceriung rebuke, as though we had bene weakes, * (in thys behalfe.)

Howbeit, whereinsover eny man dare be so. * They are Ebynes, euen so am I. They are Israelites, eue so am I. They are þ ser-uants of Abraham, euen so am I. They are þ mynisters of Christ (I speake as a foole) I am more. In labours more aboundate: In trypes aboute measure: In pesson more plescon-lype: In deeth ofte. * Of the Jewes sperte: *

dernes: in parcels in the see: in parcels amonge falle byethien: in labour & travail: in watchynges often: in hōger and thurst: in fastp-nges often: in colde and makeadyne: besyde the things which outwarly happen vnto me.
I am combed daylye, and do care for all cō-gregacions. * Who is weak, and I am

The Epistle

I yue: yet nowe not I, but Christ lyueth in me. & he lyfe which I nowe lyue in p felleth. I yue by p fapth of p fomme of God: which loned me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despye not the grace of God. foz yf yf egypte- wylmes come of the lawe, then Christ is deed in vayne.

Chapter.

If the rebulth the unbelofment of the Galacyans shynge the unperfecness of the lawe, and beareth neuertheles that it was not geuen for naught.

Pe folyfyke Galatians: who hath bewitched you, that ye shulde not beleue the trecty: To whom Iesus Christ was described before p eyes and amonge you crucified. This only wold I learne of you whether ye receaved the spyrte by p dedes of the lawe or by p preaching of the fapth: For ye loche foolen, that after ye haue begonne in the spyrte, ye nowe ende in the fleshe: So many thynges ye haue suffred in vayne, p it be also in vayne. Where- ouer, he that imppreth to you the spyrte, ad woerth mynaces amonge you, doeth breit thozowe the dreses of the lawe, or by pre- achynge of the fapth: * Euen as Abrahā bele- ued God, & it was ascribed to hym foz egypte- wellesse. Ye knowe therfore, p they which are of fapth, p same are p chyldre of Abrahā.

25 foz the scripture seinge thozowe hande, that God wold iustifye p hythen thozowe fapth, thewed before hande glad typpnges vnto Abrahā sayng: In the shall all nacys be blessed. So then, they which be of fapth, are blessed with fapthfull Abrahā. foz as many as are of the dedes of the lawe, are subiecte to the curse. foz it is writen: * cur- sed be euerie one that contyneth not in all thynges which are writen in the boke of the lawe to fulfyll them. What no man is iustifyed by the lawe in the syght of God, it is euydent. * foz the iuste shall lyue by fapth. The lawe is not of fapth: but the man that fulfyller the thynges (contayned in the lawe) shall lyue in them. Chaild hath deliuered vs from the curse of the lawe, in as moche as he was made accursed for vs: foz it is writen: * cur- sed is euerie one, that hangeth on tree, that the blessing of Abrahā myght come on the Gentyls thozowe Iesus Christ, that we myght receaue the promes of the spyrte thozowe fapth.

¶ Wherebyen, I speake after p maner of mē. Though it be but a mans reckoning. Yet p it be allowed, no mā despyeth it: or addeth eny thyng thereto. ¶ To Abrahā and bys seede were the promys made. he sayth not in the seedes, as many: but in the seede, as of one, which is Christ. & bys I saye, that the lawe which beganne afterwarde, beyonge p foure hundred and thyppe yeares, doeth not disannulle the testamēt, that was confirme- med afoze of God vnto Christ ward, to ma- ke the promes of one effecte. foz yf the in- heritaunce come of the lawe, it cometh not nowe of promesse. But God gaue it vnto Abrahā by promes.

¶ Wherefore then serueth the lawe? * It was added becaue of transgression (till the seed came, to whom the promes was made) and it was ordeyned by angels in the hand of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one. * Is the lawe then agaynst the promes of God? God fozbyd. foz yf there had bene a lawe geuen which coulde haue geuen lyfe: then no doute egypte- wellesse shulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promes by p fapth of Iesus Christ shulde be geuen vnto them that beleue. ¶ But before that fapth came, we were kepte vnder the lawe, and were shut by vnto the fapth which shulde afterwarde be declared.

¶ Wherefore, the lawe was oure scolemas- ter vnto Christ, that we shulde be iustified by fapth. But after that fapth is come, we are no longer vnder the scolemaster. foz we are all chyldren of God, becaue ye beleue in Christ Iesu. foz all ye that are baptised haue put on Christ. There is no Jewe, ne- ther Gentyl: there is neither bonde, ne fre: there is neither man, ne woman. foz ye are all * one in Christ Iesu. If ye be of Christes, then are ye Abrahāms seede, and hepyes ne- codyng to the promes. * Roma. 8. 1. Roma. 10. 1. Roma. 11. 1. Roma. 12. 1. Roma. 13. 1. Roma. 14. 1. Roma. 15. 1. Roma. 16. 1. nature are no Goddes. But nowe after thae ye haue knowen God (perather are knowe of God) how is it that ye tourne agayn vnto the worke and * beggarly ordinaunces, wherunto agayne ye desyre afleshe to be in bondage: Ye observe dayes, and monethes, and tymes, and pears. I am in fere of you, lest I haue bestowed on you labour in vayne.

Wether, I besek you, be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurt me at all. Ye knowe howe thorowly I suffer for I felleste, I preached I Gospel vnto you at the first.
And my tceptacyō which was in I felleste, ye despyed not, neither abhored: but receaued me as an angell of God: eue as Christ Iel^s.
What is then your felicitye: for I braye you recozd. yf it had bene possible ye wolde haue plucked out your a wne eyes, and haue ge-ue the to me. And I therefore becomee your enemye, because I tell you the truth.

¶ They are gelous ouer you amysse. Yee, they intende to exclude you, that ye shuld be feruent to them ward. It is good all wayes to be feruent in a good thinge, and not onely whan I am present with you.

¶ Whylt chylidren, of whom I traunple in byrth agayne, vntill Christ be falspoynd in you, I wolde I ware with you now, and coude chaunge my voyce: for I stande in a doubte of you. Tell me: ye that desyre to be vnder the lawe, do ye not heare of the lawe?
¶ For it is wrytten, that I abraha had two sonnes: * the one by a bonde mayde, * other by a fre womā. Per, and he which was boz-ne of the bonde woman, was bozne after the fleshe: but he which was of the fre mā, was bozne by promesse. Which thynges are spoken by an allegorpe. For there are two tes-tamentes the one from the mount Syna, which gendereth vnto bondage, which is Agar. For mounte Syna is Agar in Arabia, and boznerth vpon the epte, which is now called Ierusalem, and is in bondage with her chylidren.

¶ But * Ierusalem, which is aboue, is fre: which is the mother of vsal. For it is wrytten. * Reioyce thou barren, that bearest no chylidren: beuake forth and crye, thou I tra-unplest not. For the desolat hath many moo-chylidren, then she which haue an husbāde.
Wether, we are after Isaac, the chylidren of promyse. But as then he that was bozne after the fleshe, persecuted hym that was bozne after the sperte, euen to is it now. Reuerthelesse, what sayth the scripture: * put awaye the bonde womā and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman shall not be heyye with the sonne of the fre woman. So then wher, we are not chylidren of the bonde woman: but of the fre. ¶

¶ Chap. v. Chapter.

¶ He labourerth to drabe them aboue the circumcysion, thertoth them the batapil betwixt the sperte and the fleshe, and the frutes of theyn both.

¶ Ande fast therfore in the liberty wherwith Christ hath made vs fre, and waype not your felices agayne in * the pōke of bondage.

¶ Beholde, I Idaul saue vnto you, that * yf ye be circumcised, Christ shall proffeyre you nothyng at all. I testyfy agayne to euery man which is circumcised, that he is bonde to kepe the whole lawe. Christ is become but in vayne vnto you. As many of you as are iustified by the lawe are fallen fro grace. We loke for, and hope in the sperte to be iustified thozowen fapth. ¶ For in Iesu Christ, nether is circumcysion any thinge worth, nether yet vncircumcysion but faich * which worketh by loue. Ye byd rine well: who was a let vnto you, that ye shulde not believe the truth: ¶ consent vnto no man. ¶ Euen the counsell which came out of hym that calleth you. ¶ I tell Ieuen dorly Ieue I whole loupe of dowe.

¶ I haue trust towards you in I Iorde, that ye shal be none other wyse minded. But he that troubleth you, shall beare his iudgment whatsoeuer he be. Wether, yf I yet preach circumcysion, why do I then pet iustice persecutyon: ¶ Then is the slaynder of the crosse ceased. I wolde to God, they were separated from you, which trouble you. I Ie-then, ye were called into liberty: only * let not your liberty be an occasion vnto the fleshe: but by loue * (of the sperte) serue one another. ¶ For all the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, which is this: * thou shalt loue thyn neyghboure as thy selfe. If ye loue and denoure one another: take heed, lest ye be splittwe consumed one of another. ¶

¶ I Iaye, walke in the sperte, and fullply not the lust of the fleshe. For the fleshe lusteth contrary to the sperte, and * the sperte contrary to the fleshe. ¶ These are contrarye one to the other, so that ye cannot do whatsoeuer ye wolde. But and yf ye be led of the sperte, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The bedes of the fleshe are manifeste, which are these: aduocery, fornicacy, vncleannes, wa-tours, woithpypping of pmapes, witchcraft, hated, variatance, zele, wrache, strife, sed-cious, fecies, enuyng, murder, dronkennes, glottonye, and soche lyke: of the which I tell you before as I haue told you in tyme past, that * they which consume such thinges shall not be inheretours of the kyngdome of God. Contrarely, the frutes of the sperte is, loue, ioye, pence, loue sufferinge, gentlenes, goodnes, faythfulness, mekenes, temperace. ¶ Agaynst suche there is no lawe. They trulye that are Christes, haue crucified the fleshe with the affections and lustes.

¶ If we lue in the sperte, let vs walke in the fpyete. Let vs not be desirous of vayne glorie, prouokinge one another, enuying one another.

¶ The vij. Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to beare with another. In the ende he warneth them to beware of circumcision.

Brethren, if a man also be taken in my faulte, ye which are spirituall, helpe to amende hym in the fpyete of meeknes: cōsyderinge thy selfe, lest thou also be tempted. * Beare ye one an others burthen, and so fullfill the lawe of Christ. For yf any mā seme to him selfe that he is somewhat, when in dede he is nothinge, the same deceaueth his awne mynd. Let euery mā proue his awne worke, and then shall he haue reioycinge onelye in hys awne strife, & not in another. For * euery man shall beare his awne burthen.

* Let hym that is taught in the worde, minister vnto him that teacheth him in all good thynges. He not deceaued, God is not mocked. For * what soeuer a man soweth, that shall he also reape. For he that soweth in his fleshe, shall of the fleshe reape corrupcion. But he that soweth in the fpyete, shall of the fpyete reape life euertlastinge. * Let vs not be wery of well doinge. For when the tyme is come, we shall reape without werynesse. While we haue therefore tyme, lett vs do good vnto all men, and specially vnto them which are of the household of fayth. ¶

¶ I se howe large a letter I haue wrytten vnto you with myne awne hande. It is many as desire with vnto ward appraunce to please carnally, the same contrayne you to be circumsised, onely lest they shulde suffer persecucion for the crosse of Christ. For they themselves which are circumsised, kepe not the lawe, but despaye to haue you circumsised, & they myghte triumphe in poure fleshe.

D God forsyde that I shulde reioyce, but in the crosse of our Lord Iesu Christ, whereby the worlde is crucified vnto me, & I vnto the worlde. For * in Christ Iesu neither circumcision auayleth any thyng at all: nor vncircumcision: but a new creature. And as many as walke accordyng to this rule, peace be on the and mercy, & vpon the remembrance of God. From hence forth, let no mā put me to bursnes. * For I beare in my body the markes of the Lord Iesu. Brethren, the grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be with youre fpyete: Amen.

C For this cause I bowe my knees unto y^r father of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, which is farther ouer all that is called farther in heuē and in erth, that he wolde graunt you accordyng to the riches of his glorie, that ye maye be strenghted with might by his spirite in the inner man, that Christ maye dwell in your hertes by faith, that ye beyinge roted and grounden in loue, myght be able to complende with all sayntes, what is y^r brether and length, depth and height: & to knowe the excellent lone of the knowledge of Christ that ye myght be fulfilled with all fulnes, which cometh of God.

¶ The iiii. Chapter.

C He exhorteth them vnto meeknes, to lare aspe of the olde conuersaciō of grace: and to walke in a newe lyfe.

Therfore (which am a prisoner of the Lordes) exhortē you, * that ye walke worthy of the vocaciōn wherwith ye are called, with all lowlpnes and mekenesse, with humblynes of mynde, forbeyryng one another thowhe lone, and be diligent to kepe the vnitie of the spirite thowhe the bonde of peace, beyinge one body, and one spirite, cut aspe are called in one hope of your callinge. One Lorde, one faith, one baptisme one God and father of all, which is aboue all and thowhe all, and in pon all. **¶

¶ Unto cury one of vs is geuen grace, accordyng to the measure of the gyfte of Christ. Wherefore he sayth: * whan he went vp an hys, he ledde captiue captiue, and gaue gyftes vnto men. ¶ That he ascended: what meaneth it: but that he also descended: y^ess into the lowest partes of the erth: * he that descended, is euen the same also that ascended by, aboue all heauens, to fulfill all thynges.

¶ And the very same made * some Apostles, some Propheetes, some Euangelistes, some Shēperdes and Teachers: to the edifyinge of the fāntes, to the worke and ministraciōn, euen to the edifyinge of the body of Christ, till we all come to the vnitie of faith, and knowledge of the sonne of God, vnto a perfect man, vnto the measure of the full perfecte age of Christ. ¶ That we hence forth shoulde be nomozē chylde, * wacryng & carped aboute with euerywynde of doctrine, by the wplynes of men, thowhe craftynes, wherby they lare a wayte for vs to deceaue vs. But let vs folowe the trueti in lone, and in all thynges growe in hym, * which is the hebd, euen Christ, in whom y^e all the body be coupled and knet together thowhe out eueryfōnt wherwith * one mislieth to another (accordyng to the operaciōn as euery parte hath hys measure) be increaseth the body, vnto the edifyinge of it selfe thowhe lone.

¶ This I saye therefore, and testifie thowhe the Lorde, that ye hence forth walke not, * as other Gentyls walke, in vāntie of theyr minde. whyle they are blinded in theyr vnderstandyng, beyinge farr from a godly lyfe, by the means of the ignorācy that is in them, and because of the blindness of their hertes: which beyinge past repentance, haue geuen them selues ouer vnto wantonnes, to woike all maner of vnielnes, eue with credulnes. But ye haue not so learned Christ. If to be that ye haue hearde of him, and haue bene taught in him, as the trueti is in Iesu: (as concernyng the conuersaciōn in tyme past) to lare from you that olde man, which is corrupte, accordyng to the dre amiable lusts. ¶ To be renued also in the spire of your mynde, and to put on that newe man, which after Gods shapē in ryghte welenes and true holynes.

Wherefore, * put awaye spynge, & speake euery mā truth vnto his neyghboure, for as moche as we are members one of another. ¶ Be angere, and synne not: let not the sunne go downe vpon your wroth, neither geue place vnto the backbyter. * Let hym y^e stole, steale nomozē: but let him rather labour wth his handes y^e thyng which is good, that he maye be eue vnto him that needeth. **¶

Let no felyth communicaciōn pzoede out of your mouth: but y^e which is good to edifye wth all, as off as neede is y^e it maye minister grace vnto the hearers. And geue not y^e the holy spire of God * by whom ye are sealed vnto the daye of redēpciōn. Let all bitterness & fencelnes, wth the roynge & curys (penalpnge, be put awaye fro you, with all malicioussnes. Be ye courteouse one to another, mercifull, forgryuinge one another, euen as God for Christes sake hath forgynen you.

¶ The v. Chapter.

be geuen vnto me: for I maye open my mouth freely, to utter the fecrertes of my Gofpell: (where of I am melleger in bondes) that therein
I maye fprake freely, as I thought to fprake:

¶ But that ye maye alfo knowe what con-dicion I am in, and what I do, Tichicus the deare brother and faythfull mynifter in

* Roma. i. b.
Colic. i. a.

¶ I thanke my God with all remembrance of you: all waies in all my prayes for you, and praye with gladnes: becaufe ye are come into the fellowfhippe of the Gofpell from the fpyte dape vnto now: and am fuerly certeyned of this, that he which hath begonne a good worke in you, fhall perfourme it vntill the dape of Iefus Chryft, as it becommeth me, to iudge you all, becaufe I haue you in my here: for almoche as ye all are companions of grace with me, euen in my bondes, and in the defendyng and ftandardynge of the Gofpell.

* 2 pte. i. b.

¶ For God is my recorde, howe greatly I louge after you all, from the very herte rote in Iefus Chryft. ¶ And thus I praye, that poure loue maye increafe yet moze and moze in knowledge, and in all vnderftandynge, that ye maye accept the thynges that are moft excellent, that ye maye be pure, and fo-che, as offend no man vntyll the dape of Chryft: beynge fpyled with the frute of ryghte wifnes, which cometh by Iefus Chryft vnto the glozy and prayfe of God.

¶ I wolde ye fhulde vnderftonde (brethren) that the thynges which happened vnto me, chaunced vnto the greates furtheraunce of the Gofpell: So that my bandes in Chryft, are manifefted thowwe out all the iudgement hall and in all other places: In fo moche that many of the brethren in the Lorde beyng enco-raged thowwe my bandes, dare moze boldly fpeake the worde without feare. Some pre-che the Chryft of enue and ftepe, and fome of good will, the one parte preache Chryft to ftepe and not fyncerely, fuppoſyng to adde moze aduerfitye to my bandes. I gayne the other parte preache of loue, becaufe they knowe that I am fet to defende the Gofpell.

¶ What then? So that Chryft be preached in euery maner of waie, whether it be by ocafion, or of true meaninge, I am glad thereof, ye and will be glad. For I knowe, that this fhall chaunce to my faluacyon, * thowwe poure praye and minifteryng of the fpyete of Iefu Chryft accordyng to my expectacyon, and hope, that in nothinge I fhall be afhamed: but that wyth all boldnes, (as all waies euen fo nowe alfo) Chryft fhall be magnified in my body, whether it be thowwe lyfe, or thowwe deeth. For Chryft is to me lyfe, and deeth is to me a vantage.

¶ If it chaunce me to lyue in the fleſhe, that thyng is to me frutefull for the worke, and what I fhall chauce I wote not. For I am coftrayned of thefe two thynges. * I defyre to be loofed, & to be w Chryft which is moche & far better. Reuerſely: to abyde in the fleſhe is moze needfull for you, And thus am I fure of,
that I fhall abyde, and continue with you all, for your furtheraunce and toye of your fayth, that your reioyſyng maye be moze aboundant thowwe Iefus Chryft in me, by my commyng to you agayne.

¶ Onely let your comendacyon be, * as it becommeth the Gofpell of Chryft: that whether I come & fe you, or els be abſent, I maye yet heare of your comendacyon, that ye continue in one fpyete, and in one foule, labouryng as we do, to mayntayne the fayth of the Gofpell, and in nothinge fearpyng your ad-uerſaries, which is to them a caufe of perdicyon, but to you of faluacyon, & that of God: for vnto you it is geuen for Chryft, that not only ye fhulde beleue on hym: but alfo that ye fhulde fuffre for his ſake, haupge euen foche a fpyght, as ye ſawe in me, and nowe

If ther be therfore any consolacyon in Christ, yf ther be any comfort of loue, yf ther be any fellowship of the spete, yf ther be any compassion and mercy: full fill ye my toye, that ye be lyke mynded, hauinge one loue, beynge of one accorde, and of one mynde, that nothinge be done thowowe strepe or of vayne glory, but in mekenes of mynde, let euery man esteeme another better then hym selfe. * Loke not ye euery man on his owne thynges, but euery mā on the thynges that are other mens.

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

* Let the same mynde be in you, that was also in Christ Jesus: which whan he was in the shape of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God: but he made hym selfe of no reputation, takinge on hym the shape of a seruaunt, and became lyke vnto men, and was founde in his apparell as a man. he humbled hym selfe, and became obedient vnto the deeth, euen the deeth of the crosse. Wherefore, God also hath exalted hym on hye, and given him a name which is above all names: that in * the name of Jesus * euery knee shulde bowe, both of thynges in heauen and thynges in erth and thynges vnder the erth, and that all tonges shulde confesse, that Jesus Christ is the * Lorde, vnto the prayse of God the father: *

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

Wherefore (my dearly beloued) as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not wthen I was present onely, but nowe moche more in myne absence, euen so worke out poure a more saluacion with feare and trembling. * For it is God, which wo:kech in you, both the wyl and also the dede, euen of good wyl.

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

I trust in the Lorde Jesus, for to * sende Timothyus shortly vnto you, & that I also maye be of good comforte, when I knowe what case ye stande in. For I haue no man that is so lyke mynded to me, which wyl so pure affection wyl care for poure matters.

For all other thes they: aune, and not the thynges which are Jesus Christes. ye knowe the profite of hym, howe that as a sonle with the father, to hath he with me bestowed his seruice in the Gospell. hym therfore I hope to sende, as soon as I knowe howe it wylt go with me. I trust in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shall come shortly.

¶ But I supposed it needeary to sende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in labour and fellowe souldier, your Apostle, which also ministrereth vnto me at neede. For he longed after you all, and was full of beynnes, because that ye had hearde saie, that he had bene sycke. And no doute he was sicke, in somoch that he was nye vnto deeth. But God had mercy on him: and not on him onely, but on me also, lest I shulde haue sorrowe vpon sorrowe. I sent hym therfore the more diligently: that when ye se hym, ye maye reioyce agayne, and that I maye be the lesse sorrowfull. Because him therfore in the lesse de with all gladnes, & make moche of soche: because that for the worke of Christ he wet so farr, that he was nye vnto deeth, and regarded not his lyfe: so fullyl that, which was lackinge on your parte toward me.

The iiij. Chapter.

¶ Be warrenth them to beware of false teachers, whom he called dogges and enemies of Christ, and reioycefull manner aune reioycefull.

MY BRETHREN, reioyce ye in the Lorde. I greatlye me not to wyte one thyng often to you. For to you it is a sure thyng. Ye were of dogges, beware of euill workers. Ye were of dissension. * For we are circumcison, which serue God * in the spete, and reioyce in Christ Jesus, and haue no confidence in the fleshe: though I myght also reioyce in the fleshe. If any other mā thynketh that he hath wherof he myght trust in the fleshe: I haue more: beynge circumcised the eyght daye, of the kynred of Israel, of the trybe of Benjamin * an Hebrew borne of the Hebrewes: as concerninge the lawe, a Pharisee: as concerninge ceremonies, I persecuted the congregacion, as touchynge the ryghte wyse which is in the lawe, I was vnderdubable.

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

1 Cor. x. 11. 11. 11.

* But the thynges that were vantage vnto me, those I counted losse for Christes sake. ye I thynke all thynges but losse for the excellenye of the knowledgyng of Christ Jesus my Lorde. For whome I haue counted all thynges losse, and do wylde the but byle, that I maye wyne Christ, and be founde in him not hauynge myne aune ryghte wyse of the lawe: but that which is thowow the fayth of Christ: euen the ryghte wyse which cometh of God thowowe fayth: that I maye knowe hym and the vertue of his resurrection, and the fellowshyppe of his passion, whyle I am conformable vnto hym (deeth) yf by any means I myght attayne vnto the resurrection of the dead.

The Epistle

C Now that I have attayned vnto it all ready, of that I am all ready perfecte: but I followe, yf that I maye comperende that, wherein I am comperended of Chyft Iesu. Wherthen, I counte not my selfe that I have gotten it as yet, but this one thinge I saye: I for get those thinges which are behinde, & ende-noure my selfe vnto those thinges which are before, and, accordinge to the marke apoynted: I pceace to the rewardes of the hys callinge of God thowowe Chyft Iesu. Let vs therfore as many as be perfect, be thus wyse mynded, and yf ye be other wyse mynded, God shall open the same also vnto you. Hereafter this vnto that which we haue attayned vnto, let vs proceede by one rule, that we maye be of one accord.

B * * * * * Wherthen, be folowers together of me, and looke on them which walke euen so, as ye haue vs for an example. For many walke of whom I haue tolde you often and nowe tell you wepyng: that they are y enemies of y crosse of Chyft, * whose ende is bñ-nacion, whose God is theyr belly and glo-ry to theyr shame, which are wooldely myn-
 ed. But our conuersion is in heauen, fro whence we loke for the sauoure, euen y Loz-de Iesus Chyft, which shall * chaunge oure vile bodie, that be maye make it lyke vnto hys glorious body, accordyng to the workyng, wherby he is able also to subdue all thinges vnto him selfe. * Rom. vii. 5

The. iiii. Chapter.

C He salueth certayne of them, exhorteth them to be of honeste conuersion, and thanketh them be-cause of the yrouffon, that they made for him beyng in prison.

Therfore my brethren (dearly beloued and longed for) my toye and crowne, so continue in the Lozde ye beloued. I praye Euodias, and beseeche Sintiches, y they be of one accord in the Lozde. See and I beseeche the faithfull pockefelowe, helpe y women which laboured with me in the Gos-pell, and with Clement also, and with othere my labour felowes * whose names are in y booke of lyfe. * * * * * Reioyce in y Lozde alwaye and agayne I saye reioyce. Let poure forre-25 nes be knowne vnto all men: The Lozde is euen at hande. Be careful for nothyng: but in all praye and in multiplicacyon let poure peti-cyons be manifeste vnto God with geuyng of thakcs. And the peace of God (which pas-seth all vnderstandyng) kepe poure hertes and myndes thowowe Chyft Iesu. * Col. i. 12

Furthermore, brethren, whatsoeuer thin-ges are tene, whatsoeuer thinges are done-lye, whatsoeuer thinges are iust, whatsoeuer thinges are pure, whatsoeuer thinges are comelye, whatsoeuer thinges are of honeste repute: yf ther be any vertue, yf ther be any pryncple, * * * (of ioynt) those same haile ye in poure mynde, which ye haue welthe learned & receaued, hearde also and felle in me those thinges do, and the God of peace dwelle with you. Reioyce in the Lozde greatly, yf nome at the last poure care is reuyned agayne for me. in that wherin ye were also careful, but ye lacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessity. For I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am, * therewith to be content. I knowe howe to be lowe and I knowe howe to ex-cede. Every where and in all thinges I am instructed, both to be full and to be hongrye, both to haue plenty and to suffice neede. I can do all thinges thowowe Chyft which streng-theneth me. Not withstandinge ye shall well done, yf ye bare parte w me in my tribulaci-30 Pe of Philippus knowe also that in the begynnyng of the Gospell, when I depared from Achaonia, no congregacyon bare parte with me, no concernyng geuyng & receauyng, but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent ouer and after ward agayne vnto my necessity: not y desire gyf-tes: but I desyre a kombant frute on poure parte. Heretofore I receaued all, and haue plenty. I was euen fylled after that I recea-ued of Epaphroditus y thinges, which were sent from you, an odoure of a swete smell * lacefpe accepted and pleasant to God.

you and peace from God our father, & from the Lorde Iesu Christ.

* We geue thanks to God the father of oure Lorde Iesu Christ * alwaies for you in oure prayres. For we haue heard of your fayth in Iesu Christ, and of the loue which ye beare to all sapientes, for y^e hopes sake which is layd vp in heaue for you in heaue, of which hope, ye herbe before by the true woide of the Gospill, which is come vnto you: euen as it, is frutefull * (and groweth) as it is also amonge you, from the dayen in the which ye heard of it, and had experyence in the grace of God thowoe the truerh, as ye learned of * Epaphras oure deare fellowe seruante, which is for you a faythfull minister of Christ, which also declared vnto vs poure loue which ye haue in the scripture.

* For this cause we also, since y^e hope ye herbe of it, haue not ceas'd to praye for you, and to desyre, that ye myght be fulfilled with the knowlege of hys wpyll, in all wpsdome and spetuall vnderstandynge, y^e ye myght walke worthy of the Lorde that in all thynges ye maye please * beynge frutefull in all good woorkes, and encreasynge in the knowlege of God, strenghted with all myght, thowoe by his glorious power, vnto all patience and longe sufferynge with ioyfulness. For geuynge thanks vnto the father, which hath made vs mete to be partakers of the inheritaunce of sapientes in ysght,

Which hath deliuered vs from the power of delucians, and hath translated vs into the kyngdome of hys dere loue * by whom we haue redempcion thowoe his bloude euen by forgyuenes of sinnes * which is y^e mymage of y^e vniuersible God, fyrst begotten of all creaturcs. * For by him were all thynges created, that are in heauen, and that are in erth: vnsyble and vnspetible, whether they be maieste or lozeshyppe, ether rule or power. All thynges were created by hym and for hym, & he is before all thynges, and by him all thynges haue the y^e beynge.

And * he is the hebd of the body, euen of the congregacyon: he is the begynnyng and * fyrst begotten of the dech, that in all thynges he myght haue the preeminence. For it pleased the father, that in him shoulde all fulnes dwell, and by him to reconcile all thynges vnto him selfe, and to set at pence by hym thowoe y^e bloude of hys crosse, both thynges in heauen and thynges in erth.

And you * which were somtyme fatte of and enemyes, because poure myndes were set in euyl woorkes hath he nowe yet reconciled in y^e body of hys fleshe thowoe dech, to make you holy, and vnblyndable, & with out fault in hys aune syght, y^e ye continue grounden and stablyshed in the fayth, and be not moued awaye from the hope of the Gospell, wherof ye haue herde, howe that it is preached amonge all creatures which are vnder heauen, wherof I Paul am made a mynister.

Nowe hope I * in my sufferynge & for you and fulfill that which is beynge of the passyons of Christ in my selfe, for hys bodies sake, which is the congregacyon: wherof I am made a mynister, accordinge to the ordynance of God, which ordynance was geuen me vnto you warde to fulfill the woide of God, that * misery which hath bene hyd since the woide beynge, and since the begynnyng of generacyons: * but nowe is opened to his sapientes, to whom God wolde make knowne what the glory was reueyred of this mystrye is amonge the Gentyls, which ryches is Christ in you, the hope of glazv, whom we preach, warnynge all men, and teachynge all men in all wpsdome, to make all men perfecte in Christ Iesu. Wherby I also laboure and streyne, euen as farforth as his strength woorketh in me myghtely.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ What errare came I Paul to see for all congregacions. Wherof they them to be stouard in Christ, to beware of false teachers and wofull doctours, and descreyber the false y^epropetes.

¶ I wolde that ye knewe howe greatare that I haue for you and for them that are at Laodicia, and for as many as haue not sene my person in the flesch, that they betes myght be comforted whan they are knet together in loue, and in all eryches of full vnderstandynge, for to knowe the misery of God the father, and of Christ, in whom are hyd all the treasures of wpsdome and knowledg. * Whys I saye, lest any man shoulde begyle you with emptyng wordes. For though I be absent in the flesch, yet am I with you in the spere, toyinge and beholdinge poure ouer, and poure stedfast fayth in Christ. As ye haue therfore receaued Christ Iesu for Loue euen so walke ye in hym, so that ye be not ryd and buyte in hym, and stablyshed the row sayth, as ye haue learned, and therein be plentuous with geuynge thanks.

¶ Beware, lest any man spoule you thowoe philosophy and discartfull mystrye, after the tradycion of men, and after the ordynances of the woide, & not after Christ. For in hym dwelleth all y^e fulnes of the God hebd body, and ye are complect in him, which is the hebd of all rule and power, by whom also ye are * circumcised with circumcysion which is done with out handes, for a mynde, as ye haue put of the fensull body of y^e fleshe: thowoe the circumcysion that is in Christ, that ye are buried with hym thowoe baptisme, in whom ye are also risen agayne thowoe we sayth, that is wrought by the operacyon of God which raped him from dech.

¶ To tytlye therfore poure erthly members: fornicacion, vncleannes, vnnaturall lust, euill concupiscence, and couetousnes, which is wyfhyppynge of ydoles: for which thynges sake the wrath of God wyleth to come on the disobedient chyldren * amonge whom ye walked somtyme, when ye lyued in them.

But nowe put ye also awaye fro you all such thynges: wrath, fearnes, maliciounes, cursed speakynge, fylthy communicaciō out of your mouth. & ye not one to another, seing that ye haue put of the olde man with hys workes, and haue * put on the newe man which is renued into the knowledg & yma-ge of him that made hym, * wher is neyther Gentyle nor Jewe, circumcysion nor vncircumcysion, Barbarous or Sythian, bonde or fre: but Chyrt is all in all thynges.

¶ Therfore as electe of God, holy & be-loued, put out tender mercye, lyndnes, hu-milnes of mynde, mekenes, longe suffryng, forbearynge one another, & forgyng one another, y^e any man haue a quarrell agaynst another: as Chyrt forgave you, eue so do ye.
A bone all these thynges put on * loue which is the bonde of perfectnes. And the peace of God rule in your hertes: to the which peace ye are called in one body. And se that ye be thankfull. Let the worde of Chyrt dwell in you plentifully with all wyfdomme. Teache and exhoite your a wone felues, * in psalmes, and hymnes, and spiritual songes syngynge with grace in your hertes to y^e Lorde And * whatsoeuer ye do (in worde or dede) do all in the name of the Lord Ihu, forgyng shantes to God the father by hym. ¶

* Ye wyues, submitte your selues unto your a wone husbandes, as it is comly in the Lorde: Ye husbandes, loue your wyues as be not bytter unto them. * Ye chyldren, obey your fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasyng unto the Lorde. Ye fathers, provoke not your chyldren, (as to anger) lest they be of a desperate mynde. * Ye seruantes be obedient unto them that are your bodily masters in all thynges: not with eyservice as men please, but in synglenes of herte, fearynge God. And whatsoeuer ye do, do it hertly, as though ye dyd it to the Lord, and not unto men: knowynge, y^e the Lord ye shall receaue the reward of inheritance, for ye serue the Lorde Chyrt. But he y^e doth synne, shall receaue for hys synne. ¶ Neether is ther any respect of persons: (as with God.)

The fyrst Epistle of Sapnet Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ We thanke the God for them, that they are so red-died in faith, and good works, and receaue the Gos-pell with they earnestnes.

¶ And Apoluan & Timo-
the. vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonians, in God the father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

We geue god thankes alwayes for you all: makinge mencyn of you in our prayers without ceasinge, & call you to remembra-ce because of the woike of your faith, and labour in * loue, and because ye haue confirmed the hope of oure Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God our father. ¶ We knowe brethren, (beloued of God) how that ye are electe. For oure Gospel came not vnto you by * worde onely, but also by powre, and by the holp goode, and by much certaintie, &
* ye knowe, after what maner we be haue oure selues amonge you, for your sake. And we became folowers of vs and of the Lord, receauynge the worde with much affliction, with ioye of the holp goode: so that ye were an ensample to all that beleue in Macedonia and Achaia. For from you founded out the worde of the Lord, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but youre faith also which ye haue vnto God, tyed her selfe abroade in all quarters, so that it stretcheth not vs to speake any thyng of al. For they the selues thewe of you, what maner of entering in we had vnto you and how ye turned to God from ymagines, for to serue the liuynge and true God, and for to loke for hys sonne
* from heuen, whom he rapied from death.
¶ Ieuen Jesus, which belureth vs from the death to come.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ We putte them in mynde of the godly conseruacion that he had, and gette them which be preached the Gospel vnto them, thanke God that they receaue by the wo; be so fruchtfull, and earnestly be abeynt.

¶ We knowe of our entraice in vnto you, how that it was not in vayne: but euen after that we had suffred before, and were * shamefully entreated at Phillippos (as ye knowe) then were we bold in oure God, to speake vnto you the Gospel of God, in * much tribynge. For oure exhortacion was not to bypnyng you to erreure, nor yet to vncleines, neither was it wyth gyle: but as we were allowed of God, that the Gos-pell shoulde be commytted vnto vs: euen to we speake, not as they that * please me, but God, which trecth oure hertes.

¶ Herber led we oure conseruacion at any tyme with flatterynge wordes, as ye knowe: neither by occasyon of couetousnes. * God is recorde: neither fought we the payse of men neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we myght haue bene auctoryte, as the Apostles of Christ, but we were tender amonge you, euen as a noyse chercheth her chyldren, so were we affected to worde you: oure good will was to haue deale vnto you, not the Gospel of God onely: but also oure ayme loues, because ye were deare vnto vs.

¶ We remember

The fyrst Epistle

Actes. x. g.
I. Cor. in. b.
I. Cor. in. b.

¶ Remember brethren oure labour, and trouble. * For we laboured daye & nyght because we wolde not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Gospel of God. We are witnesses, and so is God how holyp & iustly & vnblymeably we behaue oure selues amonge you that beleued, as ye knowe. Now that we bare such affliction vnto every one of you, as a father both vnto chyldren, exhortynge, confortynge, and beseechynge you. that ye wolde walke worthy of God, whych hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorie.

For this cause thake we God also without ceasing, because y when ye receaved of vs þ word, wherwith ye learned to knowe God, ye receaved it not as the word of man: but euen as it was in dede, the word of God, whych wolden also in you that beleue. ¶ For ye brethren became folowers of the congregacion of God whych in Jewry are in Christ Iesu: for ye haue suffred lyke thynges of your kynsmen, as we oure selues haue suffred of þ Jewes. Whych as they hyled the Lorde Iesus, and theyr awne Prophets, euen so haue they persecuted vs: and God they please not, and are contrary to al men. & hynder vs, that we shuld not speake vnto the Gentyls, that they myght be saved, to fulfill their spynall wyse. For * þ wrath of God is come on them, euen to the vtmost.

For as much brethren as we are kept fro you for a season, as concerninge the bodily presence (but not in the herte) we enforced y more to se you personally with great desyre. And therefore we wold haue come vnto you, I Paul once and agayne: * but what auerthode vs: for what is oure hope of ioye or crowne of reioysing? * are not ye it in the presence of our Lord Iesus Christ at his coming, ye be oure glory and ioye.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

¶ The sheweth how greatly he was reioysed, wher Timothee tolde him of thyre faith & loue.

¶ Wherefore, sence we coulde not lenger forbear, we thought it good to reioynce at * Athens alone, and sent Timothee oure brother & mynister of God, and the helper forth of oure labour in the Gospel of Christ, to stablish the you: and to comforte you concerninge our faith * that no man shulde be moued i these afflictions, for * ye your selues knowe, that we are euen appointed there vnto.

For when we were with you, we tolde you before, that we shuld suffer tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. For this cause when I coulde no longer forbear, I sent that I myght haue knowledge of your faith, lest by some meanes þ tempter had tempted you, and lest oure labour had bene bestowed in vayne.

But now lately, when Timothee came fro you vnto vs, & declared to vs your faith & your loue, & how þ ye haue good remembrance of vs all wayes, desyringe to se vs as we also desyre to se you. Therefore brethren we receaved comforte by you, in all our aduersite & necessite, though your faith. For now are we alyue, yf ye stode steadfast in the Lorde. For what thakes can we receiue to God agayne for you, ouer al þ ioye, þ we ioye for your salues before our God: prayng nyght and daye exceedingly, þ we might se you presently, and myght fulfill the thynges which are lackynge vnto your faith. God him selfe ouerthake, and oure Lorde Jesus Christ shall gyde oure iourney vnto you: the Lord also shall increase you & make you flowe ouer in loue one toward another, and toward al men, euen as we do toward you, that he maye make your hertes stable & vnblymeable, in holynes before God oure father, at the cominge of oure Lorde Iesus Christ with al sayntes.

¶ The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to abstynence, to kepe them selues from sinne & vncleynnesse, & to loue one another: rebuketh polycritic, & speaketh of the resurrection.

¶ Althermore, we beseeche you by þ Lord Iesus, yf ye increase more & more euen as ye haue receaved of vs, how ye ought to walche and to please God. For ye knowe, what commaundementes we gaue you by oure Lorde Iesu Christ. For this is the wpll of God * euen your holynes. yf ye shuld abstayne from fornicacy, & that euerp one of you shuld knowe how to kepe his vessel in holynes and honoure, and not in the lust of concupiscence * as do the heiden which knowe not God, yf no man oppresse and defraude his brother in bargayning: because þ the Lord is the awiger of all such thynges, as we tolde you before, and testifye.

For God hath not called vs vnto vncleynnes but vnto holynes. ¶ He therefore yf despyseth, despyseth not man, but God, whych hath sent yf his holy spere amonge you. ¶ But as touchynge brotherly * loue, ye neede not. yf I wryte vnto you. * For ye are taught of God, to loue one another. Preaund that thynges verily ye do vnto all þ brethren which are in all Macedonia. We beseeche you brethren, that ye cenerence more & more, and that ye stude to be quiet, & to medle with your awne busynes, & to worke with your awne handes, as we commaunded you: that ye maye behaue your selues honestly towardes them that are without, and that nothyng be lackynge vnto you.

To the Thessalonians. No. lxxij.

D I wolde not brethren that ye shulde be ignorant concerninge them which are fallen asleepe, that ye sorrowe not as other do, which haue * no hope. For ye we beleue, & Iesus dyed, a case agayne: euen so them also which slepe by Ies^{us}, will God byngre agayne w^{ith} hym. For thus saie we vnto you in ^{the} worde of the Lorde, that we which shall * lyue, & shall remaine in the cōmyng of the Lorde, shall not come y^{et} they which slepe. For the Lorde hym selfe shall descende from heaue w^{ith} a howte & the voyce of the * Archangel & the traye of God. And the dead in Christ: shall arise fyrst: then we which shall lyue: euen we which shall remaine shall be caught up w^{ith} them also in the cloudes, to meete the Lorde in the ayre. And so shall we cōbe w^{ith} the Lorde. Wherefore, comforte your selues one another w^{ith} these wordes. I

The v. Chapter.

If he enformeth them of the daye of dome, and cōmyng of the Lorde, abouthe the to watch, and to ergare toke as preach Gods worde a: mouge them.

I Nally of the tyme & seasons: brethren, it is no uer that I wyte vnto you: for ye your selues know perfectly, & the daye of the Lord shall come, euen as a thefe in the nyght. For whē they shall saie, peace and all thynges are in fe-fe, then shall * soden destruction come vpoⁿ them: as sorowe cōmūeth vpon a woman trauayling w^{ith} chyld: & they shall not saie. But * ye brethren are not in darcknes, & that daye shulde come on you as a thefe.

* We are all the chyldren of lyght, and the chyldre of the daye. We are not of the nyght neither of darcknes.

* Therefore let vs not slepe as do other: but let vs watch, & be sober. For they that slepe, slepe in y^{et} night: & they that be dracken, are dracken in the nyght. But let vs which are of the daye, be sober * armed w^{ith} the brest plate of fayth and loue, and w^{ith} hope of saluacion for an helmet. For God hath not appoynted vs to prouoke wrath vnto oure selues, but to obtayne saluacion by the meanes of oure Lorde Iesu Christ * which dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we shulde lyue together w^{ith} hym.

Wherefore, comforte one selues together, & edifye every one another, eue as ye do. I

I We beseeche you brethren, that ye knowe them: which labour amonge you, and haue the oueright of you in the Lorde. & geue you exhortacyon, that ye haue them in hye reputacyon thowoe lowe, for theye worke faie, and be at peace w^{ith} them.

* We beseeche you (brethren) warne them & are dūely, comforte the feeble mynded, lpf by the weakie, be patient towarde all men.

* So that none recompence euill for euill vnto any man: but euē folowe that which is good, both amonge your selues, and to all men. * For ye euer * praye cōmūal ly. In all thynges geue thank: for this is the wyl of God thowoe Christ Iesu to: warde you.

I Nteche not the spete. * Despaye not p^{ro}-phelynges. Examine all thynges, kepe that which is good. * Iddayne from all euill appearance. & the very God of peace sanctifye you thowoe out. And I praye God f^{or} youe whole spete, and soule and body, maye be p^{er}serued: so that in nothing ye maye be blamed in the cōmyng of oure Lorde Iesu Christ.

* Faythfull is he which called you, which wll also do it. * Serue, praye for vs, & Greete all the brethren w^{ith} an holy kysse. * Greete you in the Lorde, that this Epistle be red vnto all the holy brethren. * Be gra-cc of the Lorde Iesu Christ be w^{ith} you. Amen.

The first Chapter.

If he thanketh God for: their faith and loue, and prayeth for the increase of the same.

I And Stephanus and Timotheus.
Vnto the congregacyon of the Thessalonians in God oure father, and in the Lord Iesu Christ.

* Grace be vnto you and peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Iesu Christ.

We are bolde to thank God all wayes for you brethren (as it is met) because that your fayth groweth exceedingly, and every one of you swymmeth in loue towardes another betwene your selues, so that we oure selues boast of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your patience & fayth in all your p^{er}secucyons & tribulacyons, that ye suffer, which is a token of the ryghteous iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdome of God, for which ye also suffer. It is verely a ryghteous thing w^{ith} God that he recompence tribulacyon to the that trouble you: and to you which are troubled, rest w^{ith} vs, when the Lorde Iesu shall shewe hym selfe from heauen with the Angels of hym power, with flaming fyre, whych shall redde vengeance vnto them þ knowe not God, * and that obeye not the Gospell of oure Lorde Iesus Christ: which shalbe punished with euilllastyng damnacpon, from the presence of the Lorde, and from the glory of his power, * wher he shall come to be glorified in his sayntes, and to be our marualion in all them that beleue:

because our testimonye that we had to you, was beleued euen the same daye. * Wherefore, also we praye all wayes for you, that our God will make you worthy of this calling, a fullfill all delectacyō of goodnes & the woche of saynt, w power: that the name of oure Lorde Iesus Christ maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym, accordyng to the grace of oure God, and of the Lorde Iesus Christ.

¶ The iiij. Chapter.

¶ The worth them, þ the daye of the Lorde shall not come, till the departinge from the earth come first, and therefore be exhorteth them not to be distreased, but to stande stedfast in the thynges that be hath taught them.

¶ Beweche you (brethren) by the comynge of oure Lorde Iesu Christ, and in that we shall assemble vnto hym, þ ye be not idolenly moued fro poure mynde, nee be troubled, neither by speere, nerthe by wordes, nor yet by letter whych shalbe seme to come from vs, as though the daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man deceaue you by any meanes, for the Lorde shall not come excepte ther come * a departinge epist and that that spynall man be opened, the sonne of perdition, whych is an abudela-re: and is exalted aboue all that is called God, or that is worshypped: so that he doth syt * in the temple of God, boasting him selfe to be God.

¶ Remembre ye not, that when I was yet wth you, I tolde you these thynges: And nowe ye know what theynges: but that he myght be detested at hys tyme. * For the mystery of iniquitie doeth all readye wocke: till he which nowe only letteth, be taken out of the waye. And then shall that wycked be detested, * whom the Lorde shall consume with the speere of his mouth, and shall destroie wth the apperance of hys commyng. Kewen hym whose comynge is after the workyng of Satan, with all lyng power * signes and wonders, and with all decaualenes of vngyftednes, amonge them that perishe: because they receaued not the loue of þ truerth, that they myght be saued. * And therefore, God shall sende them a stronge delusyon, that they shalbe beleue ly-es: that all they myght be dāned, whych be-lieued not the truerth: but had pleasure in vngyltwellnes.

But we are bounde to geue thanks alwey to God for you (brethren) beloued of þ Lorde) for because that God hath from the begyn-nyng chosen you to saluacyō, thowse lanctifyinge of the spere, and thowse beleuing of þ truerth, wher vnto be called you by oure Gospell, to obteyne the glorye of oure Lorde Iesu Christ.

¶ Therefore brethren stande fast, & kepe the ordinaunces which ye haue learned: wherther it were by oure preachinge, or by Epistle. Once Lorde Iesu Christ hym selfe, and God and oure father (which hath loued vs, and hath geuen vs euilllastyng consolacyō, and good hope thowse grace) cōfōte your herres and stablishe you in all good sayng and doynge.

¶ The iij. Chapter.

¶ Be desired them to praye for him, that þ sell, more proficere, and euery them warninge to repoure the pōle and of þer will not labour wth ther handes, that they shall not eate.

¶ Furthermore brethren praye ye for vs,
* that the woerde of God maye haue passage, and be glorified, as it is also wth you: and that we maye be deliuered from vncleanable and frowarde men. For all we haue not saynt: but the Lord is sayntfull, whych shall stablishe you, and perfectue you from euill. We haue confydence tho-rowe the Lord to you wards, þ ye both do, & we will do the thynges which we commaunde you. And the Lord gyue poure herres to the loue of God and to the pacente wayeyng for Christ. ¶

¶ We requere you brethren by þ name of oure Lorde Iesu Christ * þ ye wryth to poure selues from euery brother. ¶ Behaue him selfe inordinatly, & not after þ instructiōs which he receaued of vs. For ye poure selues know, howe ye ought to folowe vs. For we behaue not oure selues inordinatly amonge you. Acthe toke we byed of eny man for nought: but * wrought w labour & sweate nyght & daye, because we wolde not be chageable to eny of you: not but that we had au-ctoizite: but to make oure selues an ensample vnto you to folowe vs. For when we were wth you, thus we warned you of, þ ye eny wolde not wycke, the same shulde not eate.

For we haue benede sape that there are some whych walke amonge you inordinatly, workyng not at all, but byenge dysbodies. ¶ Them that are such, we commaunde and exhorthe, by oure Lorde Iesu Christ, that they wycke with quyetnes, and eate thez awne byed: * Brethren be not ye weery in well doynge. ¶ If eny man obey not oure sayng, sende vs woerde of him by a letter: and * haue no companye wth him, that he maye be ashamed. And count him not as an enemy: but warne him as a brother.

¶ And an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the commission of God our saviour, & Lord Jesus Christ, which is our hope.

¶ Unto Timothy thy nattural soune in the faith.

* Grace mercy and peace from God oure father, & fro þe Lord Jesus Christ oure Lorde.
¶ I besought thee to abyde styl at Ephresus (wher I departed into Macedonia) eue to do, that þe commande some, that they folo-we no teaching doctrine, neither geue heed * to fables & endless generalogues whych haue doubtes more then Godly edifyinge, which is by faith. for the ende of the commandement is, * loue out of a pure herte, and of a good conscience, and of faith vnsayned: fro the whych thynges, because some haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne tælinges, because they wolde be doctours of the lawe, and yet vnderstande not what they speake, neither wherof they aspyre.

* We knowe, that the lawe is good, ys a man vse it lawfully: knowynge thys, * howe that the lawe is not geue vnto a ryghteous man, but vnto the vnygheurous and disobeyent, to the vngodly and to synners, to vnholy and vnielene: to murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, to mansleas, to whoremongers: to them that despyse them selues whych mankynde: to falses:
to lyars, to perjured, and yf they be any other thyng that is contrary to the holsoone doctrine, accordynge to the Gospell of the glosse of the blessed God, whych Gospell is commytted vnto me.

¶ And I thanke Christ Jesus oure Lorde, whych hath made me stronge: for he counted me true, and put me in office wher as before I was a blasphemre, * and a persecuter, & a Traynnt. But yet I obtayned mercy, because I dyd it ignorantly þowze vnbelefe. Sent therfore, þe grace of oure Lorde wold exceedynge aboundaunt with faith and loue, whych is by Christ Jesus. ¶

* This is a true sayinge, and by all mea-nes worthy to be receaued of vs. ¶ Christ Jesus came into þe world, to saue synners, of whom I am chefe. ¶ Not wythstandinge for this cause obtayned I mercy, that Jesus Christ shulde speke vnto me all longe paciece, to declare an ensample vnto the whych shulde beleue on him vnto eternal lyfe. So then vnto God, hyng euerlastynge, immortal: * inuisible, wyse onely, be honour and praple for euer and euer. Amen.

¶ Thys commandment comyt I vnto the soune Timothy, * accordynge to the prophesy, whych tyme past were prophietyed of the, that thou in them shuldest fight a good fight, hauynge faith and good conscience: whych lone haue put awaye from them, and as concernynge faith haue made shypwacke. Of whose nombre is * hyme-neus and Alexander whom * I haue deli-uered vnto Satan, that they maye lerne not to blasphemre.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorte to praye for all men. He wylt not haue women to be euer costly appareled, no: to traill in the euengearoun, but to be in sience, & to obey their husbands.

¶ Exhorte therfore, that aboue all thynges, prayers, supplicacions, intercessions, and geuyng of thas-kes be had for all men: * for kynges, and for all that are in authority, that we maye lyue a quyet and a peaceable lyfe, with all Godlynes and honestye. For that is good and accepted in sight of God oure saviour, whych * wyl haue all men to be sane, and to come vnto the knowledge of þe trouth. For ther is * one God, and one mediator betwene God and man, euen the man Christ Jesus, whych gaue him selfe a ransome for all men, that it shulde be testifyed at þys tyme, * where vnto I am ordainyd a preacher and an Apostle. I tell the trouth Christ and I be not: beyng the teacher of the gentyles weth faith and veritye. ¶

I wyl therfore that the men * praye eneer where, yf theynge by pure hartes without wyath, or doubtinge. ¶ The wyl also the women, that they auaie them selues in compe apparell without shew of shew and discreet be-hauour, not to be dyed heare, ether golde or pearlys, or costly apparell: but as becometh

The fyrst Epistle.

Adam was fyrst fourmed, & then Eue. And also was not deceaued, but the woma was deceaued, and was subdued to the transgressyon. For wythstandynge thozowe bearynge of chyldren the thalre saued, yf they contynue in fapth and loue, and holynes, wyth discrecyon.

¶ The .iiij. Chapter.

¶ What maner of a bishoppes of prests ought to be. The proprietye also requyred in a bishoppes wyf.

This is a true sayinge: If a mā desire the office of a bishoppes, he desyret an honest wyke. A bishoppes therefore must be blameles, p̄ his bande of one wyfe, diligent, sober, discrete, a keeper of hospitalite: apte to teach: not geue to ouer much wyne, no feghter, not greedy of felyth lurre. But geile, abhorrynge fyghtynge, abhorrynge couetousnes. one p̄ ruleth well his a wne house, one p̄ hath chyldren in subieccyon with all reuerence. For yf a man canot rule his a wne house, howe shall he care for the congregacyon of God? he maye not be a yonge scolar, lest he swell and fall into the iudgement of the rupil speaker. he must also haue a good repute of them whych are without, lest he fall into rebuke, and thare of the rupil spraker.

Alike wyfe must the ministers be: honest, not double tonged, not geue unto much wyne, neither greedy of felyth lurre: but holdynges the myspryde of the fapth with a pure confessyon. And let them fyrst be proued, and then let the ministers so, that no man be able to reuoyce them.

Euen so must they wyues be honest, not rupil speakers: but sober and fapthfull in all thynges. Let the deacons be the husbendes of one wyfe, and such as rule they: chyldren well, and their a wne householdes. For they that minister well, get them felus a good degre and greates lypertye in p̄ fapth, whych is in Chast Jellu.

Thele thynges wyte I unto the trustynge to come thowlye unto the: but and yf I tarie longe, that then thou mayst yet haue knowledge, howe thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in the house of God, whych is the congregacyon of the lypunge God, the pyllar & grounde of truweth. And without doute great is that myspryde of godlynes: * God was reuoyced in the fleshe, was iustified in the spete, was lene amonge the Angells, was preached vnto the gentyls, was beliened on in the woelde, and receaued up in glozy.

¶ The .iiij. Chapter.

¶ The prophete of the latter dayes, and thoz-and thozome to be signified in reabyng of the boke of reuoyce.

The spete speaketh expedyent, that * in the latter tymes some shall depart from the fapth, and shall geue hebe vnto spetes of erroure, and deuytlye do-ctyness of them whych speake false thozowe p̄pocypse, & haue their consciences marked w an hote yd, for by dopyng to mape, & coma-dyng to abstayne sed mentes: * whych God hath created to be receaued: * with genynge thackes, of them whych beleue, & knowe the truweth. For * all the creatures of God are good, & nothyng to be refused, yf it be recea-ued with thakelengeynge. For it is sanctified by the worde of God & p̄uaper. If thou put p̄ thyrtel in remembrance of thele thynges thou shalt be a good mynister of Jhesu Chyrtel * whych hath bene vnto the by in p̄ woordes of p̄ fapth & of good doctrine, whych thou hast continually followed. But * cast awaye vngostly and olde wyues fables.

Exercyse thy selfe rather vnto godlynes.
For * bodely exercyse p̄pocypeth idyll: but godlynes is p̄pocypeth vnto all thynges, as a thinge whych hath p̄pocypeth of p̄ lyke that is no wor, & of the lyfe to come. This is a sure sayinge, & by all meanes woorthy to be ala-wed. For therfore we bothe labour & suffer rebuke, because we haue a sted fast hope in the lypunge God, whych is the sauour of all men, specially of those that beleue. Soch thynges commaunde & teache. * Let no man depyt thy yowth: * but be vnto the that beleue, an ensample, in woerde, in conuersacyon, in loue, in spete, in fapth, in purenes.

Ell I come, geue attēdāce to eacyng, & to exhortacyon, to doctrine. welspye not the gyste that is in the, whych was geuen p̄ tho-rowe prophesye, with p̄ lapinge on of hon-des by p̄ auctoryte of p̄rethode. Take thin-ges exercyse, and geue thy selfe vnto them, that it maye be sene, howe thou p̄pocypeth in all thynges. Take hebe vnto thy selfe, and vnto learyng, and continue therein. For yf thou shalt to do, thou shalt saue thy selfe, & them that heare the.

To Titus & Philemon, Ro. lxxvj.

The Epistle of

Saynt Paul vnto Philemon.

¶ He repleth to heere of the faith and loue of Philemon, whom he aduisech to forgive his seruant Onesimus, and to praye to excuse him agayne.

And I prisoner of Iesu Christ and brother Timothy.

Vnto Philemon the belourd. and oure helper, and to the beloued Appia, and to Archippus oure fellowe labourer and to the congrega-yon that is of thy house.

* Grace be vnto you and peace, from God oure father, & from the Lord Iesus Christ.

I thanke my God, makinge mencyon all wayes of the in my prayers, whē I heare of thy loue & faith, which thou hast towarde the Lord Iesu, and towarde all sayntes, so that the felicityp of thy faith is frutefull in y^e knowledge of ouer good. (whiche) which is in you towarde Iesu Christ. For we haue great ioye and consolacion in thy loue: because that by the brother, y^e sayntes heres are comforted.

Wherefore, though I myght be bold in Christ to commande the, that which was thy dewty to do: yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as thou, euen olde Paul, & now a prisoner of Iesu Christ. I beseeche the for my soune * Onesimus whom I haue begotten in my boddes, (which in tyme passed was to y^e vnprofitable but now y^e of fitable both to the & to me) whō I haue sent home agayne. Thou therefore receiue hym, that is to saye myne owne bowels, whom I wolde sayne haue retayned with me, y^e in thy steade he myght haue minystrid vnto me in the boddes of the Gospel. Forer this, without thy mynde wolde I do nothinge, that the good whiche thou doest. Quide not be as if were of necessity, but wyllyngly.

For happily he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receiue hym for euer, not now as a seruante: but as a frend, euen a brother beloued, specially to me: but howe moche more vnto the, both in y^e flesh, and also in the Lord? If thou comest eue-fore a fellowe, receiue him as my selfe. If he haue done the anye hurt, or oweth y^e ought, that I aske to my charge. (I haue bene warrā it with myne owne hande) I will recompense it. So that I do not aske to the, but that thou owest vnto me euen thyne owne selfe also. Eue so brother, let me enioye the in the Lord: Comforte my bowels in the Lord.
Truste y^e in thyne obedience, I wote vnto the, knowyng, that thou wilt also do more thē

thys present wolde, loyng for y^e blessed hope & apperance of the glory of the grente God, & of oure sauoure Iesu Christ, wherby
* gaue him selfe for vs, to redeme us from all vngyfte wylness, and to poure vs a penitence people vnto hym selfe * feruently geuen vnto good workes. These thynges speake, and exhort, & rebuke, with all feruency of commaundyng. * So that no man despise the.

The iij. Chapter.

¶ Obeyence to such as be in auctorite. For we are not Titus to beware of fowlshe and vnpoysit: but quyetly.

Remember * that they submytte them selues to rule & power: that they obey the officers: that they be ready vnto euery good worke: y^e they speake euill of no mā:
that they be no fyghters, but gentle. Shewyng all mekenes vnto all men. For we oure selues also were somtyme foolyshe dysobedient, becomed, scrupinge discrete lustre and voluntourines, lyuynge in malicyness and enuy, full of hate, hatyng one another.

* But after that the kyndnes and loue of oure sauoure God to man warde appa-reth, * not by y^e dedes of righte wylness which we wrought, but accordyng to his merce be faued vs * by the fountayne of the newe byrth, and renewyng of the holy goost, which he shedd on vs abundantly, thorow Iesus Christ oure sauour, that we iustified * by his grace, shoulde be made hepyes accordyng to y^e hope of eternall lyfe. * Thys is a true sayng.

¶ Of these thynges I wyl that thou cer-tifie, that they which beleeue in God, myght be diligent to go forwarde in good workes.
For these thynges are good and profitable vnto men, * folow the questyons, and genealogies, and hauntyng, thorow streppinge aboute y^e lawe, anye: for they are vn-profitable and superfluous. A man that is an auctor of lictes, * after the iust & the seconde admonicion auoyde: knowyng, that he (that is to saye) is peruerced & synneth euen by dampn by hym selfe.

¶ When I shall sende Artemas vnto y^e, or Tycheus, be diligent, to comite me vnto Nicomolis: For I haue determined there to winter, & ying y^e lawe & y^e pollon on their toynre diligently, that nothyng be lackyng vnto the. And let oures also learne to excell in good workes, as farforth as necesary, that they be not vnfrutefull. All y^e are with me, salute the. Grete the y^e loue y^e in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

The Epistle of Saynt Paul the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes.

¶ The first Chapter.

¶ How God dealt long ago with them of y olde tyme in sendinge them bye prophetes, but moche more mercy hath he shewed by in þe sent bye a sonne. Of the much excellent glory of Iesus Christ, which in all thynges is lyke to his father.

In time past diuersly and many wayes, spake vnto the fathers bye prophetes: but in the last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his awne sonne, whiche hath made heye of all thynges * by whos also

¶ For vnto which of the angels sayde he at any tyme: * Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the: And agayne * I will be hys father, and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne, when he bringeth in the first begotten sonne into the world, he sayeth. And * let all the angels of God worchyppe hym. And vnto the angels he sayeth. * be makerh hys angels spetes, and bys mynistras flame of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayeth: * Thy seate (O God) shalbe for ever and ever The scepter of thy kyngdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryght wisesnes, and hated iniquyte. ¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth us to be obedynt vnto the same lawe which Christ hath geuen vs and not to be offended at the infirmitie and lowe degree of Christ, because it was necessary for our sake that he shoulde take on him a humble state and by that he might be lyke vnto vs brethren.

Wherefore, we ought to geue the moze earnest hede to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, lest at any tyme we perishe. For yt þe worde whych was spokn by angels was trewfast: And euery transgressour and disobedient receaued a iust recompence of rewarde, howe shall we escape, yf we despyse so great saluacyon, which at the first began to be preached of the Loyde hym selfe, and was confirmed vnto vs ward, by them þe heard it: * God bepyng wythes herto, both with thynges wonders also & with diuers myracles, & giffes of the holy gooste, accordyng to hys awne will.

* 1. cor. x. a.

¶ For vnto the angels hath he not subdued the world to come, wherof we speake, but one in a certayne place wotnesse, sayng, * What is man, that thou art mynistrall of hym. Oe the sonne of man, that thou visitest hym: Thou madest hym a lytle lower then the angels: thou hast crowned hym with honour & glory, and hast set hym aboue the workes of thy handes. ¶ Thou hast put all thynges in subieccyon vnder hys fete. In þe put all thynges vnder him, he left nothinge that is not put vnder him. Reuerentlest, we se not yet all thynges subdued vnto him: but him that was made lesse then the angels, we se that it was Iesus, which is crowned with glory and honour for þe sufferynge of death: that he by the grace of God, shoulde tast of death for all men.

* 19. sal. xlv. a.
* 1. cor. x. a.

* 19. sal. xlv. a.

¶ For it became him, for whom are all thynges and by whom are all thynges: after that he had brought many sonnes vnto glory: that he shoulde make the Loyde of their saluacion perfecte thowore afflictions. For both he that sanctifyeth and they which are sanctified, are all of one. For whych cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren, sayng: I will declare thy name vnto my brethren, in the myddes of the congregacion. ¶ I praye the. And agayne: I will put my trust in hym. And agayne: beholde, here am I and the chyldren whom God hath geuen me.

* 19. sal. xlv. a.
* 1. cor. x. a.

¶ For as moche then as the chyldren are partakers of fleshe and bloud, he also him selfe

¶ Deselpewpse toke parte with them that (thorowe death) he myght expell hym that had lordshyppe ouer death, that is to saie the deuyll, and that he myght deliuer them, which shewen feare of death were all thre lyfe tyme subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the angels: but the seed of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherefore, in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, that he myght be mercifull, and a faithfullye hye Prieste in thynges concernynge God. For to pouerge the peoples synnes. For in that it forstuned hym selfe to be tempted, he is able to succor the also that are tempted.

¶ The liij. Chapter.

¶ If ye requerth to be obedient vnto the word of God, which is more worth then þe ceremoniall labour of Moses. The punishment of such as will not be harden their hartes.

¶ Wherfore holp brethren, partakers of the celestiall callynge cōsider the abundance and hye price of oure proficyt you Christ Iesus, howe that he is faithful vnto hym that put hym in the office, eue as was Moses in all his house. For loke howe moche honour he (that hath buyded a house) hath more then the house it selfe, so moche honour is he counted worthy of more then Moses. For euery house is buyded of some man. But he that obeyed all thynges, is God. And Moses verely was faithful in all his house, as a minystrer, to beare witness of those thynges which were to be spoken afterwarde. But Christ as a soune, hath rule ouer the house, whose house are we, yf we holde fast the cōfydence and the reioysynge of that hope, vnto the ende.

¶ Wherfore (as the holy goost sayth:) to daye yf ye will heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes, as in the prouokinge, in the daye of temptation in the wyldeynes, where your fathers tēsted me, proued me, and sawe my woikes. I. yea. Wherefore I was greued with þe generacōn, and sayde: They do all waye erre in their hertes: they verely haue not knownen my wayes, so I swaie in my wrath: they shall not enter into my rest. Take heede brethren, lest at anye tyme ther be in anye of you a frowarde hert subiect vnto vbeliefe, that he shulde departe fro the lyuynge God: but exhortye ye one another dayly, while it is called to daye: lest eny of you were harden herted thowowe the deceptiuenesse of synne.

¶ We are made partetakers of Christ, yf we kepe sure (vnto the ende) the begynnyng of the substañce, so longe as it is sayde: to daye yf ye will heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes, as in the prouokinge, for some when they hearde dyd prouoke: howe be it not all þe came out of Egypt by Moses.

¶ But with whom was he displeased. I. penes: Was he not displeased with them that had synned, whose carcases were ouertrowen in the desert? To whom shawe he that they shulde not enter into his rest, but vnto them that were not obedient? And we fele, that they could not enter in, because of vbeliefe:

¶ The iiii. Chapter.

¶ The Sabbath or rest of the chresten: punishment of vbeliefers: the nature of þe woide of God.

¶ Let vs frare therfore, lest eny of you, forsakynge þe promys of enterynge into hys rest, shulde seme at anye tyme to haue bene disappointed. For vnto vs is declared, as well as vnto them. But it prooffeth not the, that they hearde the woide: because they whych hearde it, coupled it not with faith. For we which haue beleued, do enter into his rest, as he sayde. Eue as I haue twome i my wrath: they shall not enter into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the woikes were made, and the solidacion of the woilde layde. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth daye, on this wyse. And God dyd rest the seuenth daye from all hys woikes. And in this place agayne: They shall not enter into my rest.

1 Tim. 4. a.

¶ Seynge therfore it foloweth, that some must enter therinto, and they (to whom it was fyrst preached) entered not therein for vbeliefes sake, he apoynteth a certayne daye after so longe a tyme sayynge in Dauid (as it is rehearsed) this daye yf ye will heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes. For yf Iohne had geue them rest, then woulde he not afterwarde haue spoken of another daye. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he that is entered into hys rest hath ceased also from his anye woikes, as God dyd from his.

¶ Let vs study therfore to entre into that rest, lest eny man fall after the same ensample of vbeliefe. For the woide of God is quicke, and myghty in operacion, and sharpe then eny two edged swerde: & entereth through, euen vnto the bindinge a sonder of the soule and the spere, and of the ioyntes and the marye: and is a discerner of þe thoughtes and of the intentes of the herte: neither is ther eny creature that is not manifest in the syght of him: But all thynges are naked and open vnto the eyes of him, of whom we speake.

¶ Seynge then, that we haue a great hye price which is entered into (euen Iesus the sonne of God) let vs holde the professiō. (of oure hope) for we haue not all hye price, which cannot haue cōpassiō on oure infirmities: but as was in all paynted tempted, lyke as we are: but yet with out synne. he had offered by prayers and supplications, with stronge cryyng and teares (vnto him that was able to saue him from deeth) and was heard because of his reuerence, though he were þe sonne * (of God) yet learned he obedience, by those thynges which he suffered:
he bypynge perfecte, was the cause of eter-nall saluacion vnto all the that obeyed him:
and is called of God an hye Pryde, after the order of Elchilsedech.

Wherof we wolde speake many thynges but they are harde to be vttered: for ye are dull of hearinge. For whē as concerninge the tyme, ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye neede agayne, that we teache you the fyrst principles of the worde of God: and are become such as haue neede of * milke: and not of stronge meate: for euery man that is fed with milke, is inexperienced in the worde of righteousnes. For: he is but a babe. But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte euen those, which (by reason of life) haue their wittes exercised to discern both good and euill.

The .vi. Chapter.

Confite is oure hye pryde, and feat of grace, and more excellent then þe prydes of the worlde lawe.

If God permitteth, for it can not be that they which were once spghed, and haue tasted of the heavenly gyfte, & were become partakers of the holy goost, and haue tasted of the good wynde of God, and of the power of the worlde to come: * yet they fall awaye (and as concerninge them selues censure the soune of Gods frethir, and make a moche of him) that they shal be reuenged agayne by repentaunce.

For the erth which deperetheth in prayne that cometh oft vpon it, and bringeth forth herbes mete for them that beeste it, receaue blessinge of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and bryars, is repproued, and is nye vnto cursynge: whose ende is to be burned. Wherefore (deare frendes) we trust to be better of you, and thynges which accompany saluacion, though we thus speake.
For: God is not vnrighteous: * he shalde forget your worke and labour that proce-deth of loue, which loue ye shewe in his name, which haue ministered vnto the sapientes, and yet minister. Yee, and we besyde, ye euer one of you shewe the same diligence, to the full stabylshinge of hope, euen vnto y^e ende, that ye saynt not, but be followers of them, which thow we sayth and patience receaue the inheritance of the promise.

For when God made promise to Abraham because he had none greater to sweare by he sweare by him selfe, sayinge: Surely I will blesse the, and multiplye the in dede. And so after that he had taried paciently, he enioyed the promise. For men verely sweare by hym that is greater then them selues, and * an othe to conffirme the thyng, is to them an ende of all streyfe. So God willinge recey-ued abundantly to the we vnto the heyres of promise, the stables of his counsaill, added an oth: that by two immutable thynges (in which it was impossible that God shalde lye) we myght haue a stronge consolacion, which shalde haue fled, for to holde fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we holde as an ancre of the soule both sure and stedfast, which hope also entreth in, into those thynges which are with in the vayne, where the fowre runner is for vs entered, euen Jesus, that is made an * hye pryde for euer, after the order of Elchilsedech.

to saue, & pynge of peace) without father without mother, without kynne, & hath neither begynnyng of dayes, neither yett ende of tyme: but is liued into the sonne of God and contynued a yeste for euer. Consider what a man this was, vnto whom also the patriarche Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. And verely * those chyliden of Leuy, which receiue the office of the prestes, haue a commendement to take (acordinge to the lawe) tythes of the people, that is to saue, of their brethren, yett though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose figure is not counted amonge them, receaued tythes of Abraham, ad blessed him that had the promises. And no man denpeth, but that he which is lesse, receaueth blessinge of him which is greater. And here me that ope, receiue tythes. But there he receaueth tythes, of whō it is wyntelid, that helpeth. And to saue the truer, Leuy hym selfe also which wroth to receiue tythes payed tythes in Abraham. For he was yett in the loynes of hys father whan Melchisedech met Abraham.

* If now therfore perfection came by the presthod of Melchisedech (for vnder that presthod the people receiued the lawe) what needed it furthermore, that another yeste quidde to be called after the order of Melchisedech, and not after the order of Aaron? For yf the presthod be translated, then of necessity must the lawe be translated also.

For he of whom these thynges are spokē pretyne vnto another tythe, of whom neuer man seued at the aulacre. For it is entident that our Lozde spronge * of the trybe of Iuda, of whych trybe spake Moyses nothyng concerninge presthod. And it is yett a moze euident thyng, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech there arse another yeste, which is not made after the lawe of carnall commendement: but after the power of yndelible tyme. (For after this maner doth he testifie * thou art a yeste for euer, after the order of Melchisedech) * Then y commendēt that went afore, is disannuled, because of weaknes and vnyssurableness. For * the lawe byought nothyng to perfection: but was an introductory to a better hope, by the whiche we drawe nye vnto God. And therfore is it a better hope, because the thing was not done without an othe. For those prestes were made without an othe, but this yeste with an othe, by hym that sayde vnto hym.

* The Lozde swaue, and wyl not repent. Thou art a yeste for euer after the order of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Ies⁹ a stablysher of a better testament.

And amonge them many were made prestes, because they were not suffred to endure by the reison of deeth. But this man (because he endureth euer) hath an euerlastyng presthode. Wherefore, he is able also euer to saue them to the vttemost, that come vnto God by him, seynge he euer lyueth * to make intercession for vs.

For soch an yeste it became vs to haue, which is holp, harmlesse, vndesid, separate fro synners, made byer then heauen. Which nedeth not dayly (as yester hys prestes) * to offer vp sacrifice. Ies⁹ for his awne synnes and then for the synnes of the people. For that yd he once, when he offered by hym self. * For the lawe maketh men prestes, which haue inuention: but the word of god that came sentence the lawe, maketh some yeste, which is perfecte for euermore.

The viii. Chapter.

The office of Christ is more worthy then the prestes office of the olde lawe, whiche was vnyssure, and therefore abrogate.

If the thynges which we haue spoken, this is the ppe: that we haue soch an yeste as lyeth on the ryght hande of the seate of maieste in heauen, and is a mympster of holp thynges, and of the true tabernacle. Whych God ppyghy, and not man. For euery yeste is ordeyned to offer gyfftes and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity, that this man haue some what also to offer. For he were not a yeste, yf he were on the erth where are prestes, that acordinge to the lawe offer gyfftes whych serue vnto the ensumple, and shadowe of beuentyll thynges: such as the answere of God was geuen vnto Moyses, when he was about to synnys the tabernacle. * Take heede (sayde he) that thou make all thynges acordinge to the patroune which is ordeyned to the in the mount.

But now hath he obapied a yesthode so moche the moze excellent, as he is the mediator of a better testament, which was confirmed in better promyses. For yf that first testament had bene such, yf no fauor could haue bene founde in it, then quide no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them, he sayth vnto them. * Scholde the dayes come (sayth the Lozde) and I wyl synnys upon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda, a new testament, not like the first testament that I made with theyr fathers in y daye. When I toke them by the handes, to leade the out of the land of Egypte. For they contynued not in my testament, and I regarded them not sayth the Lozde.

For this is the testament, that I wyl make w the house of Israel: After those dayes (sayth the Lozde) I wyl put my lawes in their myndes, ad in their hertes I wyl wyte the, and I wyl be theyr God, and they shal be my people. And they shal not teach euery man hys neyghbour, and euery in hys brother, saying: knowe the Lord: for they shall knowe me, from the least to the moſte of them: For I will be mercifull ouer their vnrightheuſnes, and their ſynnes & their iniquities will I ſhynke vpon nomore. In that he ſayeth a new teſtament, he hath woyne out the olde, ſo that which is woyne out & decayed olde, is ready to vaniſhe awaye.

¶ Chapter. ix.

¶ The viſible & vniuerſall of the olde teſtament and howe ſerue the newe ſpiritually.

The olde teſtament then had verities & ordinances, and ſeruices of God, and wordly holynes. ¶ For there was a foze tabernacle made, wherein was the lycht, and the table, and the ſhew bread, whych hys called holy. But within the ſeconde vayle was there a tabernacle, whych is called holieſt of all, whych had the golde ſenſer, and the arche of the teſtament ouerlape round about with golde, wherein was the golden pot with * Hanna, and * Aaron's rodde, that ſprong and * the table of the teſtament. Where the arche were the Cherubims of glory, ſhadowyng ſeate of grace. ¶ Of which thynges we cannot now ſpeake particularly.

¶ When theſe thynges were thus ordeyned, the preſtes went all wayes into the fyrſt tabernacle, whych executed ſeruiſe of ſholp thynges. But into the ſeconde went the hiepreſt alone * once euery peare: not wthout bloud: which he offered for him ſelfe, and for the ignoraunces of the people. ¶ Wherewith ſholp good thynges ſignified, that the waye of holp thynges was not yet opened, whylt as yet ſtand tabernacle was ſtandyng. ¶ Which was a ſpmilitude for the tyme then preſent, in which were offered gyftes and ſacrifices, that coude not make the miniſter perfecte, as pertayning to the conſcience, wth onely meates & drinckes, & diuers waſhinges and inſtiſtynges of the beſte, whych were ordeyned vntyll the tyme of reſormacion.

¶ But * Chriſt bypunge and tye ſelfe of good thynges to come, came by a greater & a moze perfecte tabernacle, not made wth hādes: that is to ſaye, not of tithes buildyng, neither by the bloude of goates & calues: but * by hys owne bloude he entred in once into the holy place, and founde eternal redemption. ¶

¶ For yf the * bloud of oren and of goates & ſpallnes of a yong kowe, wher it was ſprinkled, purifieth the vniuerſe, as touching the purifyinge of the beſte: how much moare ſhall the bloud of Chriſt (which thow the eternal ſpente, offered him ſelf without ſpot to God) pouerge pouere conſcience from deed workes, for to ſerue the lychtynge God?

¶ And for this cauſe is he the * mediator of the newe teſtament, that thow the beſte which chaunced, for the redemption of thoſe tranſgreſſions that were vnder the fyrſt teſtament they whych are called, myght receaue ſpawning of eternal inheritance. ¶ For where as is a teſtament, ther muſt alſo (of neceſſite) be ſacrifice of hym that maketh the teſtament. ¶ For the teſtament taketh auctoritei wher me are deed: for it is yet of no value, as longe as he ſmaketh ſacrifice: ſo teſtament is alſue, for which cauſe alſo neither fyrſt teſtament was ordeyned without bloude. ¶ For wher Moſes had declared all the commaundement to all the people according to the lawe, he toke the bloud of calves and of goates, with water & purple wolle, and pſoye, and ſprinkled both the boke, & all the people, ſaying: ¶ this is the bloud of the teſtament, whych God hath appointed vnto you. ¶ Whereafter, he ſprinkled the tabernacle wth bloud alſo, and all the miniſtringe veſſels. And almoſt all thynges are by the lawe purged with bloud, & without theſe of bloud is no remiſſion.

¶ It is neceſſary, that the ſimilitudes of heavenly thynges be purged wth ſuch thynges: but that the heavenly thynges them ſelues be purged w better ſacrifices: then are thoſe. ¶ For Chriſt is not entred into ſholp places that are made wth handes (whych are ſpmilitudes of true thynges) but is entred into very heauen, for * to appeare now in the lycht of God for vs: not to offer hym ſelfe ofte: as the tye preſt entred into ſholp place euery peare with ſtraight bloud, for he muſt he haue often offered ſence ſe woilde began. ¶ But now in the ende of the woilde, hath he appeared once, to put ſinne to flight by the offeringe by of him ſelfe. And as it is appointed vnto all men that they ſhall once dye, and then cometh the iudgement: euen ſo Chriſt was once offered, to take awaye ſinne of many, & vnto them that loke for hym ſhall he appeare agayne without ſinne vnto ſaluacion.

¶ The electiſme had no power to cleaue ſinners from, but Chriſt by him ſelfe offered of him ſelfe by once for all, an eſpouſaliſe to reſtore the good neſſe of God thankfullly with patience and due ſaſt ſaſe.

The lawe (hauynge the * bondage of good thynges to come, and not ſo very ſaluacion of thynges the ſelues) can neuer with theſe ſacrifices which they offer: peare by peare continually make the comers therunto paſſape. ¶ For wold not then thoſe ſacrifices haue ceaſed to haue bene offered, becauſe that the offerers once purged ſould haue had no moze conſcience of ſynnes? ¶ Howe theſe ſacrifices, is there mercyen made of ſynnes euery peare. ¶ For the bloude of oren and of goates can not take awaye ſynnes.

¶ And herfor

obeyed, to go out fro a place, which he shuld afterwarde recceane to inheritance: & he went out, not knowing whether he shuld go.

As fapth he remoued into y^e lāde of y^e romes, as into a strainge countre. whā he had dwelt in tabernacles: & so byd Isaac & Jacob heyyed wth hym of the same y^eromes. For he looked for a ceter habytng a founbapcon, whose byphter and halter is God.

* Thozow fapth Sara also recceaued strength to cōceane and be with chyldre, and was deliuered of a chyldre wht she was past age, because the iudged hym fapthful which had promysed.

And therfore sprake ther of one, eue of one whyche was as good as deed) * so many in multitude as ar y^e flares of y^e fyre, & as y^e sond, y^e which is y^e f^ree of thozow, innumerable.

† Ther all dyed accordyng to fapth, & whā they had not recceaued the promyses: but * saue them a farrre of, and beleued them, & salured them, and cōfessed, * that they were straungers and pilgrymes on the erthe. For they that sape such thynges, declare, y^e they seke a countre. Also yf they had bene myndfull of y^e countre, fro whence they came out, they had leasure to haue returned agayne: but now they desyre a better y^e is to lape y^e heavenly. Wherfore God him selfe is not ashamed * to be called they^r God for he hath prepared for them a ceter.

* As fapth Abraham offered v^{nto} Isaac, when he was y^eoung, and he offered him being his only begotten sonne, in who he had recceaued the promyses. And to hym it was sayde, in Isaac shal thy seed be called: for he considered, that God was able to rayse v^{nto} agayne fro death. Therfore, recceaued he y^e alfo for an ensāple of the resurreccō. * As fapth dyd Isaac blesse Jacob and Esau, concerning thynges to come.

* As fapth Jacob when he was a dyng, blessed both the sonnes of Joseph, & bowed hym selfe towarde the toppe of hys scepter.

* As fapth Joseph when he dyed, remembred the departyng of the chyldre of Israel, & gaue commaundement of hys bones. * As fapth Moyses when he was doyne was hys the monethes of his father & mother because they saue he was a proper chyldre, nether feared they the kynnges commaundement.

* As fapth Moyses when he was great, refused to be called the sonne of Sharaas daughter, & choseth rather to suste aduersitie wth the people of God, then to enioye the pleasures of synne for a cealon, and esteemed the rebuke of Christ greater riches then the treasures of Egypt. For he had respect vnto the rewarde.

* As fapth he forsoke Egypt & feared not the fearenes of y^e kung. For he endured, eue as though he had sene h^e whych is inuisible.

* Thozow fapth he ordeyned y^e passouer & and y^e effusyon of blood, lest he y^e destroyed the fyrrst borne, shulde touch them.

* As fapth they passed thozow y^e seed see as by dape lande: which when the Egyptyngs had assayed to do, they were drownded.

* As fapth y^e wallies of Jericho fell doune after they were cōpassel about fene dayes.

* As fapth y^e harlot Rahab perswaded not wth the that were disobedient, when they had recceaued the lyes to lobyng peassably.

And what shall I more saye: for y^e tyme shal be to thozow for me to tell of Sedon, of Barach, & of Shaph, & of Jerubbae, & of Mauid alin, & of Samuel, & of y^e bigdones brought righteounes: & thozow y^e p^romys: & stopped y^e monethes of lyes: & quenched y^e violēce of fyre: & escaped y^e edge of y^e swerde: & out of weaknesse, were made strong: & wth valent in fyght: turned to slayght the armys of the alienes: & the women recceaued they^r deede raysted to lyfe agayne.

And these all thozow fapth obtained good repoyte, & recceaued not y^e promys, because God had provided a better thing for vs, y^e they wth out vs shuld not be made perfecte.

¶ The xii. Chapter.

Wherfore, let vs also (synyng be accompanied wth to great multitude of witnesses) lape adape all that presseth doune, & the synne y^e hangeth to fall on, let vs runne wth pacie vnto the battayle y^e is set before vs, looking vnto Iesus y^e capytayne & finisher of our fapth, which (for the lōve y^e was set before him) abode the crosse, & despised the shame, & is set doune * on the ryghte hande of the throne of God. Consider therfore, how y^e be endured such speakyng agaynst hym of synners lest ye shuld be werred and saynt in your mynde. For he haue not yet respyed vnto bloud, stryngyng agaynst synne. And haue forgotten the exhortacion, which spenkerth vnto you as wth chyldren: mynne, depple not thou y^e chastyng of the Lord, nether fapth, when y^e art rebuked of hym: for whom y^e Lord loueth, hym he chasteneth: pcc per, he scourgeth every sone þe reccaueth.

If ye endure chastening, God offereth him selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sone is he whom the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correction (where of all are part takers) then are ye bastards, and not sons. Therfore leping we haue had fathers of our flesh which corrected vs, & we gaue them reuerence: shall we not much rather be in subiection vnto the father of spirits, & loue? And they verely for a fewe dayes, nilected vs after thepp: adone pleasure: but he nuretteth vs for our profit, to the intent that he maye mynister of his holynes vnto vs. No maner chastising for the present tyme seemeth to be topous, but greuous: neuertheles afterwarde, it brigeeth y quyet frute of righte welness, vnto the which are excepted thepp.

* Stretch forth therfore þ handes which were let downe, and the weake knees: and let that ye haue straght steppes vnto your cete, lest euery halting turne you out of the waie: yee let it rather be healed. So loto yence with all men and holynes: with out the which no man shall le þ Lorde. And lo: þ no mā be deficiēt of the grace of god, lest anye roote of bitterenes spryng vp and trouble, & therby many be derpid: þ rher be no fornicator, or violence person, as Clau

* For ye are not come vnto the mounte þ is touchyd, & vnto burning fye, nor vnto floures, & darchnes, and tempestes of wedder, and founde of a crōpe, and the voyce of wordes: which * voyce, they (that hearde it) wylfled awape, that the communicacō shuld not be spoken to the, for they coude not abyde that which was commaunded.

* If a beast touche the mountayne, it shall be stoned, or thens thowow with a dart: so terrible was þ fyghe which appeared. Whos sayde: I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Syon, and to the citie of the luyngue God, the celestiaall Ierusalem: and to an innumerable fyghe of angels, and vnto the cōgregacō of the first borne sonnes; whych are wyrtten in heauen; and to God, the iudge of all, & to the spretes of iust and perfect men, and to Iesus the mediator of the new testamēt, & to the spryncklynge of bloud that speaketh better then the bloud of Abel.

So that ye despyse not hym, þ speaketh. For ye the escaped not, whych refused him that spake on erth: much more shall we not cleape, þ we turne awaye from hym, that spenkeeth from heauen: whose voyce then spake the erth, and now hath declared sayng: yet once more will I Mahe, not þ erth onely, but also heauen. Where as he sayth: yet once more, it signifieth the remouyng awaye of those thynges which are shakyn of things which haue ended their coule: that the thynges which are not shakyn, maye remaine. Therfore, þ we reccae the kyngdome which cannot be moued, we haue grace, wherby we maye so serue God, and that we maye please hym with reuerence & godly feare. For our God is a consuming fye.

¶ Therhereth be vnto loue, to hospitallite, to thynke vpon such as be in aduersite, to magnifye: to clothe, to auoyde courtousness, to make moche of them that preach Gods word, to be warye of decaying leuynge: to be comly to suffer: to be with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God, and obediēt vnto such as be in auctorite.

¶ Et brotherly loue continue * Be not forgetfull to lodge strangers, for therby haue byuers me * lodge angels inwarde. Remember them that are in bondes, euen as though ye were bounde to the pour selues. Be myndfull of the which are in aduersite, as ye which are pet in the bodye. Wedlocke is to be had in honoure among all men, and the bed vnderfild. For whiche keepers & aduocates God shall indge them. Let your cōuersacō be with our cōnetrouines and * be cōtent with such thynges as ye haue all ready. For he hath sayd: I will not faple the, neither forlake the: so that we maye woldly faple: the Lorde is my helper, and I will not feare what mā maye do vnto vs. Remember them whych haue the ouersyght of you, whych haue spoken vnto you the worde of God. Wold faple the that ye folowe, and consider the ende of thepp: cōmunicacō.

¶ Iesus Christ yesterdays and to dayes, and the same continueth for euer. He is not caryed aboute with diuers and draunge leuynge. For it is a good thyng that y herete be stablished with grace, ad not waken, which haue not professed them that haue had thepp: passyme in them. We haue an aulter, wher of they maye not eate, which serue in the tabernacle. For the bodies of those beastes whose bloud is brought into the holy place by þ fye purif to purge spynne are burnt with out the tentes. Therfore Iesus also to sanctifie the people with hys awne bloud, suffered * without the gate. Let vs goo forth therfore vnto hym, out of the tentes, and lufte rebulke with hym. For here haue we no cōtinuynge eyte: but we leke one to come.

¶ þi therfore do we offer sacrifice of laude alwayes to God: þ is to saye, the frute of those lippes, which cōfesse his name. To do hym ii good IAMES the seruaunt of God & of the Lorde Ies? But let him aske in faith, and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke a waue of the see, which is tost of the wyndes and carped with violence. Neether let that man thinke, that he shall receaue any thyng of the Lorde.

The second Chapter.

My brethren, esteeme not the sayth of our Lorde Jesus Christ þe Lorde of gloꝝp* w^{ch} respecte of persons for if ther come into poure com: many a man wearpng a golde rnyng, clothed in goodly apparell, and ther come in also a pooze ma in vyle raimēt, & ye haue a respecte to him that weareth the gape clothing, and say vnto him: Wye thou here in a good place: and saye vnto the pooze: stande thou there, oꝝ yet here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parciall in poure felices, and haue iudged affree euill though hee:

harthen my deare beloued brethren. hath not God chosen the pooze of thys worlde, soch as are rpye in saythe. & heyres of the kyngdome, whych he promysed to the that loue hym: But ye haue despyed the pooze. Do not epye me recuite tꝛamnye vꝝ you, and bꝛaue you befoze the iudgement leates. Do not they speake euill of that good name which is called vpon ouer you:

¶ Ye fulfill the copall lawe, accordyng to the scripture. (Thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure as thy selfe) ye do well. But ye ye regarde one person more then another, ye committe synne, & are rebuked of þe lawe, as transgressours. Wholdenre shall kepe þe whole lawe, & yet synne in one poynt, he is giltye of all. for he þe sayd: Thou shalt not committe adulterye, sayde also: þe shalt not kyll. Though thou do none adulterye, yet ye thou kyll, thou art become a transgressour of þe lawe. So speake ye, and so do, as they thate the iudged by the lawe of li berce. for hee shall haue iudgement without mercy: that heareth no mercy: and mercy reioyseth agaynst iudgement. ¶

¶ What auayleth it my brethren, though a mā saye he hath sayth, ye he haue no dedes? Can sayth saue him. If a bro: her oꝝ a syster be ualied & delititue of dayly tode, & one of you saye vnto them: departe in peace, God sed you warme: & tode, notwithstandinge ye geue the not those thinges which are needful to the body, what shall it helpe: Euen so sayth, ye if haue no dedes: is dede in it selfe: But some mā wyl saye: þe haue sayth, & haue dedes: shewe me thy sayth by thy dedes: I will shewe the my sayth by my dedes. Beweue þe that ther is one god: Thou dost well. We beuyle also beueue, & treble.

¶ But wilt þe vnderstande. (Thou wayne man) þe sayth without dedes is dede: Was not Abꝛahā oure father iustified theozow wozkes, wyl he had* offered Isaac his sone vnto the aniler: Thou seest, how that sayth wroughte w his dedes, & through the dedes was the sayth made perfecte: & þe scripture was fulfilled, which sayth: Abꝛahā beueued God, and it was reputed vnto hym for ryghte wellice: & he was called þe frende of

God. ¶ Ye se then how that of dedes a mā is iustified, and not of sayth onely. A vyle wyse also, was not Isaac the harlot iustified theozow wozkes, * when he had receiued the messengers, and had sent the out another waye: for as the body, without the sperte is dede, euen so sayth without wozkes is dede also. ¶ ¶ What good and euill cometh to the soule: for ge. The oule of such as be lenech the difference betwixte the wysdome of the Gospel, & the wysdome of the woꝝdes.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

My brethren, * be not euery mā a master, knowyng how þe shall receaue þe greater damnacion: for in many thinges we synne all. * If a man synne not in woꝝde, þe same is a perfecte mā, & able also to saue all þe body. Beholde, we put bittes in to þe horses mouthes, þe they maye obey vs, & we turne aboute all the body of the. Beholde also þe hyppes, whych though they be so great, & are buyde of scarce wynde, yet are they turned about wyth a very small helme whycher soeuer þe violence of þe gouerner wil. Euen so the tongue is a lytel member also, and boaste the great thynges.

Beholde, how greet a thyng is a lytel tꝛe: the nylt, and the tongue is sꝛe, cure a world of wychednes. So is the tongue set amonge oure members, that it despyse the whole body, and sette a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe lit a fyre euen of hell.

All the naturis of beastes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, & thinges of þe are mached and tamed of the nature of man. But the tongue, can no man tame. It is an vnbridled euill, full of deadly poison. Behold beueue we God the father, and thereto curie for men, * which are made after the v. image and similitude of God.

¶ Out of one mouth proceedeth blessing and cursyng. Whycher the, these thynges ought not to be. Worth a fountayne send forth at one place swete water and bytter also. Can the fygge tꝛe (my brethren) beare olyue beries: ether a vigne beare fygges: So can no fountayne geue both the salt water & freshe also. If eny mā be wyse & enured w knowledg amoge you, let hym shewe his woꝝdes out of good conuersacion with mekenes of wysdome.

¶ But ye ye haue bytter enuysng a step: in your herte, reioye not: neyther be iꝛous agaynst the truth: for soch wysdome descendeth not fro aboue: but is erthy, natural, & diuellshe. for wher enuysng & strife is, there is vnstabilenes, & all maner of euill doctrynes. But þe wysdome þe is fro aboue, is first pure, the peasable, geite, & caly to be intreared, full of mercy and good frutes, without iudging, without simulacion: yee, & þe frute

But ye are a chosen generation, a royall * people, a holy nation, a people whych are woune: that ye shuld shewe the vertues of hym, that called you out of darkness into hys marvelous lyght, * whych in tyme past were not a people, but are now the people of God: whych some tyme had not obtained mercie, but now hys mercie shyneth in us. ¶

¶ * Dearly beloved, I beseeche you as strangers and pilgrims, abstayne * from fleshly lusts, which fyght against the soule, as that ye have honest conuersacion aminge the Gentyles, that where as they backbite you as euill doers * they may see your good woiles, and prayse God * in the daye of vyltacion.

¶ Submitte youce selues therfore vnto all maner obedience of man for the lordes sake, whether it be vnto the kyng, as vnto the chiefe: or vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sent of hym, for the punysshment of euill doers, that for the laude of them, that do well. For sois it the will of God, that with well doyng ye maye stoppe the mouthes of foolys: & Ignorant men as theye, & not as bawnyng the lybertie for a cloacke of maliciouse, but such as the seruantes of God * do honour all men. Love brotherly felicitypp, feare God, honour the kyng.

¶ Seruantes, obey your masters with feare not onely yf they be good & count: but also though they be frowarde * for it is thā he worthye. ¶ yf a mā for conscience toward God endure greife, and suffer wrong vnderfered, for what prayse is it, yf when ye be buffeted for your fautes, ye take it patiently? But * yf when ye do well, ye suffer widge & take it patiently, then is there thāke to God.

¶ For here vnto verely were ye called: for Christ also suffered for vs * leaunge by an example, that ye shuld folowe his steppes, whych dōd no synne, neither was there gyfte foūd in hys mouth: whych when he was crucified, reuylcd not agayne: when he suffered, he threatened not, but committed the vengeance vnto hym that indgeth ryghte ouly * whych hys a wne selfe bare our synnes in his body on the tree, that we being deliuered from synne, shuld lue vnto ryghtconlines: whos steppes ye were healed. For ye were as thye goyng astraye: but are now tuened vnto the shepheard and byshepe of your soules. ¶

Chapter.

¶ Both thys oughte to cometh the selues towarde their husbands, as in the apparill. The wyfe of men to be as theye wyfe, & to be as theye all int to vnto and low, and patiently to suffer trouble, & to be as theye.

The wyfe * ye to be as in subiection to your husbandes, that men they whych obeye not the word, maye without the wyde be wone by the conuersacion of the wyres, whyl they beholde your chaste conuersacion coupled with feare. Whose apperill shall not be outward by dyedde heare, & hanging on of golde, rather in puttyng on of gorgeous apparill: but let the hydē which is in the herte, be without all corrupcion, so that the spere be at rest and quyet: whych spere is before God a thynge much set by. For after this maner in the olde tyme dyd the holy women which trusted in God, tye them selues, and were obedient to their husbandes, eue as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called hym Lozde: whose daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, & are not asfrape for anye terror.

A the wyfe, ye int, dwell with them accordyng to knowledge: guyng honour vnto the wyfe, as vnto the weaker vessel, as vnto them pare be pare also of the grace of lyfe that your prayers be not byndred. ¶ In concluson, be all of one mynde, of one hart & loue as brethren, be pitifull, be courteous: make not redyng euill for euill, or rebuke for rebuke: but contrary wise, knowinge that ye are ther vnto called, eue that ye shuld be depres of the blessing. ¶ For be that doth longe after lyfe, and lowly to be good bydes, let hym receyue his edge from euill, as his lityng yf they speake not gyle. Let hē seke euill, & do good: let him seke peace, and enstie it. For the eyes of the Lord are ouer the ryghteous, and hys cares are open vnto their prayers. Agayne, the face of the Lord is ouer them that do euill.

¶ Forouer, who is it that will harme you, yf ye folowe yf whych is good? Ye, * happy are ye, yf anye trouble happen vnto you for righte welles sake. ¶ Be not ye afraied for anye treoure of them, neither be ye troubled but sanctifie the Lord God in your hertes. ¶ Be ready all wayes to geue an answer to euery mā that asketh you a reason of hope that is in you, and that with meeknes and feare: hauyng a good conscience * that where as they backbite you as euill doers, they maye be ashamed, yf falsly accuse your good conuersacion in Christ.

¶ For it is better (yf the will of God be so) that ye suffer for well doyng, then for euill doinge.

¶ For as much as Christ hath once suffered for synnes, & fust for the vnst, to byge vs to God, and was kylled, as preyntynge to the selfe: but was quickened in the spere.

¶ For exhorteth men to cease from sinne, and to be iustice as an euill doer, but as a Christian man.

IN as much then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme ye youre selues like wyle with the same mynde: for he whych suffereth in the fleshe, ceaseth from synne that he hence forwarde shulde lyue (as much tyme as remapnerh in the fleshe) not after the lustres of men, but after the wyl of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spent the tyme that is past of this lyfe, after the wyl of the * Gentyls, walkynge in wantannes, lustre, in excelle of wyces, in excelle of rapynge, in excelle of drunkeynge: * (in wantannes) and in aduocacyon of idolatrye.

¶ And it semeth to the incommenst thynge, that ye runne not also with them vnto y same excelle of vyce, & therefore speake they euill of you, whych shalenge accompt to him, that is ready to iudge quicke and deid. For vnto this purpose dreely was y Gospel preached also vnto the deid, that they shuld be iudge lyke other men in the fleshe, but shuld lyue before God in the spere. The ende of al thynges is at hande.

¶ As ye therefore sober, and watch vnto prayer. But aboue all thynges haue seruet loue among your selues. For loue shall couer the multitude of synnes. * As ye be derberous one to another, * without grudging. As euery man hath receaued the gyfte, euen so mynister the same one to another, as good mynisters of the manyfolde grace of God.

¶ If any man speake, let him talke as the wordes of God. * If any man mynister, let him do it as * of the abylite, whych God mynystreth vnto hym. ¶ That God in all thynges maye be glorified thorow Iesus Christ, to whom be prayse and dominion for euer and euer. Amen.

Wearly beloued, maruayll not that ye are proued by fyre (whyche thyng is to trye you) as though some strange thing happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as much as ye are partakers of Christes passions: that when his glory appereth, ye maye be merry and glad. * If ye be capled vpon for y name of Christ, happie are ye. For the glory and the spere of God resteth vpon you. On their parte he is euill spoken of: but on poure parte he is glorified.

¶ He y none of you be pynnyshed as a mirrour thereto, or as a theser, or an euill doer, or as a vnybody in other mens matters. If any man suffer as a Christian man, let him not be ashamed: but let him glorifye God on this chalenge. For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begynne at the house of God. If it first begynne at vs, what shall the ende be of them, whych beleue not the Gospell of God? And * yf the ryghteous scarcely be saved: wherefore, let the yare troubled according to the wyl of God, count their soules to him wylly well doynge, as vnto a faythfull creatur.

¶ The v. Chapter.

¶ A speciall exhortacion to all bishoppes and clarkes. For exhorteth yonge persons to submit them selues to the elder, and euery one to loue another.

IN ye elders which are amonge you, exhorthe, which am also an elder, and a wytnes of the afflictions of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that shal be opened: * For ye y Christes flocke, almost as lyeth in you, takynge the ouersight of them, not as compelled thereto, but wyllyngly: * After a good sort: not for the desyre of epishyp here: but of a good mynde, * not as though ye were lordes ouer the parishes: but * that ye be an ensample to the flocke. * And as I saye good wylly: And when the chiefe sheperd shall appere, ye shall receaue, * an incorruptible crowne of glory. Lyke * wyle ye yonger, submit your selues vnto the elder. Submit your selues euery man, one to another, knyt your selues together in lowlynes of mynde. For God resisteth the pounce, and geteth grace to the humble. * Submit your selues therefore vnder the myghty hande of God, that he maye exalte you, when the tyme is come. * Call all your care vnto him: for he careth for you.

¶ As sober and watch, for your aduersary: y deuyll as a roaring lyon: * walketh about, seeking whom he maye deuoure: * whom resist stedfast in the faith, knowing, y the same afflictions are appointed vnto your brethren, that are in the world. But the God of all grace whych hath called vs vnto his eternal glory by Christ Iesus, shall bys owne selfe (after that ye haue suffered a lytell affliction) make you perfect: scilicet, strength and stablish the you. To him be glory and dominion for euer, and euer. Amen.

¶ As y plannes a faythfull brother vnto you (as I suppose) haue I wyrtten breuely, exhortynge and testifyng, how that this is the true grace of God, wherein ye stande. ¶ The exhortacion of them whych at Babylon are compaignons of your electyon, salueth you, resteth you, ¶ Ch. iii. Chapter.

This is the seconde epistle that I now write vnto you dearly beloued, where with I steere by your syncrete mynde, by putting you in remembrance, that ye maye be myndefull of the wordes (whych were tolde before of the holy Prophets) and also the commaundment of his which

be Apostles of the Lord and sauyour lusts, & saye: There is the promise of hys commynge. * For since the fathers dyed, all thynges continue in the same estate wher they were at the beginning. For this they knowe not (and that wylfully) how that heauens a great while ago were, & the out of the water appeared by thowth the water, by the word of God: by the wyche thynges the world that then was, created beyng ouercome with water. * But the

The .i. Epistle

The fyrst Epistle of Saynt John the Apostle.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The word of the euangeliste word of God.
¶ The bloude of Christe the purgacion from synne.
¶ To whiche is written thus.

In that which was from the begyn-nyng, wherby we haue hearde, wherby we haue seue wryth oure
eyes, wherby we haue looked vpon,
and our hader haue handled, of þe word of þe lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, & we haue seue and beare wytnesse, & shewe vnto you * that eternall lyfe, wherby we haue seue wryth the father, & appeared vnto vs. That which we haue seue & herde, declare we vnto you, þe ye also maye haue fellowshyppe with vs, and that oure fellowshyppe maye be wryth the father and his sonne Iesus Christ. And chys wryte we vnto you, þe ye maye receyue, and that þe poure maye be full.

And this is the trydynge wherby we haue hearde of hym & declare vnto you. þe God is lyght, & in hym is no derclines at all. If we saye, þe we haue fellowshyppe with hym, and walke i derclines, we lye, & do not þe truth.

But & þe we walke in lyght euen as he is in lyght, then haue we fellowshyppe with hym, and * the bloude of Iesus Christ his sonne cleanseth vs from all synne.

* If we saye that we haue no synne, we deceiue oure selues, and the trouth is not in vs: * If we knowe oure synnes, he is faythfull & iust, to forgewe vs oure synnes, and to cleanse vs from all vnrightheousnes.
If we saye we haue not synned, we make hym a liar, and hys woide is not in vs.

¶ Christ is oure advocate. Of true loue, & how it is tryed.

The .ii. Chapter.

In that which was from the begyn-nyng, wherby we haue hearde,
wherby we haue seue wryth oure
eyes, wherby we haue looked vpon,
and our hader haue handled, of þe word of þe
lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, & we haue seue
and beare wytnesse, & shewe vnto you * that
eternall lyfe, wherby we haue seue wryth the father, & appeared vnto vs. That which we haue seue & herde, declare we vnto you, þe ye also
maye haue fellowshyppe with vs, and that
oure fellowshyppe maye be wryth the father and his sonne Iesus Christ. And chys wryte we vnto you, þe ye maye receyue, and that þe poure maye be full.

But & þe we walke in lyght euen as he is in lyght, then haue we fellowshyppe with hym,
and * the bloude of Iesus Christ his sonne
cleanseth vs from all synne.

The olde commandement is the woide, whiche ye haue hearde from the beginninge.
Agayne, a new commandement I wyte vnto you, that is true in him, and the same is true also in you: for the derclines is past, and the true lyght now shyneth. For he that sayth how that he is in the lyght, & yet ha-teth his brother, is in derclines euen vntill chys tyme. He that loueth his brother, aby-deth in the lyght, and ther is none occasion of synne in hym. He that hateth his brother, is in derclines, & walketh in derclines:
and can not tell whither he goeth, because that derclines hath blinded hys eyes.

¶ Sabas I wyte vnto you, how þe pouce synnes are forgewe þe for his names sake.
I wyte vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowen him that is from the begyn-nyng. I wyte vnto you yonge men, how þe ye haue ouercome þe wicked: I wyte vnto you lytell chyldren, how þe ye haue knowen þe father. I haue wryten vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowen hym that is from the beginnyng. I haue wryte vnto you yonge men, how that ye are stronge, and the woide of God abydeth in you, and ye haue ouer-come that wicked.

So that ye loue not * the woide, neither the thynges that are in the woide. If eny man loue the woide, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the woide (as the lust of the fleshe, and the lust of the eyes, & the pryde of life) is not of the father, but of the woide. And the woide passeth awaye and the lust therof: but he that fulfylleth the will of God, abydeth for euer.

A ytell chyldren, it is the last tyme, and as ye haue herde how that Antichrist shall come, euen now are there many begonne to be Antichristes all redy, wherby we knowe, þe it is the last tyme. * They went out fro vs, but they were not of vs. For þe they had bene of vs, they wolde no doute haue continued with vs. But that it myght appeare, that they were not of vs.

¶ Neuthelesse, ye haue an opyntment of hym þe is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. * I haue not wryte vnto you, as the: igh þe knowe not þe trouth: but as though ye knewe it (& knowe also) þe nolue cometh of trouth. Who is a liar, but he that denieth that Iesus is Christ: the same is Antichrist, that denieth the father & the sonne. Whosoever denieth the sonne, the same hath not the father.

¶ He that knoweth the sonne, hath the father also. Let therefore abyde in you that came which ye hearde from the beginninge. If that which ye hearde from the beginninge that remay-ne in you, ye also shall contynue in the sonne, and in the father. And chys is the promise that he hath promysed vs, euen eter-nall lyfe.

¶ The

The.ij. Epistle

in hym. And he is vs: because he hath geuen vs oþþer sperte. And we haue sene, & do testifye, that the father sent þe sonne to be the sauyoure of the worlde. And whosoeuer confesseth, þe Iesus is the sonne God, in him dwelleth God, & he in God. And we haue knowen and beleueþ the loue þe God hath to vs.

D God is loue, & he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in him. Here I is the loue perfect in vs, þe child haue trust in the daye of iudgement: for as he is, eue so are we: i this worlde. Ther is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynfulnes. He þe feareth, is not perfect in loue.

Alle loue him, for he loued vs first. If a man say, I loue God, and yet hate his brother, he is a liar. For how can he þe loued not his brother whom he hath sene, loue God whom he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue we of hym: þe which loueth God, shuld loue his brother also. A

¶ To loue God, is to kepe his commaundementes. For he ouercometh the worlde. And whosoeuer is in the sonne of God, of the synne vnto death.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

Whosoeuer beleueth þe Iesus is Christ, is borne of God. And euery one that belongeth hym which begat, loueth him also which was begotten of him. * By this we knowe, þe we loue the chyldren of God, when the loue God, and kepe his commaundementes. For this is the loue of God, that we kepe his commaundementes, and * his commaundementes are not greuous. * For all that is borne of God, ouercometh the worlde. And this is the * victory that ouercometh the worlde, eue oure sayth. Who is it þe ouercometh the worlde: but he which beleueth, that Iesus is the sonne of God? * This Iesus Christ is he that cam by water & bloud, not by water onely: but by water and bloud. And it is the sperte that beareth witness, because the sperte is trouth.

(For ther are the which beare recorde in heauen, & father, & wordes, & wholy good. And thesre are one.) And ther are the which beare recorde: * (in earth) þe sperte & water, and bloud: * thesre thee are one. If we receiue the witness of me, the witness of God is greater. For this is the witness of God: * thesre greater which he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on the sone of God, hath the witness in hym selfe. * He that be beleueth not God, hath made him a liar: because he beleneþ not the recorde þe God geue of hys same. And this is þe recorde, how that God hath geue vnto vs eternall lyfe, a this lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hath the same hath lyfe: & he that hath not the sone of God, hath not lyfe.

¶ These thynges haue I wyrtte vnto you that beleue on the name of the sone of God, that ye maye knowe, how that ye haue etternall lyfe, & that ye maye beleue on the name of the sone of God. And this is þe trust that we haue in hym: that * þe we alle enuythynge accordynge to hys wyll, be heareth vs. * And þe we knowe þe heare us whot soeuer we alle, we knowe, that we haue the petitions, that we beseye of hym.

If eny man se hys brother synne a synne not vnto death, let him aske, & he shall geue him lyfe: for the that synne not vnto death. Ther is a synne vnto death, for which sape I not þe a mā shuld praye. All vneyghtheftnes is synne, & ther is synne not vnto death.

We knowe, that whosoeuer is borne of God, synneth not: but he that is begotten of God, kepeth hym selfe, & that wycedeth toucheth hym not. We knowe, that we are of God, and the worlde is all together set on wycednes. We knowe, that the sonne of God is come, and hath geue vs a mynde to knowe hym which is true: & we are in hym that is true, throughe is some Iesu Christ. This same is very God, and etternall lyfe. Babes kepeþ poure selues from pynages.

Amen.

The seconde epistle of Sapient John.

¶ To wyrtte vnto a certeyn lady, reioyseth that he chyldren walke in þe trouth, & that they be leue, & watch them to beware of such deceyues as be: that Iesus Christ came in the flesch, & petye seem to continue in the doctrine of Christ, & to haue nothyng to do with them that by synne be the remynge.

The elder to the electe lady ad her chyldre, whom I loue in þe trouth: and not I onely, but also all that haue knowen the trouth for þe trouthes sake whych dwelleth in vs, and shalbe in vs for euer.

Which vs shall be grace, mercy, & peace from God the father & from the lord Iesus Christ þe sonne of the father, I euenþe loue.

I reioyced greatly, that I founde of thy chyldezen walkynge in trouth, as we haue receaued a commaundement of the father. And now beseeche I þe lady, not as though I wote a new commaundement vnto the, but that same which we haue had fro the beginning, that we shuld loue one another. And this is the loue, that we shuld walke after hys commaundement.

This commaundement is: that as þe haue hearde fro þe beginninge þe shuld walke in it. For many deceayues are entred into the worlde, whych confesse not that Iesus Christ is come in the flesch. This is a deceiver and an Antichrist. Loke on poure selues that we looke not that we haue brought: but that we maye haue a ful rewarde. And do soeuer

That thou seyst, wryte in a boke, and sende it vnto the seuen cōgregaciōs which are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, & vnto Smyrna and vnto Pergamos, and vnto Chiatira, and vnto Sardis, & vnto Philadelphia, and vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake to me. And when I was turned: I sawe seuen golden candelstickes, & i the myddes of the candelstickes, one lyke vnto the sonne of man, clothed with a lynne garment downe to the fete, and gird about the pappes w a golden girdle. His heed, & his heares were wyte, as wyte woll, & as snowe and hys eyes were as a flame of fyre: & hys fete lyke vnto brasse, as though they bent in a fornace, and his voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had i his ryghte hande, vii. starres. And out of his mouth thewe a sharpe two edged sweerde. * And his face shone, euen as the sonne in his strength.

* f. i. d. iii. c.

And when I saw him, I fell at his fete, euen as deed. And he layde hys ryghte hande vnto me, sayng vnto me: feare not. * I am p fyrst & the laste, & am a lyue, and was deed. And beholde: * I am a lyue for euermore & haue p hopes of hell & of deeth. C. The ii. Chapter.

¶ For the firste loutre congregacions to aherbe, ¶ a flourish the remembrance of hym that ouercometh.

Vnto the messenger of β congregacion of β phelias wypte: thele thynges sayth he, that holdeth the seuen starres in hys ryght hande, and that walketh in the myddes of the seuen golden candelstiches. I knowe thy woordes, and thy labour, & thy pacience, and how thou canst not forbear them wyche are myll: and hast examined them wyche saye they are β posses, and are not: & hast founde them lyars, & hast suffered. And hast pacience: and for my names sake hast labored, and hast not fayned. Therefore, I haue sinned what agaynst the, because thou haste lesser thy first loue. Remember therfore from whence thou art fallen, & repent, and do the first woordes. β elles I wyll come vnto the shortly, & wyll remove thy candelstiche out of his place, except thou repent. But this thou hast, because thou hast the dedes of the β Apolaitans, which dedes I also hate. Lett hym that hath eares, heare what the spere sayth vnto β congregacions. To hym that ouercometh, wyll I geue to eate of the β tree of lyfe, which is in β myddes of the β daradyl of God.

C And vnto the angell of the congregacion of β myna wypte: These thynges sayth he that is first, & the laste, which was deed, and is alpye. I knowe thy woordes & tribulacion and yonerte, but thou art epeche. And I knowe β blasphemie of them, wyche call them felous β trees: & are not: but are the congregacion of β athan. There none of those thynges, which thou shalt suffer. Whereholde, the deuyll shall caste some of you into pylson, to tette you, & ye shall haue tribulacions ten dayes. β sayeth vnto β deeth, and I wyll geue the a croune of lyfe. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what β spere sayth to the congregacions. He that ouercometh, shall not be hurt of the seconde deeth.

D And to the messenger of the congregacion in β ergamos wypte: This sayth he, which hath the sharpe swerde with two edges: I knowe thy woordes, & where thou dwellest, euen where β athanas seat is, and thou kepest my name, & hast not denyed my sayth. And in my dayes β neipas was a fayedfull wyntes of myne, wyche was slayne amonge you, where β athan dwelleth. But I haue a fewe thynges agaynst β : because thou hast there, them that mayntayne β doctrine of β alam: which taught in β alale, to put occasyon of synne before the chyldren of β irael, β they shoulde eate of meate debycat vnto ydoles, and committe fornyecacion.

Euen so hast thou them that mayntayne β doctrine of the Apolaitans, which thynges I hate. But be conuerted, β elles I wyll come vnto β shortly, and wyll fight agaynst the with β swerde of my mouth. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what β spere sayth vnto β congregacions. To hym that ouercometh, wyll I geue to eate β myna that is hys, & wyll geue hym a wypte stone, & the stone a newe name wypten, which no man knoweth, saynge he that receaueth it.

And vnto β messenger of β congregacion of β ypatira wypte. This sayth the sonne of God, which hath epeche vnto a name of spye, & hys sete are lyke basse. I knowe thy woordes, & thy loue, scrupel, and fawth, and thy pacience, & thy dedes, which are mo at the last then at the first. For thou standynge I haue a fewe thynges agaynst the, because thou sufferest that woman β Jela, which called her selfe a β prophete, to teach: & to deceaue my seruantes, to make them committe fornyecacion, & to eate meate offered vnto ydoles. And I gaue her space to recte of her fornyecacion, & she rected not. Whereholde, I wyll call her vnto a deed: & them that committe fornyecacion with her, into greet aduerfytie, & recte they turnefro their dedes. And I wyll kyll her chyldren with deeth. And all the congregacions shall knowe, that β I am he which searcheth the rectes & herres. And I wyll geue vnto euerie one of you accordynge vnto hys woordes.

Vnto you I saye, and vnto other of them of β ypatira, as many as bauer not this keryng & which haue not knowen the dedes of β athan, as they saye: I wyll put vpon you none other burthen, but β which ye haue already. Whereholde, I wyll come, & who soeuer ouercometh & keepeth my woordes vnto the ende, to hym wyll I geue powder ouer mynacions, & he shall rule them w a rodde of yron: & as β vessels of a pottel, shall they be broken to shewes. Euen as I receaue of my father, so wyll I geue hym the mornynge starre. Lett hym that hath eares, heare, what β spere sayth to the congregacions.

¶ For the firste loutre and enuoument the Angles of the congregacions, declaringe also the remembrance of hym that ouercometh.

Vnto the messenger of β congregacion β is at β shir: this sayth he β hath β fewe spures of God & the seuen starres. I knowe thy woordes, thou hast a name that thou lynest, and thou art deed. Use a walke, and strength the thynges which remaine, β are cdy to dye. For I haue not founde thy woordes persfakte before β God. Remember therfore, how thou hast receaued & heard, & hold fast, & repent.

¶ The seith the heauen open, and the seate, and one sittinge vpon it, and xiiii. seates aboute it with xiiii. elders syttinge vpon them, and foure beastes wyrtynge & obayn and myght.

After this I looked, and beholde a doze was open in heauē, and the fyrt voyce whych I hearde, was as it were of a trouper tal-kyng with me, whych sayde: come vpon hyther, and I wyll shewe the thynges: whych must be fulfilled hereafter. And immediately I was in the spyeete: I beholde, a seate was sett in heauen, and one late on the seate. And he that sat, was to loke vpon, lyke vnto a Jasper Stone and a Sardyne stone. And ther was a rayne bove aboute the seate, in lyght lyke to an Emerald. And aboute the seate were xiiii. seates. And vpon the seates, xiiii. elders sytting, clothed in whyte raipe, and had on theyr heades crownes of golde.

And out of the seate proceded lyghtnynges, & thundrynges, & voyces, & ther were seuen lampes of fyre, burnyng before the seate, whych are the seuen spyeetes of God. And before the seate ther was a see of glasse, lyke vnto Cristall, and in the myddes of the seate, & rounde about the seate were foure beastes full of eyes before & behynde. And the fyrt beast was lyke a lyon, & the secōde beast lyke a calfe, & the thyrde beast had a face as a man, & the fourth beast was lyke a flyinge Eagle. And the foure beastes had eche one of them, vii. wynges aboute hym, & they were full of eyes wīn. The. v. Chapter.

¶ The seith the isbe openinge the doze, and ther for the foure beastes, the xiiii. elders, and the angell saye the lambe, and he hym worshippe.

And I sawe in y^r right hande of hym that sat in the throne, a booke written within & on the backe syde, sealed with seven seales. And I sawe a stronge angell, which preached wth a lowde voyce: Who is woorthy to open the booke, & to lose y^e scales thereof. And no man in heauen nor in erth neyther vnder y^e erth, was able to open y^e booke, neyther to loke thereon. And I wepte much because no man was fownde woorthy to open & to reade the booke, neyther to loke thereon.

B And one of the elders sayde vnto me wepe not: Beholde, a lyon of y^e tribbe of Iuda, the roste of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the booke, and to lose the seven scales thereof. And I behelde, and lo, in the myddes of the scale, and of the foure besles, and in y^e myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene kylled, hauinge seven hornes, and seven eyes, which are the seven spyrtes of God, sent into all the worlde. And he came, and toke the booke out of the ryght hande of hym that sat vpon the scale.

C And when he had taken y^e booke, the foure bestes and xiiii. elders fell downe before y^e lambe, hauinge (euery one of them) harpes & golden viualles full of odoures, which are the prayers of sayntes, & they songe a new songe, saying: thou art woorthy to take the booke, & to open the scales thereof: for y^e wast kylled, & hast redeemed vs by thy blood out of all kynredes, & togess, & people, & nacjones, and hast made vs vnto oure God, kynges, and prestes, & we shall saygne on the erth.

D And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many angels about the throne, & about the beaste & the elders, and I hearde thousand thousandes, saying wth a lowde voyce: Woorthy is the lambe that was kylled to receaue power, & ryche, & wysdome, and strengthe, and honour, & gloze, & blessinge. And all y^e creatures which are in heauen, & on y^e erth, & vnder the erth, & in the see, & all that are in them, herde I sayyng, blessinge, honour, gloze, & power be vnto hym that spetech vpon y^e scale, & vnto the lambe for euermore. And the foure bestes sayd: Amen. And the xiiii. elders fell vpon their faces, and worshipped hym that lyeth vpon the euermore.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ The lambe openeth the vi. scales, and many thynges folowe the openinge thereof.

And I sawe, when the lambe opened one of y^e scales, and I herde one of the foure bestes saye, as it were y^e people of thonder: come & se: and I sawe. And beholde ther was a whyte horse: and he that sat on hym, had a booke, and a crowne was geuen vnto hym, and he went forth conquering & for to ouer come. And when he had opened the seconde scale, I herde the secōde beaste, saye: come and se. And ther went out another horse that was reddy, & power was geuen to hym that sat thereon, to take peace from the erth, & that they shuld kill one another. * And ther was geuen vnto hym a great sworde.

And when he had opened the thyrde scale I herde y^e thyrde beaste saye, come & se. And I behelde, & lo, a black horse: & he that sat on him, had a payre of balaces in his hāde. And I herde a voyce in y^e myddes of y^e foure bestes, saye: a measure of wheat for a peny, & thye measure of barley for a peny and oyle and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth scale, I herde the voyce of y^e fourth beaste saye, come and se: & I looked. And behold a pale horse: & his name that sat on him was death, & hell folowed after hym, & power was geuen vnto them ouer y^e fourth parte of y^e erth, to kill wth sworde, & wth hōger, & wth death that cometh of vermin of the erth.

And when he had opened the fyfth scale, I saw vnder y^e altire * the soules of them that were kylled for y^e worde of God, & for y^e testymony which they had, & they cryed with a lowde voyce, sayinge: how longe tarryest thou Lord, holy & true, to indage & to auenge oure blood on them y^e dwel on y^e erth? And loge whyte garmentes were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayde vnto them, that they shuld reste yet for a lytle season vntill the nombre of theyr fellows, and byethzen, & of them y^e shuld be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I behelde, when he had opened the syxt scale: & lo, ther was a great earthquake and the sunne was as blacke as sacke cloth made of beere. And y^e mōne waxed all, euen as blood, and the starres of heauen fell vnto the erth, euen as a fygge tree casteth fro her vntymely fygges, when she is shaken of a mygthy wynde. And heauen vanished awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled to gether. And all mountaynes and ples, were moued out of theyr places. And y^e kynges of the erth, and the gret men, and the ryche men, and y^e chefe capytaynes, & the myggyr men, & euery bondman, and euery free man, hyd them selues in denes, and in rockes of the hylls: * and layde to the hylls and rockes: fall on vs, & hyde vs from the presence of hym that spetech on the scale, and from the wrath of the lambe: for the grete daye of his wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

¶ The vii. Chapter.

¶ He seith the seruantes of God sealed in there for heaue out of all nacjones, and greuous though they suffer trouble, yet the lambe shalld them, iseth them to the fontaynes of liuynge water, and God shalld wype awaye all teares fro theyr eyes.

¶ And

The Reuelacion,

After that I sawe .iiii. angels stonde on the .iiii. corners of þe erth holdynge þe foure wyndes of the erth. þe wynde shuld not blowe on þe erth. neþer on þe see. neþer on any tree. And I sawe another angell ascende from the springe of the sunne. which had þe scale of the lyving God. & he cryed wyth a loude voyce to þe foure Angells. (to whom powe was geue to hurte þe erth & the see) sayynge: hurt not the erth neþer the see. neþer the trees. tyll we haue sealed the seruantes of oure God in their foreheades.

25 And I hearde þe noyse of the wyych were sealed. & they were sealed an .C. & .xliii. Of all the tribes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the tribe of Iuda were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Aser were sealed. xii. Of þe tribe of Nephtali were sealed. xii. Of þe tribe of Manasses were sealed. xii. Of þe tribe of Simeon were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Leuy were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Issacar were sealed. xii. Of þe tribe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed. xii. Of þe tribe of Benjamin were sealed. xii.

C After this I behelde. & lo. a gret multitude which no man coulde nombre. of all nacþes & people. & tiges. stode before þe seate. & before þe labe. clothed wyth longe white garmentes. & palmes in their handes. & cryed wyth a lowde voyce. sayynge: saluacion þe allestred to him that syteth vpon þe seate of oure God. & vnto þe lambe. And all the angels stode in the copse of the seate. & of þe elders & of þe foure bestes. & fell before the seate on their faces. and worshypped God. sayynge. Amen: Blessinge & gloze & wylldome & thakkes. and honour. & powe. & myght. be vnto oure God for euermore. Amen.

D And one of the elders answered. sayynge vnto me: what are these wyich are arrayed in longe white garmentes. & where came they? And I sayde vnto him: Lord thou wotest. And he sayde to me: these are they. wyich came out of great tribulacion. & made their garmentes large. & made them white by the bloude of þe lambe: therefore are they in the ptesence of þe seate of God & serue hym daye & nyght in his temple. & he that syteth in the seate wyl dwel amonge them. They shall hunger no more. neþer theyll. neþer shall the sunne lyght on them. neþer any heate. for þe labe wyich is in þe myddes of þe seate. shall fede them. & shall leade them vnto fontaynes of lyving water. & God shall wype a waye all teares from their eyes.

C The .viii. Chapter.

C The fourth seate is opened. there is spelt in heu-
en. the foure angels stande forth frompettes. & grette plagen folowe vpon the earth.

After when he had opened the seventh scale. ther was spelt in heuarn aboure the space of halfe an houre. And I sawe. vii. angelles standynge before God. & to them were geuen seven troþettes. And another angel came & stode before þe autter. hanynge a golden censur. & moche of odours was geue vnto him. that he shulde offe of the papers of all saynetes vpon the golden autter. wyich was before þe seate. And the smoke of the odours wyich cam of the pappers of all saynetes. ascended vpon before God out of the Angelles hande. And þe Angell toke the censur. & fylled it wyth fyre of the autter. and caste it into the erth. and voyces were made. & thondynges & lyght-nynges. and cethquakes.

And þe seven Angels wyich had þe seven troþettes. prepared them selues to blowe. The fyrst Angell blew. & there was made dryle & fyre. wyich were myngled to bloud. & they were cast into þe erth: & þe thyrde parte of trees was burnt. and all grene grass was dryt. And þe secde angell blew. & as it were a gret mountayne burnynge to fyre was caste into the see. and þe thyrde parte of the see tourned to bloude. and the thyrde parte of the creatures wyich had lyfe. dyed. & the thyrde parte of wyppes were destroyed.

And the thyrde Angell blew. & ther fell a gret flarre from heuarn. burnynge as it were a lake. & it fell into the thyrde parte of the erthe. & into fontaynes of waters. & the name of þe flarre is called wormwood. And þe thyrde parte was turned to wormwood. And many men dyed of the waters. because they were made bytter. And the fourth Angell blew. and þe thyrde parte of the sunne was smytten. and þe thyrde parte of the moone. and the thyrde parte of the starres: so that the thyrde part of them was darckned. And the daye was smytten. that the thyrde part of it shulde not shyne. & lyke wyse the nyght. And I behelde and herde an Angell saynge thorow the myddes of heuarn. sayynge wyth a lowde voyce: Wooo. woo. to the inhabytters of the erth. because of þe voyces to come of the troþe of the thre Angels. wyich were yet to blowe.

C The .ix. Chapter.

C The fifth and sixth Angell blowe their trompettes: for the flarre is kind from heuarn. the foure come out of the smoth: the first two is palled by foure angels that were to be loken. and the thyrde parte of men is killed.

After the fyft Angell blew. and I saw a flarre fall from heuarn vnto the erth. And to him was geuen the hape of the bottomlesse pytt. And he opened the bottomlesse pytt. and the smoke of the pytt arose as the smoke of a gret fornace. And the sunne. and the the ayer were darckned by the reason of the smoke of þ yper. And there came out of the smoke lictures vpon the erth, & vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the erth haue power. And it was commaunded them, that they shuld not hurt the grasse of þ erth: neither any grene thyng: neither any tree: but onely those men which haue not þ scale in their footheades. And to them was commaunded, that they shulde not kyll them, but that they shulde be wred. v. monethes, & their payne was as the payne þ cometh of a scorpion, when he hath stonge a man.

* And in those dayes shall men selue deeth, and shall not finde it, & shall desyre to dye, and deeth shall flye from them.

25 And the similitude of the locusts was lyke vnto hostes prepared vnto battayle, & on their brades were as it were crowmes, lyke vnto golde, and their faces were as it had bene þ faces of men. And they had heere as the heere of women. And their teethe were as þ teeth of lyons. And they had habbergions, as it were habbergions of yron. And the soude of their winges, was as the soude of chynettes, when many hostes rine to gether to battayle. And they had tayles lyke vnto scorpions, and there were stynge in their tayles. And their power was to hurt inc. v. monethes. And they had a kynge ouer the, which is þ angell of þ vortomleue yper, whose name in the hebrewe tonge, is Abaddon: but in the Greke tonge, Apollion þ is to saye: a destructioner. One wo is past, & beholde, two woos come yet after this.

¶ And the fyrst Angell blew, and I herde a voyce from the. iiii. corners of the golden altire, which is before God, sayinge to the fyrst Angell, which had the trope: Kose the foure Angelles, which are boude in þ grete cyuer Euphrates. And the foure Angelles were loosed, whych were prepared for an hour, for a daye, for a moneth, & for a yere, to sle þ. iiii. part of men. And the nabye of hostilitei of warre were. xx. thousande tymes. r. ¶ And I herde the nabye of them: & thus I sawe þ hostes in a vislon, & them þ late on them, dauncinge fytte habbergions of a Jacineth coultour, & byzintone, & the heades of þ hostes were as þ heades of lyons.

¶ And out of their monthes went forth fyre and smoke, & byzintone. And of these the was þ thyrd part of men kyled: that is to saye, of fyre, smoke, and byzintone: whych proceded out of the monthes of them: for their power was in their monthes & in their tayles, for their tayles were lyke vnto scorpions, & had heades, & with them they dyd hurt: And þ remanant of þ men whych were not kyled by these plages, repented not of the dedes of their handes þ they shulde not worþthpye duples, & pynages of golde and spuler, and byaste, and bone, and of wood, whych neither can se, neither heare, neither go. Also they repented not of their murder, and of their sorcery, neither of their fornycayon, neither of their thefte.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

¶ The Angell hath the booke open: the firste erth ther shalbe nomme tyme: the fourth the booke vnto John, which eateth it vp.

¶ And I sawe another myghty angell come downe from heauen clothed w a cloude, & the rapynbowe vpon his heed. And his face as it were the sunne, & his fete as it were pylars of fyre, and he had in his hande a lytell boke open, and he put his ryght fote vpon þ see, & his lyfte fote on the erth. And cryed wyth a lowde voyce, as when a lyon cryeth. And when he had cryed, seven thunders spake their voyces. And when þ. vii. thunders had spoken their voyces, I was about to wyte. And I herde a voyce from brauen, sayinge vnto me: seale vp those thynges whych the. vii. thunders spake, & wyte them not.

¶ And þ Angell which I sawe stode vpon the see, & vpon the erth, lyfte vp his hande to heuen, and swore by him that lyueth for euer more, which created heauen, & the thynges that therein are: & (and the erth and the thynges that therein are) and the see, & the thynges which therein are: þ there shulde be no longer tyme but in the dayes of the voyce of the fourth Angell, when he shall begyn to blowe: euen the mystry of God shalbe fynysshed, as he pynched by his seruantes þ prophetes.

¶ And þ voyce which I herde from heuen, spake vnto me agayne, & sayd: * go & take the lytle boke which is open in the hande of þ angell which standeth vpon þ see, & vpon þ erth. And I wet vnto the angell, & sayde to him: geue me the lytle boke, and he sayde vnto me: take it, & cate it vp, & it shall make thy belly bytter, but it shalbe in thy mouth the as swete as honey. * And I toke þ lytle boke out of his hande, & cate it vp, & it was in my mouth as swete as honey: and as lone as I had cate it, my belly was bytter. And he sayde vnto inc: þ mylt þ prophesie agayne amonge the people, and na cyres, and foles, and to many kyngeis.

And yf any man wyll hurt the fyze shall procede out of thyr mouthes, and consume thyr enemyes. And yf any man wyll hurt them, thys wyse muste be hyllid. These haue power to shut heauē, that it rayne not in the dayes of thyr prophesying, and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloud, and to smyte y^e erth with all maner plagges, as often as they wyll.

And when they haue fulfilled their testimonie, the beast that cam out of y^e bottomlesse pyr, shall make warre agaynst them, & shall overcome them, & kyll the. And thyr bodies shall lye in the strettes of the greates cite, which spiritually is called zodom and Egypte, where oure Lorde was crucified. And they of the people & kynredes, & tonges, & they of y^e nacōs, shall se thyr bodies, ix. dayes and an halfe, & shall not suffre thyr bodies to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon y^e erth, shall reioyce ouer them, and be glad, & shall sende gyftes one to another, for these two prophetes vexed them that dwelt on the erth.

And after ix. dayes & an halfe, the spete of lyte from God, entred into them. And they stode vp vpon thyr feet, & greatescare came vpon them whych sawe them. And they herde a greates voyce fro heauen, sayinge vnto them. Come vp hether. And they ascended vnto heauen in a cloude, & thyr enemyes sawe the. And y^e same houre was ther a greates erthquake, and the tenth parte of the erthe fell, and in the erthquake were slayne names of men seven. And y^e remanēt were feared, and gaue gloze to y^e God of heauen. The second woo is past, & beholde, the thyrde woo wyll come anon.

And y^e fourteenth Angell blewe, & ther were made greates voyces in heauen, sayinge: the kyngdoms of this woelde are oure lordes, and his Chyldes, & he shall ragnye for euer moze. And the xxiii. elders, whych sepe before God on thyr seates, fell vpon thyr faces, & worshypped God, sayinge: we geue the thākes O Lord God almyghty: whych arte & wast, & arte to come, for y^e haste executed thy great myght, and hast ragned. And the nacōs were angry, and thy wrath is come, & the tyme of y^e deed y^e they shuld be iudged and that y^e shuldest geue reward vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and sayntes, & to them y^e feare thy name small & greates & shuldest destroye the, which destroye y^e erth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, & ther was sene in his temple, y^e arch of his testamēt, & ther folowed lightynge, and voyces, and thunders, and erthquake, and moch hable.

The xii. Chapter.

¶ The fourteenth Angell bloweth his trumpet. There apareth in heauen a woman clothed with the sunne: and Michael fighteth with the dragon, which seeketh to curre the woman.

And ther appered a greates wōder i heauen: A woman clothed wth y^e sonne, & the moone vnder her fete, & vpon her heed a crowne of xii. starres. And she was wth chyldre, & crept traunspylinge in byrth, & payned redy to be deliuered. And ther appered another wōder i heauen, for beholde, a greates dragon hauynge vii. heddes, & ten hornes & seven crownes vpon hys heades: and hys tayle dūce the thyrde parte of the starres: & he called them to the erth.

And the dragon stode before the woman whych was redy to be deliuered: for to deuoure her chyldre as soon as it were borne. And he brought forth a man chyldre, which shulde rule all nacōs with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken v^{nto} God, & to his seate. And y^e woman entred into wyldernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, y^e they shulde fede her thre a. & ii. hundred and ix. dayes.

And ther was a greates battayll in heauen: Michael & his angelis fought with the dragon, & y^e dragon fought & his Angelis, and prevailed not, neither was thyr place founde any moze in heauen. And the greates dragon, that olde dyable, called the deuyl & Sathanas, was cast out. Which deceauneth all y^e woelde. And he was cast into the erth & his angelis were cast out also.

And I hearde a lowde voyce sayinge: in heauen is now made saluacyon and strengthe & the kyngdom of oure God, & the power of hys Chyrl. For the creature of ouer byrthen is cast downe, which accused the before God daye and nyght. And they overcame him by the bloude of the lambe, and by the woordes of thyr testimonie, & they sloued not thyr luyces vnto y^e deeth. Therefore reioyce heues, & y^e that dwell in them. All oon to the inhabitants of the erth, and of the see: for the deuyl is come downe vnto yon, which hath greates wrath, because he knoweth y^e he hath but a thort tyme.

And when y^e dragon sawe y^e he was caste vnto y^e erth, he persecuted y^e woman, which brought forth y^e man chyldre. And to y^e woman were geuen two wynges of a greates Eagle, y^e the myght fflye into the wyldernes into her place, where she is noryshed for a tyme, tymes, & halfe a tyme, fro y^e presence of y^e serpent. And y^e dragon cast out of hys mouth water after y^e woman as it had bene a ryuer, because she shuld haue bene caught of the flood. And y^e erth holpe the woman, and y^e erth opened her mouth, & swalowed, v^{nto} y^e ryuer, which y^e dragon cast out of his mouth, mouth. And the dragon was wroth wryth the woman: and went, & made warre wryth the remnant of hye sebo, which kepe the com- mandmentes of God, and haue the testi- mony of Iesus Christe. And he stode on the see sande.

And y^e beaſt which I ſawe, was lyke a catte of y^e mountayne, and hys feete were as y^e feete of a beare, & hys mouth as the mouth of a lion. And y^e dragon gaue hym his power & his ſeate, & gret auctoryte: and I ſawe one of his heedes as it were wounded to deeth, & hys dedly wounde was heale. And he dyd all y^e thynges the beaſt coulde do in his preſence, & he cauſed the erth, & them which dwell therein, to woſhyppye the fyrſt beaſt, whoſe dedly wounde was heale. And he dyd grett wonderes, ſo y^e he made fyre come downe from heauen in y^e ſyght of men. And deceaued them that dwelle on the erth, by y^e meanes of thoſe thynges whyche he had power to do in the ſyght of the beaſt, ſayinge to them that dwell on y^e erth: y^e they ſhuld make an ymage vnto the beaſt, whych had the wounde of a ſword, and dyd lyue.

And I sawe another sygne in heuen gret and meruellous, seuen Angells, haupng the seuen laste plagis, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God. And I sawe as it were a glaspe see, myngled w of hys name, stande on the glaspe see, ha-upng the harpes of God, and they songe the songe of Moyses the seruant of God, 3 the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, and the seuen Angells came out of the temple which had the seuen plages clothed in pure and byght lymen, and haupng theyr bysses girded with golden girdels. And one of the fowre beastes gaue vnto þe seuen Angells seuen golden byalles, full of the wrath of God, which I spake for euermore. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God, 3 of hys power, and no man was able to entre into the temple, tyll þe seuen plagis of the seuen Angells were fulfilled.

¶ The Angells powere out theyr byalles full of wrath.

And I heerde a great voyce out of
of the temple sayng to the seuen angells: go poure wayes, poure out poure byalles of wrath vpon the erth. And þe fyrst Angell was, 3 powred out his vball vpon the erth, 3 there fell a noystone, 3 a foze botche vpon the men which had the marke of the beast, 3 vpon them which woorthpyed hys pynage. And the secod Angell shed out hys vball vpon the see, and it turned as it were into the bloud of a deyd man: and euery lyuyng thyng dyed in the see. And the thyrde Angell shed out his vball vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, 3 they turned to bloud. And I heerde an Angell saye: Lorde, 35 which arte and wast, thou arte ryghteous 3 holy, because thou hast geuen loche iudgementes, for they shed out þe bloud of sain-tes, and prophetes, 3 therfore hast þe geuen them bloud to dryncke: for they are wo-thy. And I heerde another saye: euen so Lorde God almyghty: true and ryghteous are thy iudgementes.

And the fourth Angell powred out hys vball on þe sunne, 3 power was geuen vnto him to bere men with heat of fyre. And the men ragid in gret heate: 3 spake euyll of þe name of God, which hath powre ouer those plages, 3 they repeted not of theyr euill de-dis, to geue him glory. And the fyft Angell powred out his vball vpon þe seat of þe beaste, and his kyngdome was deth, 3 they gnethe theyr togas for sorowe, and blasphe-med þe God of heauen for sorowe 3 payne of dried up, þe wayes of the kynges of the east shulde be prepared. And I sawe the uncleyn spytes lyke frogges come out of þe mouth of þe dragon, 3 out of þe mouth of the beast, 3 out of the mouth of þe falle wythete. For they are the spytes of deuyls, wo-

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

¶ The description of the woman sitting vpon the beast whiche seuen vnto.

AD ther came one of the seuen Angels, whiche had the seuen vppalles: and tolked woth me, sayinge vnto me: come, I will shewe vnto the, the iudgement of the great whore that sitteth vpon many waters, woth whome haue committed fornicacion the kynges of the earth, and the inhabitants of the earth are drunken woth the wyne of hir fornicacion. And þe spere caried me away in to the wylbernes. And I sawe a woman sate vpon a roke colozed beaust, full of names of blasphemie, whiche had seuen heades and ten hounes. And the womā was arrayed in purple and rose colour, and decked woth golde, & precious stone, and pearles, and had a cup of golde in her hande, full of abominacions and filthyness of her fornicacion. And in her foreheade was a name written, a mysstry, grete Babylon the mother of whoredom and abominacions of the earth. And I sawe the wyfe drunken woth the bloude of sapientes, and with the bloude of the wyrtiness of Iesu. And when I sawe her, I wondred with great meruaile.

And the Angell sayde vnto me: wherfore marvailest thou? I will shewe the the mysstry of the womā, and of the beaust þe bereth her, which hath seuen heades and ten hounes. The beaust that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende out of the bottomlesse pyt, and shall go into perdition, & they that dwell on the earth shall worship: whose names are not written in the booke of lyfe from the beginninge of the worlde: when they behold the beaust that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath wylsome.

¶ The seuen heades are seuen mountaynes, on which the woman sitteth, they are also seuen kynges. & þey are falle, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he cometh, he must continue to a short space. And the beaust that was, & is not, is euen þe pygmy, and is one of the seuen, and shall go into destruction. And the ten hounes which þe sawest: are ten kynges which haue receaved no kingdom as yet, but shall receave power as kynges at one houre woth þe beaust. These haue one mynde, and shall geue their power and strenght vnto the beaust. These shall fygth with the lambe, & the lambe shall ouercome the. * For he is Lord of lordes, and kyng of kynges, and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen, and saythfull.

And he sayde vnto me: the waters whiche thou sawest, where þe whore sitteth, are people, and folke, & nacions, and tonges. And the ten hounes, which thou sawest vpon the beaust, are they that shall hate the whore, & shall make her desolate and naked, & shall eate her fleshe, & burne her woth fyre. For God hath put in theyr hertes to fulfill his wyll, & to do woth one consent, for to geue their kyngdome vnto the beaust, vntill the wyndes of God be fulfilled. And the womā which thou sawest, is þe greates cyttee, whiche raggeth ouer the kynges of the earth.

¶ The fall of the whore: and for the fall of Babylon, but they that be of God haue cause to reioyce for her destruction.

AD after that, I sawe another Angell come from beauen, hauieng grete power, and the earth was lightened woth hys brightnes. And he cryed mightily with a stronge voyce, sayinge: * Grete Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the inhabitation of devils, and the holde of all foule spietes, and a cage of all vncleane and hatefull byrdes, for all nacpous haue dronke of the wyne of the wrath of her fornicacion. And the kynges of the earth haue committed fornicacion woth her, and the merchauts of the earth are weerd reioyce of the aboundance of her pleasures.

And I herde another voyce from beaue, saye, come away from her my people, þe be not partakers of her synes, and þe receave not of her plagues. For her synes are gone up to heaue, & God hath remembred her wickednes. Rewarde her euē as the rewarde thou, & geue her double accordyng to her workes. And powre in double to her of the same cuppe which she filled woth pou. And as moche as she glorified her selfe and liued wantonly, so moche powre þe in for her punishment and sorowe, for she lapde in her selfe: * I syt beyng a quene, & am no widow, and shall be no sorowe. Therefore shall her plagues come i one daye, death, & sorowe, and hunger, & she shall be burnt woth fyre: for stronge is þe Lord God which shall iudge her.

And euery thynne gouerneur, and all they that occupied thynnes, and thynnen which worke in the see, shode a farre off, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burning, sayinge: what cytie is lyke vnto this greet citie: And they cast dust on theye heddes, and cryed wepyng, & wailing, & sayde: * Alas, Alas, that greet cytie, wher were made riche all that had thynnes in p see, by the reason of her coltynges, for at one houre is she made desolate.

Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apostles, and Prophetes: for God hath giuen you iudgement on her. And a myghty angell toke vp a stone lyke a greet millstone and cast it into p see, sayinge: with such violence shall that greet citie Babylon be cast, & shall be founde no more. And p voyce of harpers, and mulsions, & of ppyers, and trapecters shall be herde no more in the: and no craftes mā, of whatsoeuer craft he be, shall be founde any more in the. And the soude of a myll shall be herde no more in the, and the voyce of the byddet shall be herde no more in the, and the voyce of the byddet of the byddet, and of the byddet, shall be herde no more in p, for thy marchautes were the greet me of p erth. And w thynne inchauntment were deceaued al naciōs: & in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, & of the sayntes, & of all p were slayne vpo p erth.

¶ After that, I heerde a grete voyce of moche people in heauen sayinge: Alleluia. Saluacion & gloze & honour, power be ascribed to p Lorde our God, for true and ryghteous are his iudgements, for he hath iudged the greet whoze which vpo corrupted the erth w her fornicacion, & hath auge the bloude of his seruantes of hyr hāde. And agayn they said: Alleluia. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And p xiiii. elders, & p.iii. bestes fell downe, & worshipped God that sat on p seate, sayinge: Ame, Alleluia. And a voyce came out of the seate, sayinge: praise our Lord God all ye p are his seruantes, & ye p feare hym both small and great.

And I herde p voyce of moche people cūe as the voyce of many waters, & as the voyce of strong thōdynges sayinge: Alleluia, for the Lord our God omnipotēt raggneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, & geue honoure to him, for the mariage of the labe is come, and hys wyfe make her selfe ready. And to her was graunted, that she shuld be arrayed with pure and goodly rāynges, for the rāynges is the ryghtewesnes of sayntes. And he sayd vnto me, wyte, & happye are they whyche are called vnto p supper of p lābes marriage. And he sayd vnto me: these are p true sayntes of God. And I fell at his fete, to worshippe him. And he sayde vnto me: I do it not. For I am thy fellow seruante, & one of thy bretherē, cut of them p haue the testimony of Iesus. Worshippe God. For the testimony of Iesus is p spete of prophete.

¶ And I sawe heant open, & behold, a wythe byde: & he p far vpon him was called sayth full & true, & in ryghtewesnes he doth iudge & make battayle. Hys eyes were as a flame of fyre: & on his heed were many crownes: & he had a name wyrtten, that no man knew but he hym selfe. * And he was clothed wth a vesture dypt in bloude, & his name is called p wythe of God. And the warriors which were in heuē, folowed hym vpon wth bydes, clothed wth wythe & pure rāynges: and out of hys mōthe went a sharpe two edged swerde, that wyth it he shuld smyte the hechen. And he shall rule them wth a rodde of yron, and he trode p wyne of fearnes and wrath of almyghty God. And hath on hys vesture and on his thigh a name wyrtten: King of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes.

¶ And I sawe an Angell stande in the sonne, and he cryed with a loude voyce, sayinge: to all the fowles that fye by the middes of heauen, come and gather poure selus to gether vnto beast, and the kynges of the earth, and their warriors gathered together to make battayle agaynst hym that sat on the horse, and agaynst his fowles.

And the beast was take, & with hym that falle prophet that wrought miracles befoze hym, with whych he deceaued them that re-ceaued the beastes marke, & them that worshipped hys ymage. These both were cast quicke into a ponde of fyre burnynge with hym, & the remaunde were slayne wth the sword of hym þat sat vpon the horse, whych I weene poked out of his mouth, & all þe fowles were fulfilled wth the fleshe.

¶ The .xx. Chapter.

¶ The dragon is bounde for a .xij. yeres. The deeth of hym, and decaue iudgement.

AND I sawe an Angel come downe fro heauen, hauynge the keye of þe bottom lesse yre, and a greete chapyne in hys hand. And he toke þe dragon þe olde serpente, whiche is the deuyll & satanas, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: and cast hym into þe bottomlesse yre, and he shute hym vp, and let a kele on hym, that he shoulde deceaue þe people no more, tyll the thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed for a lytell season.

23 And I sawe seates, and they sat vpon the, & iudgement was geue vnto the: and I sawe the soules of them that were beheaded for þe witness of Iesu, and for the worde of God: & which had not worshipped the beast, neither hys ymage, neither had takē his marke vpon their foreheades, or in their handes: and they lived, and raygned with Christ .x. yeres:
but the other of the deeth was lpyed not agayne, but tyll the thousand yeres were finished.
This is that first resurrection. Blessed and holy is he, that hath parte in the first resurrection. For on such shall the seconde deeth haue no powre, but they shalbe the priestes of God & of Christ, and shall raygne with hym a thousand yeres.

¶ Sec. 1776
and 1777

And whē the thousand yeres are expyred, Satan shalbe loosed out of his pson and shall go out to deceaue þe people, whych are in the foure quarters of the erth, Gog & Ma-gog, to gather them together to battayle, whose nombre is as the sonde of the see: and they went vpon the playne of the erth: & cou-ered the fress of the sayntes about, & the beloued cite. And fyre came downe fro God out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuyll that deceaued them, was cast into a lake of fyre and byrmstone, where the beast and the falle prophetes shalbe tormented daye and nyght for euermore.

And I sawe a great wyrtre, and hym that sat on it, from whose face fleo awaye both þe erth and heauen, and their place was no more founde. And I sawe the deeth, both gret and small sonde befoze God: And the boke was opened, and another boke was opened, which is the boke of lyfe, & the deeth were iudged of those thynges whych were writen in the boke accordyng to their de-des: and the see gaue vñ her deeth whych were in her, and deeth and hell belivered vñ the deeth, whych were in them: & they were iudged euery man accordyng to his dedes. And deeth and hell were cast into the lake of fire.
This is the seconde deeth. And whosoever was not founde wyrtre in the boke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

¶ In thes chapter is descrybed the newe and spyrituall Ierusalem.

AND I sawe a newe heauē and a newe erth, for the first heauen, and the first erth were vanisshed awaye:
and ther was no more see. ¶ And I John sawe that holy cite, newe Ierusalem come downe from God out of heauen, prepared as a wyde garnished for her husband. And I herde a greete voyce out of heauen sayinge: beholde, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he wyll dwel with them. And they shall be hys people, and God hym selfe shalbe with them, and be they: God. ¶ And God shall wyte awaye all teares fro the eyes,
And there shalbe no more deeth, neither for owre, neither reynge, neither shall there be any more payne, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sate vpon the seate, sayde: ¶ Beholde, I make all thynges newe. ¶ And he sayde vnto me: wyrtre, for these wodes are saythfull and true.

The twelue gates were twelue pearles, every gate was of one pearle, and the streete of the cytie was pure golde, as thorow the

 for the Lorde God almighty and the lam-no neede of y^e sonne, neither of y^e moone to lighttenne. For the brightnes of God dyd light-

* And there shall be no nyght there, & they need no candle, neither light of the sunne: for the Lorde God geueth them the lyght, and they shall raygne for euermoze.

And he layde vnto me: these saynges are faithfull and true. And the Lorde God of his holp Prophetes sent his Angell to the world vnto his seruantes, the thynges whiche must shortly be fulfilled. Schole, I comen shortly. * happy is he that heareth saynges of the prophett of thys booke. I am John, which sawe these thynges and herde them.
And when I had herde these, * I fell downe to worshippe before the fete of the Angell, whiche swerde me these thynges. And he sayde vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy felowe seruant, & the felowe seruant of thy brethren the Prophetes, and of them which kepe the saynges of this booke. And thys booke. But worshippe God.

And he sayde into me: leaue not the say-inges of the prophesie of this booke. For the tyme is at hande. he that doeth euill, let him do euill thyll: and he which is iust, let him be iust thyll: and he that is righteous, let hym be more righteous: & he that is holy, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come suddenly, and my reward is with me, to ge-ue euery man according as his deedes shal be. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ende: the first and the last. Blessed are they that do his commandementes, that they: power maye be in the tree of life, and maye enter in thorow the gates into the cy-tie. * For without shall be dogges and in-chaunters, and whor-mongers, and moorders, and whollers, & whollowers: loathly
